18688	Nat'l Westminster Bank, USA v. State, 76 N.Y.2d 507, 509, 562 N.E.2d 866, 867 (1990)	2	As clerk of courts, county clerk is state officer for whom State is responsible; but when performing general duties, county clerk acts as local officer, and local government must answer for actions taken.	As a clerk of the courts, the County Clerk is a State officer for whom the State is responsible. But when performing general duties the County Clerk acts as a local officer, and the local government must answer for actions taken.	Is a clerk of the courts a State officer for whom the State is responsible?
18691	Poff v. Hayes, 763 So. 2d 234, 238 (Ala. 2000)	8	In trespass actions involving chattels, not all interferences with possession are actionable.	At the outset, we note that in trespass actions involving chattels, not all interferences with possession are actionable.	Are all interferences with possession actionable in an action for trespass to chattel?
18694	Velotta v. Leo Petronzio Landscaping, Inc., 69 Ohio St. 2d 376, 379, 433 N.E.2d 147, 150 (1982)	4	Where wrongful conduct complained of is not presently harmful, cause of action does not accrue until actual damage occurs.	In a case such as this, where the wrongful conduct complained of is not presently harmful, the cause of action does not accrue until actual damage occurs.	"When negligence does not immediately result in damages, does a cause of action accrue only when actual damage has resulted from negligence complained of?"
18695	Eisenberg v. City of Miami Beach, 1 F. Supp. 3d 1327, 1350 (S.D. Fla. 2014)	37	Equitable relief sought by plaintiffs was a remedy, not a separate cause of action.	The equitable relief Plaintiffs seek is a remedy, not a separate cause of action.	Is an equitable relief a cause of action?
18696	Shinkle v. Turner, 496 S.W.3d 418, 423 (Ky. 2016)	9	A cause of action does not exist until the conduct causes injury that produces loss or damage.	"A cause of action does not exist until the conduct causes injury that produces loss or damage."	Does a cause of action accrue without occurrence of an injury?
18697	Brezler v. Mills, 220 F. Supp. 3d 303, 326 (E.D.N.Y. 2016)	19	Navy, like any other agency, must comply with its own binding rules.	The Navy, like any other agency, must comply with its own binding rules.	Does the navy have to comply with its own binding rules?
18702	State v. Dunne, 421 S.W.2d 268, 270 (Mo. 1967)	2	Funds of school districts are the property of the state, and not the private property of the school districts.	Furthermore, 'funds of school districts are the property of the state, and not the private property of the school districts,'	Are funds of school districts property of the state or the private property of the school districts?
18709	N.H. Ins. Co. v. Mora, 500 S.W.3d 132, 137 (Tex. App. 2016)	6	Subrogation rights may be waived or altered by contract.	However, subrogation rights may be waived or altered by contract.	Can subrogation rights be waived or altered by contract?
18712	Olivas v. United States, 506 F.2d 1158, 1165 (9th Cir. 1974)	10	The right of subrogation may be modified or extinguished by contract.	It is 'well settled that the right of subrogation 'may be modified or extinguished by contract.	Can a right of subrogation be modified or extinguished by contract?
18714	N.H. Ins. Co. v. Mora, 500 S.W.3d 132, 137 (Tex. App. 2016)	6	Subrogation rights may be waived or altered by contract.	However, subrogation rights may be waived or altered by contract.	Can the subrogation rights be waived or altered by contract?
18720	Bacon v. DBI, 284 Neb. 579, 822 N.W.2d 14, 602 (Neb. 2012)	33	Waivers of statutorily conferred rights under the Workers' Compensation Act must be clear and unequivocal. West's Neb.Rev.St. S 48-118.	Waivers of subrogation are strictly construed, 71 and waivers of statutorily conferred rights under the workers' compensation act must be clear and unequivocal.	Are subrogation waivers strictly construed?
18721	Bacon v. DBI, 284 Neb. 579, 822 N.W.2d 14, 602 (Neb. 2012)	33	Waivers of statutorily conferred rights under the Workers' Compensation Act must be clear and unequivocal. West's Neb.Rev.St. S 48-118.	Waivers of subrogation are strictly construed, 71 and waivers of statutorily conferred rights under the workers' compensation act must be clear and unequivocal.	Are waivers of subrogation strictly construed?

18722	S.C. Nestel, Inc. v. Future Const., Inc., 836 N.E.2d 445, 452 (Ind. Ct. App. 2005)	16	Negligence and breach of contract do not supersede a waiver of subrogation.	And as noted in Midwestern , negligence and breach of contract do not supersede a waiver of subrogation.	Does breach of contract supersede a waiver of subrogation?
18723	Alley v. Alley, 137 Ga. App. 256, 223 S.E.2d 288, 257 (Ga. Ct. App. 1976)	2	Doctrine of laches has no application as defense to action at law.	The doctrine of laches has no application as a defense to an action at law.	Is the doctrine of laches not applicable to an action at law?
18728	Adirim v. State, 350 So. 2d 1082, 1084 (Fla. Dist. Ct. App. 1977)	6	Burglary is not a disturbance to fee of the place as realty but to habitable security; therefore, in burglary, ownership means any possession which is rightful as against burglar.	Burglary is not a disturbance to the fee of the place as realty, but to the habitable security. Therefore, in burglary, ownership means any possession which is rightful as against the burglar.	Is burglary a disturbance to habitable security?
18730	Wilcox v. OrellaWilcox v. Orellano, 443 Md. 177, 187, 115 A.3d 621, 626–27 (2015)no, 443 Md. 177	8	Pursuant to statutory savings clause for malpractice actions, if a claimant commences a medical malpractice claim within the period of limitations and the claim is dismissed without prejudice for failure to file an expert report, the claimant has up to 60 days to file a new civil action for the same cause against the same parties, even if the statute of limitations has otherwise run in the interim, but this grace period does not apply when there is a voluntary dismissal by the plaintiff; statutory savings clause applies "only" when the claim has been dismissed for failure to file an expert report. West's Ann.Md.Code, Courts and Judicial Proceedings, SS 3-2A-04(b)(3), 5-119(a)(2), (b).	Thus, if a claimant commences a medical malpractice claim within the period of limitations and the claim is dismissed without prejudice for failure to file an expert report, the claimant has up to 60 days to file a new civil action for the same cause against the same parties, even if the statute of limitations has otherwise run in the interim. This grace period does not apply, however, when there is a voluntary dismissal by the plaintiff.	"Can a plaintiff voluntarily dismiss the action once, without prejudice at any time prior to the commencement of trial?"
18731	Shepard Realty Co. v. United Shoe Stores Co., 193 La. 211, 229 (1939)	8	There exists no essential difference between a "discontinuance" and a "voluntary nonsuit."	739, that: 'There exists no essential difference between a discontinuance and a voluntary non-suit.	"Does there exist any essential difference between discontinuance"" and a ""voluntary nonsuit""?"
18735	Estate of Fahnlander, 81 Wn. App. 206, 210 (Wash. Ct. App. 1996)	6	Purpose of pretrial scheduling orders is to permit orderly discovery and pretrial preparation.	The purpose of pretrial scheduling orders is to permit orderly discovery and pretrial preparation.	What is the purpose of pretrial scheduling?
18737	Walton v. Town of Jena, 284 So. 2d 632, 636 (La. Ct. App. 1973)	4	Workmen's Compensation Law is paternalistic in nature and intent. LSA-R.S. 23:1021 et seq.	In reaching our decision, we are not forgetful of the paternalistic nature and intent of the Louisiana Workmen's Compensation Law.	Is Workmens compensation paternalistic in nature and intent?
18739	Strauss v. Silvercup Bakers, Inc., 353 F.2d 555, 557 (2d Cir. 1965)	5	A provision must be specific if it is to exclude a claim from arbitration.	It is clear that a provision must be specific if it is to exclude a claim from arbitration, but it is not clear how specific the provision must be in order to have this effect.	Does a provision excluding a claim from arbitration have to be specific?
18743	Mellons v. State, 560 S.W.2d 634, 636 (Tenn. Crim. App. 1978)	3	Consummation of intent to steal is not necessary to complete crime of burglary.	[2] [3] The fact that no goods were actually stolen from the truck is insignificant because, "Consummation of the intent to steal is not necessary to complete the crime of burglary."	Is consummation of intent necessary for burglary?
18749	Clean Water Coal. v. The M Resort, 127 Nev. 301, 314 (Nev.,2011)	11	An exaction of money for the purpose of generating revenue is a "tax."	An exaction of money for the purpose of generating revenue is a tax.	What is an exaction of money for the purpose of generating revenue termed as?

18750	Madden v. City of Iowa City, 848 N.W.2d 40, 51 (Iowa 2014)	15	A "tax" is a general revenue measure without benefits conferred.	Our cases indicate a tax is a general revenue measure without benefits conferred.	Is tax a general revenue measure?
18751	Madden v. City of Iowa City, 848 N.W.2d 40, 51 (Iowa 2014)	15	A "tax" is a general revenue measure without benefits conferred.	Our cases indicate a tax is a general revenue measure without benefits conferred.	Is tax conferred without benefits?
18753	U.S. v. Kemp, 500 F.3d 257, 282 (3d Cir. 2007)	15	Key to whether a gift constitutes a bribe is whether the parties intended for the benefit to be made in exchange for some official action; government need not prove that each gift was provided with the intent to prompt a specific official act.	The key to whether a gift constitutes a bribe is whether the parties intended for the benefit to be made in exchange for some official action; the government need not prove that each gift was provided with the intent to prompt a specific official act.	When does a gift constitute a bribe?
18758	Reed v. City of New Orleans, 593 So. 2d 368, 371 (La. 1992)	1	Nature of tax is determined not by its title, but by its incidents, attributes, and operational effect; realities and substance of tax must be examined, not its form. LSA-Const. Art. 6, S 29.	The nature of a tax is determined not by its title, but by its incidents, attributes and operational effect. The realities and substance of the tax must be examined, not its form.	Should the realities and substance of a tax be examined rather than its form?
18759	U.S. v. Muldoon, 931 F.2d 282, 287 (4th Cir. 1991)	9	Distinction between bribe and illegal gratuity is difference in intent of person who gives bribe; proof of bribery requires corrupt intent, which is not required to show illegal gratuity. 18 U.S.C.A. S 201(b), (b)(1)(A-C), (c); Fed.Rules Cr.Proc.Rule 31(c), 18 U.S.C.A.	The distinction between a bribe and an illegal gratuity is the difference in the intent of the person who gives the bribe. Compare 18 U.S.C. 201(b) (bribery) with 201(c) (gratuity). The distinction is slight, but it is apparent from the text of the statute. Proof of bribery requires a corrupt intent that is not required to show an illegal gratuity.	Is a finding of corrupt intent necessary for a conviction of bribery?
18765	Houston v. McCoy, 351 So. 2d 829, 833 (La. Ct. App. 1977)	4	Under Negotiable Instruments Law, a negotiable instrument may be negotiated by gift as well as for value. LSA-R.S. 7:191.	A negotiable instrument may be negotiated by gift as well as for value.	Can negotiable instrument be negotiated by gift as well as for value?
18767	Allamakee County v. Collins Trust, 599 N.W.2d 448, 450 (Iowa 1999)	3	Established highway or right of way may be abandoned by the public and its rights lost.	We have recognized an established highway or right of way may be abandoned by the public and its rights lost.	Can an established highway be abandoned?
18768	Board v. Town of Lake, 966 So. 2d 448, 451 (Fla. Dist. Ct. App. 2007)	2	Pension statutes are to be liberally construed in favor of the intended recipients.	Furthermore, pension statutes are to be liberally construed in favor of the intended recipients.	Can pension statutes be liberally construed?
18769	Einhaus v. O. Ames Co., 547 S.W.2d 821, 825 (Mo. Ct. App. 1977)	5	Negligence is an ultimate fact which may be pleaded as such, and not a conclusion.	Negligence, however, is an ultimate fact which may be pleaded as such, and not a conclusion.	Is negligence an ultimate fact which may be pleaded as such?
18772	Tax Review Board v. Esso Standard Division, 424 Pa. 355, 358 (1967)	3	Invoices or bookkeeping cannot change nature or incidence of a tax.	Invoices or bookkeeping cannot change the nature or incidence of the tax.	Can invoices change nature or incidence of a tax?
18773	State v. Rounds, 476 So. 2d 965, 967 (La. Ct. App. 1985)	3	Essential part of a burglary is a safe and undetected retreat from the premises with fruits of the crime.	An essential part of a burglary is a safe and undetected retreat (escape) from the premises with the fruits of the crime.	Is an escape part of the burglary?

18776	Adams v. Hill, 177 Ga. App. 492, 493, 340 S.E.2d 27 (Ga. Ct. App. 1986)	3	As a rule, continuance on ground of counsel's illness is not favored.	As a rule, continuance on the ground of counsel's illness is not favored.	Is continuance on ground of counsel's illness favored?
18783	Etheridge Motors, Inc. v. Haynie, 103 Ga. App. 676, 680, 120 S.E.2d 317 (Ga. Ct. App. 1961)	4	Statement that plaintiff was without fault is not a conclusion but a statement of fact.	In an action for negligence, the statement that the plaintiff was without fault is not a conclusion, but a statement of fact.	Is the statement that the plaintiff was without fault a conclusion?
18802	Mid-State Homes, Inc. v. Johnson, 294 Ala. 59, 63 (Ala. 1975)	5	Great latitude is allowed in admitting evidence on issue of alleged fraud.	Great latitude is allowed in admitting evidence on the issue of alleged fraud.	"In discovery, should wide latitude be permitted in seeking evidence of fraud since positive proof of the tort is generally not to be expected?"
18804	Reguera v. Calderon, 27 A.D.2d 371, 373, 279 N.Y.S.2d 496, 498, aff'd, 20 N.Y.2d 919, 233 N.E.2d 288 (1967)	2	Generally, agent authorized to sell is not also authorized to pledge.	We recognize that the general rule is that an agent who is authorized to sell is not also authorized to pledge.	"Is an agent authorized to sell, also authorized to pledge?"
18810	Cheek v. United States, 498 U.S. 192, 198, 111 S. Ct. 604 (1991)	1	Based on the notion that the law is definite and knowable, common law presumed that every person knew the law.	Based on the notion that the law is definite and knowable, the common law presumed that every person knew the law.	Is the rule Ignorance of law is no defense to criminal prosecution a part of legal system?
18813	Common Wealth Ins. Sys., Inc. v. Kersten, 40 Cal. App. 3d 1014, 1024, 115 Cal. Rptr. 653, 659–60 (Ct. App. 1974)	1	Principal may ratify signature forged by his agent.	Under the Negotiable Instruments Law, other jurisdictions were divided on the question whether a principal may ratify the forgery of his signature by his agent (see annot., 150 A.L.R. 978, 985—986), but it has long been settled in California that where a principal-agent relationship exists, the principal may ratify his signature forged by his agent	Can a Principal ratify signature forged by an agent?
18823	Gross v. Lamme, 77 Nev. 200, 205 (1961)	4	Contracts of endorsement and of guarantee were separate and distinct obligations from obligation contained in note itself.	The contract of indorsement as well as the contract of guarantee are separate and distinct obligations from the obligation contained in the note itself.	Are contracts of endorsement and contracts of guarantee separate?
18827	Estate of Feher v. Board of Trustees, 68 N.J. Super. 391, 397 (App. Div. 1961)	2	Right to a pension or to a return of pension contributions exists only where a statute provides therefor.	The right to a pension or to a return of pension contributions exists only where a statute provides therefor.	Does a right to pension depend on a granting statute?
18828	Ballurio v. Castellini, 29 N.J. Super. 383, 389, 102 A.2d 662, 666 (App. Div. 1954)	5	A pension is a bounty springing from the appreciation and graciousness of the sovereign and is an inducement to conscientious, efficient and honorable service, and honorable service is implicit in every pension enactment.	Consideration of all these acts in the light of the Sui generis character of a public pension inevitably leads to the conviction that 'honorable' service is implicit in every such enactment. A pension is a bounty springing from the appreciation and graciousness of the sovereign; it is an inducement to conscientious, efficient and honorable service.	Does every pension enactment require an honorable service?

18832	Yamagiwa v. City of Half Moon Bay, 523 F. Supp. 2d 1036, 1102 (N.D. Cal. 2007)	22	Under California law, trespasses may be committed by consequential and indirect injuries as well as by direct and forcible injuries.	A trespass may be on the surface of the land, above it, or below it (Martin Marietta Corp. v. Insurance Co. of North America, 40 Cal.App.4th 1113, 1132, 47 Cal.Rptr.2d 670 [1995]), and trespasses may be committed by consequential and indirect injuries as well as by direct and forcible injuries.	Can trespass be committed above the surface of the land?
18834	Farmers Nat'l Bank v. Commonwealth, Dep't of Revenue, 486 S.W.3d 872, 880 (Ky. Ct. App. 2015)	7	A "chose in action" is a right of action to recover a debt, a demand, or a promissory note or a right to recover damages.	A chose in action is a right of action to recover "a debt, a demand, a promissory note, [or] a right to recover damages."	"What is a ""chose in action""?"
18836	Gándara v. State, 527 S.W.3d 261, 268 (Tex. App. 2016)	1	Obtaining a personal benefit is a constitutionally-required element of bribery. Tex. Const. art. 16, S 41; Tex. Penal Code Ann. S 36.02.	"Obtaining a personal benefit is a constitutionally required element of bribery"	Is obtaining a personal benefit a constitutionally-required element of bribery?
18839	Pennie v. Obama, 255 F. Supp. 3d 648, 670 (N.D. Tex. 2017)	24	Domicile requires residence in state and intent to remain in state.	"Domicile requires residence in [a] state and an intent to remain in the state." Id.	Does domicile require intent to remain in state?
18840	Reich v. Lopez, 858 F.3d 55, 63 (2d Cir. 2017)	18	Owning property in forum does not alone establish domicile; one may have more than one residence in different parts of country or world, but person may have only one domicile.	Owning property in a forum does not alone establish domicile. "One may have more than one residence in different parts of this country or the world, but a person may have only one domicile."	Does owning property alone establish domicile?
18842	In re Bump's Estate, 171 Kan. 442, 446 (1951)	1	Ordinarily, a continuance is not a matter of right, but may be on such conditions as court may impose.	There is no doubt that under the law ordinarily a continuance is not a matter of right, but may be on such conditions as the court may impose, a phase not presently before us.	Can a continuance be a matter of right?
18844	W.S. Butterfield Theatres, Inc. v. Dep't of Revenue, 353 Mich. 345, 353, 91 N.W.2d 269, 273 (1958)	5	Power of taxation is fundamental to very existence of government of the state.	The power of taxation is fundamental to the very existence of the government of the states.	Is the power of taxation fundamental to the existence of a government?
18845	Havens v. Attorney-General, 91 N.H. 115, 120 (1940)	14	A "tax" in itself is an economic charge which must be paid in some way by the person affected, and it must either come from a surplus of the taxpayer, or the burden must be passed on to those with whom taxpayer has economic relations.	"Taxes in themselves are economic charges which must be paid in some way by the person affected. They must either come from the surplus of the taxpayer, or the burden must be passed on to those with whom the taxpayer has economic relations."	Is tax an economic charge in itself?
18846	Moore v. Mitchell, 30 F.2d 600, 602 (2d Cir. 1929)	1	Taxes are imposts, not debts, collected for support of government.	Taxes are imposts, not debts, collected for the support of the government.	Are taxes imposts collected for support of government?
18848	Weissinger v. Boswell, 330 F. Supp. 615, 621 (M.D. Ala. 1971)	2	States have wide discretion in laying and collecting their taxes.	It is well established that the states have wide discretion in the laying and collecting of their taxes.	Do states have a wide discretion in the laying of their taxes?
18851	Ingram v. Mandler, 56 F.2d 994, 996 (10th Cir. 1932)	1	Note may be transferred by assignment without actual delivery.	A promissory note, like an ordinary chose in action, may be transferred by assignment without the actual delivery of the note.	Can a note be transferred without delivery?

18854	Browning Oil v. Luecke, 38 S.W.3d 625, 640 (Tex. App. 2000)	21	Oil and gas lease is a contract and must be interpreted as one.	An oil and gas lease is a contract and must be interpreted as one.	Is an oil and gas lease a contract?
18856	Rosenfeld, Meyer & Susman v. Cohen, 146 Cal. App. 3d 200, 227, 194 Cal. Rptr. 180, 197 (Ct. App. 1983)	22	Party is permitted to plead alternative legal theories.	Finally, to the extent that the law and motion department based its dismissal of the conspiracy cause of action on its belief that it added nothing to the third and fourth causes of action for breach of fiduciary duty an interference with contractual relations, such dismissal was erroneous since it is well settled authority that a party is permitted to plead alternative legal theories.	Can a party plead alternative legal theories?
18863	Cortigiano v. Waterbury, 133 Conn. 1, 4, 47 A.2d 413 (Conn. 1946)	1	An assessment for benefits is not ordinarily included in the term "taxes".	An assessment for benefits is not ordinarily included in the term 'taxes.	"Is an assessment for benefits included in the term ""taxes""?"
18876	Cunningham v. Dean Witter Reynolds, Inc., 550 F. Supp. 578, 584 (E.D. Cal. 1982)	3	Congress intended the Arbitration Act to overrule the traditional refusal of courts to enforce arbitration agreements under the common law and the policy Congress intended to effectuate was to avoid the unnecessary expense and delay of litigation where parties had provided for the more efficient process of arbitration. 9 U.S.C.A. SS 1, 2.	See also Application of the United States, 563 F.2d 637 (4th Cir.1977). [3] Congress intended the Arbitration Act to overrule the traditional refusal of courts to enforce arbitration agreements under the common law. The policy Congress intended to effectuate in this manner was to avoid the unnecessary expense and delay of litigation where parties had provided for the more efficient process of arbitration: It has been said that "arrangements for avoiding the delay and expense of litigation and referring a dispute to friends or neutral persons are a natural practice of which traces may be found in any state of society..	Can a court refuse to enforce an arbitration agreement because of the joinder of a non arbitrable claim?
18877	Commercial Iron Metal Co. v. Bache Halsey, 581 F.2d 246, 249 (10th Cir. 1978)	1	Arbitration may be waived by conduct of demanding party.	Arbitration may be waived by the conduct of the demanding party,	Can arbitration be waived by the conduct of demanding parties?
18881	Fleming & Assocs., L.L.P. v. Barton, 425 S.W.3d 560, 569 (Tex. App. 2014)	2	In most cases, partnership agreement governs the relationship of partners.	In most cases, a partnership agreement governs the relationship of the partners.	Does a partnership agreement govern the relationship between the partners?
18913	Dubler v. Toscana Straw Goods Corp., 142 Misc. 369, 370, 254 N.Y.S. 464, 466 (City Ct. 1932)	1	"Trade acceptance" is draft or bill of exchange drawn by seller on purchaser of goods.	A trade acceptance is a draft or bill of exchange drawn by the seller on the purchaser of goods sold and accepted by such purchaser.	What is a Trade Acceptance?
18920	Allamakee County v. Collins Trust, 599 N.W.2d 448, 451 (Iowa 1999)	3	Established highway or right of way may be abandoned by the public and its rights lost.	We have recognized an established highway or right of way may be abandoned by the public and its rights lost.	Can a highway be abandoned by the public?

18924	Adams v. Paul, 11 Cal. 4th 583, 593, 904 P.2d 1205, 1212 (1995)	9	Party may plead in alternative and may make inconsistent allegations.	Moreover, a party may plead in the alternative and may make inconsistent allegations.	Can a party make inconsistent allegations?
18929	In re Telesphere Communications, Inc., 205 B.R. 535, 542 (N.D. Ill. 1997)	5	Under Illinois law, agents generally do not own personal property transferred into their possession by or for benefit of principal.	In this regard, agents generally do not own personal property transferred into their possession by or for the benefit of a principal.	Does an agent own the property he has in possession?
18930	Home Materials v. Auto Owners Ins. Co., 250 Ga. 599, 602, 300 S.E.2d 139 (Ga. 1983)	3	Dual agency is not considered void per se as against public policy.	Dual agency is not considered void per se as against public policy in Georgia.	Is dual agency against public policy?
18943	Messing v. Rosenkrantz, 872 F. Supp. 539, 541 (N.D. Ill. 1995)	4	An agent may invoke an arbitration agreement entered into by its principal.	In addition, an agent may invoke an arbitration agreement entered into by its principal.	Can an agent invoke an arbitration agreement?
18944	Leonardo v. U.S., 60 Fed. Cl. 126, 128 (2004)	1	A party alleging either an express or implied-in-fact contract with the United States must demonstrate: (1) mutual intent to contract; (2) offer; (3) acceptance; (4) consideration; and (5) that the government representative who entered or ratified the agreement had actual authority to bind the United States.	A party alleging either an express or implied-in-fact contract with the United States must demonstrate: (i) mutual intent to contract; (ii) offer; (iii) acceptance; (iv) consideration; and (v) that the government representative who entered or ratified the agreement had actual authority to bind the United States.	Does the Forest Supervisors have the authority to enter into contracts binding the government?
18965	United States v. Summit Fidelity Surety Co., 408 F.2d 46, 47-48 (6th Cir. 1969)	1	As between principal and agent a revocation of authority does not become effective until it is in some way communicated to the agent.	As between the principal and the agent a revocation of authority does not become effective until it is in some way communicated to the agent..	Can an agents authority be revoked without communication?
18967	U.S. Steel Corp. v. State,, 65 Wash. 2d 385, 388 (1964)	1	Tax is not a "debt" and does not bear interest unless specifically imposed by statute.	*388 A tax is not a debt and does not bear interest unless specifically imposed by statute.	Does a tax bear interest?
18988	Laurie v. Ezard, 595 S.W.2d 336, 338 (Mo. Ct. App. 1980)	5	Whether case is prosecuted diligently must be decided on case-by-case basis.	Whether a case is prosecuted diligently must be decided on a case by case basis.	On what basis should it be decided whether a claim has been diligently prosecuted?
18993	Leary v. Johnson, 159 Conn. 101, 105 (1970)	6	An essential ingredient of agency is that agent is doing something at the behest and for the benefit of the principal.	An essential ingredient of agency is that the agent is doing something at the behest and for the benefit of the principal.	What is an essential ingredient of agency?
18994	Richmond Cty. Bus. Ass'n v. Richmond Cty., 224 Ga. 854, 856 (1968)	2	Tax is primarily intended to produce revenue whereas license is primarily intended for regulation under police power.	A tax is primarily intended to produce revenue, while a license is primarily intended for regulation under the police power.	"As opposed to tax, what is the primary purpose of license?"
19000	Shendock v. Director, Office of Workers' Compensation Programs, 893 F.2d 1458, 1466 (3d Cir. 1990)	5	Equitable tolling or estoppel is not available when there are jurisdictional limitations.	[5] Equitable tolling or estoppel simply is not available when there are jurisdictional limitations.	Is equitable estoppel not available when there are jurisdictional limitations?
19005	Viado v. Domino's Pizza, LLC, 230 Or. App. 531, 535, 217 P.3d 199, 202 (2009)	4	All servants are agents and all masters, principals; however, all principals and agents are not also masters and servants.	'All servants are agents and all masters, principals. However, all principals and agents are not also masters and servants.'	Are all principals and agents also masters and servants?

19009	Thomas v. American Nat. Bank, 694 S.W.2d 543, 550 (Tex. App. 1985)	7	Partnership, once proved, presumptively continues until contrary appears.	A partnership, once proved, presumptively continues until the contrary appears.	Does a partnership once proved continue until the contrary appears?
19014	Circle Food Stores, Inc. v. City of New Orleans, 620 So. 2d 281, 286 (La. 1993)	4	"Consumption tax" is one applying to commodities intended for consumption and burden of which falls on consumer.	A consumption tax is one "applying to commodities intended for consumption and the burden of which falls on the consumer.	"What is ""consumption tax""?"
19023	N. Petrochemical Co. v. U. S. Fire Ins. Co., 277 N.W.2d 408, 411 (Minn. 1979)	7	Estoppel does not continue indefinitely if circumstances relied on to justify estoppel cease to be operational.	Estoppel does not continue indefinitely if the circumstances relied on to justify estoppel cease to be operational.	Does estoppel continue indefinitely?
19024	Com. v. Mallory, 596 Pa. 172, 189 (Pa.,2008)	3	A waiver colloquy is a procedural device; it is not a constitutional end or a constitutional right.	A waiver colloquy is a procedural device; it is not a constitutional end or a constitutional "right."	Is waiver colloquy a procedural device?
19031	Rodgers v. Rab Investments, Ltd., 816 S.W.2d 543, 547 (Tex. App. 1991)	6	As long as partnership continues, partners have fiduciary relationship.	As long as a partnership continues, the partners have a fiduciary relationship.	Do partners have a fiduciary relationship till the partnership continues?
19033	Matthews v. F.M.C. Corp., 190 Conn. 700, 705 (1983)	2	Principle that a plaintiff may rely only upon what he has alleged is basic.	The principle that a plaintiff may rely only upon what he has alleged is basic.	Can a plaintiff rely only upon what he has alleged?
19034	A.F.P. Enterprises, Inc. v. Crescent Pork, Inc., 243 Ill. App. 3d 905, 611 N.E.2d 619, 914 (Ill. App. Ct. 1993)	17	Conclusions of law or conclusions of fact unsupported by allegations of specific facts upon which such conclusions rest may not be admitted for purposes of deciding motion to dismiss. Ill.Rev.Stat.1991, ch. 110, P 2-619.	Conclusions of law or conclusions of fact unsupported by allegations of specific facts upon which such conclusions rest may not be admitted for purposes of deciding the motion to dismiss.	Will it be the purpose of statutory motion to dismiss to provide means to dispose of issues of law or easily prove issues of fact?
19037	Iowa Auto Dealers Ass'n v. Iowa Dep't of Revenue, 301 N.W.2d 760, 764 (Iowa 1981)	12	A "sales tax" is a tax on the freedom of purchase, whereas a "use tax" is a tax on the enjoyment of what was purchased.	A sales tax is a tax on the freedom of purchase, whereas a use tax is a tax on the enjoyment of what was purchased.	"Is a ""sales tax"" a tax on freedom of purchase?"
19050	Argentinis v. Fortuna, 134 Conn. App. 538, 39 A.3d 1207, 549 (Conn. App. Ct. 2012)	20	The allegations of a complaint limit the issues to be decided on the trial of a case and are calculated to prevent surprise to opposing parties.	The allegations of a complaint limit the issues to be decided on the trial of a case and are calculated to prevent surprise to opposing parties....	"Are limiting the issues to be decided at the trial and preventing surprise, purposes of a complaint?"
19061	Am. Deposit Corp. v. Schacht, 887 F. Supp. 1066, 1077 (N.D. Ill. 1995)	4	Fundamental characteristic of insurance is spreading and underwriting of risk; risk to be insured against is shifted or distributed.	The fundamental characteristic of insurance is the spreading and underwriting of risk; the risk to be insured against is shifted or distributed.	What are the fundamental characteristics of insurance?
19087	United States v. Difrancesco, 449 U.S. 117, 101 S. Ct. 426, 132-138 (1980)	7	Neither history of sentencing practices nor pertinent rulings of Supreme Court, nor even considerations of double jeopardy policy support proposition that criminal sentence, once pronounced, is to be accorded constitutional finality similar to that which attaches to jury's verdict of acquittal.	Neither the history of sentencing practices, nor the pertinent rulings of this Court, nor even considerations of double jeopardy policy support the proposition that a criminal sentence, once pronounced, is to be accorded constitutional finality similar to that which attaches to a jury's verdict of acquittal.	Does public interest exist in finality of criminal judgments and bars reprosecution even when an acquittal is based on egregiously erroneous foundation?
19091	In re M.H.P., 830 N.W.2d 216, 219 (N.D. 2013)	5	Jeopardy denotes risk; in the constitutional sense, jeopardy describes the risk that is traditionally associated with a criminal prosecution. U.S.C.A. Const.Amend. 5.	"Jeopardy denotes risk. In the constitutional sense, jeopardy describes the risk that is traditionally associated with a criminal prosecution."	What does jeopardy describe?

19095	Stewart v. Daytona & New Smyrna Inlet Dist., 94 Fla. 859, 114 So. 545 (1927)	6	Power of taxation can be exercised only pursuant to valid statute containing definite limitations (Const. art. 9, S 3).	Power of taxation can be exercised only pursuant to valid statute containing definite limitations (Const. art. 9, 3).	Is taxation a legislative power that cannot be delegated?
19103	Truck Ins. Exch. v. Cartmill, 385 S.W.2d 277, 280 (Tex. Civ. App. 1964)	7	Workmen's compensation benefits are paid for disability rather than for actual earnings received.	Moreover, workmen's compensation benefits are paid for disability rather than for actual earnings received.	What do workers compensation benefits pay or compensate for?
19109	Davidson v. Bugbee, 227 Mich. App. 264, 575 N.W.2d 574, 269 (Mich. Ct. App. 1997)	8	Cause of action accrues when all the elements of claim have occurred and can be alleged in proper complaint.	A cause of action accrues when all the elements of the claim have occurred and can be alleged in a proper complaint.	Is a cause of action fundamental to tort law?
19115	Bennett Dairy v. Putney, 46 A.D.2d 1010, 1010, 362 N.Y.S.2d 93, 93-94 (1974)	2	A partner is agent of partnership and his acts may be adopted and enforced by partnership as its own.	A partner is the agent of the partnership and his acts may be adopted and enforced by the partnership as its own (Partnership Law, section 20), and an undisclosed principal may sue on the contract of the agent (94 Kelly A.B. Co. v. Barber A.P., 211 N.Y. 68, 70, 105 N.E. 88, 89; Alpert v. G.R.E. Construction Corporation, 222 App.Div. 60, 225 N.Y.S. 327; Navarre Hotel and Importation Company v. American Appraisal Co., 156 App.Div. 795, 142 N.Y.S. 89).	Can an agents acts be adopted and enforced?
19116	In re Ricketts Const. Co., 441 B.R. 512, 516 (W.D. Va. 2010)	5	Virginia courts strictly construe the power to tax.	In addition, Virginia courts strictly construe the power to tax.	Should courts strictly construe the power to tax?
19118	Rimel v. Uber Techs., Inc., 246 F. Supp. 3d 1317, 1324 (M.D. Fla. 2017)	16	In the absence of a choice of law provision, the "lex loci contractus doctrine" applies; under that doctrine, a contract is governed by the law of the state in which the contract is made or is to be performed.	In the absence of a choice of law provision, the lex loci contractus doctrine applies. Under that doctrine, a contract is governed by the law of the state in which the contract is made or is to be performed.	Under what law is the performance of a contract governed?
19124	IHC Health Servs. v. D & K Mgmt., 2003 UT 5, 73 P.3d 320, 323 (2003)	6	Although any waiver must be distinctly made, it may be express or implied.	Although "any waiver 'must be distinctly made ... it may be express or implied.' "	Should waiver be distinctly made?
19129	Riverside-Quindaro Bend Levee Dist. v. Intercontinental Eng'g Mfg. Corp., 121 S.W.3d 531, 533 (Mo. 2003)	2	The right to appeal is purely statutory, and where a statute does not give a right to appeal, no right exists.	The right to appeal is purely statutory and, where a statute does not give a right to appeal, no right exists.	"If there is no statutory right to appeal, can a right to appeal exist? "
19132	Crest Const. Co. v. Insurance Co. of North America, 417 F.Supp. 564, 569 (D.C.Okla. 1976)	14	It is not necessary to partnership relationship that there be an express agreement to share the losses; such an agreement may be implied if intent of parties to form a partnership is otherwise made clear.	However, it is not necessary to the partnership relationship that there be an express agreement to share in the losses. Such an agreement may be implied if the intent of the parties to form a partnership is otherwise made clear.	Can an agreement to share losses be implied from an agreement to share profits in a partnership?

19144	Sanson Four v. Faulk, 803 So. 2d 1048, 1052 (La. Ct. App. 2001)	1	An assignment of right is a species of sale and is treated as such in the Civil Code.	An assignment of right is a species of sale and is treated as such in our Civil Code.	Is assignment a species of sale?
19146	People v. Pinkney, 316 Mich. App. 450, 466 (2016)	8	The common-law definition of "forgery" is a false making of any written instrument with intent to defraud.	"The common-law definition of 'forgery' is 'a false making ... of any written instrument with intent to defraud.' "	What is forgery under common law?
19148	Farris v. Alaska Airlines, (1953), 113 F. Supp. 907, 908 (W.D. Wash. 1953)	1	Primary function of arbitration is to serve as substitute for, and not as prelude to, litigation.	The primary function of arbitration is to serve as a substitute for and not a prelude to litigation.	What is the primary function of arbitration?
19151	United States v. Jones, 553 F.2d 351, 354-355 (4th Cir. 1977)	2	An essential element of the crime of forgery is making the false writing.	Significantly then, "(a)n essential element of the crime of forgery is making the false *355 writing * * *."	Does false making fall within the ambit of common law forgery?
19154	BeWigged by Suzzi v. Atl. Dep't Stores, 49 Ohio App. 2d 65, 359 N.E.2d 721, 723 (Ohio App. 1976)	5	A "license" is a permission to do some act or series of acts on the land of the licensor, without having any permanent interest in it.	A license is a permission to do some act or series of acts on the land of the licensor, without having any permanent interest in it.	Are licenses assignable?
19158	Fondren v. Republic American Life Ins. Co., 190 F.R.D. 597, 599 (N.D. Okla. 1999)	1	A party asserting a privilege has the burden of demonstrating that the privilege is applicable.	A party asserting a privilege, here Republic, 2 has the burden of demonstrating that the privilege is applicable.	Who has the burden of demonstrating that the privilege is applicable?
19163	Redevelopment Agency of City of San Diego v. Attisha, 128 Cal. App. 4th 357, 368 (2005)	12	There is no single acceptable method of valuing goodwill, as valuation methods will differ with the nature of the business and with the purpose for which the evaluation is conducted; each case must be determined on its own facts and circumstances and the evidence must be such as legitimately establishes value.	In enacting section 1263.510 the Legislature did not specify any particular method for valuing loss of goodwill, and courts have held " 'there is no single acceptable method of valuing goodwill. Valuation methods will differ with the nature of the business ... and with the purpose for which the evaluation is conducted.' " '[E]ach case must be determined on its own facts and circumstances and the evidence must be such as legitimately establishes value.' "	Is there a single acceptable method of valuing goodwill?
19168	Bennett v. Illinois Power Light Corp., 271 Ill. App. 182, 190-191 (Ill. App. Ct. 1933)	1	"Negligence" may consist of doing a legal act in a careless or negligent manner.	Also, that negligence may consist of doing a legal act in a careless or negligent manner.	Can a legal act result in negligence?
19188	Dvoracek v. Gillies, 363 N.W.2d 99, 102 (Minn. Ct. App. 1985)	5	Tenant who wrongfully holds over after expiration of a lease becomes tenant at sufferance.	A tenant who wrongfully holds over after expiration of a lease becomes a tenant at sufferance.	Is a tenant by holding over also a tenant by sufferance?
19214	Vinings Jubilee Partners, Ltd. v. Vinings Dining, Inc., 266 Ga. App. 34, 37, 596 S.E.2d 209, 212 (2004)	4	In a commercial lease, the default provisions control.	Moreover, in a commercial lease, the default provisions control	Do the default provisions control in a commercial lease?
19226	Pagelsdorf v. Safeco Ins. Co. of America, 91 Wis. 2d 734, 743 (Wis. 1979)	3	Modern-day apartment lease is regarded as a contract, not as a conveyance.	The modern-day apartment lease is regarded as a contract, not a conveyance.	Is the modern day apartment lease regarded as a contract?

19246	Hill v. Cross Country Settlements, 402 Md. 281, 288 (2007)	40	"Statutory subrogation" arises pursuant to a statute.	Statutory subrogation, naturally, arises pursuant to a statute.	Does statutory subrogation arise pursuant to a statute?
19247	In re Flamingo 55, 378 B.R. 893, 906 (D. Nev. 2007)	5	"Statutory subrogation" occurs by virtue of a right created by statute.	Statutory subrogation, as one might expect, occurs by virtue of a right created by statute.	Does statutory subrogation arise pursuant to a statute?
19251	Hoffman Assocs. v. Snook, 112 N.J.L. 68, 68 (1934)	2	Appeal lies only from final judgment, not only as to all issues, but as to all parties.	Appeal lies only from final judgment, not only as to all the issues, but as to all the parties.	Can an appeal lie only from a final judgment?
19255	Maxon v. Franklin Traffic Serv., Inc., 261 A.D.2d 830, 831, 689 N.Y.S.2d 559, 561 (1999)	3	A tort cause of action does not accrue until an injury is sustained.	A tort cause of action, however, does not accrue until an injury is sustained	When does a tort cause of action accrue?
19261	People v. Minor, 28 Misc. 3d 278, 282, 898 N.Y.S.2d 440, 443 (Sup. Ct. 2010)	2	The law does not permit a person to consent to his own murder, and such consent does not transform an active killing of another into a suicide.	In sum, the law does not permit a person to consent to his own murder. That consent does not transform an active killing of another into a suicide.	Does the law permit a person to consent to his own murder?
19263	Granite Beach Holdings v. State ex rel. Dep't of Nat. Res., 103 Wash. App. 186, 205 (2000)	22	There can be no inverse condemnation if no property right exists. West's RCWA Const. Art. 1, S 16.	There can be no inverse condemnation if no property right exists.	Can there be inverse condemnation if no property right exists?
19265	New York Land v. Republic of Philippines, 634 F. Supp. 279, 281 (S.D.N.Y. 1986)	7	Act-of-state doctrine demands case-by-case analysis.	The act-of-state doctrine "demands a case-by-case analysis." Allied Bank Int'l, supra, at 521.	Does the act-of-state doctrine demand case-by-case analysis?
19270	Stennis v. Rekkas, 233 Ill. App. 3d 813, 825 (1992)	2	Motions and orders in limine should be clearly and specifically outlined in writing; order in limine, like any other interlocutory order, is subject to reconsideration by court throughout trial.	Consequently, motions and orders in limine should be clearly and specifically outlined in writing. An order in limine, like any other interlocutory order, is subject to reconsideration 1067 53 by the court throughout the trial.	Should both the motion in limine and the resulting order be in writing?
19276	Boydston, et al. v. Pearson, 239 Miss. 479, 123 So. 2d 621, 481 (Miss. 1960)	1	A right of action must be complete when an action therefor is commenced.	It is true that 'a right of action must be complete when an action therefor is commenced.'	Should a right of action be complete when an action is commenced?
19287	Yellen v. Cooper, 828 F.2d 1471, 1476 (10th Cir. 1987)	4	Waiver, like immunity, is affirmative defense that must be affirmatively pleaded. Fed.Rules Civ.Proc.Rule 8(c), 28 U.S.C.A.	Waiver, like immunity, is an affirmative defense which must be affirmatively pleaded.	Should waiver be affirmatively plead?
19293	Rural Elec. Co. v. Bd. Equalization, 57 Wyo. 451, 452 (1942)	1	In order that an owner of an electric plant may be said to be a "public utility", its property must be devoted to public use.	In order that an owner of an electric plant may be said to be a public utility, his or its property must be devoted to public use.	Is the determination of whether a plant or system is a public utility based on whether the public may enjoy it by right or by permission only?
19296	H. O. Canfield Co. v. United Const. Workers, 136 Conn. 293, 293 (1949)	7	The right to an injunction is to be determined as of the time of the hearing.	The ordinary rule is that the right to an injunction is to be determined as of the time of the hearing.	Is the right to an injunction to be determined as of the time of the hearing?
19297	Alley v. Alley, 137 Ga. App. 256, 223 S.E.2d 288, 257 (Ga. Ct. App. 1976)	2	Doctrine of laches has no application as defense to action at law.	The doctrine of laches has no application as a defense to an action at law.	Is laches not a defense in action at law?

19301	Daszkiewicz v. Bd. of Ed. of City of Detroit, 301 Mich. 212, 220, 3 N.W.2d 71, 74 (1942), overruled by Williams v. City of Detroit, 364 Mich. 231, 111 N.W.2d 1 (1961)	2	Education is a subject of governmental concern and activity.	We have repeatedly recognized education as a subject of governmental concern and activity.	Is education a subject of governmental concern and activity?
19304	United States v. Certain Parcels of Land, 215 F.2d 140, 147 (3d Cir. 1954)	5	Once it is administratively determined that property is to be taken for a public use, a United States court ordinarily will not review the reasonableness of the government's decision as to the time of taking or the period which must elapse before the property is utilized solely for a public activity. 40 U.S.C.A. § 257.	Once it is administratively determined that a property is to be taken for a public use, a United States court ordinarily will not review the reasonableness of the government's decision as to the time of taking or the period which must elapse before the property is utilized solely for a public activity.	Is the judgement as to the proper time of taking to be that of the government official to whom the exercise of the power of eminent domain has been delegated by Congress?
19305	Security Ins. Co. v. Mangan, 250 Md. 241, 242 (1968)	9	In any subrogation case burden of proving entitlement is on subrogee.	In any subrogation case, the burden of proving entitlement is on the subrogee.	Should a subrogee prove that he is entitled to relief by subrogation?
19307	Voge v. Anderson, 181 Wis. 2d 726, 732, 512 N.W.2d 749, 751 (1994)	2	Assignment of claim by means of subrogation is not automatic; party that wants to impose subrogation has burden of proving it.	Assignment of a claim by means of subrogation is not automatic. The party that wants to impose subrogation has the burden of proving it.	Is the assignment of claim by means of subrogation automatic?
19315	New Hampshire Ins. Co. v. Mora, 500 S.W.3d 132, 137 (Tex. App. 2016)	6	Subrogation rights may be waived or altered by contract.	However, subrogation rights may be waived or altered by contract.	Can common law subrogation rights be waived by contract?
19323	In re Marriage of Mackin, 391 Ill. App. 3d 518, 909 N.E.2d 912, 519 (Ill. App. Ct. 2009)	2	A party cannot consent to or waive appellate jurisdiction.	A party cannot consent to or waive appellate jurisdiction.	Can a party consent to or waive appellate jurisdiction?
19332	Atsa of California, Inc. v. Continental Insurance, 702 F.2d 172, 175 (9th Cir. 1983)	5	A dispute about a waiver of arbitration may properly be referred to arbitrator.	A dispute about a waiver of arbitration may properly be referred to the arbitrator.	Can a dispute regarding the waiver of arbitration be referred to arbitration?
19342	Citizens' Utility Ratepayer Bd. v. State Corp. Comm'n, 264 Kan. 363, 956 P.2d 685, 397 (Kan. 1998)	22	Primary purpose of a tax is to raise money, not regulation; such a demand is only a tax if it is a forced contribution to raise revenue for the maintenance of government services offered to the general public.	The primary purpose of a tax is to raise money, not regulation. Such a demand is only a tax if it is a "forced contribution to raise revenue for the maintenance of government services offered to the general public."	Is regulation the primary purpose of a tax?
19345	Ex Parte Coffee County Com'n, 583 So. 2d 985, 988 (Ala. 1991)	2	Whether tax is "general tax" or "special tax" depends on purpose for which tax is levied or assessed.	Whether a tax is general or special depends on the purpose for which it is levied or assessed.	What are special taxes?
19346	Town of Hilton Head Island v. Morris, 324 S.C. 30, 484 S.E.2d 104, 35 (S.C. 1997)	7	Statute levies tax when it fixes amount or rate to be imposed.	A statute levies a tax *36 when it fixes the amount or rate to be imposed.	When does a statute levy a tax?
19347	Huntington Pub. Co. v. Caryl, 180 W. Va. 486, 486 (1988)	2	In tax matters, it is substance, not form of transaction, that determines tax liability.	In tax matters, it is the substance, not the form of a transaction that determines tax liability.	What determines a tax liability?

19349	Blanchard v. Blanchard, 261 Ga. 11, 401 S.E.2d 714, 13 (Ga. 1991)	3	Tax law is statutory and equitable considerations are inapplicable.	[3] "[T]ax law is statutory and equitable considerations are inapplicable."	Are equitable considerations inapplicable under tax law?
19362	Kornfeld v. NRX Techs., Inc., 93 A.D.2d 772, 773, 461 N.Y.S.2d 342, 343 (1983), aff'd, 62 N.Y.2d 686, 465 N.E.2d 30 (1984)	3	Provision affording to plaintiffs right to convert notes into common stock at any time prior to due date did not materially alter nature of instruments, which remained instruments for payment of money only.	Neither is the character of the notes altered as a result of another provision affording to plaintiffs the right to convert the notes into common stock at any time prior to the due date. This does not materially alter the nature of the instruments and they remain instruments for the payment of money only	Does acceleration provision change the nature of the instrument?
19373	JJM Trucking, Inc. v. Caterpillar Fin. Servs. Corp., 295 Ga. App. 560, 562, 672 S.E.2d 529, 531 (2009)	2	An amendment to the answer does not constitute a withdrawal of an admission.	An amendment to the answer does not constitute a withdrawal of an admission, however.	Does an amendment to the answer constitute a withdrawal of an admission?
19382	Sudomir v. McMahon, 767 F.2d 1456, 1464 (9th Cir. 1985)	6	Federal authority in areas of immigration and naturalization is plenary.	Our foundation is that federal authority in the areas of immigration and naturalization is plenary.	Is federal authority in immigration matters plenary?
19386	State v. Makthepharak, 276 Kan. 563, 572 (2003)	16	Aggravated burglary is specific intent crime.	Aggravated burglary is a specific intent crime; aggravated battery is a general intent crime.	Is aggravated burglary a specific intent crime?
19390	Ledet v. Burgess, 632 So. 2d 11852, 1187 (La. Ct. App. 1994)	6	Conclusions of law contained in petition will not be considered.	Conclusions of law contained in a petition will not be considered.	Will conclusions of law contained in a petition be considered?
19405	State v. Garrett, 42 Conn. App. 507, 513 (1996)	7	Forcible entry, with or without damage, is not element of burglary. C.G.S.A. SS 53a-100(b), 53a-103.	Forcible entry, with or without damage, is not an element of burglary.	Is forcible entry an element of burglary?
19417	Pollin v. Mindy Mfg. Co., Inc., 211 Pa. Super. 87, 92	5	A check is an order of a depositor on a bank in nature of a draft drawn on bank and payable on demand.	A check is an order of a depositor on a bank in the nature of a draft drawn on the bank and payable on demand.	Is a check revocable until paid?
19423	Pennie v. Obama, 255 F. Supp. 3d 648, 670 (N.D. Tex. 2017)	24	Domicile requires residence in state and intent to remain in state.	"Domicile requires residence in [a] state and an intent to remain in the state." Id.	Does domicile require residence in state?
19447	Marincovich v. Tarabochia, 53 Wn. App. 633, 635 (Wash. Ct. App. 1989)	4	No rights can arise from custom that violates the law.	This is contrary to law, and it is elementary that no rights can arise from a custom that violates the law.	May rights arise from a custom that violates the law?
19449	Gaudreau v. Smith, 137 Kan. 644, 21 P.2d 330, 330 (1933)	2	Party furnishing casing and equipment to owner of oil and gas leasehold under contract giving him interest in leasehold held not entitled to lien to secure payment. Rev.St.Supp.1931, 55-207.	Party furnishing casing and equipment to owner of oil and gas leasehold under contract giving him interest in leasehold held not entitled to lien to secure payment (Rev. St. Supp. 1931, 55-207).	Do oil and gas lien laws confer special privileges?
19459	ACLU of NM v. City of Albuquerque, 137 P.3d 1215, 1221 (N.M.App., 2006)	3	An action will be dismissed if the issues become moot.	"[A]n action will be dismissed if the issues ... become moot."	Will an action be dismissed if an issue is or has become moot?
19464	Tyson Foods v. Dept. of Treasury, 276 Mich. App. 678, 741 N.W.2d 579, 684 (Mich. Ct. App. 2007)	1	State may impose a tax only if the tax is expressly authorized by law.	The state may impose a tax only if the tax is expressly authorized by law.	When can a state impose a tax?

19465	Pourier v. Bd. of Cty. Comm'rs of Shannon Cty., 83 S.D. 235, 240 (1968)	7	Nonexemption of Indians from federal income taxation is without significance as to power of state to tax personal property owned by tribal Indians and located within Indian reservations.	The nonexemption of Indians from federal income taxation is without significance on the power of a state to tax personal property owned by tribal Indians and located within Indian reservations.	Can the state tax Indians or their property on reservation?
19469	Fisher v. A.G. Becker Paribas Inc., 791 F.2d 691, 694 (9th Cir. 1986)	2	Waiver of contractual right to arbitration is not favored.	Waiver of a contractual right to arbitration is not favored.	Do the courts favor waivers of a contractual right to arbitration?
19470	Bahoor v. Varonis Sys., Inc., 152 F. Supp. 3d 1091, 1102 (N.D. Ill. 2015)	20	A waiver of the right to arbitrate can be express or implied.	A waiver of the right to arbitrate can be express or implied. Cabinetree of Wisconsin, Inc.	Can a waiver of the right to arbitrate be expressed or implied?
19480	Ad Miller Associates, Inc. v. Glynn, 736 So. 2d 798, 799 (Fla. Dist. Ct. App. 1999)	2	Default is most serious sanction that can be imposed on defendant.	A default is the most serious sanction that can be imposed on a defendant.	Is default the most serious sanction that can be imposed on a defendant?
19484	News and Observer Publishing Co. v. Coble, 128 N.C. App. 307, 310 (N.C. Ct. App. 1998)	2	When action has become moot, case should be dismissed.	When an action has become moot, the case should be dismissed.	Should a case be dismissed when action has become moot?
19487	People v. Meredith, 174 Cal. App. 4th 1257, 1266 (2009)	8	For purposes of the California first degree burglary statute, a structure need not be occupied at the time; it is "inhabited" if someone lives there, even though the person is temporarily absent. West's Ann.Cal.Penal Code SS 459, 460.	"For purposes of the California first degree burglary statute, a structure 'need not be occupied at the time; it is inhabited if someone lives there, even though the person is temporarily absent.	Is a temporarily unoccupied residence considered an inhabited dwelling pursuant to the burglary statute?
19488	Ladd v. Du Bose, 344 S.W.2d 476, 479 (Tex. Civ. App. 1961)	1	Reservation of minerals, to be effective, must be by clear language.	A reservation of minerals to be effective must be by clear language.	Should reservations in minerals be in clear language?
19493	Stroud v. Riddle, 260 S.C. 99, 194 S.E.2d 236, 102 (1973)	1	A litigant is not required to plead evidentiary matter.	A litigant is not required to plead evidentiary matter and we have held that it is both unnecessary and improper to do so.	Is a litigant required to plead evidentiary matter?
19496	Woodbury Lumber Co. v. McIntosh, 125 Vt. 154, 155, 211 A.2d 240, 242 (1965)	6	A defendant is entitled to be protected from vexatious litigation.	It is unquestionably the rule in this jurisdiction that a defendant is entitled to be protected from vexatious litigation.	Is a defendant entitled to be protected from vexatious litigation?
19523	Hanson v. Birmingham, 92 F. Supp. 33, 43 (N.D. Iowa 1950)	14	Within the scope of the partnership business, each partner is the agent of all other partners for transaction of partnership affairs, and his acts are the acts of all.	It is one of the fundamental principles in the law of partnership, that, within the scope of the partnership business, each partner is the agent of all the other partners for the transaction of the partnership affairs, and his acts are the acts of all.'	What is the fundamental principle of the law of partnership?
19525	Smith v. Gallatin Nursing Home, 629 S.W.2d 683, 685 (Tenn. 1982)	6	Entire subject of worker's compensation is statutory.	The entire subject of worker's compensation is statutory.	Is the entire subject of workers compensation statutory?
19533	Haragan v. Am. Fed'n of Grain Millers Int'l, AFL-CIO, 445 S.W.2d 131, 133 (Ky. 1969)	2	Public highways belong to public from side to side and from end to end.	Public highways belong to the public, from side to side and from end to end.'	Do public highways belong to public from side to side and from end to end?

19534	Allamakee County v. Collins Trust, 599 N.W.2d 448, 451 (Iowa 1999)	3	Established highway or right of way may be abandoned by the public and its rights lost.	We have recognized an established highway or right of way may be abandoned by the public and its rights lost.	Can a highway lose its rights?
19538	Southern Pac. Transp. v. Continental Shippers, 642 F.2d 236, 238 (8th Cir. 1981)	2	Corporation may become agent of individual or of another corporation.	Finally, it is clear that a corporation may become an agent of an individual or of another corporation.	Can a corporation become an agent of an individual?
19539	Southern Pac. Transp. v. Continental Shippers, 642 F.2d 236, 238 (8th Cir. 1981)	2	Corporation may become agent of individual or of another corporation.	Finally, it is clear that a corporation may become an agent of an individual or of another corporation.	Can a corporation become an agent of another corporation?
19585	Marfia v. T. C. Ziraat Bankasi, 100 F.3d 243, 251 (2d Cir. 1996)	5	Apparent authority is based on principle of estoppel and arises when principal places agent in position where it appears that agent has certain powers which he may or may not possess; thus, when third person holds reasonable belief that agent was acting within scope of his authority and changes his position in reliance on agent's act, principal is estopped to deny that agent's act was not authorized.	Apparent authority is based on the principle of estoppel. It arises when a principal places an agent in a position where it appears that the agent has certain powers which he may or may not possess. If a third person holds the reasonable belief that the agent was acting within the scope of his authority and changes his position in reliance on the agent's act, the principal is estopped to deny that the agent's act was not authorized.	How is implied authority viewed in the context of a principal-agent relationship?
19612	Pac. Air Lines, Inc. v. Superior Ct. In & For City & Cnty. of San Francisco, 231 Cal. App. 2d 587, 589, 42 Cal. Rptr. 68, 69 (Ct. App. 1965)	2	Test of sufficiency of affidavit is whether an indictment for perjury will lie if it is false.	There decisions state that the test of sufficiency of an affidavit is whether an indictment for perjury will lie if it is false.	What determines the sufficiency of an affidavit?
19613	Brown v. Branch, 758 N.E.2d 48, 51 (Ind. 2001)	5	"Estoppel" is a judicial doctrine sounding in equity.	Estoppel is a judicial doctrine sounding in equity.	Is estoppel a judicial doctrine sounding in equity?
19614	Chuck Wagon Feeding Co. v. Davis, 768 S.W.2d 360, 364 (Tex.App. El Paso,1989)	4	If party pleads generally and then goes further and pleads specifically on same subject, specific allegations control; pleader cannot rely on general but is confined to his specific allegations.	If a party pleads generally and then goes further and pleads specifically on the same subject, the specific allegations control. The pleader cannot rely on the general but is confined to his specific allegations.	Can the pleader rely on the general allegations?
19615	Chuck Wagon Feeding Co. v. Davis, 768 S.W.2d 360, 364 (Tex.App. El Paso,1989)	4	If party pleads generally and then goes further and pleads specifically on same subject, specific allegations control; pleader cannot rely on general but is confined to his specific allegations.	If a party pleads generally and then goes further and pleads specifically on the same subject, the specific allegations control. The pleader cannot rely on the general but is confined to his specific allegations.	Is the pleader confined to his specific allegations?
19616	Couchman v. Cardona, 471 S.W.3d 20, 25 (Tex. App. 2015)	11	A motion to dismiss with prejudice is a motion for sanctions relief.	A motion to dismiss with prejudice, then, is a motion for sanctions relief.	Is a motion to dismiss with prejudice a motion for sanctions relief?
19626	Pepitone v. State, 846 So. 2d 640, 642 (Fla. Dist. Ct. App. 2003)	3	Attempted burglary is not a necessary lesser-included offense of burglary; it is a permissive or category two lesser-included offense.	Attempted burglary is not a necessary lesser-included offense of burglary; it is a permissive or category 2 lesser-included offense.	Is attempted burglary a lesser included offense of burglary?

19635	Meyers v. Matthews, 270 Wis. 453, 467 (1955)	9	An agent having authority only to solicit applications and forward them to home office is a "soliciting agent".	An agent having authority only to solicit applications and forward them to the home office is a 'soliciting agent.'	What authority does a soliciting agent have?
19644	Buffalo Cty. v. Richards, 212 Neb. 826, 826 (Neb.,1982)	3	Consideration for a promissory note may be furnished by a third party. Neb.Rev.St. U.C.C. S 3-408.	Consideration for a promissory note may be furnished by a third party.	Can consideration for a note be furnished by a third party?
19646	Grosjean v. Grosjean, 50 So. 3d 233, 244 (La. App. 2010)	8	Written contracts may be modified by oral contracts and the conduct of the parties.	The law is clear that written contracts may be modified by oral contracts and the conduct of the parties.	Can a written contract of partnership be altered orally?
19650	Vilardo v. Sacramento Cnty., 54 Cal. App. 2d 413, 417, 129 P.2d 165, 167 (1942)	5	A plaintiff is presumed to have stated his case as strongly as it can be stated in his complaint.	Plaintiff is presumed to have stated his case as strongly as it can be stated.	Is a plaintiff presumed to have stated his case as strongly as it can be stated?
19653	Town of Trumbull v. Palmer, , 104 Conn. App. 498, 512 (2007)	22	A nonsuit forecloses the plaintiff from further prosecution of the action.	"The nonsuit forecloses the plaintiff from further prosecution of the action...."	Does a nonsuit foreclose the plaintiff from further prosecution of the action?
19657	Perkaus v. Chi. Cath. H.S. Athletic League, 140 Ill. App. 3d 127, 134 (1986)	3	Where defendant is charged with negligence because of his failure to perform act allegedly required by contract, question of whether defendant actually had duty to perform the act usually must be determined from terms of the contract; in these situations, defendant's duty will not be extended beyond duties described in the contract.	Where a defendant is charged with negligence because of his failure to perform an act allegedly required by contract, the question of whether the defendant actually had a duty to perform the act usually must be determined from the terms of the contract. In these situations the defendant's duty will not be extended beyond the duties described in the contract.	Will the non-existence of duty on part of defendant be the basis for motion for involuntary dismissal in a negligence action?
19659	Hanna v. Vastar Res., 84 S.W.3d 372, 376 (Tex. App. 2002)	6	An agent is one who consents to the control of another, the principal, where the principal manifests consent that the agent shall act for the principal; principal/agency relationship is not presumed, and the party asserting the relationship has the burden of proving it.	The general rule of law is that an agent is one who consents to the control of another, the principal, where the principal manifests consent that the agent shall act for the principal. A principal/agency relationship is not presumed, and the party asserting the relationship has the burden of proving it.	Who has the burden of proving the agency relationship?
19664	Hoffman v. Yack, 57 Ill. App. 3d 744, 373 N.E.2d 486, 747 (Ill. App. Ct. 1978)	2	A state university and its board of trustees are arms of state and are not independent or autonomous of state.	A State university and its Board of Trustees are arms of the State and are not independent or autonomous of the State.	Is a university autonomous of the State?
19672	Thomas v. American Nat. Bank, 694 S.W.2d 543, 550 (Tex. App. 1985)	7	Partnership, once proved, presumptively continues until contrary appears.	A partnership, once proved, presumptively continues until the contrary appears.	Does a partnership once proven to exist continue until the contrary appears?
19684	Fish King Enterprises v. Countrywide Ins. Co., 88 A.D.3d 639, 930 N.Y.S.2d 256, 2011 N.Y. Slip Op. 6997, 641 (N.Y. App. Div. 2011)	3	Waiver is an intentional relinquishment of a known right and should not be lightly presumed.	"Waiver is an intentional relinquishment of a known right and should not be lightly presumed"	Should waiver not be presumed lightly?
19693	Mendoza v. Tamaya Enterprises, Inc., 238 P.3d 903, 908 (2010)	7	Amendments to pleadings are generally favored over dismissal.	Additionally, amendments to pleadings are generally favored over dismissal.	Are amendments to pleadings generally favored over dismissal?

19699	Warnig v. Atl. Cnty. Special Servs., 363 N.J. Super. 563, 572, 833 A.2d 1098, 1104 (App. Div. 2003)	7	The essential nature of insurance is that risk is shifted to the insurer for the payment of a premium; it is a gamble.	The essential nature of insurance is that risk is shifted to the insurer for the payment of a premium. It is a gamble.	Is insurance a gamble?
19700	San Diego Hous. Comm'n v. Indus. Indem. Co., 95 Cal. App. 4th 669, 684, 116 Cal. Rptr. 2d 103, 115 (2002)	7	"Insurance" is a means of distributing risks of loss.	Insurance is a means of distributing risks of loss.	Is insurance a means of distributing risks of loss?
19722	Jack v. Wood, 258 Cal. App. 2d 639, 645, 65 Cal. Rptr. 856, 859 (Ct. App. 1968)	2	The word "particularity" in a pleading or affidavit means the detailed statement of particulars. West's Ann.Code Civ.Proc. S 437c.	The word 'particularity' in a pleading or affidavit means the detailed statement of particulars.	What does the word particularity in an affidavit denote?
19723	Auto Parts Mfg. Mississippi Inc. v. King Const. of Houston, 74 F. Supp. 3d 744, 758 (N.D. Miss. 2014)	20	Arbitration agreements apply to nonsignatories only in rare circumstances.	"Arbitration agreements apply to nonsignatories only in rare circumstances."	Do arbitration agreements apply to nonsignatories?
19728	Van Sickell v. Margolis, 109 N.J. Super. 14, 18, 262 A.2d 209, 211 (App. Div. 1969), aff'd, 55 N.J. 355, 262 A.2d 203 (1970)	3	Pleader's conclusions of law are not admissions of facts.	Moreover, the pleader's conclusions of law are not admissions of facts.	"Are the pleader's conclusions of law, admissions of facts?"
19729	State v. Lopez-McCurdy, 266 S.W.3d 874, 880 (Mo. Ct. App. 2008)	10	Proof of ejaculation is not essential to establish that a rape occurred. V.A.M.S. S 566.030.	Proof of ejaculation is not essential to establish that a rape occurred.	Is ejaculation essential to establish rape?
19731	Stanley v. Superior Court of L.A. Cnty., 206 Cal. App. 4th 265, 279 (2012)	3	Jeopardy attaches once the jury and the alternates are sworn. U.S.C.A. Const.Amend. 5; West's Ann.Cal. Const. Art. 1, S 15.	Jeopardy attaches once the jury and the alternates are sworn.	Will jeopardy attach once the jury and the alternates are sworn?
19737	In re Lunan Family Restaurants, 194 B.R. 429, 450 (N.D. Ill. 1996)	68	Labeling agreement "lease" does not make it one; whether lease is bona fide or merely financing agreement depends upon circumstances of each case.	Labeling an agreement a "lease" does not make it one. Whether a "lease" is bona fide or merely a financing agreement depends upon the circumstances of each case.	"Does labeling agreement ""lease"" not make it one?"
19738	Brenny v. Bd. of Regents of the Univ. of Minn., 813 N.W.2d 417, 279 Ed. Law Rep. 1209, 420 (Minn. Ct. App. 2012)	1	University of Minnesota is a legal entity within the State of Minnesota; the university has autonomous status as a constitutional corporation.	The University of Minnesota is a legal entity within the State of Minnesota. The university has "autonomous status" as *421 a "constitutional corporation."	Is a univeristy a legal entity within the state?
19747	Arkla, Inc. v. Harris, 846 S.W.2d 623, 629 (Tex. App. 1993)	10	If matter sought to be discovered is privileged, it is not subject to discovery. Vernon's Ann.Texas Rules Civ.Proc., Rule 166b, subds. 3, par. e, 4; Rules of Civ.Evid., Rules 503, 503(a)(5), (b), (d)(1).	If the matter sought to be discovered is privileged, it is not subject to discovery. West v. Solito, 563 S.W.2d 240, 243 (Tex.1978).	Are privileged matters subject to discovery?
19761	Commercial Credit Corp. v. University National Bank, 590 F.2d 849, 852 (10th Cir. 1979)	5	A negotiable instrument is property of holder or payee, not drawer.	A negotiable instrument is the property of the holder or payee, not the drawer.	Is a negotiable instrument the property of the drawer?
19765	Doe v. Ohio State Univ., 239 F. Supp. 3d 1048, 1080 (S.D. Ohio 2017)	50	A university is not a court of law, and it is neither practical nor desirable it be one.	"A university is not a court of law, and it is neither practical nor desirable it be one."	Can a university be a court of law?

19775	Lyda Swinerton Builders, Inc. v. Cathay Bank, 409 S.W.3d 221, 245 (Tex. App. 2013)	26	Under various circumstances, a non-volunteer who satisfies a tax lien may be subrogated to the taxing authority's lien to the extent necessary for his own equitable protection. V.T.C.A., Tax Code SS 32.06, 32.065.	Thus, "[u]nder various circumstances [a non-volunteer who satisfies a tax lien] may be subrogated to the taxing authority's lien to the extent necessary for his own equitable protection."	Is equitable subrogation only available to the extent necessary for the subrogee's equitable protection?
19778	Computer Personalities Systems, Inc. v. Aspect Computer, 320 B.R. 812, 820 (E.D.Pa.,2005)	6	Under Uniform Commercial Code (U.C.C.), a postdated check is technically not a check, but instead a credit instrument. U.C.C. S 2-511.	Moreover, under the U.C.C., a postdated check is technically not a check, but instead a credit instrument.	Is a postdated check considered to be a credit instrument?
19780	Gilbert v. Gottsegen, 171 So. 3d 289, 296 (La. App. 2015)	13	Conventional subrogation contemplates the obligee's consent and affirmative action to transfer his rights; it takes place by virtue of an agreement whereby the obligee transfers his rights in a debt to a third person. LSA-C.C. art. 1827.	Conventional subrogation contemplates the obligee's consent and affirmative action to transfer his rights; it takes place by virtue of an agreement whereby the obligee transfers his rights in a debt to a third person.	What is conventional subrogation?
19781	Handy v. Anchor Mortg. Corp., 464 F.3d 760, 764 (7th Cir. 2006)	3	The sufficiency of TILA-mandated disclosures is determined from the standpoint of the ordinary consumer. Truth in Lending Act, S 102 et seq., 15 U.S.C.A. S 1601 et seq.	"The sufficiency of TILA-mandated disclosures is determined from the standpoint of the ordinary consumer."	How is the sufficiency of TILA mandated disclosures determined?
19783	In re Bill Heard Enterprises, Inc., 423 B.R. 771, 787 (N.D. Ala. 2010)	33	Equity rules are not absolute and competing equities must be considered in any subrogation-restitution situation; the subrogee must have clear equity, and subrogation is defeated by countervailing equities.	" 'Equity rules are not absolute and competing equities must be considered in any subrogation-restitution situation. The subrogee must have clear equity and subrogation is defeated by countervailing equities.' "	Should a subrogee have clear equity?
19788	Vazquez v. Deutsche Bank Nat. Tr. Co., 441 S.W.3d 783, 788 (Tex. App. 2014)	8	A document is "forged" if it is signed by one who purports to act as another.	A document is forged if it is signed by one who purports to act as another.	What is a forged document under law?
19792	In re Bonheur, 148 B.R. 379, 383 (E.D.N.Y. 1992)	5	Duty of support is mutual one, extending to both spouses.	The duty of support is a mutual one, extending to both spouses.	Will the courts consider the spouses duty of support as mutual?
19794	Golden Feather Cmty. Assn. v. Thermalito Irrigation Dist., 209 Cal. App. 3d 1276, 1286, 257 Cal. Rptr. 836, 842-43 (Ct. App. 1989)	10	Where it is necessary to protect public trust interest state may have power over properties which are not themselves within public trust, but this does not mean that such properties are deemed to be added to public trust, nor that all incidents of public trust are applicable to such properties; in all cases, application of public trust doctrine depends upon interest for which protection is sought and manner in which interest is to be protected.	Where it is necessary to protect public trust interests the state may have power over properties which are not themselves within the public trust, but this does not mean that such properties are deemed to be added to the public trust, nor that all incidents of the public trust are applicable to such properties. In all cases, the application of the public trust doctrine 843 depends upon the interest for which protection is sought and the manner in which that interest is to be protected.	Is the scope of the public trust doctrine limited?
19803	DeSalle v. Gentry, 818 N.E.2d 40, 47 (Ind.App.,2004)	13	"Personal goodwill" is goodwill that is based on the personal attributes of the individual.	On the other hand, personal goodwill is goodwill that is based on the personal attributes of the individual.	Is personal goodwill dependent on the individuals personal attributes?

19807	Oliver J. Olson & Co. v. Marine Terminals Corp., 215 F. Supp. 490, 492 (N.D. Cal. 1962)	4	A bailee may sue in his own name for damage to goods of a bailor.	However, it is elementary law that a bailee may sue in his own name for damage to the goods of a bailor	Does a bailee have a right to sue?
19815	United States v. Wiseman, 274 F.3d 1235, 1241 (9th Cir. 2001)	4	Intent to repay generally is not a defense to embezzlement.	Intent to repay generally is not a defense to embezzlement, however.	Is intent to repay a defense to embezzlement?
19817	State v. Raley, 100 Ohio App. 75, 82 (1954)	6	Sedition and treason against the United States as a sovereign entity are necessarily offenses also against every sovereign state of the federal union. U.S.C.A.Const. art. 4, S 2; 18 U.S.C.A. S 2385; R.C. SS 103.31-103.38, 103.34.	Sedition and treason against the United States as a sovereign entity are necessarily offenses also against every sovereign state of the federal Union.	Is treason against a state necessarily treason against the United States?
19821	State v. Woodham, 288 Ala. 608, 614 (1972)	8	Power of eminent domain is derived from sovereignty of the state, and constitutional provision and statutes enacted pursuant thereto, requiring payment of just compensation for taking of private property for public use or limitation on the power, is not a grant thereto.	The power or eminent domain is derived from the sovereignty of the state. The constitutional provisions and the statutes enacted pursuant thereto, requiring the payment of just compensation for the taking of private property for public use, or a limitation on the power, is not a grant thereto.	What is the concept of eminent domain derived from?
19844	ELCA of New Hampshire, Inc. v. McIntyre, 129 N.H. 114, 116 (N.H. 1987)	1	When restrictions in leases are express or clearly implied from language of lease they will be recognized.	At the outset, we acknowledge that when restrictions in leases are express, or clearly implied from the language of the lease, *116 they will be recognized.	Should express language from which a restriction can be implied be shown to establish restriction in a lease?
19848	Williams v. United States, 71 F.3d 502, 506 (5th Cir. 1995)	8	Defamation is defined under Texas law as intentional tort.	Defamation is defined under Texas law as an intentional tort.	Is defamation an intentional tort?
19861	Rokowsky v. Gordon, 501 F. Supp. 1114, 1121 (D. Mass. 1980)	7	Demand note is payable at place of residence of maker, if no place of payment is named in the note.	A demand note is payable at the place of residence of the maker if no place of payment is named in the note.	Which law is applicable to a note?
19868	Reynolds v. Chrysler First Comm. Corp., 40 Conn. App. 725, 732 (Conn. App. Ct. 1996)	12	Contracts are not created by evidence of customs and usage.	"[C]ontracts are not created by evidence of customs and usage."	May contracts be created by evidence of customs and usage?
19873	Peters v. General Motors Corp., 200 S.W.3d 1, 15 (Mo. Ct. App. 2006)	8	A motion in limine, by itself, preserves nothing for appeal; to preserve an evidentiary issue on appeal, a party is required to object at trial to the introduction of the evidence and to reassert the objection in post trial motions.	"A motion in limine, by itself, preserves nothing for appeal." To preserve an evidentiary issue on appeal, a party is required to object at trial to the introduction of the evidence and to reassert the objection in post trial motions.	Are rulings on motions in limine interlocutory and subject to change during the course of the trial?
19877	State v. Bengé, 272 N.C. 261, 263 (1967)	1	"Manslaughter" is the unlawful killing of a human being without malice and without premeditation or deliberation.	Manslaughter is the unlawful killing of a human being without malice and without premeditation or deliberation.	What is manslaughter?
19884	Kletsch v. Waukesha County, 61 Wis. 2d 662, 664 (Wis. 1974)	3	If pretrial procedure is to be effective, it must be observed.	If the pretrial procedure is to be effective, it must be observed.	Is it essential to observe pretrial procedure to make it effective?
19893	Lathon v. Cumberland Cty., 184 N.C. App. 62, 69 (2007)	3	Acts of a de facto officer are valid in law in respect to the public whom he represents and to third persons with whom he deals officially.	Further, "[t]he acts of a de facto officer are valid in law in respect to the public whom he represents and to third persons with whom he deals officially."	When does a de facto status arise?

19900	Dumais v. American Golf Corp., 150 F.Supp.2d 1182, 1194 (D.N.M.,2001)	28	In the case of an arbitration agreement unsupported by consideration, issues surrounding the method of dispute resolution must be clear, unequivocal and apply mutually to both sides before that agreement may be enforced.	In the case of an arbitration agreement unsupported by consideration, issues surrounding the method of dispute resolution must be clear, unequivocal and apply mutually to both sides before that agreement may be enforced.	Are arbitration agreements enforceable if unsupported by consideration?
19903	Titus v. Nieheiser, 269 Ala. 493, 114 So. 2d 242, 496 (Ala. 1959)	6	Speaking demurrers are not permissible under the system of equity pleading.	Speaking demurrers are not permissible under our system of equity pleading.	Are speaking demurrers permissible?
19908	Disabled Vet. Tr. v. Porterfield Constr, 996 S.W.2d 548, 552 (Mo. Ct. App. 1999)	3	The cardinal rule in the interpretation of a contract is to ascertain the intention of the parties and to give effect to that intention.	"The cardinal rule in the interpretation of a contract is to ascertain the intention of the parties and to give effect to that intention."	Can you enforce a waiver-of-subrogation provision?
19914	Dornacker v. Olson, 248 N.W.2d 844, 849 (N.D. 1976)	1	School system is the school system of the state, not of an organized administrative unit.	The school system is the school system of the State-not of an organized administrative unit.	Is the school system the school system of an organized administrative unit?
19916	United Bonding Ins. Co. v. Castle, 444 P.2d 454, 457 (Alaska 1968)	4	Purpose of pretrial is to clearly define all issues to be tried and decided- hidden issues or defenses are not to be tolerated.	The purpose of pre- trial is to clearly define all issues to be tried and decided- hidden issues or defenses are not to be tolerated.	What is the purpose of pre-trial?
19920	McCovens v. State, 539 N.E.2d 26, 29 (Ind. 1989)	4	To obtain conviction for burglary, it is not necessary for State to prove that defendant committed theft or any other felony, because burglary is complete upon breaking and entering with intent to commit felony.	To obtain a conviction for burglary, it is not necessary for the State to prove that the defendant committed theft or any other felony because the burglary is complete upon breaking and entering with intent to commit a felony.	Can entering a fenced area constitute burglary?
19922	Shepard Realty Co. v. United Shoe Stores Co., 193 La. 211, 229 (1939)	8	There exists no essential difference between a "discontinuance" and a "voluntary nonsuit."	739, that: "There exists no essential difference between a discontinuance and a voluntary non-suit.	Is a discontinuance and a voluntary nonsuit essentially the same?
19992	Goodman v. Physical Res. Eng'g, 229 Ariz. 25, 31 (2011)	20	A principal is undisclosed if the third party has no notice the agent is acting for a principal. Restatement (Third) of Agency S 1.03(2)(b).	A principal is undisclosed if the third party has no notice the agent is acting for a principal. Restatement 1.03(2)(b).	When is a Principal Undisclosed?
20016	State ex rel. ACF Industries, Inc. v. Vieweg, 204 W. Va. 525, 527 (1999)	9	The right to workmen's compensation benefits is wholly statutory.	"The right to workmen's compensation benefits is wholly statutory.	Is the right to workers compensation statutory?
20025	Triodyne, Inc. v. Superior Ct. for Los Angeles Cnty., 240 Cal. App. 2d 536, 542, 49 Cal. Rptr. 717, 722 (Ct. App. 1966)	3	Where insofar as motion to strike was upon asserted ground of irrelevancy, it was not directed to any particular allegations and no showing of irrelevancy was made, motion must be considered as one to strike or dismiss entire count on basis that it was sham. West's Ann.Code Civ.Proc. S 453.	Insofar as the motion to strike was upon the asserted ground of irrelevancy, it was not directed to any particular allegations and no showing of irrelevancy was made; thus the motion must be considered as one to strike or dismiss the entire count on the basis that it was sham.	Is a motion to dismiss an action on the ground that it is fictitious or sham a proper practice?
20051	Fagnani v. Fisher, 418 Md. 371, 15 A.3d 282, 382 (Md. 2011)	2	One who borrows money from a lender/creditor or mortgagee is designated as a "borrower/debtor" or "mortgagor."	One who borrows money from a lender/creditor or mortgagee is designated as a borrower/ debtor or mortgagor.	Who is a borrower?

20054	Morton v. Thornton, 259 N.C. 697, 700 (N.C. 1963)	7	An agent is not real party in interest and cannot maintain an action.	The agent is not the real party in interest and cannot maintain an action.	Is the agent the party in interest to a contract?
20079	Merv Props., L. L.C. v. Forcht Bancorp, Inc. (In re Merv Props., L. L.C.), 539 B.R. 516, 529 (B.A.P. 6th Cir. 2015)	21	Generally, the actions of an agent are imputed to the principal; an exception to that rule lies when the agent has interests adverse to those of his principal.	Generally, the actions of an agent are imputed to the principal. An exception to that rule lies when the agent has interests adverse to those of his principal	Are the actions of an agent imputed to the Principal?
20092	United States v. Lilly, 810 F.3d 1205, 1211 (10th Cir. 2016)	4	Actual authority incorporates concepts of express and implied authority.	"Actual authority incorporates the concepts of express and implied authority.	Can actual authority be implied?
20095	Jensen v. Henneford, 185 Wash. 209, 217, 53 P.2d 607, 610 (1936)	4	Character of tax is determined by its incidents and not by its name.	The character of a tax is determined by its incidents, not by its name.	Can the character of a tax be determined by its name?
20096	Bente v. Bugbee, 103 N.J.L. 608, 137 A. 552, 611 (N.J. 1927)	2	"Tax" is legal imposition, exclusively of statutory origin.	A tax is a legal imposition exclusively of statutory origin (37 Cyc.	Is tax of statutory origin?
20106	Leaveau v. Primeaux, 117 So. 2d 304, 307 (La. Ct. App. 1959)	2	Where a party in an authentic act executed by him solemnly admits a fact, he is forever estopped from disputing not only the deed itself but every fact which the deed recites; such estoppel by deed applies with greater force when the warranty made by a grantor is involved.	Where a party in an authentic act executed by him solemnly admits a fact, he is forever estopped from disputing not only the deed itself but every fact which the deed recites. Such estoppel by deed applies with greater force when the warranty made by a grantor is involved.	Is estoppel by warranty based on the fundamental principle of giving effect to the manifest intention of the grantor appearing on the deed?
20120	State v. Mack, 715 So. 2d 126, 129 (1998)	6	Person who serves as a "lookout" is a principal to burglary. LSA-R.S. 14:24, 14:62.2.	A person who serves as a "lookout" is a principal to burglary.	Does serving as a look out make a person a principal in burglary?
20141	Rozgis v. Missouri State Life Ins. Co., 271 Ill. App. 155, 157 (1933)	4	An agent having authority only to solicit applications and forward them to the home office is a "soliciting agent."	An agent having authority only to solicit applications and forward to the home office, is a soliciting agent and has no power to waive the provisions of a policy.	Who is a soliciting agent?
20146	Delmarva Power & Light Co. v. City of Seaford, 575 A.2d 1089, 1092 (Del.Supr., 1990)	5	Exclusivity is not favored and will only be recognized if it is explicit in terms of franchise.	In particular, exclusivity is not favored and will only be recognized if it is explicit in the terms of the franchise.	Are exclusive franchises favored under law?
20166	Matter of Property Seized From Sykes, 497 N.W.2d 829, 833 (Iowa 1993)	4	Mere passivity may not support waiver.	Mere passivity may not support a waiver.	Can mere passivity support waiver?
20178	State v. Ward, 172 Conn. 163, 167 (1976)	2	First test of admissibility of any evidence is whether it is relevant.	The first test of the admissibility of any evidence is whether it is relevant.	What is the test of admissibility of evidence in an offence of embezzlement?
20179	Philadelphia Indem. Ins. Co. v. Pace Suburban Bus Serv., 2016 IL App (1st) 151659, ¶ 25, 67 N.E.3d 556, 564–65	11	Subrogation is allowed to prevent injustice and unjust enrichment but will not be allowed where it would be inequitable to do so.	Subrogation is allowed to prevent injustice and unjust enrichment but will not be allowed where it would be inequitable to do so. Dix Mutual Insurance Co. v. LaFramboise, 149 Ill.2d 314, 319, 173 Ill.Dec. 648, 597 N.E.2d 622 (1992).	What is the object of subrogation?

20183	Passmore v. McCarver, 395 P.3d 297, 301 (Ariz. Ct. App. 2017)	6	Mere delay can be the basis of dismissal. Fla. R. Civ. P. 41(b).	Mere delay can be the basis of dismissal.	Can a mere delay be the basis of dismissal?
20188	Fischer v. Fischer, 197 S.W.3d 98, 101 (Ky. 2006)	2	Right to dissolve is inseparably incident to every partnership, and there can be no indissoluble partnership.	The right to dissolve is inseparably incident to every partnership, and there can be no indissoluble partnership.	Do indissoluble partnerships exist?
20190	United States v. Addonizio, 451 F.2d 49, 72 (3d Cir. 1971)	45	Essence of crime of bribery is voluntariness while essence of extortion is duress.	As outlined in VI.A., supra, the essence of the crime of bribery is voluntariness, while the essence of extortion is duress.	What is the difference between the essence of bribery and the essence of extortion?
20209	Amalgamated Meat C. B., v. Neuhoﬀ Bros, 481 F.2d 817, 820 (5th Cir. 1973)	3	Arbitration proceedings are sui generis.	We are obliged to recognize that arbitration proceedings are sui generis.	Is arbitration a sui generis proceeding?
20210	Peterson v. Wells Fargo Bank, 556 F. Supp. 1100, 1114 (N.D. Cal. 1981)	13	A bank is not a "public service corporation."	A bank is not a public service corporation.	Can a bank be termed as a public service corporation?
20214	Sokol Holdings, Inc. v. BMB Munai, Inc., 542 F.3d 354, 358 (2d Cir. 2008)	2	Persons are generally entitled to have their dispute settled by ruling of court of law, and it is essentially only by making commitment to arbitrate that one gives up this right of access to court of law in favor of arbitration.	"Persons are generally entitled to have their dispute settled by the ruling of a court of law. It is essentially only by making a commitment to arbitrate that one gives up the right of access to a court of law in favor of arbitration." Sokol Holdings, Inc.	What is the black letter law relating to arbitration?
20222	Liddle v. Salem School District No. 600, 249 Ill. App. 3d 768, 770 (Ill. App. Ct. 1993)	2	Both tangible and intangible property may be subject of bailment.	Both tangible and intangible property may be the subject of a bailment.	What is the subject of a bailment?
20223	Alvarado v. Sersch, 262 Wis. 2d 74, 2003 WI 55, 662 N.W.2d 350, 83 (Wis. 2003)	8	Negligence and liability are distinct concepts.	Thus, negligence and liability are distinct concepts.	Are negligence and liability distinct concepts?
20233	GBJ, II v. First Ave. Inv. Corp., 520 N.W.2d 508, 512 (Minn. Ct. App. 1994)	8	Lessee's rights can be no greater than lessor's.	A lessee's rights, however, can be no greater than the lessor's:	Does the lessee have greater rights than the lessor?
20237	Indus. Sands & Abrasives v. Quebedeaux, 366 So. 2d 999, 1000 (La. Ct. App. 1978)	2	Oral pleadings are not permitted in court of record. LSA-C.C.P. art. 852.	Oral pleadings are not permitted in a court of record.	Are oral pleadings permitted?
20247	Hopkins v. Mississippi Valley Gas Co., 866 So. 2d 514, 517 (Miss. App. 2004)	4	The duty of the utility company is to exercise reasonable care.	"The duty of the utility company is to exercise reasonable care."	What is the duty of a public utility?
20256	City of Colorado Springs v. Andersen Mahon Enterprises, LLP, 260 P.3d 29, 32 (Colo. App. 2010)	7	Generally, a taking of property occurs when the entity clothed with the power of eminent domain substantially deprives a property owner of the use and enjoyment of that property. U.S.C.A. Const.Amend. 5; West's C.R.S.A. Const. Art. 2, S 15.	Generally, a taking of property occurs when the entity clothed with the power of eminent domain substantially deprives a property owner of the use and enjoyment of that property.	Can a plotting or planning in anticipation of a public improvement be considered a taking?
20259	State v. Stevenson, 147 W. Va. 211, 214 (1962)	2	There can be no murder without homicide, but the converse is not true.	There can be no murder without a homicide but the converse is not true.	Can there be murder without homicide?

20261	Kline v. 1500 Massachusetts Avenue Apt. Corp., 439 F.2d 477, 482 (D.C. Cir. 1970)	4	Duty of taking protective measures guarding entire premises and areas peculiarly under landlord's control against perpetration of criminal acts is on landlord, the party to lease contract having effective capacity to perform necessary acts.	In the case at bar we place the duty of taking protective measures guarding the entire premises and the areas peculiarly under the landlord's control against the perpetration of criminal acts upon the landlord, the party to the lease contract who has the effective capacity to perform these necessary acts.	Is the modern day apartment lease regarded as a contract?
20270	Am. Contractors Indem. Co. v. Saladino, 115 Cal. App. 4th 1262, 1268, 9 Cal. Rptr. 3d 835, 839 (2004)	5	"Subrogation" is the right to recover from the debtor-obligor; a surety pays the principal debtor's obligation to the creditor, and in equity is substituted for the creditor, or subrogated to his or her rights against the debtor.	'Subrogation is the right to recover from the debtor-obligor. A surety, e.g., pays the principal debtor's obligation to the creditor, and in equity is substituted for the creditor, or subrogated to his rights against the debtor.'	Is subrogation a right to recover from a debtor-obligor?
20272	Freeman Co. v. Bolt, 132 Idaho 152, 157 (1998)	4	Custom of trade cannot be invoked against a party not in the same trade.	Even assuming this to be true, a custom of trade cannot be invoked against a 253 *158 party not in the same trade.	Can a custom of trade be invoked against a party not in the same trade?
20273	Geller v. Schulman, 110 N.Y.S.2d 862, 863 (1951)	1	An allegation of indebtedness is not an allegation of fact but a conclusion of law.	An allegation of indebtedness is not an allegation of fact but of a conclusion of law.	Is an allegation of indebtedness an allegation of fact?
20278	Am. Transit Ins. Co. v. State, 225 A.D.2d 117	3	Claim does not accrue until damages are ascertainable.	A claim does not accrue until damages are ascertainable (see, Otis El. Co. v. State of New York, 52 A.D.2d 380, 383 N.Y.S.2d 920)	Does a claim accrue before damages are ascertainable?
20285	Dwyer v. Kansas City Missouri Sch. Dist., 451 S.W.3d 704, 713 (Mo.App. W.D., 2014)	8	Ruling on a motion in limine is interlocutory and subject to change during trial, and thus, it preserves nothing for appeal.	A ruling on a motion in limine is interlocutory and subject to change during trial; thus, it "preserves nothing for appeal."	Is a trial court at liberty to change its ruling on a motion in limine once the hearing or trial has begun?
20288	Slater v. Farmland Mut. Ins. Co., 334 N.W.2d 728, 730 (Iowa 1983)	1	A cause of action accrues only when all the necessary elements have occurred.	Fundamental to our tort law is that a cause of action accrues only when all the necessary elements have occurred.	Is a cause of action fundamental to tort law?
20289	DiMercurio v. Sphere Drake Insurance, PLC, 202 F.3d 71, 81 (1st Cir. 2000)	7	One-sided agreements to arbitrate are not favored.	We adhere to our view that one-sided agreements to arbitrate are not favored.	Do courts favor one-sided agreements to arbitrate?
20305	Epperson v. Arkansas, 393 U.S. 97, 89 S. Ct. 266, 104 (1968)	3	Courts do not and cannot intervene in resolution of conflicts which arise in daily operation of school systems and which do not directly and sharply implicate basic constitutional values, but, the vigilant protection of constitutional freedoms is nowhere more vital than in the community of American schools.	Courts do not and cannot intervene in the resolution of conflicts which arise in the daily operation of school systems and which do not directly and sharply implicate basic constitutional values. 13 On the other hand, '(t)he vigilant protection of constitutional freedoms is nowhere more vital than in the community of American schools,	Does judicial intervention or interposition in the operation of the public-school system requires restraint?
20307	Lucas v. Wright, 370 S.W.2d 924, 927 (Tex. Civ. App. 1963)	4	Communications between partner and partner, though confidential in their nature, are not privileged.	But, communications between partner and partner, however confidential in their nature, are not privileged.	Are communications between partners privileged?

20308	Trammel's Bonds v. Lubbock Cty, 60 S.W.3d 145, 150 (Tex. App. 2001)	8	For "laches" to arise, one must unreasonably delay in asserting a legal or equitable right and the delay must cause another to, in good faith, change his position to his detriment.	In other words, for laches to arise one must unreasonably delay in asserting a legal or equitable right and the delay must cause another to, in good faith, change his position to his detriment.	"Except in case of extreme delay, is a delay which works no injury or no disadvantage to another not such laches as will bar a right?"
20320	RLI Ins. Co. v. S. Union Co., 341 S.W.3d 821, 833 (Mo. Ct. App. 2011)	22	Insurance procurement clauses reflect an intention on the part of the parties to relieve each other of liability and look to only one insurer to bear the risk instead.	Insurance procurement clauses reflect an "intention on the part of the parties to relieve each other of liability and look to only one insurer to bear the risk ... instead."	Does the waiver of subrogation clause avoid both parties having to face potential liability for the same risk?
20323	Trammel's Bonds v. Lubbock Cty, 60 S.W.3d 145, 149 (Tex. App. 2001)	8	For "laches" to arise, one must unreasonably delay in asserting a legal or equitable right and the delay must cause another to, in good faith, change his position to his detriment.	In other words, for laches to arise one must unreasonably delay in asserting a legal or equitable right and the delay must cause another to, in good faith, change his position to his detriment.	Can a delay which works no injury or no disadvantage to another is laches that bar a right?
20345	People v. Allen, 20 Cal. App. 4th 846	3	Tax statutes are regulatory or public welfare statutes.	b. Tax Statutes Are Regulatory or Public Welfare Statutes.	Are statutes imposing taxes regulatory statutes?
20349	Blanchard v. Blanchard, 261 Ga. 11, 401 S.E.2d 714, 13 (Ga. 1991)	3	Tax law is statutory and equitable considerations are inapplicable.	"[T]ax law is statutory and equitable considerations are inapplicable."	Is tax law statutory?
20359	Mack v. Rumsfeld, 609 F. Supp. 1561, 1564 (W.D.N.Y. 1985)	4	There is no constitutional right to join military.	There is no constitutional right to join the military.	Is there any constitutional right to join the military?
20367	Rainwater v. Haynes, 244 Ark. 1191, 1191 (Ark. 1968)	5	The word "tax" does not include "assessments".	The word 'tax' does not include 'assessments.'	"Does the word ""tax"" include ""assessments""?"
20377	Butterman v. R. H. Macy & Co., 33 A.D.2d 746	3	Plaintiff's right to examination is not unlimited.	Plaintiffs' right to examination is not unlimited. See Ippa v. City of New York, 271 App.Div. 981, 68 N.Y.S.2d 28 (2nd Dept.1947; 3 year limitation);	Is a plaintiff's right to examination not unlimited?
20423	Savka v. Smith, 58 Ill. App. 3d 12, 17 (1978)	8	Ordinarily it is improper to plead evidence in complaint, but if recovery is sought for injuries caused by another's violation of statute or ordinance, statute or ordinance must be pleaded even though it also is evidence.	Ordinarily it is improper to plead evidence in the complaint. However, when recovery is sought for injuries caused by another's violation of a statute or ordinance, that statute or ordinance must be pleaded even though it also is evidence.	Is it improper to plead evidence?
20439	Jimenez v. Ortega, 179 So. 3d 483, 487 (Fla. Dist. Ct. App. 2015)	2	While an appellate court reviews a trial court's dismissal sanction for abuse of discretion, a more stringent abuse of discretion standard is appropriate because dismissal is an extreme remedy.	Accordingly, while an appellate court reviews a trial court's dismissal sanction for abuse of discretion, "[a] more stringent abuse of discretion standard is appropriate because dismissal is an extreme remedy."	"Does a trial court have the inherent authority, within the exercise of sound judicial discretion, to dismiss an action when the plaintiff has perpetrated a fraud on the court?"

20489	XTO Energy Inc. v. Nikolai, 357 S.W.3d 47	3	All parties to a deed are bound by the recitals therein, which operate as an estoppel, working on the interest in the land if it be a deed of conveyance, and binding both parties and privies; privies in blood, privies in estate, and privies in law.	Therefore, "all parties to a deed are bound by the recitals therein, which operate as an estoppel, working on the interest in the land if it be a deed of conveyance, and binding both parties and privies; privies in blood, privies in estate, and privies in law."	Does the recital of one deed in another bind the parties and form a muniment of title?
20499	Anderson v. Wagner, 207 Neb. 87, 97 (Neb., 1980)	7	All possible security interests which are retained or could be acquired in consumer's residence must be clearly explained by creditor.	It is true all possible security interests which are retained or could be acquired in a consumer's residence must be clearly explained by the creditor.	What is the meaning of Security Interest?
20500	McIlvoy v. Sharp, 485 S.W.3d 367, 372 (W.D. Mo. 2016)	6	To state a claim, a petition must invoke substantive principles of law entitling the plaintiff to relief and allege ultimate facts informing the defendant of what the plaintiff will attempt to establish at trial.	"Under Missouri pleading rules, to state a claim, a petition must invoke substantive principles of law entitling the plaintiff to relief and allege ultimate facts informing the defendant of what the plaintiff will attempt to establish at trial." Charron v.	"In ruling on a motion to dismiss for failure to state a claim, does a court not attempt to weigh whether the alleged facts are credible or persuasive?"
20502	Uniprop, Inc. v. Morganroth, 260 Mich. App. 442, 678 N.W.2d 638, 448 (Mich. Ct. App. 2004)	6	A characteristic of an agent is that he is a business representative; his function is to bring about, modify, accept performance of, or terminate contractual obligations between his principal and third persons.	A characteristic of an agent is that he is a business representative. His function is to bring about, modify, accept performance of, or terminate contractual obligations between his principal and third persons.	Is business representative a characteristic of an agent?
20517	Twersky v. Yeshiva Univ., 993 F. Supp. 2d 429, 442 (S.D.N.Y. 2014)	13	Equitable estoppel is an extraordinary remedy.	Equitable estoppel is an "extraordinary remedy.	Is equitable estoppel an extraordinary remedy?
20524	Monsanto Co. v. Milam, 494 S.W.2d 534, 536 (Tex. 1973)	2	Specific allegation controls over general allegation.	The specific allegation controls over the general allegation.	Do specific allegation control over the general allegation?
20537	In Interest of C.M, 532 N.W.2d 381, 382 (N.D. 1995)	2	Dismissal without prejudice is, by definition, not res judicata.	A dismissal without prejudice is, by definition, not res judicata:	"Does a dismissal ""without prejudice,"" mean that no right or remedy of the parties is affected?"
20539	Wilck v. Herbert, 78 Cal. App. 2d 392	9	Ordinarily the mere appointment of an exclusive agent to sell certain property does not prevent the owner from making the sale himself without being liable for the agent's commission.	Ordinarily the mere appointment of an exclusive agent to sell certain property does not prevent the owner from making the sale himself without being liable for the agent's commission. 3 C.J.S., Agency, § 179, p. 71; 2 C.J. 777.	Is use of the words exclusive agency or exclusive sale conclusive that an agent has exclusive power?
20546	Baldwin v. Mollette, 527 S.W.3d 830	9	Power of attorney is a form of agency.	"[A] power of attorney is a form of agency."	Is a power of attorney a form of agency?
20547	Southern Pac. Transp. v. Continental Shippers, 642 F.2d 236, 238 (8th Cir. 1981)	2	Corporation may become agent of individual or of another corporation.	Finally, it is clear that a corporation may become an agent of an individual or of another corporation.	Can a corporation be an agent?
20548	Columbus & S. Ohio Elec. Co. v. Porterfield, 41 Ohio App. 2d 191, 198 (Ohio App. 1974)	5	Sales tax is tax on consumer of goods.	Clearly, the Ohio sales tax is a tax on a consumer of goods.	Is sales tax a tax on consumer of goods?

20556	Sharper Image Corp. v. Miller, 240 Conn. 531, 536 (1997)	2	"Sales tax" is tax on freedom of purchase.	A sales tax is a tax on the freedom of purchase....	"Is a ""sales tax"" a tax on freedom of purchase?"
20559	People v. Etkin, 284 A.D.2d 579, 580, 728 N.Y.S.2d 205, 207 (2001)	1	By moving to withdraw his guilty plea on the ground that it was coerced, defendant preserved his challenge to the voluntariness of both his plea and the waiver of his right to appeal.	By moving to withdraw his guilty plea on the ground that it was coerced, defendant preserved his challenge to the voluntariness of both his plea and the waiver of his right to appeal (see, People v. Muniz, supra, at 574, 673 N.Y.S.2d 358, 696 N.E.2d 182; People v. Callahan, 80 N.Y.2d 273, 280, 590 N.Y.S.2d 46, 604 N.E.2d 108)	Can a defendant waive his or her right to appeal the severity of a sentence?
20569	Carter v. Hill, 31 Haw. 264, 264 (Haw.Terr. 1930)	4	When property, owned by a resident of this Territory, consisting of shares of stock of a foreign corporation, state bonds, municipal bonds of mainland cities, Liberty bonds, federal farm loan bonds, deposits in a foreign bank and an undivided share of a trust estate held in trust by a foreign corporation, none of which securities have ever been actually in this Territory, but have at all times been physically present in the State of New York and under the complete control and management of the owner's agent, acting under a power of attorney which gives him unlimited discretion in the use and control of all of said securities without consultation with the owner, and when said attorney in fact, in the exercise of the powers conferred upon him, invests and reinvests said securities at his own will and in accordance with his own judgment, said securities have a fixed business situs in the State of New York, and have not, under the common-law doctrine expressed in the maxim, mobilia sequuntur personam, their situs in the Territory of Hawaii, and under section 1388, Rev.Laws 1925, the owner is not liable for a tax on the income derived from said securities.	When property, owned by a resident of this Territory, consisting of shares of stock of a foreign corporation, state bonds, municipal bonds of mainland cities, Liberty bonds, federal farm loan bonds, deposits in a foreign bank and an undivided share of a trust estate held in trust by a foreign corporation, none of which securities have ever been actually in this Territory but have at all times been physically present in the State of New York and under the complete control and management of the owner's agent, acting under a power of attorney which gives him unlimited discretion in the use and control of all of said securities without consultation with the owner and when said attorney in fact, in the exercise of the powers conferred upon him, invests and reinvests said securities at his own will and in accordance with his own judgment, said securities have a fixed business situs in the State of New York and have not, under the common- law doctrine expressed in the maxim mobilia sequuntur personam, their situs, in the Territory of Hawaii, and under section 1388, R. L. 1925, the owner is not liable for a tax on the income derived from	Does the governmental jurisdiction in matters of taxation depend on the power to enforce the mandate of the State by action taken within its borders?
20571	Kucel v. Walter E. Heller Co., 813 F.2d 67, 73 (5th Cir. 1987)	11	Award of attorney fees in diversity case depends on law of state whose rules govern substantive claims.	Thus, the award of attorney's fees in a diversity case depends on the law of the state whose rules govern the substantive claims.	Will the intent of the parties prevail when they agree that the contract will be governed by the laws of a particular state?
20618	Hart v. Town of Shafter, 348 Ill. App. 3d 713, 715 (Ill. App. Ct. 2004)	2	Nonuse of a road, standing alone, is insufficient to establish an abandonment of the highway by the public.	Nonuse of the road, standing alone, is insufficient to establish an abandonment of the highway by the public.	Can a public highway lose its character as a public road?
20627	Dep't of Revenue v. Young Am. Builders, 358 So. 2d 1096, 1099-100 (Fla.App.,1978)	5	Department of Revenue has no power to tax; such power is reposed solely in the Legislature.	The Department *1100 of Revenue has no power to tax. That power is reposed solely in the legislature.	Does the department of Revenue have the power to tax?

20650	Clifford v. Hughson, 992 F. Supp. 661, 670 (S.D.N.Y. 1998)	18	Landlord-tenant relationship is not ordinarily a fiduciary one.	The "landlord-tenant relationship is not ordinarily a fiduciary one."	Is the relationship between a landlord and tenant fiduciary in nature?
20660	Commonwealth v. Skufca, 457 Pa. 124, 321 A.2d 889, 124 (Pa. 1974)	8	Criminal responsibility is properly assessed against one whose conduct was a direct and substantial factor in producing death even though other factors combined with that conduct to achieve the result.	Criminal responsibility is properly assessed against one whose conduct was a direct and substantial factor in producing the death even though other factors combined with the conduct to achieve the result.	Is criminal responsibility confined to a sole or immediate cause of death?
20676	Hood v. Dun & Bradstreet, 335 F. Supp. 170, 171 (N.D. Ga. 1971)	23	Use of "malice" in general definition of libel means only implied malice or lack of lawful excuse.	The use of "malice" in the general definition of libel 14 means only "implied malice," or lack of a lawful excuse.	What is malice in the law of defamation?
20682	Liberty National Life Insurance v. Cox, 98 Ga. App. 582, 582 (Ga. Ct. App. 1958)	2	Accidental self-destruction is not legally "suicide".	Accidental self-destruction is not legally suicide.	Is accidental self-destruction suicide?
20693	People v. Tainter, 304 Ill. App. 3d 847, 849–50 (1999)	4	The crux of involuntary manslaughter is recklessness. S.H.A. 720 ILCS 5/9-3.	The crux of involuntary manslaughter is recklessness.	Is mental state of involuntary manslaughter considered as recklessness?
20696	Peat, Marwick, Mitchell & Co. v. Superior Ct., 200 Cal. App. 3d 272, 288, 245 Cal. Rptr. 873, 884 (Ct. App. 1988)	3	A court's inherent power to curb abuses and promote fair process extends to the preclusion of evidence.	The court's inherent power to curb abuses and promote fair process extends to the preclusion of evidence.	Is a motion in limine expressly authorized by statute or is it within the trial courts inherent power to entertain and grant such motions?
20702	RLI Ins. Co. v. S. Union Co., 341 S.W.3d 821, 833 (Mo. Ct. App. 2011)	22	Insurance procurement clauses reflect an intention on the part of the parties to relieve each other of liability and look to only one insurer to bear the risk instead.	Insurance procurement clauses reflect an "intention on the part of the parties to relieve each other of liability and look to only one insurer to bear the risk ... instead."	Does the waiving a subrogation clause avoid potential liability for two parties?
20742	Tivoli Ventures, Inc. v. Bumann, 870 P.2d 1244, 1248 (Colo. 1994)	6	As a general principle of common law, assignee stands in shoes of assignor.	As a general principle of common law, an assignee stands in the shoes of the assignor.	Can an assignee stand in the shoes of the assignor?
20746	In re Advisory Opinion to the Governor, 98 Fla. 843, 843 (1929)	3	Statute granting pension for past services to state and carrying necessary appropriation held valid, and Governor authorized to countersign warrant therefor. Laws 1929, c. 14533; F.S.A.Const. art. 4, S 24; art. 9, S 2.	Statute granting pension for past services to state and carrying necessary appropriation held valid, and Governor authorized to countersign warrant therefor (Laws 1929, c. 14533; Const.art. 4, 24; art. 9, 2).	Does the legislature have the power to grant pensions to past civilians?
20759	Thompson v. U.S., No: 06-211 T, 6 (Fed. Cl. Jul. 20, 2009)	9	Limited partnerships must distinguish between: (1) their limited partners, who have limited liability but are unable to participate in the management of the partnership, and (2) their general partners, who may participate in the management of the partnership but are personally liable for its debts.	Limited partnerships, on the other hand, must distinguish between: (1) their limited partners, who have limited liability but are unable to participate in the management of the partnership; and (2) their general partners, who may participate in the management of the partnership but are personally liable for its debts.	Must a fictitious partnership state the names of the persons comprising the partnership truthfully on the certificate?

20763	CAVU Co. v. Martinez, 2014-NMSC-029, ¶ 13, 332 P.3d 287, 291	7	Property is presumed to be subject to taxation.	The first is that "[p]roperty is presumed to be subject to taxation."	Is property presumed to be subject to taxation?
20773	Braun v. Powell, 77 F. Supp. 2d 973, 994 (E.D. Wis. 1999)	23	Remedy for a public trial violation is to vacate the conviction and order a new trial, not only where the harm in a particular case is sufficiently egregious to justify that result, but in any case where the public trial right is violated and the public nature of the trial cannot be restored by another remedy; defendant is not required to show specific prejudice as a condition of having the conviction vacated and receiving a new trial. U.S.C.A. Const.Amend. 6.	Waller provides that the remedy for a public trial violation is to vacate the conviction and order a new trial, not only where the harm in a particular case is sufficiently egregious to justify that result, but in any case where the public trial right is violated and the public nature of the trial cannot be restored by another remedy. The defendant is not required to show specific prejudice as a condition of having the conviction vacated and receiving a new trial.	Is a defendant or plaintiff who fails to produce evidence in default and case can go against him on this ground?
20775	State v. Hodge, 121 N.C. App. 209, 211 (1995)	6	Arson is offense against security of habitation.	"[A]rson is an offense against the security of the habitation."	Is arson an offense against the security of the habitation?
20776	Hannah v. State, 3 Md. App. 325, 330 (1968)	8	Church may be subject of common-law burglary.	A church may be the subject of common law burglary.	Can a church be the subject of the burglary law?
20818	Simmons ex rel. Child v. State, 171 So. 3d 1147, 1152 (La. Ct. App. 2015)	9	In reviewing a trial court's ruling sustaining an exception of no cause of action, the appellate court should conduct a de novo review because the exception raises a question of law and the trial court's decision is based only on the sufficiency of the petition.	In reviewing a trial court's ruling sustaining an exception of no cause of action, the appellate court "should conduct a de novo review because the exception 8 raises a question of law and the trial court's decision is based only on the sufficiency of the petition."	"In determining whether a petition should be dismissed for failure to state a cause of action, should every reasonable interpretation be accorded the language of a petition in favor of maintaining its sufficiency?"
20825	Standard Title Ins. Co. v. United Pacific Ins. Co., 364 F.2d 287, 290 (8th Cir. 1966)	4	Generally, agency contract is not required to be in writing.	Generally an agency contract is not required to be in writing.	Does an agency agreement have to be in writing?
20845	Goldman v. KPMG LLP, 173 Cal.App.4th 209, 219 (2009)	15	The linchpin for equitable estoppel is equity, or fairness.	One may recall that the "linchpin" for equitable estoppel "is equity -fairness"	Is the linchpin for equitable estoppel fairness?
20883	In re T.P., 803 S.E.2d 1, 5 (N.C. Ct. App. 2017)	5	Court cannot undertake to adjudicate a controversy on its own motion; rather, it can adjudicate a controversy only when a party presents the controversy to it, and then, only if it is presented in the form of a proper pleading, and thus, before a court may act there must be some appropriate application invoking the judicial power of the court with respect to the matter in question.	A court cannot undertake to adjudicate a controversy on its own motion; rather, it can adjudicate a controversy only when a party presents the controversy to it, and then, only if it is presented in the form of a proper pleading. Thus, before a court may act there must be some appropriate application invoking the judicial power of the court with respect to the matter in question.	Should a pleading or motion include a request or demand for the relief sought?

20919	Rudbart v. Water Supply Com'n, 238 N.J. Super. 41, 50, 568 A.2d 1213, 1217 (App. Div. 1990)	6	Notice by publication in newspaper is considered adequate under some circumstances, especially where it is supplemental to other action likely to come to attention of affected party or where it is not reasonably possible or practical to give more adequate notice; however, if substantial rights are involved, no other notice is likely to come to attention of affected party and it is feasible to provide more reliable notice, publication is not considered a fair form of notice.	Notice by publication in the newspaper is considered adequate under some circumstances, especially where it is supplemental to other action likely to come to the attention of the affected party or where it is not reasonably possible or practical to give more adequate notice. Id., 339 U.S. at 316-318, 70 S.Ct. at 658-659. However, if substantial rights are involved, no other notice is likely to come to the attention of the affected party and it is feasible to provide more reliable notice, publication is not considered a fair form of notice.	How is fairness of a method of notice determined?
20930	Tatum v. Dall. Morning News, Inc., 493 S.W.3d 646, 656 (Tex. App. 2015)	5	"Slander" is an oral defamation.	Slander is an oral defamation.	Is slander a form of oral defamation?
20933	Mangano v. Town of Babylon, 111 A.D.3d 801, 801, 975 N.Y.S.2d 130, 131 (2013)	2	Depending upon the factual circumstances, a person injured by a defective product may maintain causes of action under the theories of strict products liability, negligence, or breach of warranty.	Depending upon the factual circumstances, a person injured by a defective product may maintain causes of action under the theories of strict products liability, negligence, or breach of warranty (see Voss v. Black & Decker Mfg. Co., 59 N.Y.2d 102, 463 N.Y.S.2d 398, 450 N.E.2d 204).	Is a manufacturer liable for injuries resulting from placing a defective product into the stream of commerce?
20941	Middlesex Mutual v. Vaszil, 89 Conn. App. 482, 488 (Conn. App. Ct. 2005)	9	The object of equitable subrogation is the prevention of injustice; it is designed to promote and to accomplish justice, and is the mode which equity adopts to compel the ultimate payment of a debt by one who, in justice, equity, and good conscience, should pay it.	"The object of [equitable] subrogation is the prevention of injustice. It is designed to promote and to accomplish justice, and is the mode which equity *489 adopts to compel the ultimate payment of a debt by one who, in justice, equity, and good conscience, should pay it."	What is the goal of equitable subrogation?
20944	Smelcher v. State, 33 Ala. App. 326, 327 (Ala. Ct. App. 1947)	3	"Murder" is an offense against the person.	Murder is an offense against the person.	Is murder an offense against the person?
20984	People v. Cooper, 53 Cal. 3d 1158 (1991)	17	Asportation is not element of burglary.	We note that asportation is not an element of burglary.	Is asportation an element of burglary?
21001	Bohatch v. Butler Binion, 977 S.W.2d 543, 545 (Tex. 1998)	2	Partners have no obligation to remain partners; at heart of partnership concept is principle that partners may choose with whom they wish to be associated.	Yet, partners have no obligation to remain partners; "at the heart of the partnership concept is the principle that partners may choose with whom they wish to be associated."	Do partners have a duty to remain as partners in the partnership?
21033	In re Ricketts Const. Co., 441 B.R. 512, 516 (W.D. Va. 2010)	5	Virginia courts strictly construe the power to tax.	In addition, Virginia courts strictly construe the power to tax.	"In re Ricketts Const. Co., Inc., 441 B.R. 512."
21075	Fraday v. Irvin, 245 Ga. 307, 310 (Ga. 1980)	7	Ratification once made may not be revoked. Code, § 4-303.	A ratification once made may not be revoked. Code Ann. § 4-303.	Can ratification by the principal be revoked?

21090	W. Kendall Holdings v. Downrite Eng'g Corp., 112 So. 3d 614	2	A dismissal order is reviewed de novo, and the allegations of the complaint are assumed to be true and all reasonable inferences arising therefrom are allowed in favor of the plaintiff.	A dismissal order is reviewed de novo, and the "allegations of the complaint are assumed to be true and all reasonable inferences arising therefrom are allowed in favor of the plaintiff."	"Is the test on a motion to dismiss not whether the plaintiff can prevail at trial, but whether the complaint states a cause of action?"
21092	Keller v. Beckenstein, 122 Conn. App. 438, 444 (Conn. App. Ct. 2010)	6	For a vexatious litigation claim to be ripe for adjudication, the party must allege, among other facts, that the allegedly vexatious litigation has terminated in its favor.	Thus, for a vexatious litigation claim to be ripe for adjudication, the party must allege, among other facts, that the allegedly vexatious litigation has terminated in its favor.	"In deciding a jurisdiction question raised by a pretrial motion to dismiss, should a court take the facts to be those alleged in the complaint?"
21139	Hamilton v. Hamilton, 296 N.C. 574, 576 (N.C. 1979)	3	Neither bad faith, fraud nor intent to deceive is necessary before the doctrine of equitable estoppel can be applied.	However, neither bad faith, fraud nor intent to deceive is necessary before the doctrine of equitable estoppel can be applied.	Is equitable estoppel based on an application of the golden rule to the everyday affairs of men?
21159	Parsons v. Halliburton Energy Servs., Inc., 785 S.E.2d 844, 851 (W. Va. 2016)	14	Under general principles of state contract law, waiver requires proof of a voluntary act which implies a choice by the party to dispense with something of value, or to forego some advantage which he might at his option have demanded and insisted on.	Under general principles of state contract law, waiver requires proof of "a voluntary act which implies a choice by the party to dispense with something of value, or to forego some advantage which he might at his option have demanded and insisted on.	Does the doctrine of waiver focus on the conduct of the party against whom waiver is sought?
21211	Macchiavelli v. Shearson, Hammill & Co., Inc., 384 F. Supp. 21, 30 (E.D. Cal. 1974)	14	Breaches of contract are the archetypal kinds of disputes referable to arbitration. 9 U.S.C.A. § 1 et seq.	Breaches of contract are the archetypal kinds of disputes referable to arbitration.	Does a complaint sounding in tort prevent arbitration if the underlying contract embraces the disputed matter?
21224	Petty v. Chrysler Corp., 343 Ill. App. 3d 815, 824 (2003)	13	Goodwill is the value of a business or practice that exceeds the combined value of the physical assets.	" 'Goodwill is the value of a business or practice that exceeds the combined value of the physical assets.' "	Do all businesses have goodwill?
21242	Mangum v. State, 64 So. 3d 503, 506-07 (Miss. Ct. App. 2011)	3	Indictment must contain all the essential elements of the crime charged in order for a defendant to be properly convicted.	An indictment must contain all the essential elements of the crime charged in order for a defendant to be properly convicted.	Is killing without the authority of law an element of murder?
21247	Browning v. Hickman, 235 W. Va. 640, 645 (W. Va. 2015)	4	A trial court's evidentiary rulings, as well as its application of the Rules of Evidence, are subject to review under an abuse of discretion standard.	"A trial court's evidentiary rulings, as well as its application of the Rules of Evidence, are subject to review under an abuse of discretion standard." Syl.	Is a pre-trial ruling subject to change when the case unfolds?
21248	In re Fiedler, 2016 Pa. Super. 3, 132 A.3d 1010, 1012 (2016)	16	A trial court's decision to grant a motion in limine is subject to an evidentiary abuse of discretion standard of review.	A trial court's decision to grant a motion in limine "is subject to an evidentiary abuse of discretion standard of review."	What is a motion in limine?
21252	In re Estate of Scott, 208 Ill. App. 3d 846, 848 (Ill. App. Ct. 1991)	1	Medical subrogation clauses in insurance contracts are generally enforceable; furthermore, if clause is enforceable, it is not common-law concepts of subrogation but contract terms that control.	Medical subrogation clauses in insurance contracts are generally enforceable; furthermore, if such a clause is enforceable, it is not common-law concepts of subrogation but the contract terms that control.	Can a right of subrogation arise by statute or contract?

21313	People v. Pignatello, 15 Misc. 3d 833, 834 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2007)	2	When crime is of type that is impossible to attempt, defendant may still plead guilty to otherwise non-existent attempt in context of bargained for plea, where court is permitted to accept negotiated plea to hypothetical lesser offense.	On the other hand, when a crime is of a type that is impossible to attempt, a defendant may still plead guilty to the otherwise non-existent attempt in the context of a bargained for plea, where the court is permitted to accept a negotiated plea to a hypothetical lesser offense.	When is a defendant guilty of the crime of bribe receiving in the third degree?
21317	Mo. Bankers Ass'n, Inc. v. St. Louis Cnty., No. ED99333, 2013 WL 5629426, at *2 (Mo. Ct. App. Oct. 15, 2013)	4	Mootness implicates justiciability, and therefore courts may dismiss a case for mootness sua sponte.	Mootness implicates justiciability, and therefore, we may dismiss a case for mootness sua sponte.	Should a moot claim be dismissed?
21339	City of Nyssa v. Dufloth, 184 Or. App. 631, 635 (Or. Ct. App. 2002)	1	A demurrer is limited to the face of the charging instrument.	A demurrer, however, is limited to the face of the charging instrument.	Is a demurrer on constitutional grounds sustainable if the statute is vague or overbroad on its face?
21349	Haskell v. Mitchell, 53 Me. 468	2	An assignment and delivery of a negotiable promissory note before maturity, without an indorsement by the payee until after maturity, gives to the assignee only the rights of the payee.	An assignment and delivery of a negotiable promissory note before maturity, without the indorsement of the payee, gives to the assignee only the rights of the payee.	Can a negotiable instrument be assigned before maturity?
21404	Fin. Ctr. Fed. Credit Union v. Brand, 967 N.E.2d 1080, 1084 (Ind. App. 2012)	8	Although preserving the rights of intervening creditors who record their interests is "plainly equitable," leapfrogging a senior claim is precisely what equitable subrogation is designed to prevent.	Although preserving the rights of intervening creditors who record their interests is "plainly equitable," leapfrogging a senior claim is "precisely what equitable subrogation is designed to prevent." Id.	Does the doctrine of equitable subrogation avoid an inequitable application of the general principle that priority in time gives a lien priority in right?
21422	Liberty Mut. Ins. Co. v. Zurich Ins. Co., 402 Ill. App. 3d 37, 40 (Ill. App. Ct. 2010)	10	The innkeeper has custody of the property of its guests, and, in the course of its work, it assumes a duty to protect that property; the guests' property falls in possessory control of the hotel, and it forms an essential part of the hotel's work of protecting its guests' property. S.H.A. 740 ILCS 90/1 et seq.	Similarly, the innkeeper has custody of the property of its guests, and, in the course of its work, it assumes a duty to protect that property. The guests property falls in possessory control of the hotel, and it forms an essential part of the hotel's work of protecting its guests' property.	Does the bailee have custody of property?
21424	United Gov't Sec. Officers of Am., Int'l Union v. Exelon Nuclear Sec., 24 F. Supp. 3d 460, 465 (E.D. Pa. 2014)	4	Federal courts apply same standard to resolve requests to compel arbitration under Labor Management Relations Act and Federal Arbitration Act. 9 U.S.C.A. S 1 et seq.; Labor Management Relations Act, 1947, S 301, 29 U.S.C.A. S 185.	Federal courts apply the same standard to resolve requests to compel arbitration under the Labor Management Relations Act and the Federal Arbitration Act, 9 U.S.C. 1 et seq.	Can a court order arbitration of a matter that is outside the scope of the arbitration clause?

21426	Jackass Mt. Ranch, Inc. v. S. Columbia Basin Irrigation Dist., 175 Wash. App. 374, 390 (Wash. Ct. App. 2013)	8	A claim for inverse condemnation exists where the alleged damage or taking was caused by a governmental entity's affirmative act of constructing a public project to achieve a public purpose. West's RCWA Const. Art. 1, S 16.	A claim for inverse condemnation exists where the alleged damage or taking was caused by a governmental entity's affirmative act of constructing a public project to achieve a public purpose.	Can a failure to act fulfill the intentional act element required for a claim of trespass?
21455	Adderhold v. Adderhold, 426 So. 2d 457, 458 (Ala. Civ. App. 1983)	2	Where there is no written agreement between parties, and question is whether as between the two a partnership existed, the question is one of part law and part fact.	Where there is no written agreement between the parties, and the question is whether as between the two a partnership existed, the question is one of part law and part fact.	Is there an arbitrary test used to determine the existence of a partnership?
21460	Tatum v. The Dallas Morning News, 493 S.W.3d 646, 656 (Tex. App. 2015)	11	Examples of defamation per se include (1) accusing someone of a crime, (2) accusing someone of having a foul or loathsome disease, (3) accusing someone of serious sexual misconduct, and (4) disparaging another's fitness to conduct his or her business or trade.	Examples of defamation per se include (i) accusing someone of a crime, (ii) accusing someone of having a foul or loathsome disease, (iii) accusing someone of serious sexual misconduct, and (iv) disparaging another's fitness to conduct his or her business or trade.	Is calling someone a liar defamatory?
21488	United States v. Fattah, 223 F. Supp. 3d , 355 (E.D. Pa. 2016)	10	Under the bribery statute, it is unlawful for a public official to accept anything of value in return for being influenced in the performance of an official act; a promise to perform an official act is sufficient to constitute a bribery offense if done in exchange for a thing of value, whether or not the official act ever occurs. 18 U.S.C.A. S 201.	Under the bribery statute, 18 U.S.C. 201, it is unlawful for a public official to accept anything of value in return for being influenced in the performance of an official act. A promise to perform an official act is sufficient to constitute a bribery offense if done in exchange for a thing of value, whether or not the official act ever occurs.	What are the keys for determining whether a public official entered into an agreement to accept a bribe?
21507	Zinke v. Orskog, 422 S.W.3d 422	9	Once a permitted voluntary dismissal is filed, there is nothing pending before the trial court on which it is permitted to act, though the court may enter administrative orders such as those with regard to the assessment of costs. V.A.M.S. S 516.230; V.A.M.R. 67.02.	. Once a permitted voluntary dismissal is filed, there is nothing pending before the trial court on which it is permitted to act, though the court may enter administrative orders such as those with regard to the assessment of costs.	Is a voluntary dismissal without prejudice a species of nonsuit?
21509	Waters v. Waters, 498 S.W.2d 236	6	A promissory note can lawfully be transferred without a written assignment or an endorsement of the legal owner and holder thereof. V.T.C.A., Bus. & C. S 3.201(c).	A promissory note can lawfully be transferred without a written assignment or an endorsement of the legal owner and holder thereof.	Can a note be transferred when it is not indorsed by the transferee?

21517	United States v. Locke, 471 U.S. 84, 1786 (1985)	13	Even with respect to vested property rights, a legislature generally has power to impose new regulatory constraints on the way in which those rights are used, or to condition their continued retention on performance of certain affirmative duties; as long as the constraint or duty imposed is a reasonable restriction designed to further legitimate legislative objectives, legislature acts within its powers in imposing such new constraints or duties.	Even with respect to vested property rights, a legislature generally has the power to impose new regulatory constraints on the way in which those rights are used, or to condition their continued retention on performance of certain affirmative duties. As long as the constraint or duty imposed is a reasonable restriction designed to further legitimate legislative objectives, the legislature acts within its powers in imposing such new constraints or duties.	Should claimants take their mineral interests with the knowledge that the Government retains substantial or significant regulatory power over those interests?
21522	Williams v. Liberty Mut. Fire Ins. Co., 187 So. 3d 166	1	Jurisdictional issues are reviewed pursuant to a de novo standard of review.	"Jurisdictional issues are reviewed pursuant to a de novo standard of review."	Must a court issue a dismissal on jurisdictional grounds without prejudice?
21582	N.J. v. Selective, 399 N.J. Super. 315, 325 (App. Div. 2008)	9	While surety bonds have been included within definitions of insurance for some purposes, "suretyship" is not generally considered to be "insurance."	While surety bonds have been included within definitions of insurance for some purposes, suretyship is not generally considered to be insurance."	Is suretyship the same as insurance?
21630	State ex rel. KCP & L Greater Missouri Operations Co. v. Missouri Pub. Serv. Comm'n, 408 S.W.3d 153, 160 (Mo. Ct. App. 2013)	5	A threshold question in any appellate review of a controversy is the mootness of the controversy.	"A threshold question in any appellate review of a controversy is the mootness of the controversy."	Are tariffs generally considered moot if they are superseded by subsequent tariffs that are filed and approved?
21650	Bank of Am., N.A. v. Ash, 2015 OK Civ. App. 69 (Okla. Civ. App. 2015)	10	The question of whether the giving of a new note and mortgage satisfies the first note and mortgage on the same property is a question of fact concerning the parties' intent at the time the subsequent note and mortgage were executed.	More specific to the subject at hand, the question of whether the giving of a new note and mortgage satisfies the first note and mortgage on the same property is a question of fact concerning the parties' intent at the time the subsequent note and mortgage were executed.	What does renewal require?
21652	United States v. Myers, 692 F.2d 823, 836 (2d Cir. 1982)	3	Defendant who fails to assert entrapment as a factual defense at his trial cannot assert it as a legal defense to his conviction.	We hold that a defendant who fails to assert entrapment as a factual defense at his trial, cannot assert it as a legal defense to his conviction.	Is defendants playacting a defense to bribery?
21676	534 E. 11th St. Hous. Dev. Fund Corp. v. Hendrick, 90 A.D.3d 541	2	In deciding motion to dismiss defense, defendant is entitled to benefit of every reasonable intendment of the pleading, which is to be liberally construed. McKinney's CPLR 3211(b).	In deciding a motion to dismiss a defense, the defendant is entitled to the benefit of every reasonable intendment of the pleading, which is to be liberally construed	Should the court not dismiss a defense where there remain questions of fact requiring a trial?

21677	Bridgeview Health Care Ctr., Ltd. v. Clark, 816 F.3d 935, 939 (7th Cir. 2016)	5	To create apparent authority, principal must speak, write, or otherwise act toward third party, and his conduct must make third party reasonably believe that he has consented to action done on his behalf by someone purporting to act for him.	To create apparent authority, the principal must speak, write, or otherwise act toward a third party. Id. His conduct must make the third party reasonably believe that he has consented to an action done on his behalf by someone purporting to act for him.	Can actual authority be express?
21685	Compton v. Shopko Stores, Inc., 93 Wis. 2d 613, 616 (Wis. 1980)	1	Generally, findings of fact by trial court will not be upset on appeal unless they are against great weight and clear preponderance of evidence.	The general rule is that findings of fact by the trial court will not be upset on appeal unless they are against the great weight and clear preponderance of the evidence.	"Is employment in general defined as the act of employing, the state of being employed, or that which consumes time or attention, occupation?"
21702	Wildflower v. St. Johns River Water Mgmt. Dist., 179 So. 3d 369	1	Standard of review of an order dismissing a complaint with prejudice is de novo.	As a general rule, "the standard of review of an order dismissing a complaint with prejudice is de novo."	What are the exceptions for an affirmative defense to be raised by motion to dismiss?
21703	Medix Ambulance Serv. v. Superior Court, 97 Cal. App. 4th 109	4	Parties are entitled to oral argument in critical pretrial matters where there is a real and genuine dispute.	Parties are also entitled to oral argument in "critical pretrial matters" where there is a "real and genuine dispute."	Are litigants entitled to oral argument?
21705	State v. Hodges, 386 N.W.2d 709, 709 (Minn. 1986)	5	Burglary entry of one dwelling justifies only one burglary conviction; however, if burglar commits other crimes, such as assault or robbery, against occupants of dwelling after entry, he may be additionally punished on basis of one extra conviction and sentence per victim of other crimes. M.S.A. S 609.04.	609.04 (1984), the burglarious entry of one dwelling justifies only one burglary conviction; however, if the burglar commits other crimes, such as assault or robbery, against the occupants of the dwelling after entry, he may be additionally punished on the basis of one extra conviction and sentence per victim of the other crimes.	Is burglary purely a property offense?
21710	Bridgeview Health Care Ctr., Ltd. v. Clark, 816 F.3d 935, 939 (7th Cir. 2016)	5	To create apparent authority, principal must speak, write, or otherwise act toward third party, and his conduct must make third party reasonably believe that he has consented to action done on his behalf by someone purporting to act for him.	To create apparent authority, the principal must speak, write, or otherwise act toward a third party. Id. His conduct must make the third party reasonably believe that he has consented to an action done on his behalf by someone purporting to act for him.	Can actual authority be implied?

21773	Matter of Park Nursing Center, Inc., 766 F.2d 261, 263 (6th Cir. 1985)	1	Rule of notice in bankruptcy proceedings is adequate if it meets following conditions in addition to cost effectiveness: rule must reasonably be calculated to achieve actual notice, and there must be available procedure, either as part of the rule or as part of the general rules of civil procedure under which a person who fails to receive notice, through no fault of his own, has some available remedy for setting aside judgment of default entered against him.	A rule of notice in bankruptcy proceedings is adequate if it meets the following conditions in addition to cost-effectiveness. The rule must reasonably be calculated to achieve actual notice, and there must be an available procedure, either as part of the rule, or as part of the general rules of civil procedure under which a person who fails to receive notice, through no fault of his own, has some available remedy for setting aside the judgment of default entered against him.	How is fairness of a method of notice determined?
21813	Douglass v. Rowland, 540 S.W.2d 252, 255 (Tenn. Ct. App. 1976)	2	It is not necessary that party against whom estoppel is charged should have intended to deceive; it is sufficient if he intended that his conduct should induce another to act upon it.	We hold that it is not necessary that the party against whom the estoppel is charged should have intended to deceive; it is sufficient if he intended that his conduct should induce another to act upon it.	Are the three kinds of estoppel?
21826	Brown v. Conocophillips Pipeline Co., 271 P.3d 1269, 1271 (Kan. Ct. App. 2012)	10	Appellate courts generally will not interfere with a district court's grant or denial of an injunction unless the district court abused its discretion; however, when an appeal frames questions of law, including the threshold legal requirements for injunctive relief in a particular case, appellate review is unlimited.	Appellate courts generally will not interfere with a district court's grant or denial of an injunction unless the district court abused its discretion. However, when an appeal frames questions of law, including the threshold legal requirements for injunctive relief in a particular case, appellate review is unlimited.	Can a party obtain an equitable remedy without a wrong for which a remedy is necessary?
21845	Schuman v. Greenbelt Homes, 212 Md. App. 451, 474-75 (2013)	11	Generally, in the absence of an actual or constructive eviction, a tenant will have a claim for damages caused by conduct by the landlord that strikes at the essence of its obligations under the lease.	"In Maryland, generally, in the absence of an actual or constructive eviction, a tenant will have a claim for damages caused by conduct by the landlord that strikes at the essence of its obligations under the lease."	What is a trespass?
21851	Point Intrepid v. Farley, 215 N.C. App. 82, 86 (2011)	1	"Abuse of discretion" occurs where the court's ruling is manifestly unsupported by reason or is so arbitrary it could not have been the result of a reasoned decision; a trial court does not reach a reasoned decision, and thus abuses its discretion, when its findings of fact are not supported by competent evidence.	"Abuse of discretion occurs where the court's ruling is manifestly unsupported by reason or is so arbitrary it could not have been the result of a reasoned decision." A trial court does not reach a reasoned decision, and thus abuses its discretion, when its findings of fact are not supported by competent evidence.	"Does a voluntary dismissal, even without prejudice, terminate a case and precludes the possibility of an appeal?"

21860	Jimenez v. Ortega, 179 So. 3d 483, 487 (Fla. Dist. Ct. App. 2015)	2	While an appellate court reviews a trial court's dismissal sanction for abuse of discretion, a more stringent abuse of discretion standard is appropriate because dismissal is an extreme remedy.	Accordingly, while an appellate court reviews a trial court's dismissal sanction for abuse of discretion, "[a] more stringent abuse of discretion standard is appropriate because dismissal is an extreme remedy."	Should the party who has been guilty of fraud or misconduct in the prosecution or defense of a civil proceeding not be permitted to continue to employ the very institution he has subverted to achieve his ends?
21873	Calibraro v. Board of Trustees, 367 Ill. App. 3d 259, 262 (Ill. App. Ct. 2006)	5	When two statutes conflict, more specific statute controls that which is more general.	When two statutes conflict, the more specific statute controls that which is more general.	"Can a motion to dismiss raise defects, defenses, or other affirmative matter appearing on the face of the complaint or established by external submissions that defeat the plaintiff's claim?"

EXHIBIT E

Krein Row	Case Name	HN No. in Case	Headnote Text	Judicial Text	Memo Question
1114	In re Valliance Bank, 422 S.W.3d 722, 723-24 (Tex. App. 2012)	2	A verified motion to reinstate a case filed within thirty days of a dismissal for want of prosecution extends the trial court's plenary power to reinstate the case in the same manner as a motion for new trial. Vernon's Ann.Texas Rules Civ.Proc., Rule 165a(3, 4).	A verified motion to reinstate a case filed within thirty days of a dismissal for want of prosecution extends the trial court's plenary power in the same manner as a motion for new trial.	Does a verified motion to reinstate a case filed within thirty days of a dismissal for want of prosecution extend the trial court's plenary power power in the same manner as a motion for new trial?
1440	Porter v. Guill, 298 Ga. App. 782, 788, 681 S.E.2d 230, 235 (2009)	2	Trial court determination that pediatric pulmonologist was entitled to official immunity based on patient's status as a Medicaid patient did not violate parents' constitutional rights to due process and equal protection, in medical malpractice and wrongful death action against pulmonologist; the bar of sovereign immunity did not result in a deprivation of property without just compensation or constitute a denial of equal protection or due process under the federal or state constitutions. U.S.C.A. Const.Amend. 14; West's Ga.Code Ann. S 50-21-25(a).	The Porters also assert that a grant of official immunity to Dr. Guill based upon Jabaris's status as a Medicaid patient would violate their constitutional rights to due process and equal protection. The Supreme Court of Georgia, however, has previously rejected the argument that the Georgia Tort Claims Act violates the constitution, even where it does not afford equal treatment to all plaintiffs. As the Court explained: The bar of sovereign immunity neither results in a deprivation of property without just compensation nor constitutes a denial of equal protection or due process under the federal or state constitutions. The due process and equal protection clauses of the federal and state constitutions protect only rights, not mere privileges, and discrimination in the grant of privileges is not a denial of equal protection to those who are not favored. A waiver of sovereign immunity is a mere privilege, not a right, and the extension of that privilege is solely a matter of legislative grace.	Does the bar of sovereign immunity result in a deprivation of property without just compensation or constitute a denial of equal protection or due process under the federal or state constitutions?

1503	Every v. City of New Orleans, 514 So. 2d 556, 558 (La. Ct. App.)	1	Even though a litigant whose lawyer withdraws at or near trial may be entitled to a continuance to employ another attorney, absent unfairness to the parties, a plaintiff is not entitled to indefinite continuances simply because he has discharged his lawyer, because the court cannot be closed to a defendant who desires to bring a case to trial. LSA-C.C.P. art. 1601.	Unless it would be unfair to the parties, a litigant whose lawyer withdraws at or near trial may be entitled to a continuance to employ another attorney. Sands v. State Through La. State Med., 458 So.2d 960 (La.App. 4th Cir.1984), writ denied, 460 So.2d 1044 (La.1984); Marpco, Inc. v. South States Pipe & Supply, 377 So.2d 525 (La.App. 3rd Cir.1979). Nonetheless, because the court cannot be closed to a defendant who desires to bring the case to trial, a plaintiff is not entitled to indefinite continuances simply because he has discharged his lawyer.	Is a plaintiff entitled to indefinite continuances simply because he has discharged his lawyer?
1840	Carman-Crothers v. Brynda, 2014 IL App (1st) 130280, ¶ 14, 23 N.E.3d 487, 491	4	When moving for dismissal for plaintiff's failure to exercise reasonable diligence in obtaining service on a defendant, defendant must make a prima facie showing that the plaintiff failed to act with reasonable diligence in effectuating service after filing the complaint. Sup.Ct.Rules, Rule 103(b).	When moving for dismissal pursuant to Rule 103(b), a defendant must make a prima facie showing that the plaintiff failed to act with reasonable diligence in effectuating service after filing the complaint.	Should a defendant make a prima facie showing that the plaintiff failed to act with reasonable diligence in effectuating service after filing the complaint?

1852	Nagy v. Dist. Court of City & Cty. of Denver, 762 P.2d 158, 161 (Colo., 1988)	9	To impose sanction of dismissal against party for failure to comply with rule requiring filing of trial data certificate no later than 45 days before trial date, trial court must make specific finding of one of three factors on part of disobedient party: willfulness or deliberate disobedience of rule; bad-faith conduct which is flagrant disregard or dereliction of party's obligation under rule; or culpable conduct which is more than mere inadvertence or simple negligence but is gross negligence. Rules Civ.Proc., Rules 37(b)(2), 121(c), Standard S 1-18, subd. 1(a, d).	To impose the sanction of a default judgment against a party for failure to comply with a discovery rule or order, the trial court must make a specific finding of one of three factors on the part of the disobedient party. The factors are: (1) willfulness or deliberate disobedience of discovery rules; (2) bad faith conduct which is a flagrant disregard or dereliction of one's discovery obligations; or (3) culpable conduct which is more than mere inadvertence or simple negligence but is gross negligence.	"To impose the sanction of a default judgment against a party for failure to comply with a discovery rule or order, should the trial court make a specific finding of one of three factors on the part of the disobedient party?"
2156	Indiana State Bd. of Pub. Welfare v. Tioga Pines Living Ctr., Inc., 592 N.E.2d 1274, 1277 (Ind. Ct. App. 1992)	5	Acts performed by public employee in course of his official duties are not prepared in anticipation of litigation or for trial within meaning of work-product doctrine merely by virtue of fact that they are likely to be subject of later litigation. Trial Procedure Rule 26(B)(3).	Acts performed by a public employee in the performance of his official duties are not "prepared in anticipation of litigation or for trial" merely by virtue of the fact that they are likely to be the subject of later litigation.	Are acts performed by a public employee in the performance of his official duties not prepared in anticipation of litigation or for trial merely by virtue of the fact that they are likely to be the subject of later litigation?
3055	Matter of Lawrance, 579 N.E.2d 32, 37 (Ind. 1991)	1	Indiana Constitution does not restrict jurisdiction of Indiana courts to actual cases and controversies or impose similar restrictions, and thus, although moot cases are usually dismissed, moot case may be decided on its merits under exception to general rule when case involves questions of public interest.	While Article III of the United States Constitution limits the jurisdiction of federal courts to actual cases and controversies, the Indiana Constitution does not contain any similar restraint. Thus, although moot cases are usually dismissed, Indiana courts have long recognized that a case may be decided on its merits under an exception to the general rule when the case involves questions of "great public interest."	Do courts recognize that a case may be decided on its merits under an exception to the general rule when the case involves questions of great public interest?

3156	Bass v. Daetwyler, 305 S.W.2d 339, 345 (Mo. App. 1957)	15	The relationship of partners inter sese is a fiduciary one; and a managing partner, who has kept the partnership records, occupies a position analogous to that of a trustee and is charged with burden of proving, in proceeding for partnership accounting, accuracy of partnership records and of making a faithful and true accounting.	The only remaining question is whether one-half of the court costs should have been assessed against plaintiff. The relationship of partners inter sese is a fiduciary one [Schroer v. Schroer, Mo., 248 S.W.2d 617, 619(2); Schneider v. Schneider, supra, 146 S.W.2d loc.cit. 589(19)], and the cases are legion in which it has been pointed out that a managing partner, who has kept the partnership records, occupies a position analogous to that of a trustee and is charged with the burden of proving the accuracy of such records and of making a faithful and true accounting.	Is a managing partner charged with the burden of making a faithful and true accounting?
3338	Mannington Mills, Inc. v. Congoleum Corp., 595 F.2d 1287, 1294 (C.A.N.J., 1979)	13	Granting of patents per se, in substance, ministerial activity, was not kind of governmental action contemplated by act of state doctrine or its correlative, foreign compulsion; thus, act of state defense did not support dismissal of complaint in antitrust action alleging fraud in obtaining of foreign patents and did not apply to patents issued in foreign countries.	Although enforcement of a decree in the present litigation may possibly present problems of international relations, as will be discussed Infra, the granting of the patents per se, in substance ministerial activity, is not the kind of governmental action contemplated by the act of state doctrine or its correlative, foreign compulsion. We conclude, therefore, that the asserted act of state defense does not support dismissal of plaintiff's complaint and it does not apply to the patents issued in the foreign countries.	"Is the granting of patents per se the kind of governmental action contemplated by the act of state doctrine or its correlative, foreign compulsion?"

11318	Wills v. Wills, 104 Tenn. 382, 58 S.W. 301, 301-02 (1900), overruled by Moore v. Moore, 222 Tenn. 1, 431 S.W.2d 754 (1968)	2	A writ of error coram nobis, one of the means prescribed by Shannon's Code, S 4834, for correcting errors, is within the prohibition of section 4890 that, "in divorce cases, an appeal shall be the only mode of revising errors."	Errors were assigned, and a motion to dismiss was made and sustained, upon the ground that a writ of error coram nobis would not lie *302 to correct errors committed in a proceeding for divorce. This ruling of the learned trial judge was based upon the provisions of the statute (Shannon's Code, § 4890) in the following words: "In divorce cases an appeal shall be the only mode of revising errors,"- and upon the further ground that the writ contradicted the record of the former suit and was insufficient in law.	Is an appeal the only mode of revising errors in divorce cases?
11499	Perrin v. United States, 444 U.S. 37, 37, 100 S. Ct. 311, 311, 62 L. Ed. 2d 199 (1979)	2	Bribery of private employee prohibited by state criminal statute violates the Travel Act which makes it a federal offense to travel or to use any facility in interstate commerce to commit "bribery * * * in violation of the laws of the State in which committed." 18 U.S.C.A. S 1952.	Bribery of private employees prohibited by state criminal statutes violates the Travel Act.	Does bribery of private employee prohibited by state criminal statute violate the Travel Act?
11543	Wal-Mart Stores, Inc. v. Helferich Pat. Licensing, LLC, 51 F. Supp. 3d 713, 717 (N.D. Ill. 2014)	9	In an action to compel arbitration under the Federal Arbitration Act (FAA), party seeking to invalidate or oppose the arbitration agreement bears the burden of demonstrating that the arbitration agreement is unenforceable and that the claims are unsuitable for arbitration. 9 U.S.C.A. S 4.	If the Court is satisfied that the parties agreed to arbitrate the issues presented, it must promptly compel arbitration. 9 U.S.C. § 4. The party seeking to invalidate or oppose the arbitration agreement bears the burden of demonstrating that the arbitration agreement is unenforceable and that the claims are unsuitable for arbitration.	Who bears the burden of demonstrating that the arbitration agreement is unenforceable?

11616	Davis v. Kewanee Hosp., 2014 IL App (2d) 130304, 1144(Ill. App. Ct. 2014)	2	An "affirmative matter," for purposes of a motion to dismiss on ground that a claim is barred by other affirmative matter, is a type of defense that negates the cause of action completely or refutes crucial conclusions of law or conclusions of material fact contained in or inferred from the complaint. S.H.A. 735 ILCS 5/2-619(a)(9).	An affirmative matter is a type of defense that negates the cause of action completely or refutes crucial conclusions of law or conclusions of material fact contained in or inferred from the complaint. Id. We review a dismissal under section 2-619(a) (9) de novo.	What is an affirmative matter?
11815	Koester v. Weber, Cohn & Riley, Inc., 193 Ill. App. 3d 1045, 1049–50, 550 N.E.2d 1004, 1006 (1989)	4	Term "affirmative matter" within meaning of rule allowing involuntary dismissal of claims when they are barred by such affirmative matter included defenses that defeat cause of action completely. S.H.A. ch. 110, P 2-619(a)(9).	Dismissal of plaintiff's complaint under section 2–619(a)(9) of the Illinois Code of Civil Procedure (Ill.Rev.Stat.1987, ch. 110, par. 2–619(a)(9)) by defendant's written motion supported by an affidavit was correct because "affirmative *1050 matter" includes defenses that defeat a cause of action completely.	Does affirmative matter include defenses that defeat cause of action completely?
11848	United States v. One 1989, 23 Foot, Wellcraft Motor Vessel, Puerto Rico Registration No. PR 2855GG, 910 F. Supp. 46, 51 (D.P.R. 1995)	2	Civil forfeiture of drug proceeds is a remedial sanction that does not constitute punishment for double jeopardy purposes. U.S.C.A. Const.Amend. 5; Comprehensive Drug Abuse Prevention and Control Act of 1970, S 511(a)(6), 21 U.S.C.A. S 881(a)(6).	In conclusion, we believe that the strength of the arguments tilts the balance in favor of the position that drug proceeds are the functional equivalent of contraband and, therefore, we will follow United States v. One Assortment of 89 Firearms, supra, in holding that the civil forfeiture of drug proceeds is a remedial sanction that does not constitute punishment for double jeopardy purposes.	Is the civil forfeiture of drug proceeds not punishment for double jeopardy purposes?

13539	Doe v. City of Los Angeles, 42 Cal. 4th 531, 550, 169 P.3d 559, 570 (2007)	14	Extended statute of limitations reviving personal injury actions arising from childhood sexual abuse against an allegedly responsible nonperpetrator is not a defense to a statute of limitations, but an expansion of the limitations period, the purpose of which is to expand access to the courts by victims of childhood sexual abuse, and it would be inconsistent with this purpose to apply more stringent rules of pleading than those that ordinarily apply, so that a sexual abuse complaint ordinarily is sufficient if it alleges ultimate rather than evidentiary facts. West's Ann.Cal.C.C.P. SS 340.1(b)(2), 425.10(a).	We disagree with any implication in the Court of Appeal's analysis that plaintiffs seeking the shelter of subdivision (b)(2) are required to plead evidentiary, as opposed to ultimate facts, and may not include allegations based on information and belief. Contrary to the Court of Appeal's characterization, the subdivision is not a defense to a statute of limitations but, as we have observed, an expansion of the limitations period, the purpose of which is to expand access to the courts by victims of childhood sexual abuse. (McVeigh v. Doe 1, supra, 138 Cal.App.4th at pp. 903–904, 42 Cal.Rptr.3d 91.) It would be inconsistent with this purpose, or with the mandate to broadly construe these provisions, to apply more stringent rules of pleading than those that ordinarily apply. (See § 425.10, subd. (a) [a complaint is sufficient if it contains “[a] statement of the facts constituting the cause of action, 344 in ordinary and concise language.”].) Thus, the complaint ordinarily is sufficient if it alleges ultimate rather than evidentiary facts.	Is a complaint sufficient if it alleges ultimate rather than evidentiary facts?
-------	--	----	---	--	--

13577	Consolidation Coal Co. v. United States, 528 F.3d 1344, 1347 (Fed. Cir. 2008)	4	The phrase "coal produced" in Surface Mining Control and Reclamations Act (SMCRA) section concerning coal producers' payment of reclamation fees would be interpreted as "coal extracted," rather than as including the entire process of extracting and selling coal, in order to avoid a potential violation of the Export Clause; even assuming that SMCRA was ambiguous as to the meaning of "coal produced," this interpretation was the only reasonable construction preserving the constitutionality of the statute and neither the government, nor the court was bound by any past contrary assertions by the government. U.S.C.A. Art. I, S 9, cl. 5; Surface Mining Control and Reclamation Act of 1977, S 402(a), 30 U.S.C.A. S 1232(a).	Both sides agree the reclamation fee would be constitutional if imposed solely on coal extracted. We agree with the government that "coal produced" in § 1232(a) can reasonably be interpreted to mean "coal extracted," and that this interpretation avoids a potential violation of the Export Clause. JWR argues that in Drummond Coal Co. v. Hodel, 796 F.2d 503 (D.C.Cir.1986) this same statutory language "coal produced" was interpreted as including both the extraction and sale of coal. In Drummond, however, the D.C. Circuit was not interpreting the statute in light of the potential conflict with the Export Clause.	"Does ""coal produced"" mean ""coal extracted""?"
13607	Gabriel v. Johnston's L.P. Gas Serv., Inc., 98 A.D.3d 168, 181, 947 N.Y.S.2d 716, 725 (2012)	9	A court has the discretion to dismiss the complaint in the event of a plaintiff's failure to appear. N.Y.Ct.Rules, S 202.27(b).	Pursuant to 22 NYCRR 202.27(b), a court has the discretion to dismiss the complaint in the event of a plaintiff's failure to appear (see Harris v. Bliss, 60 A.D.3d 437, 438, 873 N.Y.S.2d 488), but here the issue is academic in view of our determination that the court abused its discretion in denying those parts of plaintiffs' motion for a protective order relating to the taking of certain depositions and trial testimony via video.	Does a court have the discretion to dismiss the complaint in the event of a plaintiff's failure to appear?

13617	Ex Parte Coley, 942 So. 2d 349, 352 (Ala. 2006)	8	As a general proposition a person can have but one domicile, and when once acquired is presumed to continue until a new one is gained in fact and intent.	As a general proposition a person can have but one domicile, and when once acquired is presumed to continue until a new one is gained facto et animo, [2] and what state of facts constitutes a change of domicile is a mixed question of law and fact." 2 "Facto et animo" means "in fact and intent."	Can a person have but one domicile as a general proposition?
13620	Bohatch v. Butler & Binion, 977 S.W.2d 543, 546–47 (Tex. 1998)	4	Partner in law firm can be expelled from partnership for accusing, in good faith, another partner of overbilling without subjecting partnership to tort damages for breach of fiduciary duty.	Just as a partner can be expelled, without a breach of any common law duty, over disagreements about firm policy or to resolve some other “fundamental schism,” a partner can be expelled for accusing another partner of overbilling without subjecting the partnership to tort damages.	Can a partner be expelled over disagreements about firm policy?

EXHIBIT F

Krein Row	Case Name	HN No. in Case	Headnote Text	Judicial Text	Memo Question
1209	Jarecki Mfg. Co. v. Merriam, 104 Kan. 646, 180 P. 224, 225 (1919)	18	The following nonexclusive factors may be considered when deciding whether a trial court abused its discretion in denying a motion for continuance seeking additional time to conduct discovery prior to summary judgment: length of time the case has been on file, materiality and purpose of the discovery sought, and due diligence to obtain the discovery sought. Vernon's Ann.Texas Rules Civ.Proc., Rule 166a(g).	We have considered the following nonexclusive factors when deciding whether a trial court abused its discretion in denying a motion for continuance seeking additional time to conduct discovery: the length of time the case has been on file, the materiality and purpose of the discovery sought, and whether the party seeking the continuance has exercised due diligence to obtain the discovery sought.	"When a movant requests a continuance for additional time to conduct discovery, should any nonexclusive factors be considered?"
1220	Elrod v. Sunflower Meadows Dev., 322 Ga. App. 666, 668 (2013)	4	The movant seeking withdrawal of admissions must show that the admitted requests either were refutable by admissible evidence having a modicum of credibility or were incredible on their face, and that its denial was not offered solely for the purposes of delay. West's Ga.Code Ann. S 9-11-36(b).	In carrying that burden, Crown was required to show "that the admitted requests either were refutable by admissible evidence having a modicum of credibility or were incredible on their face, and that [its] denial was not offered solely for the purposes of delay."	"Should the movant seeking withdrawal of admissions show that the admitted requests either were refutable by admissible evidence having a modicum of credibility or were incredible on their face, and that its denial was not offered solely for the purposes of delay?"

1733	Siderman de Blake v. Republic of Argentina, 965 F.2d 699, 707 (9th Cir. 1992)	4	"Act of state doctrine" is not a jurisdictional limit on courts, but reflects prudential concern that the courts, if they question the validity of sovereign acts by foreign states, may be interfering with the conduct of American foreign policy by the Executive and Congress; doctrine does not bar action for lack of subject matter jurisdiction but for failure to state claim on which relief can be granted. Fed.Rules Civ.Proc.Rule 12(b)(1, 6), 28 U.S.C.A.	In contrast to the jurisdictional nature of foreign sovereign immunity under the FSIA, "[t]he act of state doctrine is not a jurisdictional limit on courts." Liu, 892 F.2d at 1431. The doctrine reflects the prudential concern that the courts, if they question the validity of sovereign acts taken by foreign states, may be interfering with the conduct of American foreign policy by the Executive and Congress.	"Does the act of state doctrine reflect the concern that the judiciary, by questioning the validity of sovereign acts taken by foreign states, may interfere with the executive branch's conduct of foreign policy?"
1749	United States v. Greer, 956 F. Supp. 531, 534 (D. Vt. 1997)	2	Congress was constitutionally authorized to give extraterritorial effect to the Maritime Drug Law Enforcement Act (MDLEA) with respect to conduct taking place upon the high seas. U.S.C.A. Const. Art. 1, S 8, cl. 10; Maritime Drug Law Enforcement Act, S 3, 46 App.U.S.C.A. S 1903.	The Constitution thus authorized Congress to give extraterritorial effect to the MDLEA with respect to conduct taking place upon the high seas.	Is Congress constitutionally authorized to give extraterritorial effect to the Maritime Drug Law Enforcement Act (MDLEA) with respect to conduct taking place upon the high seas?
1790	Spiecker v. Petroff, 971 S.W.2d 536, 538–39 (Tex. App. 1997)	7	Rule regarding withdrawal of deemed admissions should not be construed to give one litigant advantage over his opponent, permitting him to have judgment without supporting testimony, when without injustice to either party, case can be opened for full hearing on evidence. Vernon's Ann.Texas Rules Civ.Proc., Rule 169(2).	The rule should not be construed giving one *539 litigant an advantage over his opponent, permitting him to have judgment without supporting testimony when, without injustice to either party, the case can be opened for a full hearing on the evidence.	Should the rule regarding withdrawal of deemed admissions be construed to give one litigant advantage over his opponent?

2148	King v. Breen, 560 So. 2d 186, 191 (Ala. 1990)	10	Although pretrial orders are to control subsequent course of litigation, liberal allowance of amendments to pleadings takes precedence over strict adherence to rule governing pretrial orders. Rules Civ.Proc., Rules 15, 16.	Although under Rule 16 pretrial orders are to control the subsequent course of litigation, the liberal allowance of amendments under Rule 15 takes precedence over strict adherence to Rule 16.	"Although pretrial orders are to control subsequent course of litigation, do liberal allowance of amendments to pleadings take precedence over strict adherence to rule governing pretrial orders?"
3678	Enax v. New York Tel. Co., 280 A.D.2d 294, 295, 720 N.Y.S.2d 126, 127 (2001)	1	In order to vacate a dismissal of case that has been deemed abandoned, a plaintiff must demonstrate (1) a meritorious cause of action, (2) a reasonable excuse for the delay, (3) the absence of prejudice to the opposing party, (4) and a lack of intent to abandon the action. McKinney's CPLR 3404.	It is well settled that in order to vacate a dismissal pursuant to CPLR 3404, a plaintiff must demonstrate (1) a meritorious cause of action, (2) a reasonable excuse for the delay, (3) the absence of prejudice to the opposing party, (4) and a lack of intent to abandon the action (see Muhammed v. Manhattan Payment Center, Inc. et al., 251 A.D.2d 228, 675 N.Y.S.2d 45; Ramputi v. Timko Contracting Corp. et al., 262 A.D.2d 26, 691 N.Y.S.2d 432). This case satisfies all four requirements.	"In order to vacate dismissal for abandonment, should a plaintiff show reasonable excuse for delay?"

3993	State ex rel. White v. Hais, 17 S.W.3d 903, 904 (Mo. Ct. App. 2000)	3	Party in family court matter was not entitled to writ prohibiting trial court from proceeding with trial , even though counsel filed motion for legislative continuance , where trial court did not rule on motion , it was within trial court's discretion to grant or deny legislative continuance based upon determination of whether presence of attorney, who was also state legislator, was necessary for fair and proper trial , and party was also represented by another attorney, whom trial court would not permit to withdraw.	However, we deny Relator's request to prohibit Judge Hais " from proceeding with trial on May 10, 2000, in light of the filed Motion for Legislative Continuance ." First, Judge Hais has not ruled on Relator's motion for legislative continuance. Further, it would be within the trial court's discretion to grant or deny the legislative continuance, based upon its determination of whether Schneider's presence is necessary for a fair and proper trial , since Relator is still represented by Garnholz.	Can a court exercise discretion to decide whether attorney's presence is necessary for fair and proper trial ?
11611	United States v. Rooney, 37 F.3d 847, 851 (2d Cir. 1994)	3	Manifest purpose of statute prohibiting theft or bribery concerning programs receiving federal funds is to safeguard finite federal resources from corruption and to police those with control of federal funds . 18 U.S.C.A. S 666.	Thus, as is evident from the circumstances surrounding its adoption, § 666's manifest purpose is to safeguard finite federal resources from corruption and to police those with control of federal funds .	Is safeguarding finite federal resources from corruption one of federal bribery statutes purposes ?
11617	Estate of Paulk v. Lott, 217 So.3d 747, 750 (Miss.App., 2017)	8	The presence of an aggravating factor may serve to bolster or strengthen the case for a dismissal; however, neither contumacious conduct nor an aggravating factor is required to support a dismissal for failure to prosecute under the rules of civil procedure. Miss. R. Civ. P. 41(b) .	"The presence of an aggravating factor may serve to bolster or strengthen the case for a dismissal " Holder, 54 So.3d at 200 (31). However, neither "contumacious conduct" nor an "aggravating factor" is required to support a Rule 41(b) dismissal .	Is contumacious conduct or an aggravating factor required to support a dismissal for failure to prosecute under law?

11618	Speedy Gonzalez Landscaping, Inc. v. O.C.A. Const., Inc., 385 Ill. App. 3d 699, 700, 896 N.E.2d 494, 496 (2008)	1	A motion to involuntarily dismiss an action based upon certain defects or defenses admits the legal sufficiency of the complaint , but asserts an affirmative defense or other legal matter effectively defeating the claim . S.H.A. 735 ILCS 5/2-619(a)(9).	Dismissal of a cause of action pursuant to section 2–619(a)(9) is proper where the claim against defendant is “barred by other affirmative matter avoiding the legal effect of or defeating the claim.” 735 ILCS 5/2–619(a)(9) (West 2000). A section 2–619(a)(9) motion to dismiss admits the legal sufficiency of the complaint, but asserts an affirmative defense or other legal matter effectively defeating the claim .	Will a motion for involuntary dismissal assert a defense defeating the claim ?
11751	Pardue v. State, 571 So. 2d 333, 333 (Ala. 1990)	1	Burglar who acquired firearm as loot during course of burglary was “ armed with deadly weapon ,” within meaning of first-degree burglary statute, even though he did not use or possess firearm for purpose of its use or potential use as weapon ; overruling Buchannon v. State, 554 So.2d 477. Code 1975, S 13-7-5(a).	After its application for rehearing was overruled, the State filed a petition for a writ of certiorari, which we granted in order to consider whether a burglar is “ armed with ... a deadly weapon ” in accordance with Ala.Code 1975, § 13A–7–5(a), if he acquires a gun as loot during the burglary but does not use it or possess it for the purpose of its use or potential use as a weapon .	When is a person armed with a deadly weapon under the burglary statute?
11849	United States v. One Parcel of Real Prop. with Bldgs., Appurtenances, 908 F. Supp. 1070, 1073 (D.R.I. 1995)	3	Double jeopardy clause is not limited to "life or limb" sanctions; clause also applies to imprisonment and monetary penalties . U.S.C.A. Const.Amend. 5.	The Clause is not limited to "life or limb" sanctions; the Clause also applies to imprisonment and monetary penalties .	"Is a double jeopardy clause is not limited to ""life or limb"" sanctions? "

13545	United States v. Baumann, 684 F. Supp. 2d 1146, 1151 (D.S.D. 2010)	9	Statute prohibiting bribery concerning programs receiving federal funds does not require that bribe itself be in excess of $5,000 ; government may also allege that business or transaction received in return for bribe was worth in excess of $5,000 . 18 U.S.C.A. S 666(a)(2).	Section 666(a)(1)(B) " does not require that the bribe itself be in excess of $5,000 ." Nystrom, 2008 WL 4833984, at *4 (citing United States v. Hines, 541 F.3d 833, 836–37 (8th Cir.2008)); United States v. Zimmermann, 509 F.3d 920, 926–27 (8th Cir.2007). Rather, alleging that the bribe itself exceeded $5,000 is but "one way to satisfy the element." Id. The element "can also be satisfied by showing that the business or transaction received in return for the bribe was worth in excess of $5,000 ."	"Does any statute require that the bribe itself be in excess of $5,000 ?"
13569	Colonial Pipeline Co. v. Commonwealth, 206 Va. 517, 523, 145 S.E.2d 227, 232 (1965)	7	State has inherent and unlimited power of taxation unless restrained by State or Federal Constitution, and power of state to levy taxes is not derived from Federal Constitution as interpreted by Supreme Court.	There are ready answers to this premise. In the first place, the power of the State of Virginia to levy taxes is not derived from the Constitution of the United States as interpreted by the Supreme Court . On the contrary, the State has the inherent and unlimited power of taxation unless restrained by its Constitution or the Constitution of the United States. 18 Mich.Jur., Taxation, § 3, pp. 125, 126, and cases there collected. Moreover, there is a presumption of the constitutionality of a statute and the burden is upon the assailing party to prove its invalidity.	Does the state have inherent and unlimited power of taxation unless restrained by State or Federal Constitution ?
13611	Acme Markets, Inc. v. Callanan, 236 Ill. 2d 29, 42, 923 N.E.2d 718, 727 (2009)	10	Purpose of Property Tax Extension Limitation Law (PTELL) is to provide greater citizen control over the levy of taxes they are required to pay. 35 ILCS 200/18-190 (2004 Bar Ed.).	Justice McDade's dissent correctly recognized that the purpose of PTELL "is to provide greater citizen control over the levy of taxes they are required to pay."	What is the purpose of the Property Tax Extension Limitation Law (PTELL) ?

16007	McCabe v. Braunstein, 439 B.R. 1, 10 (D. Mass. 2010)	17	Under Massachusetts law, one of the primary purposes of equitable subrogation is to avoid unwarranted windfalls.	One of the primary purposes of subrogation is to avoid unwarranted windfalls.	Is one of the primary purposes of equitable subrogation to avoid unwarranted windfalls?
16095	CompuCredit Corp. v. Greenwood, 565 U.S. 95, 97, 132 S. Ct. 665, 668, 181 L. Ed. 2d 586 (2012)	1	Federal Arbitration Act (FAA) provision requiring enforcement of contracts containing arbitration provisions establishes a liberal federal policy favoring arbitration agreements. 9 U.S.C.A. S 2.	Upon issuance of an order compelling arbitration , Defendant requests that the Court either stay these proceedings until completion of the arbitration pursuant to 9 U.S.C. 3, or dismiss the complaint pursuant to Rule 12(b)(1) and (6). II. DISCUSSION [1] [2] The FAA establishes " a liberal federal policy favoring arbitration agreements. " Moses H.	Does the Federal Arbitration Act establish a liberal federal policy favoring arbitration agreements?
16100	In re H.A. Manosh Corp., 147 Vt. 367, 369, 518 A.2d 18, 19 (1986)	1	Environmental Board rule defining " substantial change " so as to necessitate acquisition of permit under land use law did not negate or undermine legislature's intent , but rather, simply defined parameters of statutory exemption afforded preexisting uses. 10 V.S.A. SS 6081, 6086(a).	Despite respondent's assertions to the contrary, we find no basis for the conclusion 20 that the Board's definition of substantial change negates or undermines the legislature's intent in this area. It simply defines the parameters of the statutory exemption afforded pre-existing uses. Cf. Vermont Brick & Block, Inc.	How Environmental Board Rule define substantial change?
19921	Fla. E. Coast Ry. Co. v. Lewis, 167 So. 2d 104, 108 (Fla. Dist. Ct. App. 1964)	4	Under current rule, plaintiff had no lawful right to voluntary nonsuit. 30 F.S.A. Rules of Civil Procedure, rule 1.35 and subd. (a).	On the authority of Dobson we must hold that on the first trial of the case we now review appellee had no lawful right to an order of voluntary nonsuit , and the trial court erred in entering the order of nonsuit.	Does a plaintiff have no lawful right to a voluntary nonsuit?

EXHIBIT G

Comparison to 100 headnotes Appendix C to Dr. Krein's Reply Report

Krein Row	Case Name	HN No. in Case	Headnote Text	Judicial Text	Memo Question	Analysis
21386	Toney v. C. Courtney, 191 So. 3d 505, 507 (Fla. Dist. Ct. App. 2016)	6	Allegations in prisoner's amended complaint against two physicians and a nurse supported the objective prong of a S 1983 claim for deliberate indifference to a serious medical need in violation of Eighth Amendment prohibition against cruel and unusual punishment; prisoner alleged that he had a diagnosis of celiac disease, a gluten or wheat allergy, that nature of his meals was particularly important because he was also an insulin-dependent diabetic, that for the majority of time alleged in his amended complaint he did not receive gluten-free meals, and that, as a result, he regularly consumed gluten, which, due to his celiac disease, caused vomiting, stomach pains, headaches, fatigue, and skin irritation. U.S.C.A. Const.Amend. 8; 42 U.S.C.A. S 1983.	We are also cognizant that “a complaint that simply strings together a series of sentences and paragraphs containing legal conclusions and theories does not establish a claim for relief.”	"Will a complaint that simply strings together a series of sentences and paragraphs containing legal conclusions and theories, establish a claim for relief?"	Krein Concedes no copying
2349	In re Frankum, 399 B.R. 498, 505 (E.D. Ark. 2009)	15	To invoke the doctrine of equitable subrogation, five criteria must be met: (1) the party seeking subrogation must have made the payment to protect his own interest, (2) the party seeking subrogation must not have acted as a volunteer, (3) the party seeking subrogation must not have been primarily liable for the debt, (4) the party seeking subrogation must have paid off the entire debt, and (5) subrogation must not work injustice to the rights of others.	To invoke the doctrine of equitable subrogation, five criteria must be met: (1) the party seeking subrogation must have made the payment to protect his own interest; (2) the party seeking subrogation must not have acted as a volunteer; (3) the party seeking subrogation must not have been primarily liable for the debt; (4) the party seeking subrogation must have paid off the entire debt; and (5) subrogation must not work injustice to the rights of others.	What criteria must be met to invoke the doctrine of equitable subrogation?	Not Copyrightable (headnote verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation

3225	Horn v. Int'l Bus. Machines Corp., 110 A.D.2d 87, 92, 493 N.Y.S.2d 184, 189 (1985)	1	Literal compliance with Environmental Quality Act's procedural requirements for integrating environmental considerations into decision-making process is mandated; however, state or local "lead agencies" are allowed considerable latitude in exercise of discretion on substantive environmental matters. McKinney's ECL S 8-0101 et seq.	At the outset, it is necessary to emphasize that the standard of judicial review for challenges involving substantive compliance with SEQRA guidelines is limited. While literal compliance with SEQRA's procedural requirements for integrating environmental considerations into the decision making process is mandated (see, Glen Head-Glenwood Landing Civic Council v. Town of Oyster Bay, 88 A.D.2d 484, 490–491, 453 N.Y.S.2d 732; Matter of Rye Town/King Civic Assn. v. Town of Rye, 82 A.D.2d 474, 480–481, 442 N.Y.S.2d 67 appeals dismissed 55 N.Y.2d 747), the courts have allowed State or local "lead agencies" considerable latitude in the exercise of discretion on substantive environmental matters (Aldrich v. Pattison, 107 A.D.2d 258, 486 N.Y.S.2d 23). In Aldrich (supra, at p. 267, 486 N.Y.S.2d 23), this court, in an opinion authored by Justice Rubin, explained:	Do the courts allow state or local agencies considerable latitude in the exercise of discretion on substantive environmental matters?	Not Copyrightable (headnote near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation
17852	Transamerica Insurance Company v. Barnes, 29 Utah 2, 505 P.2d 783, 105 (Utah 1972)	5	Subrogation is not a matter of right but may be invoked only in those circumstances where justice demands its application. (Per Callister, C. J., with one Justice concurring and one Justice concurring in the result.)	Subrogation is not a matter of right but may be invoked only in those circumstances where justice demands its application, and the rights of the one seeking subrogation have a greater equity than the one who opposes him.	Is subrogation permitted only when the rights of those seeking subrogation have greater equity than the rights of those who oppose it?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

18561	Esparza v. Scott and White Hlth. Plan, 909 S.W.2d 548, 551 (Tex. App. 1995)	2	Principal purpose of insurance contract is to protect insured from loss, thereby placing risk of loss on insurer.	The principal purpose of an insurance contract is to protect the insured from loss, thereby placing the risk of loss on the insurer.	What is the purpose of insurance?	Not Copyrightable (headnote near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation
15836	Jackson v. Searcy, 628 So. 2d 887, 889 (Ala. Civ. App. 1993)	3	For agency relationship to exist, there must be meeting of the minds of principal and agent as to scope of agent's employment.	[3] For an agency relationship to exist, there must be a right of control by the principal over the agent. However, it is not essential that the right of control be exercised, so long as that right actually exists. National Security Fire & Casualty Co. v. Bowen, 447 So.2d 133, 137 (Ala.1983). In addition, there must be a meeting of the minds of both the principal and the agent as to the scope of the agent's employment.	Should there be meeting of minds as to the scope of the agent's employment?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
10016	People v. Converse, 42 N.W. 70, 71, 74 Mich. 478, 482 (Mich. 1889)	2	An attorney who collects money for a client acts as agent as well as attorney, and may be convicted of embezzlement for appropriating the money to his own use, with intent to deprive the owner thereof.	If an attorney collects money for his client, he in so doing acts as the agent of his client as well as his attorney; and in either case, after making the collection, he appropriates the money to his own use with the intention of depriving the owner of the same,-he is guilty of the crime of embezzlement. If this were not so, no attorney could be convicted of the embezzlement of his client's money, and this was certainly never the intention of the legislature in passing the statute creating the crime.	Can attorney appropriating money collected for his client be guilty of embezzlement?	Not copyrightable (expired); No Material Appropriation

11125	McCarthy v. Azure, 22 F.3d 351, 355 (1st Cir. 1994)	5	Federal policy favoring arbitration does not extend to situations in which identity of parties who have agreed to arbitrate is unclear.	Once that agreement has been proven and the protagonists identified, cases such as Cone and McMahon instruct courts to use a particular hermeneutical principle for interpreting the breadth of the agreement; that is, if the contract language chosen by the parties is unclear as to the nature of the claims to which an agreement to arbitrate extends, a "healthy regard" for the federal policy favoring arbitration requires that "any doubts concerning the scope of an arbitrable issue be resolved in favor of arbitration." Moses H. Cone, 460 U.S. at 24-25. T The federal policy, however, does not extend to situations in which the identity of the parties who have agreed to arbitrate is unclear.	Does federal policy in favor of arbitration extend to situations in which the identity of the parties who have agreed to arbitrate is unclear?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
8770	Memphis Retail Liquor Dealers' Ass'n, Inc., 547 S.W.2d 244, 245-46 (Tenn. 1977)	1	If an imposition is primarily for the purpose of raising revenue, it is a "tax"; if its purpose is for the regulation of some activity under the police power of the governing authority, it is a "fee."	If the imposition *246 is primarily for the purpose of raising revenue, it is a tax; if its purpose is for the regulation of some activity under the police power of the governing authority, it is a fee.	Is an imposition a tax, if its purpose is for the regulation of some activity under the police power of the governing authority?	Not Copyrightable (headnote near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation
14892	State v. Payne, 2008-Ohio-5447, ¶ 9, 178 Ohio App. 3d 617, 621, 899 N.E.2d 1011, 1014	5	Substantial incapacity sufficient to support a conviction for menacing by stalking does not mean that the victim must be hospitalized, or totally unable to care for herself; incapacity is substantial if it has a significant impact upon the victim's daily life. R.C. S 2903.211(A)(1), (D)(2)(a, b).	"Substantial incapacity does not mean that the victim must be hospitalized, or totally unable to care for herself. Incapacity is substantial if it has a significant impact upon the victim's daily life."	"Does ""substantial incapacity"" for the purposes of a conviction for menacing by stalking, require the victim to be hospitalized?"	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

N/A	N/A	N/A	Clear and unmistakable evidence requirement used in evaluating an arbitration provision's delegation provision pertains to the parties' manifestation of intent, not to the agreement's validity.	N/A	N/A	Not an asserted headnote
13661	Bk. Trust Co. v. Arnold N. May Builders, 90 Ill. App. 3d 454, 456 (Ill. App. Ct. 1980)	3	Motion for judgment on the pleadings tests sufficiency of pleadings as a matter of law and admits truth of all facts pleaded by opposite party.	A motion for judgment on the pleadings tests the sufficiency of the pleadings as a matter of law and admits the truth of all facts well pleaded by the opposite party.	Does a motion for judgment on the pleadings test the sufficiency of the pleadings?	Not Copyrightable (near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation
21129	People v. Hochwender, 20 Cal. 2d 181	2	"Taxes" are not "debts" nor "founded upon contract" but they are charges upon persons or property to raise money for public purposes and the general relationship of sovereign and taxpayer is not founded on nor does it create any contractual rights.	The contention cannot be sustained. In the early case of Perry v. Washburn, 20 Cal. 318, 350, it was held: 'Taxes are not debts * * * due by contract, express or implied.' That case has been consistently and uniformly followed. It was cited and approved in Spurrier v. Neumiller, 37 Cal.App. 683, 174 P. 338, 341, where it was said: 'Taxes are not debts, nor founded upon contract; but they are charges upon persons or property to raise money for public purposes.' This court recently reiterated the rule in Southern Service Co. v. County of Los Angeles, 15 Cal.2d 1, 97 P.2d 963, 969, stating, 'The general relationship of sovereign and tax payer is not founded on nor does it create any contractual rights,' citing Perry v. Washburn, supra, and Spurrier v. Neumiller, supra.	Are taxes debts due by contract?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

2950	Adobe Land Corp. v. Griffin, L.L.C., 236 S.W.3d 351, 357 (Tex.App.-Fort Worth, 2007)	9	A duty to preserve evidence arises only when a party knows or reasonably should know that there is a substantial chance that a claim will be filed and that evidence in its possession or control will be potentially relevant to that claim.	Before any failure to produce evidence may be viewed as discovery abuse, the opposing party must establish that the non-producing party had a duty to preserve the evidence in question. Wal-Mart Stores, Inc., 106 S.W.3d at 722. Such a duty arises only when a party knows or reasonably should know that there is a substantial chance that a claim will be filed and that evidence in its possession or control will be potentially relevant to that claim.	Does a duty to preserve evidence arise only when a party knows or reasonably should know that there is a substantial chance that a claim will be filed and that evidence in its possession or control will be potentially relevant to that claim?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
2585	Hinds v. Glob. Int'l Marine, 57 So. 3d 1181, 1183-84 (La. App. 2011)	6	Any action or step taken in a case to move the case toward judgment should be considered before granting a motion for dismissal for abandonment; dismissal of those cases in which the plaintiff has clearly demonstrated before the court during the prescribed period that he does not intend to abandon his lawsuit is not warranted. LSA-C.C.P. art. 561.	Any *1184 action or step taken in a case to move the case toward judgment should be considered. Dismissal of those cases in which the plaintiff has clearly demonstrated before the court during the prescribed period that he does not intend to abandon his lawsuit is not warranted.	Should any action or step taken in a case to move the case toward judgment be considered before granting a motion for dismissal for abandonment?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
13669	Cole v. O'Toolles of Utica, Inc., 222 A.D.2d 88, 90, 643 N.Y.S.2d 283, 285 (1996)	2	Plaintiffs need not label cause of action in pleading, and in fact, even if cause of action is labeled incorrectly, it will not be dismissed if acts alleged constitute cognizable cause of action.	"The pleading can be pathetically drawn; it can reek of miserable draftsmanship" (Siegel, Practice Commentaries, McKinney's Cons.Laws of NY, Book 7B, CPLR C3013:6, at 724). Plaintiffs need not label the cause of action; in fact, even if the cause of action is labeled incorrectly, it will not be dismissed if the facts alleged constitute a cognizable cause of action (see, Guidetti v. Pratt Plumbing & Heating, 55 A.D.2d 720, 721, 389 N.Y.S.2d 170).	Do plaintiffs need to label a cause of action?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

17915	Stitzel v. Miller, 250 Ill. 72, 75–76 (1911)	1	There cannot be any recovery in an ordinary common-law action, where the money is not due at the institution of the suit.	Without question there cannot be *76 any recovery on an ordinary common-law action if the money is not due at the institution of the suit.	Can there be any recovery in an ordinary common-law action?	Not copyrightable (expired; Headnote near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation
18867	Williams v. United States, 47 Ct. Cl. 316	2	Where a statute enacts that there shall be 26 additional passed assistant and assistant paymasters on the active list of the navy, the President in his discretion may direct that the whole number so added to the active list shall be of the higher grade. Act March 3, 1903, 32 Stat. 1197, 34 U.S.C.A. S 334.	Krein's headnote not found using judicial opinion.	Is the President empowered to appoint either assistant or passed assistant paymasters?	Not Copyrightable (Headnote not in opinion identified); No Material Appropriation
19556	Wellmaker v. Lamar Cnty. Advisory Bd., 43 Ga. App. 816, 160 S.E. 708, 708 (1931)	3	Public road cannot be lawfully discontinued, except in manner prescribed by statute. Civ.Code 1910, SS 636-644.	The county authorities cannot lawfully discontinue a public road except in the manner prescribed by law, after application and notice and registration in the proper office.	Can an existing public road be discontinued without notice and registration in the proper office?	Not copyrightable (Headnote near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation
15085	Rivas v. Napolitano, 714 F.3d 1108, 1110 (9th Cir. 2013)	1	Federal courts are generally without power to review the actions of consular officials.	Federal courts are generally without power to review the actions of consular officials.	Do federal courts have power to review the actions of consular officials?	Not copyrightable (Headnote verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation
4855	Mason v. Connell, 1836 WL 3149, at *1 (Pa. 1836)	5	One partner cannot, without the consent of the other, introduce a stranger into the firm, nor can he, without such consent, make the other partner a member of another firm; but such consent may be implied from the acquiescence and acts of the parties; and if such other partner is made acquainted with the facts, he ought to dissent from the arrangement; otherwise he will be bound by it.	One partner cannot, without the consent of the other, introduce a stranger into the firm, nor can he, without such consent, make the other partner a member of another firm; but such consent may be implied from the acquiescence and acts of the parties; and if such other partner is made acquainted with the facts, he ought to dissent from the arrangement; otherwise he will be bound by it.	Can a partner admit a new member to the partnership without the consent of the other partners?	Not copyrightable (expired; Headnote verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation

8877	Smith v. Thirty-Seventh Judicial Circuit, 847 S.W.2d 755, 758 (Mo. 1993)	7	In workers' compensation law, one making appointment and receiving services necessarily stands in correlative relation of employer; right to control employee determines employer status. V.A.M.S. SS 105.800, 287.120, subd. 1.	In workers' compensation law, the "one making the appointment and receiving the services necessarily stands in the correlative relation of employer." Maltz v. Jackoway-Katz Cap Co., 336 Mo. 1000, 82 S.W.2d 909, [9] 911 (Mo. 1934). The right to control the employee is the "test often applied" to determine the employer, and the element "most frequently referred to."	"In Workers Compensation, who stands as, or is determined to be, the employer?"	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
11649	Carlson v. Hannah, 6 N.J. 202, 212 (N.J. 1951)	2	The power of an agent to bind his principal is limited to such acts as are within his actual or apparent authority.	The power of an agent to bind his principal is limited to such acts as are within his actual or apparent authority.	Is the power of an agent to bind his principal with his acts within his actual or apparent authority?	Not copyrightable (Headnote verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation
6885	Schneider v. Spaeth, 133 So. 3d 1167, 1168–69 (Fla. Dist. Ct. App. 2014)	2	No magic words are required in an order entering a default based on a party's failure to attend a properly noticed case management conference, but rather only a finding that the conduct upon which the order is based was equivalent to willfulness or deliberate disregard. West's F.S.A. RCP Rule 1.200(c).	The requisite written finding of willfulness is, in part, to provide assurance that "the trial judge has made a conscious determination that the noncompliance was more than mere neglect or inadvertence." Commonwealth Fed. Sav. & Loan Ass'n v. Tubero, 569 So.2d 1271, 1273 (Fla.1990). "[N]o 'magic words' are required but rather only a finding that the conduct upon which the order is based was equivalent to willfulness or deliberate disregard."	"In the requisite written finding of wilfulness, are magic words required or only a finding that the conduct upon which the order is based was equivalent to wilfulness or deliberate disregard?"	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
N/A	N/A	N/A	Purpose of statute requiring state to provide notice of intent to seek hard 40 sentence is to make defendant aware of hard 40 prospect so as to be in a position to devise his or her strategy. K.S.A. 21-4624(1).	N/A	N/A	Not an asserted headnote; Krein concedes no copying

2954	St. Mary v. Superior Court, 223 Cal.App.4th 762, 776, 167 Cal.Rptr.3d 517, 528 (Cal.App. 6 Dist., 2014)	11	A "deemed admitted" order establishes, by judicial fiat, that a nonresponding party has responded to requests for admission (RFA) by admitting the truth of all matters contained therein. Cal. Civ. Proc. Code S 2033.280(c).	"[A] deemed admitted order establishes, by judicial fiat, that a nonresponding party has responded to the requests by admitting the truth of all matters contained therein."	"Does a ""deemed admitted"" order establish, by judicial fiat, that a nonresponding party has responded to requests for admission (RFA) by admitting the truth of all matters contained therein?"	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
18697	Brezler v. Mills, 220 F. Supp. 3d 303, 326 (E.D.N.Y. 2016)	19	Navy, like any other agency, must comply with its own binding rules.	The Navy, like any other agency, must comply with its own binding rules.	Does the navy have to comply with its own binding rules?	Not Copyrightable (headnote near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation
11085	S. Indiana Gas & Elec. Co. v. City of Boonville, 215 Ind. 552, 560 (1939)	5	The power of eminent domain is an attribute of sovereignty which inures in every independent state and cannot be surrendered, and if attempted to be contracted away it may be resumed at will.	The power of eminent domain is an attribute of sovereignty and inures in every independent state. It cannot be surrendered, and, if attempted to be contracted away, it may be resumed at will.	Can the power of eminent domain be surrendered?	Not Copyrightable (headnote near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation
21195	Billingsley v. St. Louis County, 70 F.3d 61, 64 (8th Cir. 1995)	5	Government worker who performs technical, ministerial tasks cannot be discharged based on his political beliefs. U.S.C.A. Const.Amend. 1.	It is clear, then, that under Barnes a government worker who performs technical, ministerial tasks cannot be discharged based on his political beliefs.	Is an employees political affiliation an appropriate requirement for performing ministerial duties?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
10054	Teller v. McCoy, 162 W. Va. 367, 384 (1978)	3	Since lease of residential dwelling unit is to be treated and construed as any other contract, covenant to pay rent and warranty of habitability are mutually dependent. Code, 37-6-30.	In response to the second certified question, we hold that since a lease of a residential dwelling unit is to be treated and construed as any other contract, the covenant to pay rent and the warranty of habitability are mutually dependent.	Are leases of urban dwelling units construed like any other contract?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

6431	In re N.J.A.C. 7:15-5.24(b), 420 N.J. Super. 552, 572 (App. Div. 2011)	11	Enabling statute for Department of Environmental Protection (DEP) grants the DEP vast authority to set policy and promulgate regulations for the conservation of the natural resources of the State, the promotion of environmental protection, and the prevention of pollution of the environment of the State. N.J.S.A. 13:1D-1 et seq.	Lastly, HN34 the DEP's general enabling statute, N.J.S.A. 13:1D-1 to -137, grants the agency vast authority to set policy and promulgate regulations "for the conservation of the natural resources of the State, the promotion of environmental protection and the prevention of pollution of the environment of the State." N.J.S.A. 13:1D-9.	What responsibilities are the Department of Environmental Protection charged with?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
12835	M. T. v. State, 2009 Ark. App. 761, 795 (Ark. Ct. App. 2009)	9	For purposes of disorderly conduct, a public inconvenience, annoyance, or alarm can occur due to an individual's conduct whether the individual and the people are on public or private property. West's A.C.A. S 5-71-207(a)(1).	First, our precedent refutes appellant's narrow interpretation of the disorderly conduct statute that the incident giving rise to the charge must occur in a public place. A public inconvenience, annoyance or alarm can occur due to an individual's conduct whether the individual and the people are on public or private property.	Can public inconvenience occur due to an individuals conduct?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
10328	Roberts v. Wells Fargo Bank, N.A., 406 S.W.3d 702, 706 (Tex. App. 2013)	6	When nonsuit is filed after an unfavorable partial summary judgment has been entered against a claimant, the nonsuit is with prejudice as to those claims of which the judgment has disposed; this concept promotes judicial efficiency, protects parties from multiple lawsuits, and prevents inconsistent judgments through the preclusion of matters that have already been decided or which could have been litigated in a prior suit. Vernon's Ann.Texas Rules Civ.Proc., Rules 162, 166a(c).	When nonsuit is filed after an unfavorable partial summary judgment has been entered against the claimant, the nonsuit is with prejudice as to those claims of which the judgment has disposed. This concept promotes judicial efficiency, protects parties from multiple lawsuits, and prevents inconsistent judgments through the preclusion of matters that have already been decided or which could have been litigated in a prior suit.	"When a claimant nonsuits after an unfavorable partial summary judgment, is the nonsuit with prejudice as to the claims disposed of by the judgment?"	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

841	City of Ashland v. Ashland Salvage, 271 Neb. 362, 371 (2006)	15	A party's failure to make a timely and appropriate response to a request for admission constitutes an admission of the subject matter of the request, which matter is conclusively established unless, on motion, the court permits withdrawal of the admission. Discovery Rule 36.	We have held that a party's failure to make a timely and appropriate response to a request for admission constitutes an admission of the subject matter of the request, which matter is conclusively established unless, on motion, the court permits withdrawal of the admission.	"Does a party's failure to make a timely and appropriate response to a request for admission constitute an admission of the subject matter of the request, which matter is conclusively established unless, on motion, the court permits withdrawal of the admission?"	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
8430	Withrow v. Withrow, 278 Ga. 525, 525, 603 S.E.2d 276, 277–78 (2004)	3	The absence of a party's counsel, without leave, to attend proceedings in other courts is no ground for continuance or postponement.	Moreover, "[t]he absence of a [party's] counsel, without leave, to attend proceedings in other courts is no ground for continuance or postponement. [Cit.]" Davis v. Barnes, 158 Ga.App. 89, 90, 279 S.E.2d 330 (1981).	"Is the absence of a party's counsel, without leave, to attend proceedings in other courts no ground for continuance or postponement?"	Not Copyrightable (near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation
1301	Osagie v. Peakload Temp. Services, 91 S.W.3d 326, 329 (Tenn. Ct. App., 2002)	4	Purpose of rule governing dismissal of claim for failure to prosecute is to enable court to manage its own docket, and to protect defendants against plaintiffs who are unwilling to put their claims to the test, but determined to subject them to the continuing threat of an eventual judgment. Rules Civ.Proc., Rule 41.02.	Osagie's wage claim to be a dismissal for failure to prosecute under rule 41.02 of the Rules of Civil Procedure. This rule is necessary to enable the court to manage its own docket, and to protect defendants against plaintiffs who are unwilling to put their claims to the test, but determined to subject them to the continuing threat of an eventual judgment.	Does the purpose of rules governing dismissal of a claim for failure is to prosecute to protect defendants against plaintiffs who are unwilling to put their claims to the test?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

1316	Jgk Industries, LLC v Hayes NY Business, LLC, No. 2014-10060, 2015-04730, 603527/13, 45 N.Y.S.3d 479, 481, 2016 N.Y. Slip Op. 08848, 2016 WL 7445269 (N.Y.A.D. 2 Dept., Dec. 28, 2016)	1	On a motion to dismiss a complaint for failure to state a cause of action, the court must accept the plaintiff's allegations as true and construe the allegations liberally, giving the plaintiff the benefit of every possible favorable inference. McKinney's CPLR 3211(a)(7).	On a motion to dismiss a complaint pursuant to CPLR 3211(a)(7), the court must accept the plaintiff's allegations as true and construe the allegations liberally, giving the plaintiff the benefit of every possible favorable inference	On a motion to dismiss a complaint for failure to state a cause of action, should the complaint be construed liberally?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
18581	Voss v. State, 208 Miss. 303, 304-05, 44 So. 2d 402, 402 (1950)	1	There was no such offense in common law as embezzlement; and it is made such by statute, being a statutory larceny.	In Hampton v. State, 99 Miss. 176, 183, 54 So. 722, 723, it is said: 'There was no such offense at common law as embezzlement; it is made such by statute; it is a statutory larceny.	Is embezzlement a common law offence?	Not Copyrightable (headnote near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation
4196	Palumbo v. Moore, 777 So.2d 1177, 1178 (Fla. App. 5 Dist., 2001)	4	A motion to dismiss for failure to state a cause of action admits all well pleaded facts as true, as well as reasonable inferences that may arise from those facts.	A motion to dismiss for failure to state a cause of action admits all well pleaded facts as true, as well as reasonable inferences that may arise from those facts.	"Should the party moving for dismissal for failure to state a cause of action admit all well pleaded facts as true, as well as reasonable inferences that can arise from those facts?"	Not Copyrightable (headnote verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation

5701	Little v. State Indus. Comm'n, 1936 OK 817	5	Forgery statute is aimed primarily at safeguarding confidence in genuineness of documents relied upon in commercial and business activity; such purpose underlies not only prohibition against forging false instrument but also against possessing or uttering such an instrument. W.S.A. 943.38.	A forgery statute is “aimed primarily at safeguarding confidence in the genuineness of documents relied upon in commercial and business activity.” LaFave & Scott, Handbook on Criminal Law, p. 671 (1972). This purpose underlies not only the prohibition against forging a false instrument but also that against possessing or uttering such an instrument. Perkins, Criminal Law, pp. 339-40 (2d ed. 1969).	What is the purpose of forgery statute?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
11132	AAA Pharmacy v. United States, 112 Fed. Cl. 387, 394 (Fed.Cl., 2013)	5	Regulatory takings jurisprudence is characterized by essentially ad hoc, factual inquiries designed to allow careful examination and weighing of all the relevant circumstances. U.S. Const. Amend. 5.	The analysis employed with respect to cases involving a physical occupation, "for the most part, involves the straightforward application of per se rules," whereas "regulatory takings jurisprudence ... is characterized by 'essentially ad hoc, factual inquiries,' designed to allow 'careful examination and weighing of all the relevant circumstances.'	How is regulatory taking jurisprudence characterized?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

17097	Zuzak v. Querbes, 193 So. 258, 261 (La. Ct. App. 1939)	1	On question whether a certain lease was the renewal of a prior lease upon the execution of which additional brokerage commissions were due, both leases, which named a partnership as lessee, involved the same lessee, notwithstanding that a change in membership of partnership occurred between dates of execution of leases, since a "partnership" once formed and put into action becomes in contemplation of law a moral being distinct from the persons who compose it.	It is further observed that both of the above described lease contracts involved the same lessee, namely, D. Goldring, a co-partnership, notwithstanding the fact that a slight change in the membership of that entity occurred between the dates of execution of the first and last instruments. The following phraseology found in Brinson v. Monroe Automobile & Supply Co. et al., 180 La. 1064, 158 So. 558, 562, 96 A.L.R. 1206, sustains this observation: "A partnership, once formed and put into action, becomes, in contemplation of law, a moral being, distinct from the persons who compose it. It is a civil person which has peculiar rights and attributes.	Is a partnership a civil person having civil rights?	Krein Concedes no copying
14865	Zeis v. Fruehauf Corp., 56 Wis. 2d 486, 491, 202 N.W.2d 225, 227 (1972)	4	Public policy requires dismissal of stale lawsuits which have not been adequately prosecuted.	Public policy requires the dismissal of stale lawsuits which have not been adequately prosecuted.	Does public policy require dismissal of stale lawsuits which have not been adequately prosecuted?	Not Copyrightable (headnote near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation
11966	People v. Beltran, 56 Cal. 4th 935, 942 (2013)	5	The mens rea element required for murder is a state of mind constituting either express or implied malice; a person who kills without malice does not commit murder. West's Ann.Cal.Penal Code SS 187, 188.	The mens rea element required for murder is a state of mind constituting either express or implied malice. A person who kills 509 without malice does not commit murder.	"Is the mens rea required for murder malice, expressed or implied? "	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

8072	Birdsboro & Birdsboro Mun. Auth. v. Dep't of Env'tl. Protec., 795 A.2d 444, 447–48 (Pa. Cmmw. 2002)	4	Environmental Hearing Board (EHB) need not provide specific reasons for finding one witness credible over another.	Additionally, the EHB need not provide specific reasons for finding one witness credible over another.	Does the Environmental Hearing Board (EHB) need to provide specific reasons for finding one witness credible over the other?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
14127	Vill. of Tiki Island v. Ronquille, 463 S.W.3d 562, 575 (Tex. App. 2015)	5	The economic impact of a regulation may indicate a taking even if the landowner has not been deprived of all economically beneficial use of his property. Tex. Const. art. 1, S 17.	For example, “the economic impact of a regulation may indicate a taking even if the landowner has not been deprived of all economically beneficial use of his property.”	Can the economic impact of a regulation lead to a taking?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
7230	Onstad v. Wright, 54 S.W.3d 799, 805–06 (Tex. App. 2001)	11	If its order on a motion in limine has been violated, the trial court may apply the sanctions of contempt or take other appropriate action.	An order on a motion in limine, however, is an action taken by the trial court in the exercise of its control over proceedings before that court. When a trial court issues an order granting such a motion in limine, the opposing party has a duty to comply with that order and to instruct the witnesses to do the same. Noncompliance with that order may lead to contempt or other sanctions the trial court deems appropriate. [. . .] The violation of a motion in limine may entitle a party to relief, but any remedies available with regard to such a violation lie with the trial court. See Brazzell, 481 S.W.2d at 131. If its order has been violated, the trial court may apply the sanctions of contempt or take other appropriate action.	"If its order on a motion in limine has been violated, may the trial court apply the sanctions of contempt or take other appropriate action?"	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

9830	Ledford v. Thomas, 144 F.Supp.2d 709, 725 (S.D.Tex.,2000)	7	Under Texas and federal law, jeopardy does not attach at arrest or indictment stage; instead, in jury trial, jeopardy attaches when jury is empaneled and sworn and, in bench trial, when both sides have announced ready and defendant has pleaded to charging instrument. U.S.C.A. Const.Amend. 5.	The case law regarding successive prosecutions supports this conclusion. Under both Texas and federal law, jeopardy does not attach at the arrest or indictment stage. Instead, in a jury trial, jeopardy attaches when the jury is empaneled and sworn. See Crist v. Bretz, 437 U.S. 28, 98 S.Ct. 2156, 57 L.Ed.2d 24 (1978); Proctor v. State, 841 S.W.2d 1 (Tex.Crim.App.1992). In a bench trial, jeopardy does not attach under state law until both sides have announced ready and the defendant has pleaded to the charging instrument.	Will jeopardy attach when both sides have announced ready and defendant has pleaded to charging instrument?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
17986	Knighten v. Knighten, 447 So. 2d 534, 540–41 (La. Ct. App.), writ denied, 448 So. 2d 1303 (La. 1984)	4	Trial court did not err in refusing to grant a continuance to curatrix of husband's estate in connection with curatrix's third-party legal malpractice demand, because curatrix merely argued that she was unable to obtain evidence material to her case, but she failed to assert what evidence she was unable to obtain or how that evidence was material. LSA-C.C.P. arts. 1601, 1602.	The oral motion to continue was based upon Lain's answer to the third party demand not being filed until the day of trial and upon his failure to answer the interrogatories. [...] The curatrix has failed to establish she was entitled to a mandatory continuance under C.C.P. 1602. She merely argues she was unable to obtain evidence material to her case because of Lain's untimely answer and failure to answer the interrogatories. She has failed to assert what evidence she was unable to obtain or how that evidence was material to her case. She has also failed to show that the trial court abused its discretion in refusing to grant the continuance under C.C.P. 1601.	"Should a party who seeks a continuance because he was unable to obtain material evidence, show what evidence he could not obtain?"	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

10108	Warberg Opportunistic Trading Fund L.P. v GeoResources, No. 3552, 3553, 3553A, 652332/12, 58 N.Y.S.3d 1, 8, 2017 N.Y. Slip Op. 04537, 2017 WL 2467326 (N.Y.A.D. 1 Dept., June 08,	9	A novation will not discharge obligations created under a prior agreement unless it was so intended; this question may be determined from the writings and conduct of the parties or, in certain cases, from the documents exclusively.	"A novation will not discharge obligations created under a prior agreement unless it was so intended, and this question may be determined from the writings and conduct of the parties or, in certain cases, from the documents exclusively"	"Is novation unlikely to be found upon the mere issuance of a new security, without any affirmative indication that the parties were changing the terms underlying the warrant being transferred?"	Not Copyrightable (near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation
2657	The Florida Bar v. Greene, 926 So. 2d 1195, 1199 (Fla., 2006)	1	A motion to dismiss is designed to test the legal sufficiency of the complaint, not to determine factual issues, and the allegations of the complaint must be taken as true and all reasonable inferences therefrom construed in favor of the nonmoving party.	A motion to dismiss is designed to test the legal sufficiency of the complaint, not to determine factual issues, and the allegations of the complaint must be taken as true and all reasonable inferences therefrom construed in favor of the nonmoving party.	"Is a motion to dismiss designed to test the legal sufficiency of the complaint, not to determine factual issues?"	Not Copyrightable (headnote verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation
14560	Bartleman v. Humphrey, 441 S.W.2d 335, 349 (Mo. 1969)	28	A deposition under oath consists of original answers as well as changed answers, with witness' reasons, if any for changes.	A deposition under oath consists of 'original answers, as well as * * * changed answers, with his reasons, if any, therefor,'	Does a deposition under oath consist of original answers as well as changed answers?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

17873	Singh v. Larry Fowler Trucking, Inc., 390 S.W.3d 280, 286 (Tenn. Ct. App. 2012)	3	Although plaintiff driver, who was rear-ended by defendant driver, did not make a separate offer of proof, there was sufficient evidence in the record from which appellate court could determine the trial court's reasoning in granting defendant's motion in limine to exclude deposition testimony of plaintiff's medical expert and whether court's ruling was erroneous , given that the appellate record contained full deposition of plaintiff's medical expert, the motion in limine, and the trial court's order on the motion; substance of the evidence and the specific evidentiary basis supporting admission or exclusion were apparent from the context. Rules of Evid., Rule 103(a)(2).	In this case, we are concerned with the exclusion of certain portions of the deposition testimony of Dr. Jaffin. The appellate record contains the evidentiary deposition in its entirety. Although we concede that Mr. Singh did not make a separate offer of proof , because the appellate record contains Dr. Jaffin's full deposition, the motion in limine, and the trial court's order on the motion, there is sufficient evidence in the record from which to determine the trial court's reasoning and whether it was erroneous. The purpose of Rule 103(a)(2) is to help this Court determine whether the trial court's exclusion was reversible error. Here, the substance of the evidence and the specific evidentiary basis supporting admission or exclusion are apparent from the context. Accordingly, Mr. Singh's failure to make a separate offer of proof is not fatal to his appeal.	"Although rulings on motions in limine are within the discretion of the trial court , are discretionary choices left to a court's inclination?"	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
14402	Perkins v. Carter, 09-673 (La. App. 5 Cir. 12/29/09), 30 So. 3d 862, 869 (La. Ct. App. 2009)	14	One of principal purposes of pretrial proceeding is to narrow issues of litigation to those which are contested and to dispense with proof on issues which are not contested. LSA-C.C.P. art. 1551.	One of the principal purposes of pretrial proceedings is to narrow the issues of the litigation to those which are contested and to dispense with proof on the issues which are not contested.	What is the purpose of pretrial proceedings with regard to contested issues ?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

2917	Rozas v. Evangeline Parish Police Jury, 214 So.2d 398, 400 (La.App., 1968)	4	In determining whether a cause of action based on fraud has been pleaded, court may disregard as mere conclusions of the pleader a petition's general charges of fraud if they are unaccompanied by formal allegations setting forth with particularity the circumstances alleged to constitute same. LSA-C.C.P. art. 856.	In determining whether a cause of action has been pleaded, the court may disregard as mere conclusions of the pleader a petition's general charges of fraud if they are unaccompanied by formal allegations setting forth with particularity the circumstances alleged to constitute same.	Will a court disregard general charges of fraud as mere conclusions?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
10769	Gerlich v. Leath, 861 F.3d 697, 705 (8th Cir. 2017)	10	If a state university creates a limited public forum for speech, it may not discriminate against speech on the basis of its viewpoint. U.S. Const. Amend. 1.	If a state university creates a limited public forum for speech, it may not *705 "discriminate against speech on the basis of its viewpoint."	"f a state university creates a limited public forum for speech, can it discriminate against speech on the basis of its viewpoint?"	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
12416	Schulz v. Dattero, 104 A.D.3d 831, 834, 961 N.Y.S.2d 308, 312 (2013)	5	Entering upon the land of another without permission, even if innocently or by mistake, constitutes trespass.	"Entering upon the land of another without permission, even if innocently or by mistake, constitutes trespass"	Can the innocent entry upon the land of another without permission cause a trespass?	Not Copyrightable (headnote near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation
8359	Standard Oil Co. v. Johnson, 316 U.S. 481, 484 (1942)	3	That the establishment and control of army post exchanges have been in accordance with War Department regulations, rather than specific statutory directions, does not alter their status as "arms of the government", since authorized War Department regulations have the force of "law". Act July 15, 1870, 16 Stat. 315, 319; Act March 1, 1875, 18 Stat. 337.	That the establishment and control of post exchanges have been in accordance with regulations rather than specific statutory directions does not alter their 1170 status, for authorized War Department regulations have the force of law. 5 3 Act July 15, 1870, 16 Stat. 315, 319; Act March 1, 1875, 18 Stat. 337.	Do War Department regulations have the force of law?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

15780	Cleveland, C., C. & I. Ry. Co. v. Wynant, 114 Ind. 525, 17 N.E. 118, 120–21 (1888)	9	The mere fact that an object is in a highway in violation of the statute does not necessarily make the owner liable for damages resulting from fright which the object may have occasioned to horses, but there must have been some natural causative connection between the violation of the statute and the frightening of the horses.	The mere fact that an object is in the highway, in violation of a statute, does not necessarily make the owner liable for damages resulting from fright which the object may have occasioned to horses. *121 There must have been some natural, causative connection between the violation of the statute and the frightening of the horses.	"Is there a natural and causative connection between the violation of a statute, and the frightening of a horse?"	Not Copyrightable (expired; headnote near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation
10329	Herrell v. Maddux, 217 Kan. 192, 192 (1975)	2	Generally, a pretrial order which specifies the issues to be tried supersedes and replaces the pleadings. Rules of Civil Procedure, rule 16, K.S.A. 60-216.	A pretrial order which specifies the issues to be tried supersedes and replaces the pleadings.	Does a pretrial order which specifies the issues to be tried supersede and replace the pleadings?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
1329	Thompson v. Echostar Commc'ns Corp., 89 So. 3d 696, 701 (Miss. Ct. App. 2012)	10	Even though the rule providing for the dismissal of an action for failure to prosecute does not specifically mention sanctions, a court may impose lesser sanctions including fines, costs, or damages against a plaintiff or his counsel, attorney disciplinary measures, conditional dismissal, dismissal without prejudice, and explicit warnings. Rules Civ.Proc., Rule 41(b).	Therefore, even though Rule 41(b) does not specifically mention sanctions, a court may impose lesser sanctions instead of dismissing a case for lack of prosecution. See Hoffman v. Paracelsus Health Care Corp., 752 So.2d 1030, 1034 (¶ 12) (Miss.1999). "Lesser sanctions include fines, costs, or damages against [a] plaintiff or his counsel, attorney disciplinary measures, conditional dismissal, dismissal without prejudice, and explicit warnings.	"Can lesser sanctions than dismissal for a plaintiff's delay or contumacious conduct include fines, costs, or damages against plaintiff or his counsel?"	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

5479	M.S.P.C. v. U.S. Customs and Border Protection, 60 F.Supp.3d 1156, 1167 (D.N.M., 2014)	12	The fact that aliens within the territorial jurisdiction of the United States are protected by the Due Process Clause does not lead to the conclusion that all aliens are entitled to the same rights as citizens or to the conclusion that all aliens must be treated alike. U.S.C.A. Const.Amend. 5.	The fact that aliens within the territorial jurisdiction of the United States are protected by the Due Process Clause, however, does not lead to the conclusion that all aliens are entitled to the same rights as citizens or to the conclusion that all aliens must be treated alike.	Does the fact that aliens are protected by the Due Process Clause mean that aliens are entitled to enjoy all the advantages of citizenship?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
16752	Richard v. Perkins, 373 F. Supp. 2d 1211, 1219 (D. Kan. 2005)	16	Student athletes do not have property or liberty interests protected by the Due Process Clause in participating in intercollegiate athletics. U.S.C.A. Const.Amend. 14.	Defendants correctly note that under Tenth Circuit law, that student athletes do not have constitutionally protected property or liberty interests in participating in intercollegiate athletics. Seamons v. Snow, 84 F.3d 1226 (10th Cir.1996) (no protected property interest in participating in school athletic program); Colo. Seminary v. Nat'l Collegiate Athl. Assoc., 417 F.Supp. 885 (D.Colo.1976) (same), aff'd, 612 F.2d 473 (10th Cir.1979); see also Lesser v. Neosho County Community Coll., 741 Supp. 854, 861–62 (D.Kan.1990) (participation in intercollegiate athletics is privilege, not a right); Hysaw v. Washburn Univ. of Topeka, 690 F.Supp. 940 (D.Kan.1987) (no right to pursue college football career).	Do student athletes have a constitutional right to participate in athletic programs?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

18289	City of Washington v. Bd. of Assessment Appeals of Washington Cnty., 550 Pa. 175, 183, 704 A.2d 120, 124 (1997)	6	Fact that tuition charges are levied by private college, without more, does not negate college's status as purely public charity if it is otherwise entitled thereto. Const. Art. 8, S 2(a)(v); 72 P.S. S 5020-204(a)(3).	The fact that tuition charges are levied by W & J does not negate the college's status as a charity.	Is a college a charity if it charges tuition?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
9821	Vera v Soohoo, No. 19763/02, 2010-06630, 953 N.Y.S.2d 615, 617-18, 2012 N.Y. Slip Op. 07104, 2012 WL 5233642 (N.Y.A.D. 2 Dept., Oct. 24, 2012)	1	Court may dismiss an action when a plaintiff is unprepared to proceed to trial at the call of the calendar, and to be relieved of that default, a plaintiff must demonstrate both a reasonable excuse for the default and a potentially meritorious cause of action. N.Y.Ct.Rules, S 202.27.	Under 22 NYCRR 202.27, a court may dismiss an action when a plaintiff is unprepared to proceed to trial at the call of the calendar (see Fink v. Antell, 19 A.D.3d 215, 796 N.Y.S.2d 524; 618 Johnson v. Brooklyn Hosp. Ctr., 295 A.D.2d 567, 569, 744 N.Y.S.2d 215; Farley v. Danaher Corp., 295 A.D.2d 559, 560, 744 N.Y.S.2d 709). In order to be relieved of that default, a plaintiff must demonstrate both a reasonable excuse for the default and a potentially meritorious cause of action	Under 22 NYCRR 202.27 could a court dismiss an action when a plaintiff is unprepared to proceed to trial at the call of the calendar?	Not Copyrightable (near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation
17589	Sun Oil Co., 626 S.W.2d 726, 734 (Tex. 1982)	8	Estoppel is a defensive theory and does not create a contract right that does not otherwise exist.	Estoppel, however, is a defensive theory. It does not create a contract right that does not otherwise exist.	Does estoppel create a contract that does not otherwise exist?	Not Copyrightable (near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation

999	Williams v. National Mortg. Co., 903 S.W.2d 398, 403 (Tex.App. Dallas,1995)	15	Although nonsuit of party's claims does not end adverse party's right to be heard on its pending claims for affirmative relief, claim for affirmative relief filed after notice of lawsuit is usually ineffective to prevent termination of lawsuit. Vernon's Ann.Texas Rules Civ.Proc., Rule 162.	Although a nonsuit of a party's claims does not end an adverse party's right to be heard on its pending claims for affirmative relief, a claim for affirmative relief filed after a notice of nonsuit is usually ineffective to prevent termination of the lawsuit.	"Although nonsuit of party's claims does not end adverse party's right to be heard on its pending claims for affirmative relief, is a claim for affirmative relief filed after notice of nonsuit is usually ineffective to prevent termination of lawsuit?"	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
15034	In re Steele, 323 B.R. 776, 777 (Bankr. N.D. Fla. 2004)	2	Under Florida law, fact that person arranges for his mail to be left at particular address does not make him a "resident" at that address.	Moreover, "[t]he fact that a person ... arranges for his mail to be left ... does not convert him into a resident of that address."	"Does the fact that a person arranges for his mail to be left at particular address not make him a ""resident"" at that address?"	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

N/A	N/A	N/A	It is a violation of Rev.St.U.S. S 5485, 38 U.S.C.A. S 112, which forbids any agent or attorney or other person instrumental in prosecuting any claim for pension directly or indirectly to contract for, demand, receive, or retain any greater compensation for his services than $25, to contract to render such services for more than $25; to demand more than that sum for such services after rendering them without a contract; to retain more than that sum out of the check sent to the pensioner; or to receive more than that sum for such services in pursuance of any agreement, direct or indirect, express or implied, or of any legal or moral obligation; but it is not a violation of the section to receive more than $25 for such services, wholly as a gratuity, and without demand.	N/A	N/A	Not an asserted headnote
19540	Owens v. Fosdick, 153 Fla. 17, 20 (Fla. 1943)	1	The nature of a tax must be determined by its operation rather than by its terminology.	The issue being thus clearly defined, it becomes our duty to ascertain for ourselves upon what the tax is laid, keeping in mind that the nature of the tax must be determined by its operation rather than by its terminology.	Should the nature of a tax be determined by its operation rather than its particular descriptive languagee?	Not Copyrightable (headnote near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation
12876	Browning v. State, 174 Ga. App. 759, 760 (Ga. Ct. App. 1985)	1	Uttering or delivering writing is essential element of offense of forgery in the first degree; but it is not essential element of offense of forgery in the second degree. O.C.G.A. S 16-9-2(a).	Uttering or delivering a writing is an essential element of the offense of forgery in the first degree; but it is not an essential element of the offense of forgery in the second degree.	Is uttering or delivering any writing an essential element of forgery in the first degree?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

11294	Heisig v. Uvalde Rock Asphalt Co., 48 S.W.2d 1109, 1110 (Tex. App. 1932)	3	Cause of action arising subsequent to commencement of suit, and not declared on, cannot furnish basis for recovery.	A suit cannot be maintained upon a cause of action that does not exist at the time the suit is commenced, and the cause of action arising subsequent to the commencement of the suit, and not declared on after it has arisen, cannot furnish a basis for a recovery.	Can a cause of action arising subsequent to commencement of suit furnish basis for recovery?	Not Copyrightable (headnote near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation
4304	Stroll v. Long Island Jewish Med. Ctr., 151 A.D.3d 789, 791, 56 N.Y.S.3d 349, 350 (2017), abrogated by Element E, LLC v. Allyson Enterprises, Inc., 167 A.D.3d 981, 91 N.Y.S.3d 444	3	In order to vacate dismissal for failure to prosecute, a plaintiff is required to demonstrate a justifiable excuse for her default, as well as the existence of a potentially meritorious cause of action. McKinney's CPLR 3216(e).	In order to vacate the dismissal, the plaintiff was required to demonstrate a justifiable excuse for her default, as well as the existence of a potentially meritorious cause of action (see CPLR 3216[e]; Duranti v. Dream Works Constr., Inc., 139 A.D.3d at 1000–1001, 33 N.Y.S.3d 325; Bender v. Autism Speaks, Inc., 139 A.D.3d 989, 990, 32 N.Y.S.3d 312).	In order to vacate a dismissal for failure to prosecute is a plaintiff required to demonstrate a justifiable excuse for her default?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
7346	Rosebud Enterprises v. Idaho Pub. Utilities Comm'n, 128 Idaho 609, 613 (1996)	1	Purpose of Public Utility Regulatory Policies Act (PURPA) was to encourage promotion and development of renewable energy technologies as alternatives to fossil fuels and construction of new generating facilities by electric utilities. Public Utility Regulatory Policies Act of 1978, S 2 et seq., 16 U.S.C.A. S 2601 et seq.	292.101(b) (6) (1995). B. The Rules 1. Federal [1] Congress passed PURPA in 1978 in response to the prevailing energy crisis. Its purpose was to encourage the promotion and development of renewable energy technologies as alternatives to fossil fuels and the construction of new generating facilities by electric utilities. Section 210 of PURPA requires that electric utilities offer to purchase power produced by cogenerators or small power producers that obtain qualifying facility (QF) status under section 201.	What is the purpose of Public Utility Regulatory Act?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

11710	Thornton v. Crowther, 24 Mo. 164, 166 (1857)	2	An assignment of a promissory note, written on a separate paper , although not transferring the legal ownership , transfers the beneficial ownership in the note, so as to enable the assignee to sue on it in his own name .	There is no error in this record. Although the legal ownership of the note was not transferred --the assignment being on a separate paper and not on a note, as required by the statute--yet the beneficial ownership passed, and the assignee became the real party in interest, and entitled as such to sue upon the note in his own name .	Is an assignee of a note entitled to sue in his own name?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
3454	United States v. Loschiavo, 531 F.2d 659, 661 (2d Cir. 1976)	1	For purpose of deciding person's status as "public official" under statute making it federal crime to bribe such public official, it is not aspects of particular project which are of greatest significance, but character and attributes of person's employment relationship, if any, with federal Government. 18 U.S.C.A. S 201(a), (b)(1, 2).	The type of public project involved, or the amount of federal funding entailed, may be important in applying other parts of the statute, such as the 'official act' requirement of s 201(b)(1) or the 'fraud . . . on the United States' requirement of s 201(b)(2), but for the purpose of deciding Morales' status as a 'public official' under s 201(a), it is not the aspects of the particular project which are of the greatest significance, but the character and attributes of his employment relationship, if any, with the federal government.	"In determining status as a public official , are the character and attributes of his employment relationship with the federal government of greatest significance? "	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
5997	Raven v. Panama Canal Co., 583 F.2d 169, 171 (5th Cir. 1978)	5	Acts of Congress may treat aliens differently than citizens without such treatment being considered "invidious" or in violation of the equal protection clause. U.S.C.A.Const. Amend. 14.	The United States Supreme Court has recognized that Acts of Congress may treat aliens differently than citizens without such treatment being considered "invidious" or in violation of the Equal Protection clause. A legitimate distinction exists between citizens and aliens to warrant different treatment.	Can an Act of Congress treat aliens differently than citizens without such treatment being considered invidious?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

4100	Ruddock v. Burrowes, 243 Conn. 569, 577–84 (1998)	6	Consent to dismissal of action may be inferred from plaintiff's failure to file memorandum in opposition to defendant's motion to strike, or from plaintiff's inordinate delay in appointing administrator or executor.	Baker v. Banningoso, supra, 134 Conn. at 387, 58 A.2d 5; or consented to its dismissal. Such consent may be inferred from a plaintiff's failure to file a memorandum in opposition to a defendant's motion to strike; Hughes v. Bemer, 206 Conn. 491, 495, 538 A.2d 703 (1988); or from a plaintiff's inordinate delay in appointing an administrator or executor.	Can consent to dismissal of action be inferred from plaintiff's failure to file memorandum in opposition to defendant's motion to strike?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
9415	Ex Parte Browder, 373 S.W.2d 256, 257 (Tex. Crim. App. 1963)	1	Statute requiring court to continue cause where party or his attorney is member of Legislature is mandatory. Vernon's Ann.Civ.St. art. 2168a.	Art. 2168a, supra, requiring a court to continue a cause where a party or his attorney is a member of the legislature is recognized by the courts to be mandatory.	Is the statute requiring a court to continue cause where party or his attorney is member of Legislature mandatory?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
N/A	N/A	N/A	A township in a county under township organization has statutory power to direct the raising of money by taxation for construction and repairing of roads within its jurisdiction, and to make necessary contracts for that purpose.	N/A	N/A	Not an asserted headnote
10495	Citizens Nat. Bank v. Waltman, 344 So. 2d 725, 728 (Miss. 1977)	1	Execution of a renewal note with full knowledge of the facts constituting defense to the original note waives such defense as to the renewal.	Our law is clear that the execution of a renewal note with full knowledge of the facts constituting a defense to the original note waives that defense as to the renewal.	Does execution of a renewal note with full knowledge of the facts constituting a defense to the original note waive all defenses?	Not Copyrightable (headnote near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation

5385	Peterson v. McCawley, 135 Idaho 282, 284 (2000)	4	In fashioning sanctions, a trial court should balance the equities by comparing the culpability of the disobedient party with the resulting prejudice to the innocent party.	In fashioning sanctions, a trial court should "balance the equities by comparing the culpability of the disobedient party with the resulting prejudice to the innocent party."	"In fashioning sanctions, should a trial court balance the equities by comparing the culpability of the disobedient party with the resulting prejudice to the innocent party?"	Not Copyrightable (headnote near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation
4152	Kuykendall v. Schneidewind, 79 N.E.3d 770, 779 (Ill.App. 5 Dist., 2017)	6	On motion to dismiss on ground that claim is barred by affirmative matter, defendant has initial burden of establishing that affirmative matter defeats plaintiff's claim, and if satisfied, burden shifts to plaintiff to demonstrate that proffered affirmative matter is either unfounded, or requires resolution of material fact. 735 Ill. Comp. Stat. Ann. 5/2-619(a)(9).	The defendant has the initial burden of establishing that an affirmative matter defeats the plaintiff's claim, and if satisfied, the burden shifts to the plaintiff to demonstrate that the proffered affirmative matter is either unfounded, or requires the resolution of a material fact.	Does a defendant bear the initial burden to prove the affirmative matter defeating the plaintiff's claim?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
20822	Carroll Cnty. Sav. Bank v. Strother, 28 S.C. 504, 6 S.E. 313, 319 (1888)	5	A contract to pay money which authorizes the payee to declare it due whenever deemed insecure is not a negotiable note.	As to the other stipulation whereby the payee is invested with authority to declare the so-called note due whenever it is deemed insecure, it seems to us clear that it is sufficient, not only to deprive the paper of its negotiability, but also of its character as a note; for it renders the time of payment altogether uncertain, and dependent only upon the the option of the payee. See Bank v. Bynum, supra; Glidden v. Henry, 104 Ind. 278, 1 N. E. Rep. 369; Mahoney v. Fitzpatrick, 133 Mass. 151, 43 Amer. Rep. 502; Woodbury v. Roberts, 59 Iowa, 348, 13 N. W. Rep. 312.	Are notes promising to pay specified sums of money for the hire of slaves promissory notes?	Krein Concedes no copying; Not Copyrightable (expired)

17887	Fogade v. ENB Revocable Trust, 263 F.3d 1274, 1296 (11th Cir. 2001)	26	Act of state doctrine applies to affirmative defenses.	Therefore, because FOGADE's intervention of Corpofin, upon which Corpofin's claim to ENB is based, was not in violation of international law, the Second Hickenlooper Amendment does not apply to preclude the application of the act of state doctrine to defendants' affirmative defenses questioning the standing of plaintiffs to sue because of the alleged illegality of the intervention of Corpofin.	Does the act of state doctrine apply to affirmative defenses?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
14086	Cayuga Nation v. Tanner, 824 F.3d 321, 328 (2d Cir. 2016)	4	The Bureau of Indian Affairs (BIA) has the authority to make recognition decisions regarding tribal leadership, but only when the situation has deteriorated to the point that recognition of some government was essential for Federal purposes; thus, the BIA has both the authority and responsibility to interpret tribal law when necessary to carry out the government-to-government relationship with the tribe.	Second, the BIA has the authority to make recognition decisions regarding tribal leadership, but "only when the situation [has] deteriorated to the point that recognition of some government was essential for Federal purposes." Wadena, 30 IBIA 130, 145 (1996) (emphasis added). Thus, the BIA "has both the authority and responsibility to interpret tribal law when necessary to carry out the government-to-government relationship with the tribe."	What is the relevance of the Bureau of Indian Affairs?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

1594	Young v. HealthPort Techs., Inc., 877 N.W.2d 124, 127–28 (Iowa 2016)	7	To survive a motion to dismiss for the failure to state a claim on which relief may be granted, the petition need not allege the ultimate facts to support each element of a cause of action; however, it must contain factual allegations sufficient to give the defendant fair notice of each claim asserted so the defendant can adequately respond, and the allegations satisfy this "fair notice" requirement if the petition informs the defendant of the general nature of claim and the incident giving rise to it. I.C.A. Rule 1.421(1)(f).	To survive a motion to dismiss, the petition need not allege the ultimate facts to support each element of a cause of action. Id. However, it must contain factual allegations sufficient to give the defendant fair notice of each claim asserted so the defendant can adequately respond. The allegations in a petition comply with this fair-notice requirement if the petition informs the defendant of the general nature of the claim and the incident giving rise to it.	"To survive a motion to dismiss for the failure to state a claim on which relief can be granted, should the petition not allege the ultimate facts to support each element of a cause of action?"	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
20534	State Fire Marshall v. Lee, 101 Mich. App. 829, 834, 300 N.W.2d 748, 751 (1980)	3	In insuring safety of school children through application of fire regulations, State was not violating free exercise clause of Constitution nor its establishment clause. U.S.C.A.Const. Amend. 1.	In ensuring the safety of school children, the State is not violating the free exercise clause of our Constitution nor its establishment clause.	Does the state has a compelling interest to ensure the safety and welfare of school children?	Krein Concedes no copying
16257	K & K Const., Inc. v. Dep't of Nat. Res., 456 Mich. 570, 580, 575 N.W.2d 531, 536 (1998)	6	Determining size of denominator parcel to be analyzed in takings analysis is inherently a factual inquiry. U.S.C.A. Const.Amend. 5; M.C.L.A. Const. Art. 10, S 2.	The relevant denominator in this case includes at least parcels one, two, and four. [6] Determining the size of the denominator parcel is inherently a factual inquiry. As explained in Ciampitti v.	Is determining the size of the denominator parcel a factual inquiry under the taking laws?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
18558	Davidson v. Bugbee, 227 Mich. App. 264, 575 N.W.2d 574, 269 (Mich. Ct. App. 1997)	8	Cause of action accrues when all the elements of claim have occurred and can be alleged in proper complaint.	A cause of action accrues when all the elements of the claim have occurred and can be alleged in a proper complaint.	Does a cause of action accrue when all the elements of claim have occurred and can be alleged in proper complaint?	Not Copyrightable (headnote near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation

16973	People ex rel. Price v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 266 Ill. 636, 638, 107 N.E. 803, 804 (1915)	1	Under Road and Bridge Law, S 56, S.H.A. ch. 121, S 62, a resolution of the county board directing the county clerk to extend on the tax books road and bridge taxes, is not an approval by the board of the taxes, to render a levy valid.	Under the road and bridge laws of 1913 the original certificate of levy of road and bridge taxes must be filed with the county clerk, and no valid tax can be extended by him upon a copy of the certificate of levy, the original of which is filed with the town clerk as was the practice under the old law. People v. Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railway Co., 269 Ill.	Does the county clerk have authority to extend the road and bridge tax?	Not copyrightable (expired); No Material Appropriation
10928	Mississippi Dept. of Human Services v. Guidry, 830 So. 2d 628, 631 (Miss. 2002)	4	Power to dismiss action for want of prosecution is part of trial court's inherent authority.	"[T]he power to dismiss an action for want of prosecution is part of a trial court's inherent authority."	Is the power to dismiss action for want of prosecution a part of trial court's inherent authority?	Not Copyrightable (headnote near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation
14821	Rachbach v. Cogswell, 547 F.2d 502, 505 (10th Cir. 1976)	8	Section of the Truth in Lending Act providing that obligor who exercises right to rescind is not liable for any finance or other charge does not preclude court from doing equity, and no abuse of discretion was shown in the imposition of interest as an equitable condition to the right of rescission of mortgage contract where the borrower had had the benefit of the use of the loan proceeds. Truth in Lending Act, S 125(b) as amended 15 U.S.C.A. S 1635(b).	Section 1635(b) says that when an obligor exercises his right to rescind "he is not liable for any finance or other charge."	Is an obligor liable for finance or other charges when exercising the right to rescind?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

5145	Town of Kaneville v. Meredith, 361 Ill. 556, 569 (Ill., 1935)	8	In law action rights of parties are determined as of time of beginning of action, but where relief is granted in chancery it is such as nature of case, the law and the facts demand, not at time of inception of litigation, but at time decree is entered therein.	While in an action at law the rights of the parties are determined as of the time of the beginning of the action, a decree in chancery is a determination of the rights of the parties to the suit according to equity and good conscience, and where relief is granted by a decree, it is such as the nature of the case, the law and the facts demand, not at the time of the inception of the litigation, but at the time the decree is entered therein.	"In actions at law, are the rights of the parties generally determined as of the time of beginning of the action?"	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
------	---	---	--	---	--	--

757	Burns v. Drew Woods, 900 S.W.2d 128, 129 (Tex. App. 1995)	2	If trial court makes finding that party's failure to appear was not intentional or result of conscious indifference but was due to accident or mistake, or that failure has been otherwise reasonably explained, it has no discretion and must reinstate case. Vernon's Ann.Texas Rules Civ.Proc., Rule 165a, subd. 1.	Burns does not assert that she attended the pretrial conference or that the court had no authority to dismiss her suit for failing to appear. In a single point of error, she asserts that the court abused its discretion in denying her motion to reinstate the suit against Drew Woods. See id. 165a.3. Rule 165a.3 provides, however, the court "shall reinstate the case upon finding after a hearing that the failure of the party or his attorney was not intentional or the result of conscious indifference but was due to an accident or mistake or that the failure has been otherwise reasonably explained." 1 Id. (emphasis added). Thus, if the court makes the specified finding, it has no discretion and must reinstate the case. When a point of error asserts that the court erred in failing to reinstate a cause, the rule focuses our review not on the court's discretion but on its role in the fact-finding *130 process.	"If trial court makes finding that party's failure to appear was not intentional or result of conscious indifference but was due to accident or mistake, does it have no discretion and must reinstate the case?"	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
4052	US Chem. Storage, LLC v. Berto Constr., Inc., 253 N.C. App. 378, 382, 800 S.E.2d 716, 720 (2017)	7	The standard of review to be applied by a trial court in deciding a motion to dismiss for lack of personal jurisdiction depends upon the procedural context confronting the court. N.C. R. Civ. P. 12(b)(2).	"The standard of review to be applied by a trial court in deciding a motion under Rule 12(b)(2) depends upon the procedural context confronting the court."	Does the standard of review to be applied by a trial court in deciding a motion to dismiss for lack of personal jurisdiction depend upon the procedural context confronting the court?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

5854	State v. Metz, 671 N.Y.S.2d 79, 83 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dept. 1998)	2	Generally, function of motion in limine is to permit party to obtain preliminary order before or during trial excluding introduction of anticipated inadmissible, immaterial, or prejudicial evidence or limiting its use; purpose of motion is to prevent introduction of such evidence to trier of fact, in most instances a jury.	Generally, the function of a motion in limine is to permit a party to obtain a preliminary order before or during trial excluding the introduction of anticipated inadmissible, immaterial, or prejudicial evidence or limiting its use. Its purpose is to prevent the introduction of such evidence to the trier of fact, in most instances a jury.	Does a motion in limine challenge evidence which is claimed to be immaterial or request a limitation on the use of such evidence?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
9548	Allred v. Allred, 132 Conn. App. 430, 431 (Conn. App. Ct. 2011)	1	Because service of process implicates a court's personal jurisdiction, an action commenced by improper service must be dismissed.	Because service of process implicates a court's personal jurisdiction, "an action commenced by ... improper service must be dismissed."	Must an action commenced by improper service be dismissed?	Not Copyrightable (headnote near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation
10943	United States v. Deninno, 103 F.3d 82, 87 (10th Cir. 1996)	11	Civil forfeiture does not constitute punishment for purposes of Fifth Amendment's prohibition on double jeopardy. U.S.C.A. Const.Amend. 5.	In Urser, the Supreme Court held that civil forfeiture does not constitute punishment for the purposes of the Fifth Amendment's prohibition on double jeopardy.	Does civil forfeiture not constitute punishment for purposes of a Fifth Amendment's prohibition on double jeopardy?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
4548	Price v. Price, 1989 OK CIV APP 50, ¶ 1 (1989)	1	Generally, subject to few exceptions, complainant has common law and statutory right to control his cause by dismissal at his pleasure on payment of costs. 12 O.S.1981, S 684.	Generally, subject to few exceptions, a complainant has a common law and statutory right to control his cause by dismissal at his pleasure on payment of costs.	"Subject to a few exceptions, does a complainant have common law and statutory right to control his cause by dismissal at his pleasure on payment of costs?"	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

Comparison to 200 headnotes Appendix E to Dr. Krein's Reply Report

Krein Row	Case Name	HN No. in Case	Headnote Text	Judicial Text	Memo Question	Analysis
-----------	-----------	----------------	---------------	---------------	---------------	----------

18724	Flanagin v. Hambleton, 54 Md. 222, 227 (Md. 1880)	8	The word "renewal" has no legal, or strictly technical signification.	The word "renewal" has no legal or strictly technical signification.	Does the word renewal have any legal or technical signification?	Not Copyrightable (expired; headnote near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation
21483	100 Harborview Drive Condo. Council of Unit Owners v. Clark, 224 Md. App. 13, 68, 119 A.3d 87, 119 (2015)	54	Condominium council sued by unit owner for violations of his right to disclosure of records under Maryland Condominium Act (MCA) was not entitled to present testimony of accounting expert on legal issue of whether detailed billing reports of legal counsel were part of the financial books and records that a condominium association is required to keep, as expert was not timely disclosed pursuant to scheduling order. West's Ann.Md.Code, Real Property, S 11-116.	We have deemed substantial compliance with a scheduling order to be sufficient where the opposing party has not suffered prejudice.	Is substantial compliance with a scheduling order sufficient where the opposing party has not suffered prejudice?	Krein Concedes no copying
11731	Avon Hardware Co. v. Ace Hardware Corp., 2013 IL App (1st) 130750, ¶ 13, 998 N.E.2d 1281, 1287	3	In ruling on a motion to dismiss, the complaint's factual allegations are to be interpreted in the light most favorable to the plaintiff. S.H.A. 735 ILCS 5/2-615.	In ruling on a motion to dismiss, the complaint's factual allegations are to be interpreted in the light most favorable to the plaintiff, but factual deficiencies may not be cured by liberal construction.	"In ruling on a motion to dismiss, are the complaint's factual allegations to be interpreted in the light most favorable to the plaintiff? "	Not Copyrightable (headnote near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation

1262	Pac. Exp. Co. v. Needham, 37 Tex. Civ. App. 129, 132-33, 83 S.W. 22, 23 (1904)	6	Under Rev.St.1895, art. 1277, providing that, on the first application for a continuance on the ground of want of testimony, the applicant shall make affidavit that such testimony is material and that he has used due diligence , an application for continuance is properly refused where it fails to state the use of due diligence to procure the required testimony.	Appellant's third assignment of error complains of the action of the *133 court below in overruling its first application for a continuance . In this there was no error, because the application did not comply with the statutory requirements, in that it failed to state that appellant had used due diligence to procure the testimony of the absent witnesses. Rev.St.1895, art. 1277; Crawford v. Saunders (Tex.Civ.App.) 29 S.W. 102; Railway Co. v. Aiken, 71 Tex. 377, 9 S.W. 437; Railway Co. v. Woolum, 84 Tex. 570, 19 S.W. 782; Brown v. Bank, 70 Tex. 750, 8 S.W. 599.	Is an application for continuance properly refused where it fails to state the use of due diligence to procure the required testimony ?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
19480	Ad Miller Associates, Inc. v. Glynn, 736 So. 2d 798, 799 (Fla. Dist. Ct. App. 1999)	2	Default is most serious sanction that can be imposed on defendant.	A default is the most serious sanction that can be imposed on a defendant.	Is default the most serious sanction that can be imposed on a defendant?	Not Copyrightable (headnote near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation
19409	Ash v. Werner, 12 Pa. Super. 39, 43 (1899)	3	A new partner , coming into an existing firm , is not liable for debts contracted by the firm previous to his entering it, unless he expressly assumed them.	A partner who enters a firm already established does not thereby become liable for the debts of the old firm. Nothing but an express agreement will render him so liable: Hart v. Kelley, 83 Pa. 286; Shoemaker v. King, 40 Pa. 107.	Is an incoming partner liable on the contracts entered into by the firm before he became a member?	Not Copyrightable (expired); No Material Appropriation

729	Guggenheimer v. Ginzburg, 372 N.E.2d 17, 20-21 (1977)	6	When evidentiary material is considered in connection with motion to dismiss, criterion is whether proponent of pleading has cause of action, not whether he has stated one, and, unless it has been shown that material facts as claimed by pleader to be one is not fact at all and unless it can be said that no significant dispute exists regarding it, dismissal should not eventuate. CPLR 3211(a), par. 7, (c).	When evidentiary material is considered, the criterion is whether the proponent of the pleading has a cause of action, not whether he has stated one, and, unless it has been 21 shown that a material fact as claimed by the pleader to be one is not a fact at all and unless it can be said that no significant dispute exists regarding it, again dismissal should not eventuate.	"Unless it has been shown that a material fact as claimed by the plaintiff to be one is not a fact at all and unless it can be said that no significant dispute exists regarding it, should a dismissal not eventuate?"	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
5786	Wasko v. Manella, 849 A.2d 777, 781 (Conn. 2004)	3	The right of legal or equitable subrogation is not a matter of contract; it does not arise from any contractual relationship between the parties, but takes place as a matter of equity, with or without an agreement to that effect.	By contrast, [t]he right of [legal or equitable] subrogation is not a matter of contract; it does not arise from any contractual relationship between the parties, but takes place as a matter of equity, with or without an agreement to that effect.	"Does legal subrogation take place as a matter of equity, without any agreement to that effect?"	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
9292	Ins. Co. of N. Am. v. Borsdorff Servs., Inc., 225 A.D.2d 494, 494, 639 N.Y.S.2d 816, 816 (1996)	1	Lease provisions stating agreement by landlord and tenant to obtain fire insurance policies with waiver of subrogation provisions barring action by insurers were valid and enforceable as allocation of risk provision, and, therefore, precluded subrogation action by insurer.	The lease provisions whereby the landlord and tenant agreed to obtain fire insurance policies with waiver of subrogation provisions barring one party's insurer from bringing a subrogation action against the other party to recover amounts paid out under the insurance policy, is valid and enforceable, as an allocation of risk provision, and thereby precludes this subrogation claim (see, Brentano's Inc. v. Charter Mgt. Corp., 46 A.D.2d 861, 361 N.Y.S.2d 665; Cidis v. Net Realty Holding Trust, 143 A.D.2d 720, 533 N.Y.S.2d 288).	Are waiver of subrogation clauses valid and enforceable?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

7283	In re Wead, 38 B.R. 658, 659–60 (Bankr. E.D. Mo. 1984)	2	Bankruptcy Court would not entertain or consider a second Chapter 11 petition involving the same debtors and essentially the same debts where the first case was still pending , where debtors did not present any basis upon which the findings and conclusions in first case could be reconsidered, and where there remained no reasonable likelihood of reorganization, and where the creditors would continue to be prejudiced by operation of second bankruptcy case, which was not filed in good faith. Bankr.Code, 11 U.S.C.A. S 1101 et seq.	It is generally accepted that the pendency of one bankruptcy case precludes a consideration of a second case filed by the same debtor(s) and involving the same debts. . . . Therefore, this Court finds that it cannot entertain or consider a second Chapter 11 petition involving the same debtors and essentially the same debts , when the first case is still pending .	Does the pendency of one bankruptcy case preclude a consideration of a second case filed by the same debtors involving the same debts?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
17903	Philadelphia Indem. Ins. Co. v. Pace Suburban Bus Serv., 2016 IL App (1st) 151659, ¶ 25, 67 N.E.3d 556, 565	11	Subrogation is allowed to prevent injustice and unjust enrichment but will not be allowed where it would be inequitable to do so.	Subrogation is allowed to prevent injustice and unjust enrichment but will not be allowed where it would be inequitable to do so.	Will subrogation be allowed where it would be inequitable?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

1529	Pocahontas First Corp. v. Venture Plan. Grp., Inc., 572 F. Supp. 503, 506 (D. Nev. 1983)	4	It is permissible for court to decide pretrial motion to dismiss for lack of personal jurisdiction on the basis of affidavits alone; where this procedure is followed, plaintiff need make only a prima facie showing of jurisdiction through its affidavits to defeat motion to dismiss.	It is permissible for a court to decide a pretrial motion to dismiss for lack of personal jurisdiction on the basis of affidavits alone. Marine Midland Bank, N.A. v. Miller, 664 F.2d 899, 904 (2nd Cir.1981). Such a procedure seems particularly appropriate in the instant case, where the opposing affidavits don't contradict each other as to the material facts. Disagreement is centered on the legal conclusions to be derived from those facts. Where this approach is followed, the plaintiff need make only a prima facie showing of jurisdiction, through its affidavits, to defeat the motion to dismiss.	"If a court chooses to rule on a motion to dismiss for lack of personal jurisdiction on the basis of affidavits alone, need the party opposing the motion make only a prima facie showing of jurisdiction?"	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
13318	State ex rel. Priest v. Gunn, 326 S.W.2d 314, 329 (Mo. 1959)	18	Matters arising pendente lite may be pleaded in defense by respondent in mandamus proceeding or by the relator in his replication.	It has been held that matters arising pendente lite may be pleaded in defense by the respondent (55 C.J.S. Mandamus § 278, p. 518; State ex rel. Kavanaugh v. Henderson, 350 Mo. 968, 169 S.W.2d 389), or by the relator in his 'replication' (55 C.J.S. Mandamus § 284, p. 522.)	Can matters arising pendente lite be pleaded in defense by respondent in mandamus proceeding or by the relator in his replication?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

833	Zapanta v. Universal Care, Inc., 107 Cal. App. 4th 1167, 1171, 132 Cal. Rptr. 2d 842, 845 (2003)	3	Exceptions to a plaintiff's right to dismiss action before commencement of trial generally arise where the action has proceeded to a determinative adjudication, or to a decision that is tantamount to an adjudication; upon the proper exercise of that right, a trial court would thereafter lack jurisdiction to enter further orders in the dismissed action, except for matters such as attorney fees. West's Ann.Cal.C.C.P. S 581.	But the right of a plaintiff to voluntarily dismiss an action before commencement of trial is not absolute. (Cravens v. State Bd. of Equalization (1997) 52 Cal.App.4th 253, 256, 60 Cal.Rptr.2d 436.) " 'Code of Civil Procedure section 581 recognizes exceptions to the right; other limitations have evolved through the courts' construction of the term 'commencement of trial.' These exceptions generally arise where the action has proceeded to a determinative adjudication, or to a decision that is tantamount to an adjudication.' " (Ibid., quoting Harris v. Billings (1993) 16 Cal.App.4th 1396, 1402, 20 Cal.Rptr.2d 718.) " 'Upon the proper exercise of that right, a trial court would thereafter lack jurisdiction to enter further orders in the dismissed action' [citation] except for matters such as attorney's fees.	Do exceptions to a plaintiff's right to dismiss action before commencement of a trial generally arise where the action has proceeded to a determinative adjudication?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
-----	--	---	--	---	--	---

19820	Affholter v. Franklin Cnty. Water Dist., No. 1:07CV03880 WWDLB, 2008 WL 5385810, at *13–14 (E.D. Cal. Dec. 23, 2008)	1	Arbitration clauses in agreements for the sale of property were not unconscionable. Therefore, purchasers' claims for property damage, economic losses, and emotional distress arising out of the alleged discharge of pollutants from various public and private wastewater treatment, refuse, and disposal facilities, irrigation canals, and other facilities were subject to arbitration under the Federal Arbitration Act. The purchasers alleged that the provision was substantively unconscionable because it precluded discovery. However, the arbitration rules and regulations provided for depositions as a matter of right and depositions based upon a showing of reasonable need. 9 U.S.C.A. § 1 et seq.	Ranchwood Plaintiffs first assert that the Arbitration Provision is substantively unconscionable because it “precludes discovery.” Doc. 210 at 12. This is not an entirely accurate description of the provision. Subparagraph (g) of the Arbitration Provision provides: [. . .] *14 (Emphasis added.) Accordingly, if the applicable arbitration rules provide for discovery, discovery may be available. In this case, the parties have already agreed that if arbitration proceeds it will commence pursuant to the rules and regulations of Jams/Endispute, which provide that each party may take one (1) deposition as a matter of right, and that additional depositions may be permitted upon a showing of “reasonable need.” (Decl. of Christopher S. Hall, Doc. 216–2, at ¶ 4 and Ex. B.)	Did the Federal Arbitration Act (FAA) create rules of contract construction favoring arbitration?	Krein Concedes no copying
11866	Ortiz v. State, 849 S.W.2d 921, 924 (Tex. App. 1993)	7	Exception to rule that, generally, prior jeopardy does not constitute bar to retrial when defendant consents to new trial, exists when governmental conduct, either by judge or prosecutor, is designed to goad defendant into moving for retrial; then, double jeopardy clause will bar reprosecution despite defendant's consent to new trial. U.S.C.A. Const.Amend. 5.	Generally, prior jeopardy does not constitute a bar to retrial when the defendant consents to a new trial. An exception, however, exists to the above rule when governmental conduct, either by the judge or the prosecutor, is designed to goad the defendant into moving for a mistrial. Then, the Double jeopardy clause will bar reprosecution despite the defendant's consent to the new trial.	Does prior jeopardy not constitute a bar to retrial when a defendant consents to a new trial?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

2765	Carter v. VistaCare, LLC, 335 Ga. App. 616, 624, 782 S.E.2d 678, 686 (2016)	18	The moving party's burden on a motion to withdraw admissions is not perfunctorily satisfied, and the failure to present admissible, credible evidence contradicting the admitted matters justifies the denial of the motion to withdraw. West's Ga.CodeAnn. S 9-11-36(b).	This burden "is not perfunctorily satisfied," Turner, 280 Ga.App. at 257(1), 633 S.E.2d 641, and the "[f]ailure to present admissible, credible evidence contradicting the admitted matters justifies the denial of the motion to withdraw." (Citation omitted.) Brooks, 317 Ga.App. at 267(1), 730 S.E.2d 509. Moreover, [t]he party seeking to withdraw the admissions has the burden of establishing the first prong by showing that the admitted request either can be refuted by admissible evidence having a modicum of credibility or is incredible on its face, and the denial is not offered solely for purposes of delay. Failure to present admissible, credible evidence contradicting the admitted matters justifies the denial of the motion to withdraw. (Citations and punctuation omitted.) Porter v.	"Is the moving party's burden on a motion to withdraw admissions perfunctorily satisfied, and the failure to present admissible, credible evidence contradicting the admitted matters justifies the denial of the motion to withdraw?"	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
18022	Merchants Nat. Bank of Aurora v. Frazier, 329 Ill. App. 191, 201 (Ill. App. Ct. 1946)	5	An agent, as such, does not have title to the property of the principal, though he may be intrusted with possession and though he may have power to pass title.	An agent as such does not have title to the property of the principal, although he may be entrusted with possession and although he may have power to pass title; a trustee has title to the trust fund.	Does Agent have title to the property of the principal?	Not Copyrightable (headnote near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation

12577	Land Title Bank & Tr. Co. v. Ward, 20 F. Supp. 810, 812–13 (E.D. Pa. 1937)	4	"According to its value" as used in statute retaining in the states and their subdivisions the power to tax real property of a national bank to the same extent, according to its value as other real property is taxed, does not limit the manner of collection of state taxes but merely limits the tax which a state might levy to an ad valorem tax levied upon the same basis as all real estate similarly situated in the taxing district. 12 U.S.C.A. S 548(3).	As we understand the clause 'according to its value,' it is not intended to limit the manner of collection of state taxation at all. That is only limited by the manner in which 'other real property is taxed,' by the state. The purpose of the clause 'according to its value' was to limit the tax which a state might levy to an ad valorem tax levied upon the same basis on all real estate similarly situated in the *813 taxing district. In other words, Congress has declared that, while the states remain free to levy and collect taxes upon the real estate of national banks in the same manner as upon other real estate, such taxes shall be levied according to a definite percentage of the value of the real estate taxed, and that both the rate and basis of valuation applied to the real estate of a national bank shall be the same as those applied to other real estate within the taxing district similarly situated.	"How is an ""ad valorem property taxes"" levied?"	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
6794	Whisman v. Fawcett, 470 N.E.2d 73, 77 (Ind. 1984)	4	Reasons for avoiding overly technical application of pretrial orders are amplified when pretrial order is not definitive, specific, complete, or detailed.	Furthermore, the reasons for avoiding overly technical application of pretrial orders are amplified when, as in this case, the pretrial order is not definitive, specific, complete, or detailed.	"Are reasons for avoiding overly technical application of pretrial orders amplified when a pretrial order is not definitive, specific, complete, or detailed?"	Not Copyrightable (headnote near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation

1211	Bounds v. Caudle, 549 S.W.2d 438, 444 (Tex. Civ. App.), writ granted (July 27, 1977), rev'd, 560 S.W.2d 925 (Tex. 1977)	9	Purpose of rule of civil procedure governing discovery is to permit inspection and copying of tangible things within opposing party's custody upon a showing of good cause; although courts are required to give such rule a liberal construction, it was never intended to allow fishing excursions and was not intended to allow invasion of opposing party's thinking processes or that of his expert witnesses. Rules of Civil Procedure, rule 167.	*444 [9] The purpose of Rule 167 is to permit inspection and copying of "tangible things" within the opposing party's custody upon a showing of good cause. Although we are required to give this rule a liberal construction, it was never intended to allow fishing excursions. Texhoma Stores, Inc. v. American Central Insurance Company, 424 S.W.2d 466 (Tex.Civ.App. Dallas 1968, writ ref'd n. r. e.). Rule 167 was not intended to allow invasion of the opposing party's thinking processes or that of his expert witnesses.	Is the purpose of a rule of civil procedure governing discovery to permit inspection and copying of tangible things within an opposing party's custody upon a showing of good cause?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
12624	United States v. Kay, 200 F. Supp. 2d 681, 683 (S.D. Tex. 2002), rev'd and remanded, 359 F.3d 738 (5th Cir. 2004)	3	Payments made by the defendants to foreign government officials for purpose of reducing customs duties and taxes did not fall under the scope of provision of the Foreign Corrupt Practices Act (FCPA), prohibiting payments to foreign officials to obtain or retain business; although the plain language of the statute was ambiguous, legislative history showed that the Congress specifically rejected proposed language to broaden the "obtain or retain business" clause that would have covered the defendants' conduct. Securities Exchange Act of 1934, S 30A(a), as amended, 15 U.S.C.A. S 78dd-1(a); Foreign Corrupt Practices Act of 1977, S 104(a), 15 U.S.C.A. S 78dd-2(a).	In applying criminal laws, federal courts must generally follow the plain and unambiguous language of the statute. E.g., Salinas v. United States, 522 U.S. 52, 57, 118 S.Ct. 469, 139 L.Ed.2d 352 (1997); Johnson v. Sawyer, 120 F.3d 1307, 1319 (5th Cir.1997). Reviewing the "obtain or retain business" language, together with the exceptions listed above, the Court determines that the FCPA is ambiguous under these circumstances.4 Therefore, the Court turns to an analysis of the legislative history of the FCPA. See, e.g., Ratzlaf v. United States, 510 U.S. 135, 147-48, 114 S.Ct. 655, 126 L.Ed.2d 615 (1994) ("[W]e do not resort to legislative history to cloud a statutory text that is clear.").	"Is the plain language of a provision of FCPA, prohibiting payments to foreign officials to obtain or retain business ambiguous?"	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

16447	Sands v. State Through Louisiana State Med. Ctr., Sch. of Dentistry, 458 So. 2d 960, 961 (La. Ct. App. 1984)	1	A continuance is not due on a naked showing that a client has discharged his or her lawyer; to discharge one's lawyer, even without any cause, would otherwise enable one to delay going to trial forever.	We deem it beyond question that a continuance is not due on a naked showing that a client has discharged his or her lawyer. To discharge one's lawyer, even without any cause, would otherwise enable one to delay going to trial forever.	Is a continuance not due on a naked showing that a client has discharged his or her lawyer?	Not Copyrightable (headnote near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation
11527	Lazar v. Black & White Cab Co., 50 Ga. App. 567, 179 S.E. 250, 251-52 (1935)	10	Depositions cannot be admitted in evidence or treated as having force and effect of evidence, unless it appears that they were properly transmitted to court in which legal proceeding was pending.	Among other requirements for the admission in evidence of depositions, it must appear that they were properly transmitted to the court where the legal proceeding in which they were taken was pending. Findlay v. Mineralized Rubber Co., 98 Ga. 275, 25 S. E. 456; Johnstone v. Etowah Milling Co., 8 Ga. App. 807 (2), 809, 70 S. E. 180. Even though properly sworn to by the witness and properly executed, not only can they not be admitted in evidence, but they cannot be treated as having the force and effect of evidence in the case, until thus properly transmitted.	Can depositions be admitted in evidence or treated as having force and effect of evidence?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
13256	South Carolina v. McDonald's, 375 S.C. 90, 91-92 (2007)	2	Ruling on motion in limine is generally not considered a final order on the admissibility of evidence and, for that reason, is not immediately appealable.	A motion in limine is generally not considered a final order on the admissibility of evidence and, for that reason, is not immediately appealable.	Is a ruling on a motion in limine considered a final order?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

7067	Epstein v. Chicago Bd. of Educ., 178 Ill. 2d 370, 383, 687 N.E.2d 1042, 1049 (1997)	8	Appeal from involuntary dismissal on ground that claim is barred by other affirmative matter avoiding legal effect of or defeating claim resembles grant of summary judgment motion and is likewise reviewed de novo; appellate court must consider whether existence of genuine issue of material fact should have precluded dismissal or, absent such issue of fact, whether dismissal is proper as matter of law. S.H.A. 735 ILCS 5/2-619(a)(9).	A dismissal of this type resembles the grant of a summary judgment motion. For that reason, the reviewing court conducts de novo review and considers whether "the existence of a genuine issue of material fact should have precluded the dismissal or, absent such an issue of fact, whether dismissal is proper as a matter of law."	Can a court determine whether a genuine issue of material fact should preclude dismissal?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
1323	White v. Jasper City Bd. of Educ., 644 So.2d 16, 17 (Ala.Civ.App.,1994)	2	Although dismissal of action for failure to prosecute or to comply with rules or order is harsh sanction, it is warranted when there is clear record of delay, willful default or contumacious conduct of plaintiff. Rules Civ.Proc., Rule 41(b).	Although a Rule 41(b) dismissal is a harsh sanction, it is warranted when there is a "clear record of delay, willful default or contumacious conduct of the plaintiff."	"Is dismissal of action for failure to prosecute or to comply with rules or order warranted when there is clear record of delay, willful default or contumacious conduct of plaintiff?"	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
20411	Anderson Living Tr. v. WPX Energy Prod., LLC, 312 F.R.D. 620, 648 (D.N.M. 2015)	18	In ruling on a motion to reconsider an interlocutory order, a court should consider the case's overall progress and posture, the motion's timeliness relative to the order it challenges, and any direct evidence the parties may produce, and use those factors to assess the degree of reasonable reliance the opposing party has placed in the court's prior ruling. Fed. R. Civ. P. 54(b).	Second, the Court should consider the case's overall progress and posture, the motion for reconsideration's timeliness relative to the ruling it challenges, and any direct evidence the parties may produce, and use those factors to assess the degree of reasonable reliance the opposing party has placed in the Court's prior ruling.	Is processing something that takes place in order for the gas to be marketable to interstate pipelines?	Krein Concedes no copying

3847	Halifax Paper Co. v. Roanoke Rapids Sanitary Dist., 232 N.C. 421, 429 (1950)	6	The fact that a business or enterprise is, generally speaking, a public utility, does not make every service performed or rendered by it a public service and it may act in a private capacity as distinguished from its public capacity, and, in so doing, is subject to the same rules as a private person.	The fact that a business or enterprise is, generally speaking, a public utility, does not make every service performed or rendered by it a public service, but it may act in a private capacity as distinguished from its public capacity, and in so doing is subject to the same rules as a private person.	Is a public utility subject to the same rules as a private person when it acts in a private capacity?	Not Copyrightable (headnote near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation
18308	Grannis v. Stevens, 216 N.Y. 583, 111 N.E. 263 (1916)		Act and intention are the essential constituents of a delivery which makes an instrument operative according to its terms. The final question is, Did the obligor do such act in reference to it as evidences an intention to give it, in the possession or control of the obligee, effect and operation according to its terms?	Krein's headnote not found using judicial opinion.	What is the essential ingredient of a delivery?	Not Copyrightable (expired; no headnote)
8776	USLIFE Corp. v. U.S. Life Ins. Co., 560 F. Supp. 1302, 1304 (N.D. Tex. 1983)	3	Equitable estoppel focuses on relationship between parties to prior litigation, and applies where one of parties has detrimentally relied upon position taken by other party in earlier proceeding.	Equitable estoppel focuses on the relationship between the parties to the prior litigation, and it applies where one of the parties has detrimentally relied upon the position taken by the other party in the earlier proceeding.	Does equitable estoppel focus on the relationship between parties to the prior litigation?	Not Copyrightable (headnote near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation
4104	Vidal v. Perez, 720 So. 2d 605, 606 (Fla. Dist. Ct. App. 1998)	3	Trial judge has broad discretion in declining to dismiss an action if reasonable cause for the failure to effect timely service is documented.	"The trial judge has broad discretion in declining to dismiss an action if reasonable cause for the failure to effect timely service is documented." Morales v. Sperry Rand Corp., 601 So.2d 538, 540 (Fla.1992).	Does a trial judge have broad discretion in declining to dismiss an action if reasonable cause for the failure to effect timely service is documented?	Not Copyrightable (headnote near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation

981	Sourbier v. State, 498 N.W.2d 720, 723 (Iowa, 1993)	4	Under workers' compensation law, employer provides, secures, or pays compensation for any and all personal injuries sustained by employee arising out of and in course of employment, and in such case, employer is relieved from other liability for recovery of damages or other compensation for such personal injury. I.C.A. S 85.3.	Under workers' compensation law, an employer provides, secures, or pays compensation for any and all personal injuries sustained by an employee arising out of and in the course of the employment, and in such case, the employer is relieved from other liability for recovery of damages or other compensation for such personal injury. Iowa Code 85.3.	"Under workers compensation law, does an employer provide, secure, or pay compensation for any and all personal injuries sustained by an employee arising out of and in the course of employment, and in such case, the employer is relieved from other liability for recovery of damages or other compensation for such personal injury?"	Not Copyrightable (headnote near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation
-----	---	---	--	---	--	---

19834	W. Elec. Co. v. Cooley, 79 Cal. App. 770, 777-78, 251 P. 331, 334 (Cal. Ct. App. 1926)	3	Electric power line is " structure ," within statute giving lien on building or other structure. Code Civ.Proc. S 1183.	That decisions from other states are of little value in considering our statute arises from the fact that, in almost every instance which we have examined, there is a difference in the wording employed by the Legislature, but in the Oregon case the language is identical with our own, and *778 we think the holding of the court in that case conforms with the intent of section 15 of article 20 of our Constitution and the enactments of the Legislature, as expressed in section 1183, Code of Civil Procedure, and that an electric power line , consisting of poles and wires strung thereon, insulators, and such materials as enter into the work, constitutes a structure upon which materialmen may be entitled to a lien , other provisions of the law necessary to the enforcement thereof being complied with.	Are electric poles supporting power lines considered structures ?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
4437	State v. Higgins, 149 N.H. 290, 298 (2003)	17	Sexual assault victim's status as a prostitute does not necessarily mean that she will accept every opportunity that comes along to engage in sexual relations or relent to the desires of any paying customer, regardless of her motivation for engaging in prostitution in the first instance; a prostitute does not lose the right of choice, and may consent or not consent according to her own will.	Further, the victim's status as a prostitute does not necessarily mean that she will accept every opportunity that comes along to engage in sexual relations or relent to the desires of any paying customer, regardless of her motivation for engaging in prostitution in the first instance. See Harris, 362 S.E.2d at 213; Patnaude, 438 A.2d at 407. " A prostitute does not lose the right of choice, and may consent or not consent according to her own will. "	Does the victim's status as a prostitute prove consent to sexual relations ?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

10413	Davis v. Barnes, 158 Ga. App. 89, 90 (1981)	2	Absence of a plaintiff's counsel, without leave, to attend proceeding in other court is no ground for continuance or postponement of a case.	The absence of a plaintiff's counsel, without leave, to attend proceedings in other courts is no ground for continuance or postponement.	Is absence of counsel without leave to attend trial of cases pending in other courts no ground for continuance?	Not Copyrightable (headnote near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation
1226	Fox Run Properties, LLC v. Murray, 288 Ga. App. 568, 570-71, 654 S.E.2d 676, 680 (2007)	7	To show that the presentation of the merits of a case would be subverted by the withdrawal of admissions resulting from a party's failure to respond to requests for admissions, party seeking withdrawal of admissions is required to establish that the admitted requests either could have been refuted on trial of the issues by admissible evidence having a modicum of credibility, or that the admitted requests were incredible on their face, and that the denials being tendered to the court with the motion to withdraw had not been offered solely for purposes of delay. West's Ga.Code Ann. S 9-11-36(b).	Rather, in order to show that the presentation of the merits of this case would be subverted by the withdrawal, Fox Run was required to establish that "the admitted requests either could have been refuted on trial of the issues by admissible evidence having a modicum of credibility or that the admitted requests were incredible on their face; and that the denials being tendered to the court *571 with the motion to withdraw had not been offered solely for purposes of delay." Whitemarsh Contractors v.	"If the burden of proof on the subject matter of the request for admission is on the requestor, is the movant required to show the admitted request?"	Krein Concedes no copying

20882	Bd. of Directors of St. Francis Levee Dist. v. Bodkin, 108 Tenn. 700, 69 S.W. 270, 270 (1902)	5	An Act of the Legislature incorporating a Board of Directors and authorizing it to build, rebuild, and repair levees for the protection of a large district from overflow; to make all necessary contracts, and to levy taxes upon the inhabitants of the district and collect them, and to issue bonds for said purposes, constitutes such Board of Directors a public corporation, clothed with governmental duties and functions of the same general class as cities and counties.	The supreme court of Arkansas has had occasion to consider the nature and character of this board, and has adjudged it a public corporation clothed with governmental duties and functions, including the power to buy and collect public taxes. Carson v. St. Francis Levee Dist., 59 Ark. 536, 27 S. W. 590; Memphis Land & Timber Co. v. St. Francis Levee Dist., 64 Ark. 258, 42 S. W. 763. It is well settled that the property and taxes of municipal corporations held and used for public purposes cannot be seized and appropriated by creditors to the payment of their debts. [...] In Klein v. City of New Orleans, 99 U.S. 149, 25 L. Ed. 430, Waite, C. J., states the reason for this rule with much force and clearness. viz.: "If the lands are held by the corporation for public purposes, and the ground rents are part of the public revenue, it is well settled they cannot be levied on and sold.	Can lands held for public purposes be levied or sold?	Krein Concedes no copying; Not Copyrightable (expired)
10431	Reuille v. Bowers, 409 N.E.2d 1144, 1154 (Ind. Ct. App. 1980)	9	Proof of violation of motor vehicle safety statute is prima facie evidence of negligence, subject to being overcome by proof to the contrary.	Indiana law is now well established that proof by a party of violation of a motor vehicle safety statute is "prima facie evidence of negligence, subject to being overcome by proof to the contrary.	Can proof of violation of a motor vehicle statute be an evidence of negligence?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

2645	People v. Gagnon, 21 Misc. 3d 594	2	Specific intent to cause fear of serious bodily injury is gravamen of offense of felony menacing, C.R.S. 18-3-206; while it is not necessary to prove actual subjective fear on the part of the victim as an element of the offense, what the victim saw or heard and his reactions thereto are relevant considerations in determining whether defendant had the requisite intent to place victim in fear.	The specific intent to cause fear of serious bodily injury is the gravamen of this offense. People v. McPherson, 200 Colo. 429, 619 P.2d 38 (1980); § 18-3-206, C.R.S. (1978 Repl.Vol. 8). While it is not necessary to prove actual subjective fear on the part of the victim as an element of the offense, People v. Stout, 193 Colo. 466, 568 P.2d 52 (1977), nonetheless what the victim saw or heard, and his reactions thereto, are relevant considerations in determining whether defendant had the requisite intent to place him in fear.	What are relevant considerations in determining whether defendant had the requisite intent to place the victim in fear?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
13313	St. Paul Fire Marine v. Amerada Hess Corp., 275 N.W.2d 304, 308 (N.D. 1979)	13	Waiver of right of subrogation must be by act of subrogee; it cannot be contracted away by conduct or agreement of third parties.	A waiver of the right of subrogation must be by an act of the subrogee; it cannot be contracted away by the conduct or agreement of third parties.	Is a waiver of the right of subrogation an act of the subrogee?	Not Copyrightable (headnote near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation
2324	Jordan v. O'Dwyer, 152 A.D.2d 671, 671 (N.Y.S.2d Sup. Ct. 1989)	1	Unlike situation in which criminal trial has resulted in judgment of acquittal, retrial of indictment is not automatically barred where merits of charge against defendant have not been finally resolved. U.S.C.A. Const.Amend. 5.	Unlike the situation in which a criminal trial has resulted in a judgment of acquittal, retrial of an indictment is not automatically barred where the merits of the charges against the defendant have not been finally resolved	"Unlike situation in which criminal trial has resulted in judgment of acquittal, is retrial of indictment not automatically barred where merits of a charge against defendant have not been finally resolved?"	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

10236	Encore Productions, Inc. v. Promise Keepers, 53 F. Supp. 2d 1101, 1108 (D. Colo. 1999)	7	When a dispute arises under an expired contract that contained a broad arbitration provision, courts must presume that the parties intended to arbitrate their dispute, even if the facts of the dispute occurred after the contract expired.	Even if the Termination Agreement effectively terminated the entire Service Contract, including its arbitration provision, "when a dispute arises under an expired contract that contained a broad arbitration provision, courts must presume that the parties intended to arbitrate their dispute. This is so even if the facts of the dispute occurred after the contract expired."	Can courts order arbitration when the contract requiring arbitration has expired?	Not Copyrightable (headnote near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation
12808	Larocca v. Bailey, 799 So. 2d 1263, 1270 (La. Ct. App. 2001)	8	A motion and order to dismiss without prejudice has the same force and effect as a final judgment. LSA-C.C.P. art. 1918.	We begin this analysis with the understood rule that a motion and order to dismiss without prejudice has the same force and effect as a final judgment. La.Code Civ.P. art. 1918 reads in part that "[a] final judgment shall be identified as such by appropriate language "	Does a motion and order to dismiss without prejudice have the same force and effect as a final judgment?	Not Copyrightable (headnote near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation
213	United States v. Demko, 385 U.S. 149, 151 (Pa. 1966)	2	Historically, workmen's compensation statutes were offspring of desire to give injured workers quicker and more certain recovery than can be obtained from tort suits; they are practically always thought of as substitutes for, not supplements to, common-law tort actions.	Historically, workmen's compensation statutes were the offspring of a desire to give injured workers a quicker and more certain recovery than can be obtained from tort suits based on negligence and subject to common-law defenses to such suits. Thus compensation laws are practically always thought of as substitutes for, not supplements to, 384 common-law tort actions.	"Historically, were workmens compensation statutes the offspring of a desire to give injured workers quicker and more certain recovery than could be obtained from tort suits, and were they practically always thought of as substitutes for, not supplements to, common-law tort actions?"	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

15099	Heisler v. Hines Motor Co., 282 Mont. 270, 275 (Mont. 1997)	3	Pretrial order serves to prevent surprise, simplify the issues, and permit counsel to prepare their case for trial.	A pretrial order serves to "prevent surprise, simplify the issues, and permit counsel to prepare their case for trial on the basis of the pretrial order."	Does a pretrial order prevent surprise?	Not Copyrightable (headnote near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation
17682	Norwegian Twp. v. Schuylkill Cnty. Bd. of Assessment Appeals, 74 A.3d 1124, 1132 (Pa. Commw. Ct. 2013)	13	Substantial evidence supported the trial court's conclusion that Board of Assessment Appeals failed to meet its burden to prove taxability of township's property; sole evidence that the Board placed into record was tax assessment record card and picture of the property, establishing only that the property was currently vacant, and township produced ample evidence to show that property was actually and regularly being used for public purpose and to support court's finding that property was available to public for recreational activities, had been used by township to benefit public, and that township had made good-faith effort to develop the land for a park or playground, and though not required for property to be tax-immune/exempt, court also found that the township made a good-faith effort to develop the property. Const. Art. 8, S 2.	As we noted in Granville, the distinction between tax immunity and tax exemption is unnecessary in the context of government-owned property. 900 A.2d at 1016 n. 3. Whether either term is used, government-owned property is not taxable if it is being used for a public purpose, and the taxing authority bears the burden to prove its taxability. Id. at 1016. Stated otherwise, the taxing authority must prove that the government-owned property is not being used for a governmental purpose in order for the property to be taxable. Norwegian Twp. v. Schuylkill Cnty. Bd. of Assessment Appeals, 74 A.3d 1124, 1131 (Pa. Commw. Ct. 2013)	"Is a government-owned property taxable, if it is being used for a public purpose?"	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
5326	Emerick v. Town of Glastonbury, 145 Conn.App. 122, 127 (Conn.App.,2013)	1	A motion to dismiss for lack of standing properly attacks the jurisdiction of the court, essentially asserting that the plaintiff cannot as a matter of law and fact state a cause of action that should be heard by the court.	"A motion to dismiss [for lack of standing] ... properly attacks the jurisdiction of the court, essentially asserting that the plaintiff cannot as a matter of law and fact state a cause of action that should be heard by the court.	Does a motion to dismiss for lack of standing properly attack the jurisdiction of the court?	Not Copyrightable (headnote near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation

9549	Reeves v. Travelers Ins. Companies, 421 A.2d 47, 50 (Me., 1980)	2	In exercising its discretion under Rules of Civil Procedure governing sanctions to be imposed for failure to comply with discovery or failure to comply with pretrial order, trial court must consider whether to impose sanction, upon whom, party or counselor or both, to impose sanction, and what sanction to impose. Rules of Civil Procedure, Rules 16(d), 37(b)(2).	In exercising its discretion under Rule 16(d) or 37(b)(2), the trial court must answer three questions: (1) whether to impose a sanction; (2) upon whom-party or counsel or both-to impose the sanction; and (3) what sanction to impose. [...] We recognize that the sanction of dismissal, or of default judgment if imposed on a defendant, is a drastic one; its direct consequence falls not upon the attorney, but upon the party, who thereby loses all chance for an adjudication on the merits. For that reason, the ultimate sanction should be imposed only for the most serious instances of noncompliance with pretrial procedures. Mindful of that fact, we are nonetheless well satisfied that the special circumstances present in this case make it an appropriate occasion for dismissal, in order to penalize a serious delinquency and to deter like conduct by others.	Will the answer whether to impose a sanction on the party or counsel and what sanction to impose for failure to comply with the requirements of the rule governing pretrial procedure depend upon the particular circumstances?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
19287	Yellen v. Cooper, 828 F.2d 1471, 1476 (10th Cir. 1987)	4	Waiver, like immunity, is affirmative defense that must be affirmatively pleaded. Fed.Rules Civ.Proc.Rule 8(c), 28 U.S.C.A.	Waiver, like immunity, is an affirmative defense which must be affirmatively pleaded.	Should waiver be affirmatively plead?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
10678	Giles v. Gen. Motors Corp., 344 Ill. App. 3d 1191, 1195, 802 N.E.2d 858, 862 (2003)	3	A motion to dismiss under statute governing involuntary dismissal based upon defects or defenses should not be granted when it cannot be determined with reasonable certainty that movant's alleged defense exists. S.H.A. 735 ILCS 5/2-619.	A section 2-619 motion to dismiss should not be granted when it cannot be determined with reasonable certainty that the movant's alleged defense exists.	Should a motion to dismiss be granted when it cannot be determined with reasonable certainty that movant's alleged defense exists?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

1225	Sheehan v. Nw. Mut. Life Ins. Co., 44 S.W.3d 389, 394 (Mo.App. E.D., 2000)	2	Factors that should be considered in deciding whether to allow leave to amend a petition are (1) hardship to the moving party if leave is not granted; (2) reasons for failure to include any new matter in earlier pleadings; (3) timeliness of the application; (4) the possibility of an amendment curing any inadequacy of the moving party's pleading; and (5) injustice resulting to the party opposing the motion, should it be granted. V.A.M.R. 55.33.	Factors that should be considered in deciding whether to allow leave to amend a petition are: (1) hardship to the moving party if leave is not granted; (2) reasons for failure to include any new matter in earlier pleadings; (3) timeliness of the application; (4) whether an amendment could cure any inadequacy of the moving party's pleading; and (5) injustice resulting to the party opposing the motion, should it be granted.	What are the factors that should be considered in deciding whether to grant leave to amend a pleading?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
20805	In re Feldman's Est., 387 Ill. 568, 577-78, 56 N.E.2d 405, 409 (1944)	4	Where note was dated March 1, 1931, and promised on or before date to pay a named person $3,000 with interest at 5 per cent. per annum from date until paid at named bank and contained in lower left-hand margin the statement "Due Mar. 1, 1939," the note matured on March 1, 1939. S.H.A. ch. 98, SS 27, 31, 47, 73, 78.	In other words, if the parties had intended to make the note payable on demand or at any time after the date of execution, simple words to that effect could readily have been inserted in the blank provided therefor in the note. To avoid such a strained and abnormal meaning we naturally look elsewhere in the note and find what appears to be a clear explanation of the intention of the parties. That is, referring to the left-hand corner of the note we find the due date to be 'Mar. 1, 1939.' Reading this with the 'On or Before' provision makes the note quite intelligible and eliminates the unnatural result which would follow from making it payable even before it was executed. We recognize that the words 'On or Before' could possible have referred to the date of March 1, 1931.	Will marginal notation be regarded as part of a note if it conflicts with the terms of its main body?	Krein Concedes no copying

2159	Am. Seal-Kap Corp. v. Smith Lee Co., 154 Misc. 176, 177, 277 N.Y.S. 549, 550–51 (Sup. Ct. 1935)	1	Ordinarily, a defendant is entitled to full particulars of plaintiff's claim, and plaintiff is entitled to examine defendant before trial, particularly in case where many of facts upon which action is grounded are in possession of defendant.	Ordinarily, a defendant is entitled to full particulars of the plaintiff's claim, and a plaintiff is entitled to examine before trial, particularly in a case where many of the facts upon which the action is grounded are in the possession of the defendant.	"Is the defendant entitled to full particulars of plaintiffs claim and is plaintiff entitled to examine before trial, particularly where many facts upon which action is grounded are in defendants possession?"	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
6290	Antenucci v. Hartford Roman Catholic, 142 Conn. 349, 355–56, 114 A.2d 216, 219 (Conn. 1955)	4	Highway is nothing but an easement, comprehending merely right of all individuals in community to pass and repass, with incidental right in public to do all of acts necessary to keep it in repair.	'A highway is nothing but an easement, comprehending merely the right of all the individuals in the community to pass and repass, with the incidental right in the public to do all of the acts necessary to keep it in repair.' *356 Peck v.	Is a highway an easement comprehending merely the right of all the individuals in the community to pass and repass?	Not Copyrightable (headnote near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation
7255	Tesoro Petroleum Corp. v. Nabors Drilling USA, 106 S.W.3d 118, 133 (Tex. App. 2002)	32	Where a party to an indemnity contract relating to an oil and gas well is not contractually obligated to enforce a waiver of subrogation, the other party cannot insist that it assert a waiver of subrogation.	Where a party to an indemnity contract relating to an oil and gas well is not contractually obligated to enforce a waiver of subrogation, the other party cannot insist that it assert a waiver of subrogation.	"Wherea party to an indemnity contract is not contractually obligated to enforce a waiver of subrogation, can the other party insist that it assert a waiver of subrogation?"	Not Copyrightable (headnote verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation

2139	Rainer v. Wal-Mart Assocs., Inc., 119 So. 3d 398, 401 (Miss. Ct. App. 2013)	2	While rule governing requests for admissions, which states that a matter is admitted unless, within 30 days after service the party to whom the request is directed serves upon the party requesting the admission a written answer or objection, provides a harsh penalty for the failure to comply, a trial court is still given great discretion when determining whether it will allow the untimely answers to requests for admissions. Rules Civ.Proc., Rule 36.	Rule 36(a) provides in pertinent part that a “matter is admitted unless, within thirty days after service of the request, or within such shorter or longer time as the court may allow, the party to whom the request is directed serves upon the party requesting the admission a written answer or objection addressed to the matter[.]” 2 ¶ 8. Under Rule 36(b), the trial court has the discretion to allow withdrawal of the deemed-admitted requests. The rule states that “the court may permit withdrawal or amendment when the presentation of the merits of the action will be subverted thereby and the party who obtained the admission fails to satisfy the court that withdrawal or amendment will prejudice him in maintaining his action or defense on the merits.” M.R.C.P. 36(b). So “[w]hile [Rule] 36 provides a harsh penalty for the failure to comply, a trial court is still given great discretion when determining whether it will allow the untimely answers to requests for admissions.”	"Are requested admissions deemed admitted unless, within 30 days after service of request, a party to whom the request is directed serves a written answer or objection?"	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
17356	Hatcher v. Bowen, 74 Ga. 840, 841 (1885)	6	Absence of counsel in attendance on other courts is not a favored ground for a postponement.	Absence of counsel in attendance on other courts is not a favored ground for a postponement.	Is absence of counsel in attendance on other courts not a favoured ground for a postponement?	Not Copyrightable (headnote verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation

4536	New York Mortg. Tr., Inc. v. Dasdemir, 116 A.D.3d 679, 679 (2014)	1	In general, absent a showing of special circumstances, including prejudice to a substantial right of the defendant or other improper consequences, a motion for a voluntary discontinuance should be granted without prejudice. McKinney's CPLR 3217(c).	In general, absent a showing of special circumstances, including prejudice to a substantial right of the defendant or other improper consequences, a motion for a voluntary discontinuance should be granted without prejudice	"Absent a showing of special circumstances, should a motion for a voluntary discontinuance be granted without prejudice?"	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
13112	Burt v. Beautiful Savior Lutheran Church of Broomfield, 809 P.2d 1064, 1067 (Colo. App. 1990)	2	"Trespass" is physical intrusion upon property of another without permission of person lawfully entitled to possession of real estate, and liability requires only intent to do act that itself constitutes or inevitably causes intrusion, without reference to nature or immediacy of harm or whether intrusion was caused by negligent act.	In Colorado, liability for trespass requires only an intent to do the act that itself constitutes, or inevitably causes, the intrusion.	Does liability for trespass require only an intent to do the act that itself constitutes the intrusion?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
10942	Garfias v. State, 424 S.W.3d 54, 58 (Tex. Crim. App. 2014)	3	A multiple-punishments double jeopardy violation can arise either in the context of lesser-included offenses, where the same conduct is punished under a greater and a lesser-included offense, and when the same conduct is punished under two distinct statutes where the Legislature only intended for the conduct to be punished once. U.S.C.A. Const.Amend. 5.	There are three types of double jeopardy claims: (1) a second prosecution for the same offense after acquittal; (2) a second prosecution for the same offense after conviction; and (3) multiple punishments for the same offense. A multiple- punishments violation can arise either in the context of lesser- included offenses, where the same conduct is punished under a greater and a lesser-included offense, and when the same conduct is punished under two distinct statutes where the Legislature only intended for the conduct to be punished once.	What are the distinct types of double jeopardy claims?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

5637	Sweets v. State, 2013 WY 98, ¶¶ 19-20 (2013)	8	The Double Jeopardy Clauses of the United States and Wyoming constitutions afford three distinct protections: 1) protection against a second prosecution for the same offense following an acquittal; 2) protection against a second prosecution for the same offense after a conviction; and 3) protection against multiple punishments for the same offense. U.S.C.A. Const.Amend. 5; West's Wyo.Stat.Ann. Const. Art. 1, S 11.	The double jeopardy clauses of the United States and Wyoming constitutions afford three distinct protections: "1) [P]rotection against a second prosecution for the same offense following an acquittal; 2) protection against a second prosecution for the same offense after a conviction; and 3) protection against multiple punishments for the same offense."	What are the three distinct protections double jeopardy clauses afford?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
20810	Dellums v. Smith, 577 F. Supp. 1449, 1454–55 (N.D. Cal. 1984)	6	Attorney General could not refuse to conduct preliminary investigation under Ethics in Government Act on whether President, Secretaries of State and Defense, and other executive officials violated Neutrality Act by supporting paramilitary operations against Nicaragua on ground that the operations were authorized by the President since the Neutrality Act applied to all persons, including the President. 18 U.S.C.A. S 960; 28 U.S.C.A. SS 591-598.	[HN 6] The history of the Neutrality Act and judicial precedent demonstrate the reasonableness of the view that the Act applies to all persons, including the President. The Court reaffirms its original determination that the "Executive actions alleged by plaintiffs, if true, may violate federal law." Consequently, in this case, a preliminary investigation may not be refused. [HN 7] Defendants further argue that even if the Neutrality Act applies to the activities alleged by plaintiffs, a preliminary investigation is not required. [. . .] Defendants say the existence of that policy justifies the Attorney General's refusal to conduct any investigation under the Ethics in Government Act. For reasons set forth *1455 below, the Court finds that such a policy, even if shown to exist, could not constitute a valid basis for refusing to conduct a preliminary investigation.	Does the Neutrality Act dispense power in any officer or person whatsoever?	Krein Concedes no copying

17335	Gower v. Lamb, 282 S.W.2d 867, 869 (Mo. App. 1955)	4	In petition for damage allegedly done to plaintiff's parked automobile as result of being struck by defendant's vehicle, driven at time by thief, allegation that plaintiff's damage had been result of negligence by defendant was not a conclusion, but an ultimate fact, which could be pleaded as such, and therefore petition could be regarded as charging common-law negligence as well as statutory negligence, notwithstanding fact that main reliance was upon violation of statute prohibiting motorist to leave unattended a vehicle with ignition unlocked. Section 304.150 RSMo 1949, V.A.M.S.	Plaintiff has also alleged in her petition that her damages were the result of negligence by the defendant. This allegation is not a conclusion, but an ultimate fact, which may be pleaded as such. Maybach v. Falstaff Brewing Corporation, 359 Mo. 446, 222 S.W.2d 87, loc. cit. 92; Cushulas v. Schroeder & Tremayne, 225 Mo.App. 567, 22 S.W.2d 872, loc. cit. 874. We, therefore, feel compelled to regard the petition as charging common-law negligence as well as statutory negligence, and to consider the sufficiency of the agreed stipulation of facts to support the judgment for defendant on the theory of a breach of a *870 common-law duty. This question is also preserved for appellate review under Supreme Court Rule 3.23, 42 V.A.M.S., and was argued by both appellant and respondent.	Can negligence be pleaded as such?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
3030	United States v. Rosen, 716 F.3d 691, 700 (2d Cir. 2013)	4	To establish the corrupt intent necessary to support a federal bribery conviction, the government must prove that the defendant had a specific intent to give something of value in exchange for an official act, which generally includes any act taken under color of official authority. 18 U.S.C.A. S 666(a)(2).	To establish the " 'corrupt' intent necessary to a bribery conviction," the Government must prove that the defendant had " 'a specific intent to give ... something of value in exchange for an official act,' " United States v. Alfisi, 308 F.3d 144, 149 (2d Cir.2002) (emphasis in original) (quoting United States v. Sun-Diamond Growers of Cal., 526 U.S. 398, 404-05, 119 S.Ct. 1402, 143 L.Ed.2d 576 (1999)), which generally includes any act taken "under color of official authority," Ganim, 510 F.3d at 142 n. 4.	What should the government prove in order to establish the corrupt intent necessary to a bribery conviction?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

7011	Gordon v. Purdue Univ., 862 N.E.2d 1244, 1250 (Ind. App. 2007)	5	When reviewing grant of motion to dismiss for failure to state a claim, appellate courts do not defer to the trial court's decision because deciding a motion to dismiss based upon failure to state a claim involves a pure question of law. Trial Procedure Rule 12(B)(6).	The standard of review of a trial court's grant or denial of a motion to dismiss for failure to state a claim under Ind. Trial Rule 12(B)(6) is de novo. Sims v. Beamer, 757 N.E.2d 1021, 1024 (Ind.Ct.App.2001). We do not defer to the trial court's decision because deciding a motion to dismiss based upon failure to state a claim involves a pure question of law.	Does resolving a motion to dismiss for failure to state a claim involve only a question of law?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
5009	Campbell v. Louisiana Intrastate Gas Corp., 528 So.2d 626, 628 (La.App. 2 Cir.,1988)	2	"St. Julien Doctrine" provides method of acquiring utility servitudes without formal expropriation proceedings when utility has used private property in public interest in good faith and with landowner's consent or acquiescence for period of time. LSA-R.S. 19:14.	Defendant contends that its right to use and maintain the pipeline after the foreclosure, and particularly in 1985, arises from the St. Julien Doctrine. This doctrine, now statutorily recognized, provides a method of acquiring utility servitudes without formal expropriation proceedings when a utility company has used private property in the public interest in good faith and with the landowner's consent or acquiescence for a period of time. LRS 19:14; St. Julien v.	What is the St. Julien Doctrine concerning utility services?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

21683	Godfredson v. JBC Legal Group, P.C., 387 F. Supp. 2d 543, 549 (E.D.N.C. 2005)	2	To make out action under North Carolina law for damages caused by acts committed pursuant to formed conspiracy, plaintiff must show: (1) agreement between two or more persons; (2) to do wrongful act; (3) commission of some overt act by one member of conspiracy in furtherance of objectives; and (4) damage to plaintiff as result of actions of conspirators.	There is, under North Carolina law, no such thing as a civil action for conspiracy. There is, rather, an action for damages caused by acts committed pursuant to a formed conspiracy. In order to make out such an action, plaintiff must show "(1) an agreement between two or more persons (2) to do a wrongful act, (3) commission of some overt act by one member of the conspiracy in furtherance of the objectives, and (4) damage to the plaintiff as a result of the actions of the conspirators."	Is a statement of intention to file a suit to enforce one's claimed legal rights a threat?	Krein Concedes no copying
5789	In re Climate Control Mech. Servs., 570 B.R. 673, 678 (M.D. Fla. 2017)	6	When, upon default of contractor, surety pays all the bills of the job to date and completes the job, surety stands in shoes of contractor insofar as there are receivables due it, in the shoes of laborers and materialmen who have been paid by surety, who may have liens, and in the shoes of the government, for whom job was completed.	"When, on default of the contractor, [the surety] pays all the bills of the job to date and completes the job, it stands in the shoes of the contractor insofar as there are receivables due it; in the shoes of laborers and material men who have been paid by the surety-who may have had liens; and, not least, in the shoes of the government, for whom the job was completed."	Is a surety who pays claims of laborers and materialmen only entitled to stand in shoes of those laborers and materialmen who might have had liens but for the surety's payment?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
12158	Snyder v. Motorists Mut. Ins. Co., 2 Ohio App. 2d 19, 21 (1965)	6	Sovereignty of nations bordering seas does not stop at shoreline but extends over and under the ocean for some distance.	From early times, it has been recognized that the sovereignty of nations bordering the seas does not stop at the shoreline, but that for some distance it extends over and under the ocean.	Does the sovereignty of nations bordering seas stop at shoreline or does it extend over and under the ocean for some distance?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
11562	People v. Boose, 139 Ill. App. 3d 471, 474 (1985)	5	Criminal intent formulated after lawful entry will satisfy offenses of larceny, i.e., retail theft, or burglary by illegally remaining; it will not, however, satisfy the offense of burglary by illegal entry. S.H.A. ch. 38, P 19-1(a).	A criminal intent formulated after a lawful entry will satisfy the offenses of larceny (retail theft) or burglary by illegally remaining. It will not, however, satisfy the offense of burglary by illegal entry.	Does criminal intent formed after a lawful entry satisfy the burglary statute?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

21789	All Purpose Vending, Inc. v. City of Philadelphia, 127 Pa. Cmwlth. 415, 420, 561 A.2d 1309, 1311–12 (1989)	2	That administrative review options to contest tax on taxpayers' for profit coin-operated mechanical amusement devices for film or video presentations were coupled with sanctions for noncompliance did not constitute prior restraint on taxpayers' freedom of speech . U.S.C.A. Const.Amend. 1.	It is asserted that because these options are coupled with sanctions for non-compliance , ¹⁰ the administrative process acts as a prior restraint on appellants' freedom of speech and is, therefore, inadequate. We agree with the trial court's conclusion that the Ordinance does not act 1312 as a prior restraint on appellants' right of free speech.	Is a legislative declaration entitled to any weight when determining the nature of a tax?	Krein Concedes no copying
17936	F.C.C. v. Fla. Power Corp., 480 U.S. 245, 245–46, 252, 107 S. Ct. 1107, 1109, 1112, 94 L. Ed. 2d 282 (1987)	2	Element of required acquiescence is at the heart of concept of occupation for purposes of per se taking analysis under the Fifth Amendment. U.S.C.A. Const.Amend. 5.	The Court of Appeals erred in applying Loretto 's narrow per se rule, since the element of required acquiescence is at the heart of the concept of occupation under Loretto, whereas nothing in the Act, as interpreted by *246 the FCC, requires utility companies to give cable companies space on utility poles or prohibits utility companies from refusing to enter into attachment agreements. Since the Act clearly contemplates voluntary commercial leases rather than forced governmental licensing, it merely regulates the economic relations of utility company landlords and cable company tenants, which regulation is not a per se taking under Loretto. [...] This element of required acquiescence is at the heart of the concept of occupation .	Is the element of required acquiescence at the heart of the concept of occupation?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

5652	In re Forfeiture of U.S. Currency in Amount of Ninety-One Thousand Three Hundred Fifty-Seven & 12/100 Dollars ($91,357.12), 595 So. 2d 998, 1000 (Fla. 4th Dist. App. 1992)	6	"Equitable subrogation" applies where claimant satisfied obligation of another and then stands in shoes of satisfied creditor; doctrine prevents unjust forfeiture and windfall amounting to unjust enrichment.	The doctrine of equitable subrogation is designed to apply where the claimant satisfied an obligation of another and then stands in the shoes of the satisfied creditor. The doctrine is founded on established principles of equity to prevent an unjust forfeiture, on the one hand, and a windfall amounting to unjust enrichment, on the other.	"Is doctrine of equitable subrogation recognized as one founded on established principles of equity to prevent unjust forfeiture, and windfall amounting to unjust enrichment on the other? "	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
9593	In re Bledsoe, 41 S.W.3d 807, 813 (Tex. App. 2001)	14	Only in exceptional situations may case-determinative sanctions be imposed in the first instance-when they are clearly justified and no lesser sanctions will promote compliance.	Only in exceptional situations may case-determinative sanctions be imposed in the first instance-when they are clearly justified and no lesser sanctions will promote compliance.	"Only in exceptional situations, can case-determinative sanctions be imposed in the first instance-when they are clearly justified?"	Not Copyrightable (headnote verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation

4137	Betts v. City of Chicago, 2013 IL App (1st) 123653, ¶¶ 12-14, 1 N.E.3d 1199, 1202-1203	5	Once a defendant moving for involuntary dismissal, on grounds that the claim asserted is barred by other affirmative matter avoiding the legal effect of or defeating the claim, satisfies the initial burden of presenting affirmative matter, the burden then shifts to the plaintiff to establish that the defense is unfounded or requires the resolution of an essential element of material fact before it is proven. S.H.A. 735 ILCS 5/2-619(a).	“A motion to dismiss based on the immunity conferred by the Act, however, is more appropriately raised in a section 2–619(a)(9) motion, which allows for dismissal when the claim asserted against the defendant is ‘barred by other affirmative matter avoiding the legal effect of or defeating the claim’ (735 ILCS 5/2–619(a)(9) (West 2008)).” [...] A motion for involuntary dismissal pursuant to section 2–619(a) admits the legal sufficiency of the complaint, but raises defects, defenses, or other affirmative matter which avoids the legal effect or defeats a plaintiff's claim. [...] In re Estate of Schlenker, 209 Ill.2d 456, 461, 283 Ill.Dec. 707, 808 N.E.2d 995 (2004). “Once a defendant satisfies the initial burden of presenting affirmative matter, the burden then shifts to the plaintiff to establish that the defense is ‘unfounded or requires the resolution of an essential element of material fact before it is proven.’ ”	Will the burden shift from the defendant to plaintiff once the claim asserted is barred by other affirmative matter?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
8115	Fort Halifax Packing Co., Inc. v. Coyne, 107 S.Ct. 2211, 2222, 482 U.S. 1, 21 (U.S.Me.,1987)	5	Pre-emption should not be lightly inferred under National Labor Relations Act in area of substantive labor standards, inasmuch as establishment of labor standards falls within traditional police power of the state. National Labor Relations Act, SS 7, 8, as amended, 29 U.S.C.A. SS 157, 158.	Furthermore, pre-emption should not be lightly inferred in this area, since the establishment of labor standards falls within the traditional police power of the State.	Is pre-emption of employment standards within the traditional police power of the state that should not be lightly inferred?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

20117	State ex Rel. Olson v. Guilford, 174 Minn. 457, 459 (1928)	2	Equity may enjoin and abate public nuisances.	Equity has jurisdiction to enjoin and abate public nuisances.	Does equity have the jurisdiction to abate public nuisances?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
727	Deloatch v. Becker, 698 A.2d 94, 96 (Pa. 1997)	2	Judgment of "non pros" is founded upon equitable principle of laches and may properly be entered when party to a proceeding has shown a want of due diligence in failing to proceed with reasonable promptitude, and there is no compelling reason for delay, and delay has caused some prejudice to adverse party.	Further, we note that the non pros doctrine is founded upon the equitable principle of laches and may properly be entered "when a party to a proceeding has shown a want of due diligence in failing to proceed with reasonable promptitude, and there is no compelling reason for the delay, and the delay has caused some prejudice to the adverse party."	"Can judgment of ""non pros"" properly be entered when party to a proceeding has shown a want of due diligence in failing to proceed with reasonable promptitude?"	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
15284	Echtenkamp v. Loudon Cty. Pub. Sch., 263 F. Supp. 2d 1043, 1061 (E.D. Va. 2003)	36	Under Virginia law, merely offensive or unpleasant statements are not defamatory, rather, defamatory statements are those that make plaintiff appear odious, infamous, or ridiculous.	In other words, "[m]erely offensive or unpleasant statements" are not defamatory; rather, defamatory statements "are those that make the plaintiff appear odious, infamous, or ridiculous."	Are unpleasant and offensive statements defamatory?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
3442	New Albertsons, Inc. v. Superior Ct., 168 Cal. App. 4th 1403, 1420-21, 86 Cal. Rptr. 3d 457, 470 (2008)	6	Because the law strongly favors trial and disposition on the merits, any doubts in ruling on a motion to withdraw or amend an admission must be resolved in favor of the party seeking relief. West's Ann.Cal.C.C.P. S 2033.300.	The trial court's discretion in ruling on a motion to withdraw or amend an admission is not unlimited, but must be exercised in conformity with the spirit of the law and in a manner that serves the interests of justice. Because the law strongly favors trial and disposition on the merits, any doubts in applying section 2033.300 must be resolved in favor of the party seeking relief.	Should any doubts in ruling on a motion to withdraw or amend an admission be resolved in favor of the party seeking relief because the law strongly favors trial and disposition on the merits?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

777	Jones v. Halliburton Co., 583 F.3d 228, 233–34 (5th Cir. 2009)	2	A two-step analysis is employed to determine whether a party may be compelled to arbitrate, under which, first, whether the party has agreed to arbitrate the dispute is examined, and this question itself is further subdivided, such that a court, to determine whether the party has agreed to arbitrate a dispute, must ask: (1) is there a valid agreement to arbitrate the claims, and (2) does the dispute in question fall within the scope of that arbitration agreement; if both questions are answered in the affirmative, the court then asks whether any federal statute or policy renders the claims nonarbitrable.	A two-step analysis is employed to determine whether a party may be compelled to arbitrate. Id. First, whether *234 the party has agreed to arbitrate the dispute is examined. This question itself is further subdivided; to determine whether the party has agreed to arbitrate a dispute, our court must ask: "(1) is there a valid agreement to arbitrate the claims and (2) does the dispute in question fall within the scope of that arbitration agreement". Id. (citing JP Morgan Chase & Co. v. Conegie ex rel. Lee, 492 F.3d 596, 598 (5th Cir.2007)). If both questions are answered in the affirmative, our court then asks whether "any federal statute or policy renders the claims nonarbitrable".	How do courts determine whether a party is compelled to arbitrate?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
7881	Caywood v. Gossett, 382 Ill. App. 3d 124, 129, 887 N.E.2d 686, 691 (2008)	4	Dismissal of complaint is allowed when the claim asserted is barred by other affirmative matter avoiding the legal effect of or defeating the claim. S.H.A. 735 ILCS 5/2-619(a)(9).	A section 2-619(a)(9) motion to dismiss permits involuntary dismissal where "the claim asserted against defendant is barred by other affirmative matter avoiding the legal effect of or defeating the claim." 735 ILCS 5/2-619(a)(9).	Can a complaint be dismissed when the claim asserted is barred by other affirmative matter avoiding the legal effect of or defeating the claim?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

18100	United States v. Harder, 168 F. Supp. 3d 732, 738, 745, 747 (E.D. Pa. 2016)	20	Government was required to prove different facts to support charges against defendant for violation of Foreign Corrupt Practices Act (FCPA) and for charge of international money laundering, and charges were thus distinct and did not require merger, even though charges were based on same payments defendant allegedly made to bank official's sister, knowing that those bribes would be given, directly or eventually, to the employee, to induce him to violate the law; government was required to prove that defendant offered or paid anything of value to a foreign official for corrupt purposes to support FCPA charge, and was required to prove that defendant transferred funds abroad from the United States with intent to promote unlawful activity, i.e., intent to promote an FCPA violation, to support money laundering charge, and the government was thus required to prove different facts to make out the violations charged. 15 U.S.C.A. S 78dd-2(a)(1), (3); 18 U.S.C.A. S 1956(a)(2)(A).	Additionally, the Government has charged, as it must, that Defendant paid Official Sister knowing that those bribes would be given, directly or eventually, to Official to induce him to violate the law. [...] As I have discussed, FCPA requires proof of offer or payment of anything of value to a foreign official for a corrupt purpose. See 15 U.S.C. 78dd-2(a)(1), (3). To prove an international money laundering violation, the Government must prove that the defendant transferred funds abroad from the United States with the intent to promote unlawful activity. See 18 U.S.C. 1956(a)(2)(A). That the international money laundering statute requires intent to promote unlawful activity -i.e., intent to promote an FCPA violation- renders the offenses distinct. See United States v. Paramo, 998 F.2d 1212, 1218 (3d Cir.1993) (rejecting argument that, as a matter of law, a defendant cannot promote an already completed unlawful activity). Plainly, then, the Government must prove different facts to make out a violation of the money laundering statute.	Do courts doubt on the Congresss intention to hold an individual liable under 15 U.S.C. 78dd1(a)(3)(A) if he took great care to know exactly whom his agent would be bribing and what precise steps that official would be taking?	Krein Concedes no copying
-------	---	----	---	--	---	----------------------------------

11426	Gonzales v. Surplus Ins. Servs., 863 S.W.2d 96, 99 (Tex. App. 1993)	2	Admissions, once deemed admitted, are judicial admissions, and party against whom admissions are deemed admitted may not then introduce controverting testimony in any legal proceeding related to action. Vernon's Ann.Texas Rules Civ.Proc., Rules 21a, 169.	In examining the record before us, appellant failed to timely answer request for admissions, or to file written objections, or to file a motion to file answers late, resulting in the appellee's admissions being deemed. [. . .] Admissions, once deemed admitted, are judicial admissions and appellant may not then introduce controverting testimony in any legal proceeding related to the instant action.	"Are deemed admissions, resulting from a party's failure to answer a request for admissions, judicial admissions and may not be controverted with testimony?"	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
1355	State v. Jandreau, 157 A.3d 239, 242 (Me., 2017)	1	Absent defendant's consent to or the manifest necessity for a mistrial, the Double Jeopardy Clauses of the federal and state constitutions preclude state from bringing a second prosecution of the defendant on the same charges after the declaration of a mistrial. U.S. Const. Amend. 5; Me. Const. art. 1, S 8.	Absent the defendant's consent to or the manifest necessity for a mistrial, the Double Jeopardy Clauses of the United States and Maine Constitutions preclude the State from bringing a second prosecution of the defendant on the same charges after the declaration of a mistrial.	"Absent defendant's consent to or the manifest necessity for a mistrial, does the Double Jeopardy Clauses of the federal and state constitutions preclude a state from bringing a second prosecution of the defendant on the same charges after the declaration of a mistrial?"	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

21822	James T. Scatuorchio Racing Stable, LLC v. Walmac Stud Mgmt., LLC, 941 F. Supp. 2d 807, 824 (E.D. Ky. 2013)	26	Agreement between owner of thoroughbred stallion and breeding farm, for the services of managing breeding career of race horse, was not subject to New Jersey Consumer Fraud Act (NJCFA); services to manage stud's career was not something sold to the general public, but instead a service highly particularized and unique, and the parties, as sophisticated breeders and competitive racers who entered into complex, multi-million dollar contracts with the aid of counsel, were not typical consumers. N.J.S.A. 56:8-1 et seq.	An accounting is an equitable remedy and is defined as “an adjustment of the accounts of the parties and a rendering of a judgment for the balance ascertained to be due.”	What is accounting ?	Krein Concedes no copying
12651	In re Interest of M.M., 571 So. 2d 112, 112-13 (Fla. Dist. Ct. App. 1990)	1	Ownership of building or structure is material element of burglary and must be proven as alleged in order to support conviction. West's F.S.A. S 810.02.	Additionally, ownership of the building or structure is a material element of the crime and must be *113 proven as alleged in order to support a conviction for burglary.	Is ownership of the building or structure a material element of burglary?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

14383	Eisen v. Venulum Ltd., 244 F. Supp. 3d 324, 336 (W.D.N.Y. 2017)	15	District Court, rather than arbitrator, would determine enforceability of arbitration clauses in investment contracts involving interests in fine wines, even though contracts included requirement that all disputes under contracts be sent to arbitration, since there was no language in contracts expressly stating that arbitrability disputes would be resolved by arbitration, contracts stated that International Chamber of Commerce (ICC) rules would control any arbitration, ICC rule provided that arbitrator determined validity of arbitration agreement if party against which claim had been made challenged its validity, but investor, who was bringing claims against foreign corporation for violations of securities laws, was challenging validity of arbitration clauses.	Defendants' main argument is that it is the province of the arbitrator, and not the Court, to determine whether the arbitration clauses are valid or invalid. (Dkt. 13 at 5–10). Defendants rely on Shaw Group Inc. v. Triplefine Int'l Corp., 322 F.3d 115 (2d Cir. 2003) for the proposition that under the International Chamber of Commerce (“ICC”) arbitration rules “any question of arbitrability must be decided by the arbitral tribunal.” (Dkt. 13 at 6). Shaw Group provides that if the parties reference the ICC rules of arbitration in an arbitration clause they have “evinced a clear and unmistakable agreement to arbitrate arbitrability,” and the court is required to defer questions of arbitrability to the arbitrator. Shaw Group, 322 F.3d at 121.	Does reference to International Chamber of Commerce rules in an arbitration clause present a clear and unmistakable agreement to arbitrate arbitrability ?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
12909	Wells Fargo Bank, N.A. v. Bohatka, 112 So. 3d 596, 601 (Fla. Dist. Ct. App. 2013)	7	For purposes of general rule that trial courts are to give plaintiffs an opportunity to amend a defective pleading, the failure to attach necessary documents is a remediable offense.	As a general matter, trial courts are to give plaintiffs “an opportunity to amend the defective pleading, unless it is apparent that the pleading cannot be amended to state a cause of action.” See Kairalla v. John D. Catherine T. MacArthur Found., 534 So.2d 774, 775 (Fla. 4th DCA 1988). And the failure to attach necessary documents is a remediable offense. See Wells Fargo Bank, N.A. v. Reeves, 92 So.3d 249, 253 (Fla. 1st DCA 2012).	“As a general matter, are trial courts to give plaintiffs an opportunity to amend a defective pleading?”	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

8356	City of Orlando v. State, 67 So. 2d 673, 675 (Fla. 1953)	3	A "special assessment" is an enforced contribution imposed upon theory that that portion of the community which is required to bear it receives some special or peculiar benefit in the enhancement of value of property against which it is imposed as a result of improvement made with proceeds of special assessment.	It is imposed upon the theory that that portion *675 of the community which is required to bear it receives some special or peculiar benefit in the enhancement of value of the property against which it is imposed as a result of the improvement made with the proceeds of the special assessment.	Is tax a burden imposed by a sovereign right?	Krein Concedes no copying
19012	Doe v. Diocese of Raleigh, 242 N.C. App. 42, 57, 776 S.E.2d 29, 41 (2015)	16	Individual's negligent infliction of emotional distress (NIED) claim against diocese and bishop of diocese based on negligent supervision of priest incardinated to diocese and, who allegedly sexually assaulted individual when he was a minor, did not implicate Free Exercise Clause or Establishment Clause of First Amendment, such that trial court had authority to adjudicate claim; determination of whether individual established elements of NIED based on negligent supervision of priest did not entangle court in ecclesiastical inquiries. U.S.C.A. Const.Amend. 1.	Consequently, Plaintiff's NIED claim premised on the assertion that such negligent conduct resulted in him suffering severe emotional distress and that it was reasonably foreseeable that the Diocese Defendants' conduct would result in such distress is likewise permissible under the First Amendment. Because a determination of whether Plaintiff has successfully established the elements of NIED based on the Diocese Defendants' negligent supervision of Sepulveda will not entangle the court in ecclesiastical inquiries, subject matter jurisdiction exists in the trial court as to this claim.	"Because negligent infliction of emotional distress (NIED) claims are premised upon negligent conduct by defendants, will a determination that an underlying negligence claim is subject to dismissal result in dismissal of a corresponding NIED claim as well?"	Krein Concedes no copying
17233	Miller v. Mod. Motor Co. of Glendale, 107 Cal. App. 38, 41, 290 P. 122, 124 (Cal. Ct. App. 1930)	2	Where waiver is relied upon, in bringing action, facts constituting waiver must be set forth.	We believe, upon general demurrer, that these allegations sufficiently comply with the rule that where a waiver is relied upon, the facts constituting the waiver must be set forth.	Should facts constituting waiver be pleaded if a waiver is relied upon?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

13124	Matthews v. Malkus, 377 F. Supp. 2d 350, 359 (S.D.N.Y. 2005)	16	Under New York law, requisite elements for claim of trespass are: (1) intentional entry by defendants onto plaintiff's land , and (2) wrongful use without justification or consent .	Trespass [16] The requisite elements for a claim of trespass are the intentional entry by defendants on to plaintiffs' land and the wrongful use without justification or consent .	What are the elements of a trespass claim ?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
1844	First Community Bank, N.A. v. First Tennessee Bank, N.A., 489 S.W.3d 369, 382 (Tenn. 2015)	7	When trial court expresses an intent to rule on motion to dismiss for lack of personal jurisdiction without an evidentiary hearing , defendant may, but is not required to, support motion with affidavits or other evidentiary materials. Tenn. R. Civ. P. 12.02(2).	When a trial court expresses an intent to rule on a motion to dismiss without an evidentiary hearing , a defendant "may, but is not required to, support the motion with affidavits or other evidentiary materials."	" When a trial court expresses an intent to rule on motion to dismiss for lack of personal jurisdiction without an evidentiary hearing , should a defendant support the motion with affidavits or other evidentiary materials?"	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

16880	Langford v. Douglas, 359 S.W.2d 951, 953 (Tex. Civ. App. 1962)	2	Motion to reinstate an action dismissed for lack of prosecution could be considered as a bill of review , but as a bill of review , it properly did not belong in original cause .	The trial court, therefore, properly sustained defendants' motion and reinstated the order dismissing the suit for want of prosecution . But, 'The policy of the law is, that appellant should have his day in court for the purpose of establishing the alleged wrong perpetrated on him [...] In view of the narrow language of the trial court's order above quoted, we accordingly hold that plaintiffs' motion to reinstate, considered as a bill of review , is still pending. No doubt plaintiffs will desire to amend it. Its presence in the original suit is an irregularity. Osborn v. Younger (Com.App.), 235 S.W. 558; McDonald, Texas Civil Practice, supra. The trial court could transfer it to an independent place on his docket for trial or other disposition. Wilson v. Ammann & Jordan, Tex.Civ.App., 163 S.W.2d 660. Since the motion, as bill of review, properly does not belong in the original cause , the trial court's order was a final, appealable judgment. It is affirmed.	Can a motion to reinstate an action dismissed for lack of prosecution be considered as a bill of review ?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
18639	Dept. of Revenue v. Merritt Square Corp., 334 So. 2d 351, 354 (Fla. 1st Dist. App. 1976)	1	Under statute defining "public utility" for purposes of regulation, a privately owned utility is "public utility" if it holds itself out to serve general public . West's F.S.A. SS 366.01 et seq., 366.02.	The nature of the service must be such that all members of the public have an enforceable right to demand it.' 229 P.2d at 672. It is, thus, clear that a privately owned utility is a Public utility if it holds itself out to serve the general public .	When is a privately owned utility a public utility ?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

19108	Price ex rel. Est. of Price v. City of Seattle, 106 Wash. App. 647, 660, 24 P.3d 1098, 1105 (2001)	12	Failure of city , as owner of property located at top of bluff where landslide took place, to take measures to prevent landslide did not establish trespass claim by landowners whose property was damaged by landslide .	The residents essentially argue that the City knew that a landslide was a substantially certain consequence of its failure to take preventive measures . But they have provided no authority for the proposition that an “act”, as used in defining the elements of trespass, means a failure to act. Stated in terms of a failure to act, their trespass claim is no different from their negligence claim. Cf. Lewis v. Krussel, 101 Wash.App. at 183, 2 P.3d 486 (nuisance claim in case involving fallen trees, grounded in inaction, need not be considered separately from the negligence claim). As there is no evidence that the City acted to cause the landslide , the trespass claim also fails.	Can a failure to act fulfill the intentional act element required for a claim of trespass?	Krein Concedes no copying
11048	Lake Cnty. Tr. Co. v. Lane, 478 N.E.2d 684, 688 (Ind. Ct. App. 1985)	4	In view of rule that owner of property whereon public highway lies holds property in fee, subject only to public's easement , owners of property that abutted county road on the east, rather than the county, were owners to whom one half of abandoned railroad right-of-way easement reverted where the east edge of the right-of-way met the abutting property at approximately the outline of the highway.	It is the law in Indiana that the owner of property whereon a public highway lies holds the property in fee, subject only to the public's easement . Magee v. Overshiner (1898), 150 Ind. 127, 49 N.E. 951; The Terre Haute and Southeastern Railroad Company v.	"Does the owner of a property, whereon public highway lies, hold property in fee, subject only to public's easement? "	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
15198	Calvert & Marsh Coal Co. v. Pass, 393 So. 2d 955, 957 (Ala. 1981)	5	Wantonness in a trespass action is established by mere knowledge on the part of the defendant of his invasion of the plaintiff's rights.	Wantonness in a trespass action is established by the mere knowledge on the part of the defendant of his invasion of the plaintiff's rights.	How is the element of wantonness established in a trespass action?	Not Copyrightable (headnote near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation

601	Holland v. Lefler, 80 Ark. App. 316, 321 (2003)	6	Service of process under civil procedure rule governing summons must be accomplished within 120 days after the filing of complaint unless plaintiff has filed a motion to extend time prior to the expiration of the deadline; if service is not obtained within that time and no timely motion to extend is made, dismissal of the action is mandatory. Rules Civ.Proc., Rule 4(i).	Service of process under Rule 4(i) must be accomplished within 120 days after the filing of the complaint unless the plaintiff has filed a motion to extend time prior to the expiration of the deadline. Id. If service is not obtained within that time and no timely motion to extend is made, dismissal of the action is mandatory.	Should service of process under civil procedure rule governing summons be accomplished within 120 days after the filing of complaint unless a plaintiff has filed a motion to extend time prior to the expiration of the deadline?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
14711	Henry v. Shober, 566 N.W.2d 190, 192 (Iowa 1997)	5	If delay in obtaining service of process is presumptively abusive, it does not matter whether delay is intentional, and action is subject to dismissal if plaintiff fails to carry burden of proving that delay was justified. Rules Civ.Proc., Rule 49.	As the above analysis suggests, if a delay in service is presumptively abusive, it does not matter whether the delay is intentional.	"If delay in obtaining service of process is presumptively abusive, does it not matter whether delay is intentional?"	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
12657	Gambino v. Standard Fire Ins. Co., 12-474 (La. App. 5 Cir. 2/21/13), 110 So. 3d 1127, 1130	4	A step by one party prevents abandonment of a suit for lack of prosecution as to all of the parties, even though they are not solidarily liable. LSA-C.C.P. art. 561.	"A 'step' is a formal action before the court intended to hasten the suit towards judgment or is the taking of formal discovery. A step by one party prevents abandonment as to all of the parties, even though they are not solidarily liable." (Internal citations omitted.) Id.	Does a step by one party prevent abandonment of a suit for lack of prosecution as to all of the parties?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
7127	People v. $8,450 U.S. Currency, 276 Ill. App. 3d 952, 955 (1995)	7	Despite its label as civil, forfeiture is "punishment" for double jeopardy purposes when its goal is either retribution or deterrence. U.S.C.A. Const.Amend. 5.	However, despite its label as civil, a forfeiture is a punishment for double jeopardy purposes when its goal is either retribution or deterrence.	"Despite its label as civil, is forfeiture punishment for double jeopardy purposes when its goal is either retribution or deterrence?"	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

19604	Fed. Home Loan Mortg. Corp. v. Lamar, 503 F.3d 504, 512 (6th Cir. 2007)	8	Collection notice is deceptive, in violation of Fair Debt Collection Practices Act (FDCPA), when it can be reasonably read to have two or more different meanings, one of which is inaccurate. Fair Debt Collection Practices Act, S 807, 15 U.S.C.A. S 1692e.	"[A] collection notice is deceptive when it can be reasonably read to have two or more different meanings, one of which is inaccurate." Russell v. Equifax A.R.S., 74 F.3d 30, 35 (2d Cir.1996).	What damages can a consumer recover if a debt collector violates the Fair Debt Collection Protection Act (FDCPA)?	Krein Concedes no copying
10902	United States v. Allen, 984 F.2d 940, 941 (8th Cir. 1993)	2	Double jeopardy clause does not generally preclude reprosecution if defendant requests or consents to mistrial. U.S.C.A. Const.Amend. 5.	Const.Amend. V. The double jeopardy clause generally does not preclude reprosecution when a defendant requests or consents to a mistrial.	Does a double jeopardy clause not generally preclude reprosecution if a defendant requests or consents to mistrial?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
5036	In re Wiley, 438 B.R. 331, 333 (Bankr. D.N.M. 2010)	2	Under New Mexico law, "subrogation" is equitable remedy of civil law origin, whereby, through a supposed succession to legal rights of another, a loss is put ultimately on the one who in equity and good conscience should pay it.	Subrogation ... is an equitable remedy of civil law origin whereby through a supposed succession to the legal rights of another, a loss is put ultimately on that one who in equity and good conscience should pay it.	Is subrogation an equitable remedy of civil law origin?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
15267	Chase v. Ameriquet Mortg. Co., 155 N.H. 19, 27 (N.H. 2007)	19	Equitable subrogation applies where one who has discharged the debt of another may, under certain circumstances, succeed to the rights and position of the satisfied creditor.	[E]quitable subrogation "applies where one who has discharged the debt of another may, under certain circumstances, succeed to the rights and position of the satisfied creditor.	When does subrogation apply?	Not Copyrightable (headnote near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation

18618	City of Sherman v. Pub. Util. Commn. of Texas, 643 S.W.2d 681, 684-85 (Tex. 1983)	3	While the Public Utility Commission may share original jurisdiction with a municipality over the operations or services of a public utility which operates both inside and outside municipal limits, it has no statutory authority to regulate the operations or services of "municipally-owned utilities" under statute relating to original municipal jurisdiction within territorial limits of each municipality and original commission jurisdiction outside municipal boundaries. Vernon's Ann. Texas Civ.St. art. 1446c, S 17(e).	The Act also contains the following provisions relating to original municipal jurisdiction within the territorial limits of each municipality, and original PUC jurisdiction outside of municipal boundaries: Sec. 17. (a) Subject to the limitations imposed in this Act, and for the purpose of regulating rates and services ..., the governing body of each municipality shall have exclusive original jurisdiction over all electric, water, and sewer utility rates, operations, and services provided by an electric, water, and sewer utility within its city or town limits. [...] We conclude that while the PUC may share original jurisdiction with a municipality over the operations or services of a "public utility" which operates both inside and outside municipal limits, it has no statutory authority to regulate the operations or services of "municipally-owned utilities" under section 17(e).	Are municipally owned utilities different from privately owned utilities?	Krein Concedes no copying
8220	Barragan v. Banco BCH, 188 Cal. App. 3d 283, 296, 232 Cal. Rptr. 758, 765 (Ct. App. 1986)	9	Act of state doctrine, being merely issue preclusion device, did not affect power of court to enter default judgment.	Because the act of state doctrine is merely an issue preclusion device (Arango v. Guzman Travel Advisors Corp., supra, 621 F.2d at p. 1380; National American Corp. v. Fed. Rep. of Nigeria, supra, 448 F.Supp. at p. 640), it does not affect the power of the court to enter a default judgment.	Does the act of state doctrine affect the power of the court to enter default judgment?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

19258	Pascoag Reservoir & Dam, LLC v. Rhode Island, 217 F. Supp. 2d 206, 221–22 (D.R.I. 2002), aff'd, 337 F.3d 87 (1st Cir. 2003)	21	Record owner of reservoir alleged sufficient facts to make out a federal takings claim where it alleged that state had acquired title to a portion of the bottom of the reservoir and an easement by prescription on behalf of the public to use the reservoir for recreational purposes; because of the State's actions, State wiped out all of owner's economically beneficial use of the property and impressed a private individual into service to provide the public unrestricted use of private property. U.S.C.A. Const.Amend. 5.	Here, the State has acquired title to a portion of the bottom of the Reservoir and an easement by prescription on behalf of the public to use the Reservoir for recreational purposes. [...] Therefore, plaintiff has alleged a sufficient takings claim in the complaint in this case. This Court also notes that because the State acquired title to a portion of the reservoir bottom, the State has wiped out all of plaintiff's economically beneficial use of that property. [...] The State has impressed a private individual into service to provide the public unrestricted use of private property.	Should a private owner bring an inverse condemnation action for public use of private property within a specified period of time?	Krein Concedes no copying
797	Faysound Ltd. v. Walter Fuller Aircraft Sales, 748 F. Supp. 1365, 1373 (E.D. Ark. 1990)	3	To qualify as act of state, it is necessary to prove that act occurred as result of considered policy determination by government to give effect to its political and public interest, matters that would have significant impact on American foreign relations.	To qualify as an act of state, it is necessary to prove that the act "occurred as a result of a considered policy determination by a government to give effect to its political and public interest-matters that would have significant impact on American foreign relations."	"To qualify as an act of state, is it necessary to prove that the act occurred as a result of a considered policy determination by a government to give effect to its political and public interest?"	Not Copyrightable (headnote near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation
15704	Clifton v. Koontz, 160 Tex. 82 (Tex. 1959)	6	In a mineral lease, the terms " produced " and " produced in paying quantities " mean substantially the same thing.	While the lease does not expressly use the term 'paying quantities', it is well settled that the terms 'produced' and 'produced in paying quantities' mean substantially the same thing.	Do the terms produced and produced in paying quantities mean substantially the same thing?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

637	In re Gateway Ethanol, 415 B.R. 486, 503 (2009)	18	Under Illinois law, when the bright-line test for whether a transaction in the form of a lease creates a security interest is not satisfied, the court must then answer the question whether the lessor retained a reversionary interest, either an upside or downside risk. S.H.A. 810 ILCS 5/1-201(37) (2005).	When the bright line test is not satisfied, UCC 1-201(37) requires the court to consider "the facts of each case." This consideration is guided by the fact that the drafters of amended UCC 1-201(37) sought to "preserve common law principles," under which the "central feature of a true lease is the reservation of an economically meaningful interest to the lessor at the end of the lease term." 59 The Official UCC Comments states: "If a transaction creates a lease and not security interest, the lessee's interest in the goods is limited to its leasehold estate; the residual interest in the goods belongs to the lessor." 60 When the bright line test is not satisfied, the court must then answer the question whether the lessor retained a reversionary interest, either an upside or downside risk.	"When the bright-line test for whether a transaction in the form of a lease creates a security interest is not satisfied, should the court then answer the question whether the lessor retained a reversionary interest, either an upside or downside risk?"	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
-----	---	----	---	--	---	--

15624	U.S. v. Leyva, 282 F.3d 623, 625 (9th Cir. 2002)	3	Use of an official position was not an element of bribery offense; plain language of statute required only that the public official accept a thing of value in exchange for perpetrating a fraud, and absence of any official act requirement was particularly pointed in light of explicit "official act" or "official duty" language in other subsections of statute. 18 U.S.C.A. S 201(b)(2)(B).	[T]he public official must use his official position to commit or aid in the commission of the fraud. The district court did not err in rejecting these instructions because Leyva's proposed "use of official position" condition is supported by neither the text of the statute nor case law. Under the rules of statutory construction, "[t]he plain meaning of the statute controls, and courts will look no further, unless its application leads to unreasonable or impracticable results." United States v. Daas, 198 F.3d 1167, 1174 (9th Cir.1999). Here, the plain language of 201(b)(2)(B) requires only that the public official accept a thing of value in exchange for perpetrating a fraud. The absence of any official act requirement is particularly pointed in light of explicit "official act" or "official duty" language in other subsections of 201.	Is the use of an official position an element of the bribery statute?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
16416	Roberson v. Medtronic, 494 F. Supp. 2d 864, 870 (W.D. Tenn. 2007)	5	Federal Anti-Kickback Act provides only criminal penalties for its violation and provides no private right of action. Social Security Act, S 1128B, 42 U.S.C.A. S 1320a-7b.	The language of the statute and relevant case law support Defendants' position that the Anti-Kickback Act provides only criminal penalties for its violation and provides no private right of action.	Does the Anti-Kickback Statute provide for a private right of action?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
6871	Sabatino v. LaSalle Bank, N.A., 96 S.W.3d 113, 116 (Mo. Ct. App. 2003)	5	In order for "title to be affected," so as to predicate venue in the county where the land is located, title to the land must be the subject of the controversy; it is not enough for the judgment to affect the title incidentally or collaterally. V.A.M.S. S 508.030.	In order for "title to be affected" so as to predicate venue in the county where the land is located, title to the land must be the subject of the controversy. It is not enough for the judgment to affect the title incidentally or collaterally.	"For the title to be affected, so as to predicate venue in the county where the land is located, is it required that the land is the subject of the controversy?"	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

4539	Metmor Financial, Inc. v. Landoll Corp., 976 S.W.2d 454, 462 (Mo.App. W.D.,1998)	11	Party seeking equitable subrogation must prove by clear and convincing evidence that equity requires another party to bear the loss.	A party seeking equitable subrogation must prove by clear and convincing evidence that equity requires another party to bear the loss.	Should a party seeking subrogation or equitable subrogation prove by clear and convincing evidence that equity requires another party to bear the loss?	Not Copyrightable (headnote near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation
16049	Bibiano v. Lynch, 834 F.3d 966, 974 (9th Cir. 2016)	14	Given unique circumstances of case in which alien, a Mexican citizen and transgender woman who returned to United States unlawfully following her removal pursuant to in absentia removal order issued by immigration judge (IJ) in the Ninth Circuit, petitioned for review of Board of Immigration Appeals (BIA) order upholding the denial of her request for withholding of removal by IJ in the Eleventh Circuit, the interests of justice favored keeping petition in the Ninth Circuit, as opposed to transfer pursuant to court's inherent authority; the government acknowledged that alien's confusion over venue was understandable, as case spanned multiple decision-makers and three jurisdictions, one of which was the Ninth Circuit where alien originally filed for asylum, there were no allegations of gamesmanship or forum shopping, case had been pending for more than a year and had been fully briefed under Ninth Circuit law, and transfer would waste judicial resources and cause unnecessary delay.	As discussed above, the venue provision in 8 U.S.C. § 1252(b)(2) does not remove our subject matter jurisdiction over final orders of removal; thus, that the Eleventh Circuit is the proper venue does not defeat our jurisdiction over this case. [...] Given the unique circumstances of this case, we hold that transfer is not in the interests of justice. Here, the government acknowledges that Bibiano's confusion over venue "may have understandably been caused by legitimate confusion as to the proper forum for review." Indeed, the case spans multiple decision-makers and three jurisdictions, one of which was the Ninth Circuit where Bibiano originally filed for asylum. 10 See e.g., Sorcia, 643 F.3d at 123; cf. Trejo-Mejia, 593 F.3d at 914 (ordering a transfer where none of the proceedings occurred in the Ninth Circuit). In addition, the case at bar has been pending in our court for more than a year and has already been fully briefed under Ninth Circuit law. Transfer would not be more convenient "by having the parties brief their arguments afresh using a different	Can a court have jurisdiction even if it is not the proper venue?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

13429	H.D. Arnaiz, Ltd. v. Cnty. of San Joaquin, 96 Cal. App. 4th 1357, 1364–65, 118 Cal. Rptr. 2d 71, 77 (2002)	6	A voluntary dismissal by written request to the clerk is not a final judgment as no judgment, final or otherwise, is necessary to the dismissal. West's Ann.Cal.C.C.P. S 581(b)(1).	A voluntary dismissal under *1365 Code of Civil Procedure section 581, subdivision (b)(1) by written request to the clerk is not a final judgment, as no judgment, final or otherwise, is necessary to the dismissal.	Is a voluntary dismissal by written request to the clerk a final judgment as no judgment?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
5177	King v. Zimmerman, 266 Mont. 54, 66 (Mont.,1994)	15	Purpose of pretrial orders is to prevent surprise, simplify issues, and permit counsel to prepare their case for trial on basis of pretrial orders.	The purpose of pretrial orders is to prevent surprise, simplify the issues, and permit counsel to prepare their case for trial on the basis of the pretrial order.	"Is the purpose of pretrial orders to prevent surprise, simplify issues, and permit counsel to prepare their case for trial on basis of pretrial orders?"	Not Copyrightable (headnote near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation
7622	Merrick v. Britton, 26 Ark. 496, 503 (1871)	2	Where a party, for any good cause, is unprepared to go to trial, and fails by motion to postpone or continue, to show the fact to the court, at the proper time, he waives his want of preparation, and all right to afterwards object.	It is therefore incumbent upon a party, if for any good cause he finds himself unprepared to go on, to state the circumstances to the court and move a postponement of his case. If he fails to do so, he waives his want of preparation, and all right after to object	Does a party waives all his right to object if he fails to move a postponement of his case for any good cause he finds himself unprepared to go on?	Not Copyrightable (expired); No Material Appropriation
7181	R.J.W. v. State, 910 So. 2d 357, 361 (Fla. Dist. Ct. App. 2005)	3	An acquittal bars the prosecution from seeking another opportunity to supply evidence that it failed to muster in the first place.	An acquittal bars the prosecution from seeking "another opportunity to supply evidence that it failed to muster" in the first place.	Does an acquittal bar the prosecution from seeking another opportunity to supply evidence that it failed to muster in the first place?	Not Copyrightable (headnote near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation

19808	Dunn v. Terry, 216 Va. 234, 239, 217 S.E.2d 849, 854 (1975)	4	Convicts may freely execute contracts and deeds and transact business.	Convicts are not civilly dead in Virginia, and they may freely execute contracts and deeds. Haynes v. Peterson, 125 Va. 730, 100 S.E. 471 (1919); See also Scott v. Nance, Adm'r, 202 Va. 355, 358, 117 S.E.2d 279, 281 (1960). Here, Dunn was Sui juris at the time the action against him was instituted, and the trial court acquired jurisdiction over him. Dunn was free to make whatever arrangements he desired to defend the action. Unlike an infant or insane person, he was not legally incompetent to transact business either before or after his conviction in the criminal case.	Can convicts execute contracts?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
13224	Sec. Bank & Tr. Co. v. Larkin, Hoffman, Daly & Lindgren, Ltd., 897 N.W.2d 821, 825 (Minn. Ct. App. 2017)	9	A cause of action "accrues" when all of the elements of the action have occurred, such that the cause of action could be brought and would survive a motion to dismiss for failure to state a claim.	In so doing, we are mindful that "[a] cause of action accrues when all of the elements of the action have occurred, such that the cause of action could be brought and would survive a motion to dismiss for failure to state a claim."	When does a cause of action accrue?	Not Copyrightable (headnote near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation
7613	Arthur v. Sexton Dental Clinic, 368 S.C. 326, 334, 628 S.E.2d 894, 898 (Ct. App. 2006)	5	Decision whether to conduct a hearing on the issuance of the scheduling order is a matter left to the discretion of the trial judge.	Initially, we reject Appellants' contention that Judge Brogdon was required to hold a hearing on the issuance of the scheduling order. Our review of the above-cited rules of civil procedure reveals that the decision of whether to conduct a hearing is a matter left to the discretion of the trial judge.	Is the decision whether to conduct a hearing on the issuance of the scheduling order a matter left to the discretion of the judge?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

11756	Martin Glennon v. First Fid. Bank, N.A., 279 N.J. Super. 48, 57 (App. Div. 1995)	4	Under statutes, instrument is converted when it is paid on a forged endorsement, and depository bank warrants to the drawees that all signatures are genuine, also making it liable to the drawer for conversion. N.J.S.A. 12A:3-417(2), 12A:3-419(1)(c).	We start with the propositions that under N.J.S.A. 12A:3-419(1)(c) an instrument is converted when it is paid on a forged endorsement, and a depository bank warrants to the drawees that all signatures are genuine N.J.S.A. 12A:3-417(2), also making it liable to the drawer for conversion.	When does conversion of an instrument take place under the UCC?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
1031	Poteat v. St. Paul Mercury Ins. Co., 277 Mont. 117, 119 (1996)	1	When deciding motion to dismiss based on lack of subject matter jurisdiction, district court must determine whether complaint states facts that, if true, would vest district court with subject matter jurisdiction.	When deciding a motion to dismiss based on lack of subject matter jurisdiction, a district court must determine whether the complaint states facts that, if true, would vest the district court with subject matter jurisdiction.	"When deciding a motion to dismiss based on lack of subject matter jurisdiction, must a trial court determine whether the complaint states facts that would vest the court with subject matter jurisdiction?"	Not Copyrightable (headnote near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation
5647	Green v. Cont'l Rentals, 292 N.J. Super. 241, 253, 678 A.2d 759, 764-65 (1994)	8	Inclusion of contractual provision that, upon compliance with lease terms, customer shall become owner of property for no additional consideration, identifies agreement as security interest as matter of law.	The inclusion of a contractual provision that upon compliance with the lease terms the customer shall become 765 the owner of the property for no additional consideration, identifies the agreement as a security interest as a matter of law.	When should a customer become an owner of property for no additional consideration?	Not Copyrightable (headnote near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation
5644	United States v. Cessa, 861 F.3d 121, 140 (5th Cir. 2017)	23	Doctrine of double jeopardy bars retrial when the defendant has been acquitted, or when an appellate court reverses on grounds of evidentiary insufficiency; however, double jeopardy does not apply when a conviction is set aside because of an error in the proceedings leading to conviction. U.S. Const. Amend. 5.	The doctrine of double jeopardy bars retrial when the defendant has been acquitted, or when an appellate court reverses "on grounds of evidentiary insufficiency." Burks v. United States, 437 U.S. 1, 16, 98 S.Ct. 2141, 57 L.Ed.2d 1 (1978). However, double jeopardy does not apply when a "conviction is set aside because of an error in the proceedings leading to conviction.	"Does the doctrine of double jeopardy bar retrial when the defendant has been acquitted, or when an appellate court reverses on grounds of evidentiary insufficiency?"	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

8846	Pontiac Lodge No. 294 v. Dep't of Revenue, 243 Ill. App. 3d 186, 189 (1993)	4	Circuit court has reasonable discretion in determining whether to reinstate complaint after it has been dismissed for want of prosecution.	Even when the pleading involved is a criminal complaint, the circuit court has reasonable discretion in determining whether to reinstate such a complaint after it has been dismissed for want of prosecution.	Does a circuit court have reasonable discretion in determining whether to reinstate a complaint after it has been dismissed for want of prosecution?	Not Copyrightable (headnote near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation
13997	Farmer v. State, 341 Ark. 220, 224 (Ark.,2000)	4	Sexual gratification, like intent, is rarely capable of proof by direct evidence and must usually be inferred from the circumstances. A.C.A. SS 5-14-101(1)(B), 5-14-103.	Indeed, short of a confession or physical evidence, sexual gratification, like intent, is rarely capable of proof by direct evidence and must usually be inferred from the circumstances.	Can sexual gratification be inferred from the circumstances?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
10448	Morgan v. Crowley, 91 Ga. App. 58, 68 (Ga. Ct. App. 1954)	14	A demurrer must itself be free from imperfection, and a special demurrer must put its finger upon exact weakness which it seeks to point out.	As has been frequently said: A demurrer being a critic must itself be free from imperfection, and a special demurrer must, as it were, put its finger upon the exact weakness which it seeks to point out.	Must a special demurrer put its finger on the exact point of weakness?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

15187	Willowbrook Dev. Corp. v. Illinois Pollution Control Bd., 92 Ill. App. 3d 1074, 1082, 416 N.E.2d 385, 392 (1981)	7	Since Pollution Control Board acted unconditionally in granting variance from ban on future connections between sanitary drainage outlets and sewer for 52 of developer's 152 proposed units, while unconditionally denying the variance for the remaining 100 units and since mere fact that Board granted partial variance did not give rise to imposition of a condition on the variance within meaning of Environmental Protection Act, Board's decision to deny variance for 100 of the units was a quasijudicial decision reviewable under the manifest weight of evidence test. S.H.A. ch. 1111/212, SS 1035, 1036.	The Board has acted unconditionally in granting a variance for 52 units at Lake Willow Way, while unconditionally denying a variance for the remaining 100 units. The mere fact that the Board has granted a partial variance does not give rise to a "condition on a variance" within the meaning of section 36 of the Environmental Protection Act (Ill.Rev.Stat.1979, ch. 1111/2, par. 1036). Therefore, the Board's decision to deny a variance for 100 of the units planned for Lake Willow Way must be viewed as a quasijudicial decision reviewable under the manifest weight of the evidence test.[...] Section 35 of the Environmental Protection Act (Ill.Rev.Stat.1979, ch. 1111/2, par. 1035) provides that the Board may grant a variance when "compliance with any rule or regulation, requirement or order of the Board would impose an arbitrary or unreasonable hardship."	Can the Pollution Control Board grant a variance if a regulation imposes an arbitrary or unreasonable hardship on an individual polluter under Section 35 of the Environmental Protection Act?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
19196	In re Meyer, 563 B.R. 708, 713–14 (Bankr. N.D. Iowa 2017)	2	Under Iowa law, a lease is a contract and, as such, is subject to ordinary contract principles.	Under Iowa law, a lease is a contract. *714 Alta Vista Props., LLC v. Mauer Vision Ctr., PC, 855 N.W.2d 722, 727 (Iowa 2014). "Because leases are contracts ... ordinary contract principles apply."	Are leases controlled by the principles of contract law?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

20211	Bruce v. Landmark Cent. Bank Trust Co., 592 S.W.2d 198, 200 (Mo. Ct. App. 1979)	1	Contract of guaranty should be interpreted like other types of contracts; all terms of contract should be given effect.	Contracts of guaranty should be interpreted like other types of contracts. Standard Meat Co. v. Taco Kid of Springfield, Inc., 554 S.W.2d 592, 595 (Mo.App.1977). All terms of the contract should be given effect.	Will a guaranty be treated like other contracts?	Not Copyrightable (headnote near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation
6657	Schowalter v. Washington Mut. Bank, 275 Ga. App. 182, 183 (2005)	3	Purpose of the pretrial order is to determine which of the claims pleaded will actually be tried; claims, issues, and evidence are limited by the order, and the course of the action is thereby narrowed to expedite the proceeding.	The rationale is that the purpose of the pretrial order "is to determine which of the claims pleaded will actually be tried. The claims, issues, and evidence are limited by the order and the course of the action is thereby narrowed to expedite the proceeding."	"What is the purpose of a pretrial order and are claims, issues, and evidence limited by the order?"	Not Copyrightable (headnote near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation
9161	Oak Springs Villas Homeowners Ass'n v. Advanced Truss Sys., Inc., 206 Cal.App.4th 1304, 1307 (Cal. Ct. App. 2012)	2	A good faith settlement determination is a non-appealable interlocutory ruling and immediate review of the merits of that determination is obtainable only by a timely writ petition. West's Ann.Cal.C.C.P. S 877.6.	A good faith settlement determination is a nonappealable interlocutory ruling and immediate review of the merits of that determination is obtainable only by a timely writ petition pursuant to Code of Civil Procedure, section 877.6.	Is good faith settlement determination a non-appealable interlocutory ruling?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
18388	W. Pittsburgh P'ship ex rel. WEHAV Governing Comm'n v. McNeilly, 840 A.2d 498, 503 (Pa. Commw. Ct. 2004)	4	An order dismissing an action as to fewer than all plaintiffs is not a final order. Rules App.Proc., Rule 341(b, c), 42 Pa.C.S.A.	It is now well established that an order dismissing an action as to fewer than all plaintiffs is not a final order.	Is an order dismissing an action as to fewer than all plaintiffs not a final order?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

3484	Holly Ridge Assocs. v. N. Carolina Dep't of Env't & Nat. Res., 176 N.C. App. 594, 605 (2006)	13	In passing on a motion for a continuance, a trial court must pass on the grounds urged in support of it, and should consider all the facts in evidence, and not act on its own mental impression or facts outside the record. Rules Civ.Proc., Rule 40(b), West's N.C.G.S.A. S 1A-1.	40(b)), "wisely makes no attempt to enumerate them but leaves it to the judge to determine, in each case, whether 'good cause' for a continuance has been shown." Shankle, 289 N.C. at 483, 223 S.E.2d at 386. "In passing on the motion the trial court must pass on the grounds urged in support of it, and ... should consider all the facts in evidence, and not act on its own mental impression or facts outside the record." Id.	"In passing on a motion for a continuance, should a trial court consider all the facts in evidence, and not act on its own mental impression or facts outside the record?"	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
9355	Dye v. Mo. Dep't of Soc. Servs., 476 S.W.3d 359, 363 (Mo. Ct. App. 2015)	1	A voluntary dismissal is effective on the date it is filed with the court; consequently, a trial court loses jurisdiction to enter any subsequent orders regarding the dismissed action. Mo. Sup. Ct. R. 67.02(a).	"A voluntary dismissal is effective on the date it is filed with the court." [...] "Consequently, a trial court loses jurisdiction to enter any subsequent orders regarding the dismissed action." Id. "The circuit court may take no further steps as to the dismissed action, and any step attempted is viewed a nullity."	Do a trial court loses jurisdiction to enter any subsequent orders regarding the dismissed action?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

19822	Jordan v. Town of Canton, 265 A.2d 96, 99 (Me. 1970)	4	When all reasonable access to public way has been destroyed, property right has been "taken" within meaning of constitutional prohibition against taking private property for public uses without just compensation. M.R.S.A.Const. art. 1, S 21.	We recognize that in a number of states the constitution has been amended to provide that compensation must be paid when private property is 'damaged' as well as 'taken.' We hold, however, that when all reasonable access has been destroyed, the property right has been 'taken' within the meaning of Art. I, Sec. 21. [...] The effect of the statute is to permit an actual or 'de facto' discontinuance of a public way without any accompanying provision for compensation for the 'taking' of private property rights which will almost inevitably result therefrom. In judging whether a statute satisfies constitutional requirements, we look to the possible and not merely the probable consequences which may flow therefrom.	Is there a constitutional requirement that private property not be taken without just compensation?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
-------	--	---	--	---	--	---

14150	Evans v. State, 317 Ark. 532, 539 (Ark. 1994)	5	Whether incest victim had subsequent sexual relations with another and whether she initially admitted or denied such conduct to investigating authorities was entirely collateral, and even if there was some relevance to that subsequent conduct, probative value was not substantially outweighed by danger of unfair prejudice. Rule of Evid., Rule 403; A.C.A. S 5-26-202.	Since consent is never an issue in the crime of incest, whether this victim had subsequent sexual relations with another and whether she initially admitted or denied such conduct to investigating authorities is entirely collateral. Nothing in her direct testimony at trial was contradictory to her initial statement. Even if we could say there was relevance to this subsequent conduct, giving due deference to the trial court, as we are pledged to do, we cannot say that the probative value of such evidence was not substantially outweighed by the danger of unfair prejudice.	Is consent an issue in a charge of incest?	Krein Concedes no copying
-------	---	---	---	---	--	---------------------------

15710	In re Manion, No. 07-08-0318-CV, 2008 WL 4180294, at *3 (Tex. App. Sept. 11, 2008)	1	The trial court did not abuse its discretion in ordering discovery of financial records in a contract and tort suit involving the care and breeding of horses. The record contained no indication that the documents were confidential or privileged, and the party seeking to avoid discovery failed to cite any authority in support of a constitutional privacy right in one's personal financial records.	Freeman also alleges Manion served as Stallion Manager from 1983 until the present. Therefore, the record does not support a conclusion that the trial court abused its discretion by ordering the discovery of Manion's financial documents from 2000 to the present. [. . .] Once again, the record fails to establish any basis on which to exclude these documents from discovery. ² [. . .] Manion cites no authority in support of an asserted constitutional right to privacy, and it has previously been determined there is no constitutionally protected privacy right in one's personal financial records. Having determined that the trial court did not abuse its discretion in ordering discovery, we deny mandamus relief, vacate our stay order, and declare Freeman's Emergency Motion for Stay of Underlying Proceedings filed September 5, 2008, moot.	Do financial records have a constitutional right to privacy?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
6909	Shipe v. Pub. Wholesale Water Supply Dist. No. 25, 289 Kan. 160, 160 (2009)	6	If a party does not have standing to challenge an action or to request a particular type of relief, then there is no justiciable case or controversy and the suit must be dismissed.	If a party does not have standing to challenge an action or to request a particular type of relief, then there is no justiciable case or controversy and the suit must be dismissed.	Should a suit be dismissed if a party does not have standing to challenge an action or to request a particular type of relief?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

10753	Trendmark Homes, Inc. v. Bank of N. Ga., 314 Ga. App. 886, 888 (Ga. Ct. App. 2012)	4	Because a promissory note is an unconditional promise, and the contract is complete as written, parol evidence may not be used to impose conditions which are not apparent from the face of the note.	"It is well established that [such] a promissory note may not be modified by the imposition of conditions not apparent on its face.... The note being an unconditional promise, the contract is complete as written; parol evidence may not be used to impose conditions which are not apparent from the face of the note."	Can a promissory note be modified by imposition of conditions which are not apparent on its face?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
13772	Kidd v. Commonwealth, 273 Ky. 300, 116 S.W.2d 636, 638 (1938)	5	The word "break" implies force, and, as used in the storehouse breaking statute, it has the same well-known and definite meaning as at common law with reference to the crime of burglary. Ky.St. S 1164.	But the word "break" implies force. McFarland v. Commonwealth, 227 Ky. 411, 13 S.W.2d 277. As used in the statute, it has a well-known and definite meaning at common law with reference to the crime of burglary, and the same definitions apply to this statute	What does the word break denote in the context of burglary?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

18125	Bob Marshall All. v. Hodel, 852 F.2d 1223, 1229–30 (9th Cir. 1988)	5	Decision by federal agencies not to issue oil and gas leases in designated wilderness of national forest would not be equivalent to formal "withdrawal" of wilderness from mineral leasing under Federal Land Policy and Management Act, but would constitute legitimate exercise of discretion granted to Interior Secretary under Mineral Leasing Act. Federal Land Policy and Management Act of 1976, S 204, 43 U.S.C.A. S 1714; Mineral Lands Leasing Act, SS 1 et seq., 17(a), 30 U.S.C.A. SS 181 et seq., 226(a).	Kohlman argues that if the agencies had either denied or deferred action on the Deep Creek lease applications, their action would have constituted an illegal administrative "withdrawal" of Deep Creek from mineral leasing. ⁵ [...] We fail to see how a decision not to issue oil and gas leases on Deep Creek would be equivalent *1230 to a formal withdrawal. [...] Yet as the court acknowledged, the Mineral Leasing Act gives the Interior Secretary discretion to determine which lands are to be leased under the statute. 30 U.S.C. § 226(a) (1982); see Mountain States, 499 F.Supp. at 391–92. We have held that the Mineral Leasing Act "allows the Secretary to lease such lands, but does not require him to do so.... [T]he Secretary has discretion to refuse to issue any lease at all on a given tract." [...] Thus refusing to issue the Deep Creek leases, far from removing Deep Creek from the operation of the mineral leasing law, would constitute a legitimate exercise of the discretion granted to the Interior Secretary under that statute.	Does the Mineral Leasing Act allow the Secretary to lease such lands but does not require him to do so?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
7323	Wilson v. Comm'r, 161 F.2d 661, 664 (7th Cir. 1947)	5	Generally, a "partnership" is created when persons join together their money, goods, labor, or skill for purpose of carrying on a trade, profession, or business, and when there is a community of interest in profits and losses.	A partnership is generally said to be created when persons join together their money, goods, labor, or skill for the purpose of carrying on a trade, profession, or business and when there is community of interest in the profits and losses.	"Are money, property, skill and labor required in a partnership?"	Not Copyrightable (headnote near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation

427	State v. Vanlue, 216 S.W.3d 729, 733 (Mo. Ct. App. 2007)	1	Appellate courts are wary of claims that a trial court erred in failing to sua sponte make objections and rulings in the closing argument of a criminal case; to convict a trial court of an error not put forth by the defendant allows an accused to stand mute when incidents unfavorable to him or her occur during trial, gamble on the verdict, and then seek favorable results on appeal.	"Appellate courts are wary of claims that a trial court erred in failing to ... sua sponte [make objections and rulings] in [closing argument of] a criminal case.' " State v. Taylor, 166 S.W.3d 599, 608 (Mo.App.2005) (quoting State v. Derrick, 965 S.W.2d 418, 419 n. 1 (Mo.App.1998)) (emphasis added). " "To convict a trial court of an error, not put forth by the defendant ... allows an accused to stand mute when incidents unfavorable to him or her occur during trial, gamble on the verdict, and then seek favorable results on appeal.' " Taylor, 166 S.W.3d at 608 (quoting State v. Tilley, 104 S.W.3d 814, 819 (Mo.App.2003)).	Are appellate courts especially wary of a claim that the trial court failed to declare a mistrial sua sponte?	Not Copyrightable (headnote near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation
10073	Schmidt v. Cal-Dive International, 240 F. Supp. 3d 532, 542 (W.D. La. 2017)	9	Under Louisiana law, when the words at issue are not defamatory per se, plaintiff must prove, in addition to defamatory meaning and publication, falsity, malice or fault, and injury.	When the words at issue are not defamatory per se, a plaintiff must prove, in addition to defamatory meaning and publication, falsity, malice (or fault) and injury.	What does the plaintiff need to prove when the words at issue are not defamatory per se?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
9545	Xylem Dewatering Sols., Inc. v. Dir., Div. of Tax'n, 30 N.J. Tax 41, 67 (2017), as corrected (Apr. 10, 2017)	12	The federal constitution places limits on a State's power to tax value earned outside of its borders.	"The Constitution places limits on a State's power to tax value earned outside of its borders."	Does the federal constitution place limits on a State's power to tax value earned outside of its borders?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

11493	Pauls v. Sec'y of Air Force, 457 F.2d 294, 297 (1st Cir. 1972)	1	Military officers serve at pleasure of the President and have no constitutional right to be promoted or retained in service and the services of an officer may be terminated with or without reason.	It is well-established law that military officers serve at the pleasure of the President and have no constitutional right to be promoted or retained in service and that the services of an officer may be terminated with or without reason.	Can a military officer be terminated with or without reason?	Not Copyrightable (headnote near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation
14718	Nunez v. Burgos, 215 So. 3d 931, 934 (La. Ct. App. 2017)	5	Abandonment is meant not as a ground to dismiss actions on mere technicalities, but to dismiss actions which in fact clearly have been abandoned. La. Code Civ. Proc. Ann. art. 561.	As previously stated, abandonment is not meant to dismiss actions on mere technicalities, but to dismiss actions which in fact clearly have been abandoned.	Is abandonment not meant to dismiss actions on mere technicalities?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
3841	Lewis v. Buena Vista Mut. Ins. Ass'n, 183 N.W.2d 198, 201 (Iowa 1971)	5	Motion in limine is not ordinarily employed to choke off entire claim or defense but it is usually used to prohibit mention of some specific matter, such as an inflammatory piece of evidence, until admissibility of that matter has been shown out of hearing of jury, and trial courts would ordinarily be well advised to require evidentiary hearing on motion if its validity or invalidity is not manifest from face of motion.	Moreover, the motion in limine is not ordinarily employed to choke off an entire claim or defense, as it was here regarding arson. Rather, it is usually used to prohibit mention of some specific matter, such as an inflammatory piece of evidence, until the admissibility of that matter has been shown out of the hearing of the jury. E.g., Mead v. Scott, 256 Iowa 1285, 130 N.W.2d 641 (previous accidents); Wagner v. Larson, 257 Iowa 1202, 136 N.W.2d 312 (collateral benefits and marital trouble); Baysinger v. Haney, 155 N.W.2d 496 (Iowa) (indirect revelation of contents of privileged report). [...] Since no one knows exactly how the trial will proceed, trial courts would ordinarily be well advised to require an evidentiary hearing on the motion when its validity or invalidity is not manifest from the face of the motion.	"Should a motion in limine be used to ""choke off"" a party's entire claim or defense?"	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

10933	Allen v. Phinney Oil Co., 241 S.C. 173, 180 (S.C. 1962)	5	Courts may not enlarge meaning of terms of Workmen's Compensation Act or extend by construction its scope so as to include persons not embraced by its terms.	However, the Courts are without authority to enlarge the meaning of the terms of the act or to extend by construction its scope so as to include persons not embraced by its terms, and one who seeks to avail himself of the act must come within its terms.	"In workmens compensation, may the courts enlarge the meaning of the terms in the law?"	Krein Concedes no copying
3674	Kraft v. Forest Park Realty & Ins. Co., 111 Ga.App. 621, 626 (Ga.App. 1965)	9	If a dismissal for want of prosecution is entered erroneously or improvidently, court may reinstate it upon motion without notice to or consent of defendant.	If a dismissal for want of prosecution is entered erroneously or improvidently, the court may reinstate it upon motion without notice to or the consent of the defendant.	"If a dismissal for want of prosecution is entered erroneously or improvidently, can a court reinstate it upon motion without notice to or consent of defendant?"	Not Copyrightable (headnote near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation
1864	Rockdale Mgmt. Co. v. Shawmut Bank, N.A., 418 Mass. 596, 598 (Mass., 1994)	2	When fraud on court is shown through clear and convincing evidence to have been committed in ongoing case, trial judge has inherent power and broad discretion to fashion judicial response warranted by fraudulent conduct; dismissal of claims or entire action, or entry of default judgment, may be warranted by fraud.	When a fraud on the court is shown through clear and convincing evidence to have been committed in an ongoing case, the trial judge has the inherent power to take action in response to the fraudulent conduct. The judge has broad discretion to fashion a judicial response warranted by the fraudulent conduct. Dismissal of claims or of an entire action may be warranted by the fraud, see, e.g., Aoude, supra at 1118, as may be the entry of a default judgment, see, e.g., Eppes v.	"When faced with a finding of fraud on the court, does the judge have broad discretion to fashion a judicial response warranted by the fraudulent conduct?"	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

2019	Frymire Eng'g Co., ex rel. Liberty Mut. Ins. Co. v. Jomar Int'l, Ltd., 194 S.W.3d 713, 715 (Tex. App. 2006)	3	The "equitable subrogation doctrine" allows one who involuntarily pays another's debt to seek repayment of that debt by the person who in equity and good conscience should have paid it.	The equitable subrogation allows a person, not acting voluntarily, who pays the debt owed by another to seek repayment of that debt by the person who in equity and good conscience should have paid it.	Does the equitable subrogation doctrine allow one who involuntarily pays another's debt to seek repayment of that debt by the person who in equity and good conscience should have paid it?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
7900	Baker v. Forest Pres. Dist. of Cook Cty., 2015 IL App (1st) 141157, ¶ 39, 33 N.E.3d 745, 752	15	Special districts, like a county's Forest Preserve District (FPD), are creations of the Legislature and the statutes granting power to them are to be strictly construed and their powers are not to be enlarged by construction. S.H.A. Const. Art. 7, S 8.	Special districts, like the FPD, are creations of the legislature and the "[s]tatutes granting power to them are to be strictly construed and their powers are not to be enlarged by construction." Forest Preserve District v. Jirsa, 336 Ill. 624, 628, 168 N.E. 690 (1929); Ill. Const., 1970, art. VII 8.	Are Forest Preserve District (FPD) creations of the legislature and should the statutes granting power to them be strictly construed?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

19894	Mississippi Comm'n on Jud. Performance v. Ishee, 627 So. 2d 283, 288 (Miss. 1993)	5	Justice court judge's failure to resign from office while running for office of circuit clerk violates prohibition against running for nonjudicial office while holding office as judge; office of circuit clerk was nonjudicial, notwithstanding constitutional placement of office within judicial branch. Code of Jud.Conduct, Canon 7, subd. A(3); Const. Art. 6, S 168.	In Feltz v. Crabtree, 179 W.Va. 524, 370 S.E.2d 619 (1988), the West Virginia Supreme Court of Appeals held that the office of circuit clerk was not a judicial office. This case arose in much the same way as the case sub judice. A magistrate received notice that he was required to resign his position in order to seek the office of circuit clerk . The magistrate was removed from the payroll pursuant to that directive. By a petition for writ of mandamus, the magistrate asked to be reinstated. Canon 7 A(3) of the Judicial Code of Ethics in West Virginia is identical to our Canon 7 A(3). Furthermore, this was a case of first impression defining the term "judicial office." Article VIII, W.Va. Const. created the office of the circuit clerk within the judicial system. Feltz concluded that the office of circuit clerk is not a "judicial office" as used in Art. VIII, § 7, W.Va. Const. and Canon 7 A(3).	Is the office of circuit clerk a judicial office?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
4992	Mundi v. Union Sec. Life Ins. Co., 555 F.3d 1042, 1044 (C.A.9 (Cal.),2009)	2	In determining whether parties have agreed to arbitrate dispute, federal court applies general state-law principles of contract interpretation, while giving due regard to federal policy in favor of arbitration by resolving ambiguities as to scope of arbitration in favor of arbitration. 9 U.S.C.A. S 1 et seq.	In determining whether parties have agreed to arbitrate a dispute, we apply "general state-law principles of contract interpretation, while giving due regard to the federal policy in favor of arbitration by resolving ambiguities as to the scope of arbitration in favor of arbitration."	What laws do courts apply to contract disputes in arbitration proceedings?	Krein Concedes no copying

16408	Jaynes v. Commonwealth, 276 Va. 443, 459, 666 S.E.2d 303, 311 (2008)	10	"Trespass" is the unauthorized use of or entry onto another's property.	Trespass is the unauthorized use of or entry onto another's property.	Is the unauthorized use of or entry onto another's property a trespass?	Not Copyrightable (headnote near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation
1332	James Bros. Lumber Co. v. Union Banking & Tr. Co. of Du Bois, Pa., 432 Pa. 129, 132 (1968)	1	Court may enter judgment of non pros. when party has shown want of due diligence in failing to proceed with reasonable promptitude and there has been no compelling reason for delay, and delay has caused some prejudice to adverse party, such as death of or unexplained absence of material witness.	A Court may properly enter a judgment of non pros. when a party to the proceeding has shown a want of due diligence in failing to proceed with reasonable promptitude, and there has been no compelling reason for the delay, and the delay has caused some prejudice to the adverse party, such as the death of or unexplained absence of material witnesses.	Is entry of non pros proper if party to proceeding has shown want of due diligence by failing to proceed with reasonable promptness?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
99	Long v. Elborno, 376 Ill. App. 3d 970, 979 (Ill. App. Ct. 2007)	7	A court must consider the following seven factors in determining whether to grant a motion to dismiss based on the plaintiff's alleged failure to exercise reasonable diligence in serving a summons and complaint: (1) the length of time used to obtain service of process; (2) the activities of plaintiff; (3) plaintiff's knowledge of defendant's location; (4) the ease with which defendant's whereabouts could have been ascertained; (5) actual knowledge on the part of the defendant of pendency of the action; (6) special circumstances which would affect plaintiff's efforts; and (7) actual service on defendant. Sup.Ct.Rules, Rule 103(b); S.H.A. 735 ILCS 5/2-622(a)(1, 2).	The supreme court in Segal identified the following seven factors a court must consider when determining whether to grant a Rule 103(b) motion: "(1) the length of time used to obtain service of process; (2) the activities of plaintiff; (3) plaintiff's knowledge of defendant's location; (4) the ease with which defendant's whereabouts could have been ascertained; (5) actual knowledge on the part of the defendant of pendency of the action* * *; (6) special circumstances which would affect plaintiff's efforts; and (7) actual service on defendant."	Should courts consider a number of factors when determining whether to grant a motion to dismiss for lack of diligence?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

14132	Piven v. Comcast Corp., 397 Md. 278, 285 (2007)	2	Transitory actions can ordinarily be brought wherever the defendant works, lives, or has a principal office.	Maryland has long recognized a distinction between local actions, which must be brought where the subject matter *285 of the action is located, and transitory actions, which ordinarily may be brought wherever the defendant works, lives, or has a principal office.	Can transitory actions be brought where the defendant works or lives?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
2898	In re Advanced Powder Sols., 496 S.W.3d 838, 854 (Tex. App. 2016)	26	When a reasonable person would conclude from the severity of an accident or other circumstances that a substantial chance of litigation exists, a duty to preserve evidence arises.	When a reasonable person would conclude from the severity of an accident or other circumstances that a substantial chance of litigation exists, a duty to preserve evidence arises.	"When a reasonable person would conclude from the severity of an accident or other circumstances that a substantial chance of litigation exists, does a duty to preserve evidence arise?"	Not Copyrightable (headnote verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation
1374	Matter of Safriet, 112 N.C. App. 747, 751 (1993)	2	Before ruling on motion for continuance, judge should hear the evidence, pro and con, consider it judicially, along with whether moving party has acted with diligence and in good faith, and then rule with view to promoting substantial justice.	Before ruling on a motion for a continuance, the judge should hear the evidence, pro and con, consider it judicially, along with whether the moving party has acted with diligence and in good faith and then rule with a view to promoting substantial justice.	Should a judge find out whether moving party has acted with diligence and in good faith and then rule with a view to promoting substantial justice?	Not Copyrightable (headnote near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation
9179	Moore v. Scott, 759 S.W.2d 827, 830 (Ky. Ct. App. 1988)	8	Principal has power to revoke naked power of attorney and agent has power to renounce, although doing so is in violation of contract between the parties and although authority is expressed to be irrevocable; statement in contract that authority cannot be terminated by either party is effective only to create liability for its wrongful termination.	The principal has power to revoke and the agent has power to renounce, although doing so is in violation of a contract between the parties and although the authority is expressed to be irrevocable. A statement in a contract that the authority cannot be terminated by either party is effective only to create liability for its wrongful termination.	Can Agency be terminated due to renunciation by an agent?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

19445	Stockgrowers' Nat. Bank of Cheyenne v. Crosby, 39 Wyo. 454, 273 P. 679, 681 (1929)	2	Note may be assigned without writing to transfer ownership to assignee and enable assignee to sue thereon without indorsement.	It need not even be in writing, and appellant could become the owner of the note in suit by such assignment so as to become the real party in interest and so as to sue thereon in its own name without any indorsement on the note.	Does an assignment need to be in writing and endorsed?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
18408	Guild v. Herrick, 51 N.Y.S.2d 326, 330-31 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1944)	8	Where some members of stock brokerage firm knew or should have known that customer's securities were being improperly manipulated in course of partnership business, other partners could not escape liability on ground that they had no knowledge of the manipulations. Partnership Law, S 24.	The Court also finds that the partners of Herrick, Berg & Co. knew or should have known, from their own books and records, that at the time Charles became a partner in the firm he did not have his own money to make such contribution of capital and that plaintiff's securities were used to enable him to get the $25,000 which he contributed to the firm's capital. [. . .] The defendants also contend that they are not liable because they had no knowledge of the manipulations of plaintiff's securities. Partners are individually responsible for torts by a firm when acting within the general scope of its business, whether they personally participated therein or not. [...] Partners are individually responsible for torts by a firm when acting within the general scope of its business, whether they personally participated therein or not. As held in Kavanaugh v. McIntyre, 210 N.Y. 175, at page 183, 104 N.E. 135, 137, the individual members of a conpartnership are liable for torts of which they have no knowledge, committed by any member	"Are individual members of a partnership held responsible for torts they had no knowledge of, committed by any member of the firm in the course of partnership business?"	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

13237	Shockey v. Pelfrey, 314 Ky. 441, 444, 235 S.W.2d 1017, 1018 (1951)	1	An exhibit forms a part of a pleading and may aid and cure an allegation which is vaguely, indefinitely and defectively stated, but exhibit cannot supply an averment which has been wholly omitted. Civ.Code Prac. S 120.	An exhibit forms a part of the pleading by the express language of the Civil Code of Practice, and it may aid and cure an allegation in the pleading vaguely, indefinitely and defectively stated. Tackett v. Pickeville Supply & Planing Mill Co., 249 Ky. 835, 61 S.W.2d 881; Newport & Dayton Lumber Co. v. Lichtenfeldt, 72 S.W. 778, 24 Ky.Law Rep. 1969. It cannot, however, supply an averment which has been wholly omitted.	Can an exhibit cure or aid a defective allegation?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
1631	League of United Latin Am. Citizens v. Wilson, 908 F. Supp. 755, 768 (C.D. Cal. 1995)	12	Even if state law related to immigration is not impermissible regulation of immigration, it may still be preempted if there is showing that it was clear and manifest purpose of Congress to effect complete ouster of state power, including state power to promulgate laws not in conflict with federal laws with respect to subject matter which statute attempts to regulate; statute is preempted where Congress intended to occupy the field which statute attempts to regulate.	Under the second test, even if the state law is not an impermissible regulation of immigration, it may still be preempted if there is a showing that it was the "clear and manifest purpose of Congress" to effect a "complete ouster of state power- including state power to promulgate laws not in conflict with federal laws" with respect to the subject matter which the statute attempts to regulate. Id. at 357, 96 S.Ct. at 937. In other words, under the second test, a statute is preempted where Congress intended to "occupy the field" which the statute attempts to regulate.	Are state statutes relating to immigration preempted by federal law?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
17390	First National Bank of Fredonia v. Meadows, 460 S.W.2d 604, 606 (Mo. 1970)	2	Kansas Negotiable Instruments Act has no application to a nonnegotiable instrument, but it does not follow that an action may not be declared on as if negotiable. K.S.A. 84-3-407, 84-4-401, 84-8-206.	Of course, the negotiable instruments act has no application to a nonnegotiable instrument (10 C.J.S. Bills and Notes s 12, p. 423) but it does not follow that an action may not be 'declared on as if negotiable.'	Does the Uniform Negotiable Instruments Act apply to nonnegotiable instruments?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

14406	Michigan Employment Sec. Comm'n v. Patt, 4 Mich. App. 228, 233 (Mich. Ct. App. 1966)	3	Essential characteristics of a "tax" are that it is not a voluntary payment or donation, but an enforced contribution, exacted pursuant to legislative authority.	68: '* * * the essential characteristics of a tax are that it is not a voluntary payment or donation, but an enforced contribution, exacted pursuant to legislative authority'.'	Is tax a voluntary payment or donation?	Not Copyrightable (headnote near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation
10779	Nw. Mut. Life Ins. Co. v. State Bd. of Equalization, 73 Cal. App. 2d 548, 551, 166 P.2d 917, 919 (1946)	3	There is a broad and well recognized distinction between a tax levied for general governmental or public purposes, and a special assessment levied for improvements made under special laws of a local character.	'There is a broad and well-recognized distinction between a tax levied for general governmental or public purposes, and a special assessment levied for improvements made under special laws of a local character.'	Is there a broad distinction between a tax and a special assessment?	Not Copyrightable (headnote near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation

8972	Clouser v. Espy, 42 F.3d 1522, 1539 (C.A.9 (Or.),1994)	13	Forest Service did not act arbitrarily and capriciously under Administrative Procedure Act (APA) in determining that motorized access to mining claim in wilderness area of national forest was not essential for operation of claim and not customarily used as required for approval of motorized access under Forest Service regulations; Forest Service examiner had used pack horse to carry same equipment to claim, and access trails had been closed to motorized traffic for over ten years so that they were returning to natural condition. 5 U.S.C.A. S 706(2)(A); 36 C.F.R. S 228.15(b, c)	It is true our circuit has held that Forest Service regulation of activities on mining claims must comport with the standard set out in 30 U.S.C. § 612. See United States v. Doremus, 888 F.2d 630, 633 (9th Cir.1989) (upholding Forest Service requirement that claim holders obtain permit before beginning operations on grounds that such Forest Service regulation did not “materially interfere” with mining operation), cert. denied, 498 U.S. 1046, 111 S.Ct. 751, 112 L.Ed.2d 772 (1991). [...] We therefore affirm the district court's rejection of this argument on the ground that the “materially interfere” standard of 30 U.S.C. § 612 does not apply to actions taken by the government to regulate mining-related activities that occur on national forest lands outside of the boundary of the mining claim.	Is the Forest Service authorized to interfere with mining claims ?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
10962	Farrell v. State, 364 Md. 499, 506 (Mass. 2001)	5	An intentionally rendered verdict of not guilty is final and precludes, under common law, any further prosecution for the same offense.	In holding that an intentionally rendered verdict of "not guilty" is final and precludes, under Maryland common law, any further prosecution for the same offense...	"Is an intentionally rendered verdict of not guilty final and precludes, under common law, any further prosecution for the same offense?"	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

5889	Barlow & Haun v. United States, 118 Fed. Cl. 597, 616 (2014)	17	A claim that the application of government regulations effects a taking of a property interest is not ripe until the government entity charged with implementing the regulations has reached a final decision regarding the application of the regulations to the property at issue. U.S.C.A. Const. Amend 5.	"[A] claim that the application of government regulations effects a taking of a property interest is not ripe until the government entity charged with implementing the regulations has reached a final decision regarding the application of the regulations to the property at issue."	"Where a land owner has not yet obtained a final decision regarding application of a land regulation to the particular property in question, is the claim ripe for review?"	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
13590	Commissioner of Revenue v. Franchi, 423 Mass. 817, 822 (Mass. 1996)	2	General rule is that tax statutes are to be strictly construed according to their plain meaning, as State has no power to tax unless that power has been expressly conferred by statute.	The general rule is that tax statutes are to be strictly construed according to their plain meaning, as the State has no power to tax unless that power has been expressly conferred by statute.	Does the State have the power to tax?	Not Copyrightable (headnote near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation
18135	Wheeling Steel Corp. v. Glander, 337 U.S. 562, 572, 69 S. Ct. 1291, 1297, 93 L. Ed. 1544 (1949)	7	Under Ohio law, tax on intangibles such as notes and accounts receivable is not a franchise, privilege, occupation, or income tax, but is an ad valorem property tax. Gen.Code Ohio, SS 5325-1, 5327, 5328-1, 5328-2, 5638.	Ohio holds this tax on intangibles to be an ad valorem property tax, Bennett v. Evatt, 145 Ohio St. 587, 62 N.E.2d 345, and in no sense a franchise, privilege, occupation or income tax.	"Is a tax on intangibles an ""ad valorem tax""?"	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
6390	Harwell v. State Farm Mut. Auto. Ins. Co., 896 S.W.2d 170, 173 (Tex. 1995)	2	When determining whether summary judgment was proper, appellate court reviews evidence in light most favorable to nonmovant, taking all evidence in favor of nonmovant as true and resolving all doubts as to existence of genuine issue of material fact in its favor.	When determining whether summary judgment was proper, we review the evidence in the light most favorable to the nonmovant, taking all evidence in favor of the nonmovant as true and resolving all doubts as to the existence of a genuine issue of material fact in its favor.	Will all conflicts in the evidence will be disregarded and the evidence favorable to the nonmovant will be accepted as true when deciding summary judgment?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

7641	Canal Oil Co. v. Nat'l Oil Co., 19 Cal. App. 2d 524, 535, 66 P.2d 197, 202 (1937)	10	Liberality should be exercised in granting postponements of trials to obtain presence of material evidence and to prevent miscarriages of justice. West's Ann.Code Civ.Proc. S 595, as amended by St.1933, p. 1873.	It is true that liberality should be exercised in granting postponements of trials to obtain the presence of material evidence and to prevent miscarriages of justice , but, in the interest of expediting litigation to prevent injustice and to procure orderly procedure, the granting or denial of a continuance will not be disturbed on appeal except for an abuse of discretion on the part of the trial judge.	Should liberality be exercised in granting postponements or continuances of trial to obtain material evidence and to prevent miscarriage of justice?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
16763	Klinge v. Ithaca Coll., 167 Misc. 2d 458, 464, 634 N.Y.S.2d 1000, 1004 (Sup. Ct. 1995), aff'd as modified, 235 A.D.2d 724, 652 N.Y.S.2d 377 (1997)	7	Where a college has adopted a rule, the law requires substantial compliance.	Where a college has adopted a rule, the law requires substantial compliance (Tedeschi v. Wagner College, 49 N.Y.2d 652, 660, 427 N.Y.S.2d 760, 404 N.E.2d 1302).	"If a college adopts a rule, does the law require substantial compliance?"	Not Copyrightable (headnote verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation
21624	Litz v. Maryland Dep't of Env't, 446 Md. 254, 277-78, 131 A.3d 923, 937 (2016)	10	Tort of trespass is subject to the notice of claim requirement of the Local Government Tort Claims Act. West's Ann.Md.Code, Courts and Judicial Proceedings, S 5-304(d).	We are tasked here, however, with determining whether the LGTCA's notice requirement applies to the trespass *278 claim. The Court of Special Appeals determined that a trespass claim is considered a tort subject to the LGTCA. We agree	What is a trespass?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
21852	Anderson v. State, 21 Okla. Crim. 135	n/a	A county court is without jurisdiction to try municipal offenses.	Krein's headnote not found using judicial opinion	"Will an application for a continuance on the ground of the absence of leading counsel be denied, where the defendant is duly represented by his other counsel?"	Krein Concedes no copying; Not Copyrightable (no headnote in opinion)

7327	Washington v. Confederated Bands & Tribes of Yakima Indian Nation, 439 U.S. 463, 500–01, 99 S. Ct. 740, 761, 58 L. Ed. 2d 740 (1979)	12	Unique legal status of Indian tribes under federal law permits the federal government to enact legislation singling out tribal Indians, which might otherwise be constitutionally offensive, but states do not enjoy the same unique relationship with Indians. U.S.C.A.Const. Amend. 14.	It is settled that “the unique legal status of Indian tribes under *501 federal law” permits the Federal Government to enact legislation singling out tribal Indians, legislation that might otherwise be constitutionally offensive. Morton v. Mancari, 417 U.S. 535, 551–552, 94 S.Ct. 2474, 2483, 41 L.Ed.2d 290. States do not enjoy this same unique relationship with Indians, but Chapter 36 is not simply another state law.	What is the status of Indian nations or tribes?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
15716	Canning v. N.L.R.B., 705 F.3d 490, 500 (D.C. Cir. 2013)	7	When interpreting a constitutional provision, court must look to the natural meaning of the text as it would have been understood at the time of the ratification of the constitution.	When interpreting a constitutional provision, we must look to the natural meaning of the text as it would have been understood at the time of the ratification of the Constitution.	How should a statute or constitutional provision be interpreted?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
6649	In re Advanced Powder Sols., 496 S.W.3d 838, 853–54 (Tex. App. 2016)	24	A person has a duty to preserve evidence only when a party knows or reasonably should know that there is a substantial chance that a claim will be filed and that evidence in its possession or control will be material and relevant to that claim.	A person has a duty to preserve evidence "only when a party knows *854 or reasonably should know that there is a substantial chance that a claim will be filed and that evidence in its possession or control will be material and relevant to that claim."	When does law impute a person a duty to preserve evidence in its possession or control that will be material and relevant to that claim?	Not Copyrightable (headnote near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation
11630	State Fid. Mortg. Co. v. Varner, 740 S.W.2d 477, 480 (Tex. App. 1987), writ denied (Mar. 23, 1988)	4	Assignee obtains only right, title and interest of his assignor at time of assignment and thus, may recover only those damages potentially available to assignor.	An assignee obtains only the right, title, and interest of his assignor at the time of his assignment, and no more. Houchins v. Scheltz, 590 S.W.2d 745, 751 (Tex.Civ.App.—Houston [14th Dist.] 1979, no writ); Carter v. Associates Discount Corp., 550 S.W.2d 399, 401 (Tex.Civ.App.—Amarillo 1977, no writ). Accordingly, an assignee may recover only those damages potentially available to his assignor.	What rights does an assignee obtain from the assignor at the time of assignment?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

13302	Hoffmann v. T.J. Ronan Co., 275 A.D. 57, 60, 87 N.Y.S.2d 585, 588 (App. Div. 1949)	4	In equity action, state of facts existing at time of trial, not at commencement of action, controls.	In actions in equity, the state of facts existing at the time of the trial controls, not at the commencement of the action.	"In actions in equity, does the state of facts existing at the time of the trial control?"	Not Copyrightable (headnote near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation
19877	State v. Benge, 272 N.C. 261, 263 (1967)	1	"Manslaughter" is the unlawful killing of a human being without malice and without premeditation or deliberation.	Manslaughter is the unlawful killing of a human being without malice and without premeditation or deliberation.	What is manslaughter?	Not Copyrightable (headnote near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation
3284	Cramer v. U.S., 65 S.Ct. 918, 934-35, 325 U.S. 1, 34-35 (U.S., 1945)	9	The minimum function that an "overt act" must perform in treason prosecution is that it show sufficient action by accused, in its setting, to sustain a finding that accused actually gave aid and comfort to the enemy. Cr.Code S 1, 18 U.S.C.A. S 2381; U.S.C.A. Const. art. 3, S 3.	The very minimum function that an overt act 43 must perform in a treason 935 prosecution is that it show sufficient action by the accused, in its setting, to sustain a finding that the accused actually gave 44 aid and comfort to the enemy.	Can an overt act in a treason prosecution be used to determine whether the accuseds action was an aid and comfort to the enemy?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
12322	Fenton v. Thompson, 352 Mo. 199, 210 (Mo. 1944)	17	The taking of a nonsuit is essentially the act of the plaintiff rather than of the court, which records and gives sanction to plaintiff's act. V.A.M.S. SS 510.130, 510.150.	The taking of a nonsuit is essentially the act of the plaintiff rather than of the court, which records and gives sanction to the plaintiff's act.'	Is the taking of a nonsuit an act of a plaintiff or of a court which records and gives sanction to the plaintiff's act?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
8894	Torres v. Rios, 869 S.W.2d 555, 556 (Tex.App. Corpus Christi,1993)	2	Trial court has authority to dismiss cause for want of prosecution pursuant to court's inherent powers as well as under rules of procedure. Vernon's Ann.Texas Rules Civ.Proc., Rule 165a.	A trial court is expressly vested with the authority to dismiss a cause for want of prosecution under our rules of procedure. See TEX.R.CIV.P. 165a. The same authority exists pursuant to the court's inherent powers.	Does the trial court have authority to dismiss cause for want of prosecution pursuant to court's inherent powers?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

19641	Hoppe v. Russo-Asiatic Bank, 200 A.D. 460, 465, 193 N.Y.S. 250, 254 (App. Div. 1922), aff'd, 235 N.Y. 37, 138 N.E. 497 (1923)	2	Motives influencing assignor in making assignment, or the consideration does not affect validity of assignment as against debtor.	As to the motive of the assignor in making the assignment or the consideration given therefor, it is well settled (5 Corp. Juris, 940) that 'it is of no importance to the debtor what motives influence the assignor in making the assignment	Is the motive influencing an assignment important?	Not Copyrightable (expired); No Material Appropriation
19745	Yamamoto v. Bank of New York, 329 F.3d 1167, 1172 (9th Cir. 2003)	2	Mortgagee's security interest did not become automatically void upon mortgagors' notice that they were exercising their right to rescind loan based upon mortgagee's alleged failure to disclose their right to cancel and alleged inaccurate disclosure of appraisal fees in violation of TILA, where mortgagee contested mortgagors' right to rescind and presented evidence that it did not violate TILA. Truth in Lending Act, S 125(b), 15 U.S.C.A. S 1635(b); 12 C.F.R. S 226.23.	If BNY had acquiesced in Tampon's notice of rescission, then the transaction would have been rescinded automatically , thereby causing the security interest to become void and triggering the sequence of events laid out in subsections (d)(2) and (d)(3). But here, BNY contested the notice and produced evidence sufficient to create a triable issue of fact about compliance with TILA's disclosure requirements. In these circumstances, it cannot be that the security interest vanishes immediately upon the giving of notice. Otherwise, a borrower could get out from under a secured loan simply by claiming TILA violations, whether or not the lender had actually committed any. Rather, under the statute and the regulation, the security interest "becomes void" only when the consumer "rescinds" the transaction. In a contested case, this happens when the right to rescind is determined in the borrower's favor.	When can the obligor exercise his right of rescission ?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

9918	Shaw v. Nat Cty Mut Fire Ins. Co., 723 S.W.2d 236, 238 (Tex. App. 1986)	2	Admission once admitted, deemed or otherwise, is judicial admission and party may not then introduce controverting testimony in any legal proceeding related to action.	An admission once admitted, deemed or otherwise, is a judicial admission, and a party may not then introduce controverting testimony in any legal proceeding related to the action.	"Are deemed admissions, resulting from a party's failure to answer a request for admissions, judicial admissions and may not be controverted with testimony?"	Not Copyrightable (headnote near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation
6478	Wasko v. Manella, 849 A.2d 777, 781 (Conn. 2004)	4	The object of legal or equitable subrogation is the prevention of injustice; it is designed to promote and to accomplish justice, and is the mode which equity adopts to compel the ultimate payment of a debt by one who, in justice, equity, and good conscience, should pay it.	The object of [legal or equitable] subrogation is the prevention of injustice. It is designed to promote and to accomplish justice, and is the mode which equity adopts to compel the ultimate payment of a debt by one who, in justice, equity, and good conscience, should pay it....	Is prevention of injustice the object of subrogation?	Not Copyrightable (headnote near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation
8595	Thomas v. Giant, 174 Md. App. 103, 113 (2007)	5	Workers' compensation benefits are a creature of statute, and when the controlling enactments are clear, they must guide the outcome. West's Ann.Md.Code, Labor and Employment, S 9-101 et seq.	Thomas characterizes this result as a boon to Giant, which need not pay Workers' compensation benefits are a creature of statute, however, and when the controlling enactments are clear, they must guide the outcome.	"Are workers compensation benefits a creature of statute, and when the controlling enactments are clear, must they guide the outcome?"	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

EXHIBIT H

ID	Question	Headnote	Case Opinion	Question to Headnote Rank	Headnote to Case Opinion Rank	Question Bates #	Headnote Bates #	Case Opinion Bates #	Arguments for Why Juror Could Conclude that Question Was Not Taken from Headnote
31	is promissory estoppel an equitable doctrine that sounds in contract rather than tort?	Promissory estoppel is an equitable doctrine that sounds in contract rather than tort, for purposes of applying New York choice-of-law rules to such claim.	[11] [12] ¶ 88 " [P]romissory estoppel is a doctrine under which the plaintiff may recover without the presence of a contract.' " Newton, 233 Ill.2d at 53, 329 Ill.Dec.	1	4	ROSS-000000047, ROSS-003281283	TR-0584355	TR-0747397	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; the question does not include reference to "New York choice-of-law-rules" as does the headnote, and is therefore, substantively different.
38	are actions for breach of the implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing generally limited to contract damages?	Under California law, actions for breach of the implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing are generally limited to contract damages.	GSS alleges state law causes of action for breach of contract, breach of the implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing, and conversion. The County moved to dismiss the Complaint under Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 12(b) (6), and oral argument was heard on August 1, 2011.	1	3	ROSS-000000061, ROSS-003295133	TR-0726531	TR-0865518	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; the question does not include the limitation of "Under California law" as does the headnote, and is therefore, substantively different.
263	after the attachment of jeopardy, should there be a jeopardy terminating event, most commonly an acquittal or a final judgment of conviction?	After the attachment of jeopardy, there must be a jeopardy terminating event, most commonly an acquittal or a final judgment of conviction, in order for double jeopardy protections to apply to subsequent proceedings. U.S.C.A. Const.Amend. 5.	[21] [22] The protections provided by the Double Jeopardy Clause do not "alter the fundamental principle that an accused must suffer jeopardy before he can suffer double jeopardy." Id. at 393, 95 S.Ct. at 1065. As jeopardy does not attach until a *241 defendant is put before the trier of fact, the constitutional prohibitions cannot be applied to judicial proceedings where no prosecution occurs.	1	4	ROSS-003278500	TR-0639882	TR-0636912	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question makes no reference "to apply to subsequent proceedings," nor does if reference "U.S.C.A. Const.Amend. 5." Thus, the headnote and the question are substantively different.
278	does a defendant's failure to object to mistrial not constitute implied consent to mistrial, if a defendant had no opportunity to object?	Defendant's failure to object to mistrial does not constitute implied consent to mistrial, if defendant had no opportunity to object. U.S.C.A. Const.Amend. 5.	Given the brevity of the record of the circumstances attendant to the declaration of the mistrial, the only circumstance suggesting consent is Harrison's failure to object to the trial court's action. Before such failure constitutes an implied consent to the mistrial, however, Harrison must have been given an adequate opportunity to object.	1	3	ROSS-003278546	TR-0638360	TR-0551604	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question makes no reference to "U.S.C.A. Const.Amend. 5." Thus, the headnote and the question are substantively different.
310	do courts allow some overlap between motions filed under rules and a confluence between the two rules exists where an affirmative matter is apparent on the face of the complaint?	Although the rule providing for dismissal based on defects or defenses, like the rule providing for dismissal on the pleadings, permits attack based on defects on the complaint's face, those defects should be coupled with grounds not appearing of record; however, courts allow some overlap between motions filed under these rules and a confluence between the two rules exists where an affirmative matter is apparent on the face of the complaint. S.H.A. 735 ILCS 5/2-615, 5/2-619.	3d DCA 2010) (reversing dismissal with prejudice where trial court considered facts other than those alleged in the complaint). [6] [7] Affirmative defenses, such as statute of limitations and laches, are generally matters raised in an answer and not a motion to dismiss. Rigby v. Liles, 505 So.2d 598, 601 (Fla. 1st DCA 1987). However, where the facts constituting the defense affirmatively appear on the face of the complaint and establish conclusively that the defense bars the action as a matter of law, a motion to dismiss raising the defense is properly granted.	2	4	ROSS-003278631	TR-0829733	TR-0881121	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question contains no reference to "Although the rule providing for dismissal based on defects or defenses, like the rule providing for dismissal on the pleadings, permits attack based on defects on the complaint's face, those defects should be coupled with grounds not appearing of record," as does the headnote. Therefore the question and headnote are factually and substantively different.
419	is a motion to dismiss based on a contractual forum selection clause properly pleaded as a motion to dismiss for failure to state a claim?	A motion to dismiss based on a contractual forum selection clause is properly pleaded as a motion to dismiss for failure to state a claim. Rules Civ.Proc., Rule 12(b)(6), 47 M.G.L.A.	Standard of Review [2] [3] [4] [5] [6] "[A]n attempt to seek enforcement of the outbound forum-selection clause is properly presented in a motion to dismiss without prejudice, pursuant to Rule 12(b)(3), Ala. R. Civ. P., for contractually improper venue.	1	3	ROSS-003278922	TR-0576944	TR-0684981	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not contain citation to "Rules Civ.Proc., Rule 12(b)(6), 47 M.G.L.A." Nor does the case opinion, which refers to a different rule, "Rule 12(b)(3), Ala. R. Civ. P." Therefore the question and headnote are factually and substantively different.

ID	Question	Headnote	Case Opinion	Question to Headnote Rank	Headnote to Case Opinion Rank	Question Bates #	Headnote Bates #	Case Opinion Bates #	Arguments for Why Juror Could Conclude that Question Was Not Taken from Headnote
496	does a dismissal for failure to state claim bar a subsequent action and generally involves merits of action?	Dismissal for failure to state claim bars subsequent action and generally involves merits of action. Rules Civ.Proc., Rule 12(b)(5).	*375 STANDARD FOR REVIEWING MOTION TO DISMISS [2] [3] [4] [5] Our review of a trial court's dismissal for failure to state a claim upon which relief can be granted involves a de novo consideration on our part as to whether the petition is legally sufficient.	1	3	ROSS-003279131	TR-0798774	TR-0734903	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not contain citations to "Rules Civ.Proc., Rule 12(b)(5)." Nor does the case opinion.
508	is the cumulative remedies provision in a rule governing dismissal for want of prosecution and reinstatement limited to other viable procedures and remedies which are not inherently inconsistent?	Cumulative remedies provision in rule governing dismissal for want of prosecution and reinstatement is limited to other viable procedures and remedies which are not inherently inconsistent with procedures set forth in rule itself. Vernon's Ann.Texas Rules Civ.Proc., Rule 165a, subd. 4.	Nevertheless, appellees contend the notice in this case permitted the trial judge to dismiss under the court's inherent authority because rule 165a(4) "speaks of the Trial Court's inherent authority." Rule 165a(4) addresses cumulative remedies and provides that the "same reinstatement procedures and timetable are applicable to all dismissals for want of prosecution including cases which are dismissed pursuant to the court's inherent power, whether or not a motion to dismiss has been filed." TEX.R.	1	4	ROSS-003279160	TR-0691126	TR-0797211	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not contain references to, "procedures set forth in rule itself," or citations to "Vernon's Ann.Texas Rules Civ.Proc., Rule 165a, subd. 4," as does the headnote. Therefore the question and headnote are factually and substantively different.
523	are motions to dismiss a complaint for failure to state a claim upon which relief can be granted not favored and are rarely granted in light of the liberal pleading standards contained in the rules of civil procedure?	Motions to dismiss a complaint for failure to state a claim upon which relief can be granted are not favored and are rarely granted in light of the liberal pleading standards contained in the rules of civil procedure. Rules Civ.Proc., Rule 12.02(6).	[3] [4] [5] ¶ 12 This appeal turns on the merits of DPT's motion to dismiss. A motion under C.R.C.P. 12(b)(5) "to dismiss [a complaint] for failure to state a claim upon which relief can be granted serves as a test of the formal sufficiency of a plaintiff's complaint." Pub.	1	3	ROSS-003279204	TR-0533675	TR-0539322	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not contain citation to "Rules Civ.Proc., Rule 12.02(6)." The case opinion cites to a different Rule, Rule 12(b)(5).
526	where there was legal mistrial without verdict, does jeopardy not attach?	Where there was legal mistrial without verdict, jeopardy did not attach. Vernon's Ann.C.C.P. art. 36.29; Vernon's Ann.St. Const. art. 5, § 13.	Where the civil forfeiture settles without a hearing, it follows that jeopardy does not attach until the district court accepts the settlement.	1	3	ROSS-003279213	TR-0781568	TR-0647297	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not reference citation "Vernon's Ann.C.C.P. art. 36.29; Vernon's Ann.St. Const. art. 5, § 13," as does the headnote.
617	in ruling on a motion to dismiss for failure to state a claim, is the circuit court not to make factual findings?	In ruling on a motion to dismiss for failure to state a claim, the circuit court is not to make factual findings.	When reviewing a dismissal order, an appellate court accepts as true all the facts which are well pled and the proper and reasonable inferences of law and fact which may be drawn therefrom, but not the pleader's conclusions. *534 3. Motions to Dismiss: Pleadings. To prevail against a motion to dismiss for failure to state a claim, the pleader 255 must allege sufficient facts, accepted as true, to state a claim to relief that is plausible on its face.	1	3	ROSS-003279441	TR-0825385	TR-0679197	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case.
638	can a motion to reinstate an action dismissed for lack of prosecution be considered as a bill of review?	Motion to reinstate an action dismissed for lack of prosecution could be considered as a bill of review, but as a bill of review, it properly did not belong in original cause.	relative to the claimed indebtedness." [1] The common law of this jurisdiction has long recognized that the dismissal of a suit for lack of prosecution alone would not operate as a bar to the cause of action.	1	4	ROSS-003279506	TR-0806047	TR-0534089	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not contain reference to "but as a bill of review, it properly did not belong in original cause," and therefore the question and headnote are factually and substantively different.

ID	Question	Headnote	Case Opinion	Question to Headnote Rank	Headnote to Case Opinion Rank	Question Bates #	Headnote Bates #	Case Opinion Bates #	Arguments for Why Juror Could Conclude that Question Was Not Taken from Headnote
683	is construction of a proposed highway a typical public purpose for which property may be taxed by the state?	Construction and maintenance of serviceable roads is public purpose for which property may be taxed by state.	1096, said: "The construction and maintenance of serviceable roads in any community is a matter in which the whole community have an interest and is a typical public purpose for which property may be taxed by the state.	2	3	ROSS-003279627	TR-0577135	TR-0845874	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not contain reference to, "Construction and maintenance of serviceable Roads," and therefore the question and headnote are factually and substantively different.
727	is application of rule that a defendant can move for dismissal of an action or of any claim against him for failure of plaintiff to prosecute or to comply with rules or any order of court a matter that is within discretion of court?	Application of rule that a defendant may move for dismissal of an action or of any claim against him for failure of plaintiff to prosecute or to comply with rules or any order of court is a matter that is within discretion of court. CR 41.02.	41(b) authorizes the trial court to involuntarily dismiss an action "[f]or failure of the plaintiff to prosecute or to comply with these rules or any order of court." The decision to impose such a sanction is left to the discretion of the trial court, to be overturned only where the court "impos[es] a penalty too strict or unnecessary under the circumstances." Braxton v.	1	3	ROSS-003279744	TR-0613003	TR-0841613	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not contain reference to "CR 41.02."
776	is university property owned by the state?	The University of Mississippi, the Mississippi State College and the Mississippi State College for Women are arms of the state and their property is owned by the state. Act Feb. 28, 1844; Act Feb. 28, 1878; Laws 1884, c. 30; Laws 1932, c. 127.	The acts creating the colleges now known as Mississippi State College (February 28, 1878) and Mississippi State College for Women (March 12, 1884, Laws 1884 c. 30) must be similarly construed and such construction is not at all affected by Chapter 127 of the Laws of 1932, creating a single board of trustees for all the state institutions of higher learning.	2	3	ROSS-003279878	TR-0695635	TR-0744329	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not reference "The University of Mississippi, the Mississippi State College and the Mississippi State College for Women are arms of the state" or the citation "Act Feb. 28, 1844; Act Feb. 28, 1878; Laws 1884, c. 30; Laws 1932, c. 127," as does the headnote. The question and headnotes are factually and substantively different.
777	should a motion to dismiss a complaint for failure to state a cause of action be granted only in rare instances, ordinarily without prejudice?	A motion to dismiss a complaint for failure to state a cause of action should be granted only in rare instances, ordinarily without prejudice.	Defendant now moves to dismiss plaintiffs' complaint for failure to state a claim pursuant to R. 4:6-2. [1] [2] [3] Motions to dismiss a plaintiff's complaint should be "approach[ed] with great caution" and should only be granted in "the rarest of instances." Printing Mart-Morristown v.	1	3	ROSS-003279883	TR-0724808	TR-0745442	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; the question and headnote both reflect the key language used in the case opinion.
833	is abandonment of franchise a question of intention?	Abandonment of franchise requires intention to abandon.	[11] Abandonment of a public road requires proof of intent to abandon and proof of nonuse.	2	3	ROSS-003280037	TR-0544174	TR-0664251	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case.
931	are all expenses incurred by a party regarded as costs which must be paid before a plaintiff refiles an action he previously dismissed?	Not all expenses incurred by party are regarded as costs which must be paid before plaintiff refiles action he previously dismissed.	In light of the above authority, we conclude that a monetary sanction imposed under OCGA § 9-11-37(d) does not constitute a court cost which must be paid before a plaintiff refiles an action he previously dismissed. OCGA § 9-11-41(d).	1	3	ROSS-003280277	TR-0585818	TR-0584440	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case.

ID	Question	Headnote	Case Opinion	Question to Headnote Rank	Headnote to Case Opinion Rank	Question Bates #	Headnote Bates #	Case Opinion Bates #	Arguments for Why Juror Could Conclude that Question Was Not Taken from Headnote
1001	is "conscious indifference," in context of a rule requiring reinstatement of a case following dismissal for want of prosecution if party's failure to appear not intentional or result of conscious indifference?	"Conscious indifference," in context of rule requiring reinstatement of a case following dismissal for want of prosecution if party's failure to appear was not intentional or result of conscious indifference but was due to accident or mistake or has otherwise been reasonably explained, means more than mere negligence. Vernon's Ann.Texas Rules Civ.Proc., Rule 165a, subd. 3.	Point of Error Two In their second point of error, appellants argue that the trial court abused its discretion in denying their motion to reinstate. [6] A case may be reinstated upon a finding by the trial court that the failure of a party or his attorney to appear was not intentional or the result of conscious indifference but was due to an accident or a mistake or that the failure has been otherwise reasonably explained. TEX.R.CIV.P. 165a(3). Reinstatement must be granted if the trial court finds that the failure of the party or his attorney was not intentional or the result of conscious indifference.	1	3	ROSS-003280420	TR-0861126	TR-0668104	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; the question does not contain references to, "but was due to accident or mistake or has otherwise been reasonably explained, means more than mere negligence." The question also does not contain citations to "Vernon's Ann.Texas Rules Civ.Proc., Rule 165a, subd. 3." The question and the headnote are factually and substantively different.
1066	is a motion to reinstate the failsafe to prevent improper dismissal of cases for failure to appear?	Motion to reinstate is the failsafe to prevent improper dismissal of cases for failure to appear, for failure to dispose of case within Supreme Court's time standards for disposition, and for failure to diligently prosecute case. Vernon's Ann.Texas Rules Civ.Proc., Rule 165a, subds. 1, 2.	The notice to dismiss must state whether the dismissal is: (1) for failure to appear under Rule 165a(1); (2) for failure to comply with the Supreme Court's time standards under Rule 165a(2); or (3) for failure to diligently prosecute the suit under the court's inherent power.	2	3	ROSS-003280548	TR-0785473	TR-0730729	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not reference "failure to dispose of case within Supreme Court's time standards for disposition, and for failure to diligently prosecute case." Nor does the question contain citations to "Vernon's Ann.Texas Rules Civ.Proc., Rule 165a, subds. 1, 2." The question and the headnote are factually and substantively different.
1071	can parties agree to treat a general lease as a more specific finance lease?	Under Iowa law, parties may agree to treat a general lease as a more specific finance lease; however, parties may not agree to treat a secured transaction as a lease.	Code (1975), s 1-105(1) of the Commercial Law Article. [2] [3] It is now generally accepted that the parties to a contract may agree as to the law which will govern their transaction, even as to issues going to the validity of the contract.	2	4	ROSS-003280559	TR-0879227	TR-0792539	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question is not limited to "Iowa law," nor does it reference, "parties may not agree to treat a secured transaction as a lease." The question and the headnote are factually and substantively different.
1203	does the rule governing dismissal of action for failure to appear contemplate dismissal with prejudice when plaintiff again fails to appear after claim has been refiled?	Rule governing dismissal of action for failure to appear is quite specific, and contemplates dismissal with prejudice only when plaintiff again fails to appear after claim has been refiled. Small Claims Rule 10(A).	Zeigler Building Materials, Inc., 436 N.E.2d 1168, 1170 (Ind.Ct.App.1982), the rule is quite specific. "Dismissal with prejudice is contemplated only when the plaintiff again fails to appear after the claim has been refiled." Id. [5] [6] In the present case, the trial court entered judgment for the defendants without permitting Multivest to present its evidence.	2	3	ROSS-003280812	TR-0656559	TR-0656559	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not indicate that the rule is "is quite specific," and contains no reference to "Small Claims Rule 10(A)." The question and the headnote are factually and substantively different.
1222	is there any requirement that the legislature use the language "is hereby authorized to levy a tax" in order to validly authorize a tax?	In order to have a validly authorized tax, there is no requirement that the Legislature use language "is hereby authorized to levy a tax."	* * * * [4] We do not think that to have a validly authorized tax, the rules for construing tax statutes restrict the legislature to the use of such language. Although the authority in sections 75-6207(3)(b), 75-7204, and 75-6717 is not spelled out as directly as in those statutes pointed to by the plaintiff, we think it is nevertheless clear and specific.	1	4	ROSS-003280848	TR-0781029	TR-0781029	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case. The question quotes the key terms from the text of the opinion.

ID	Question	Headnote	Case Opinion	Question to Headnote Rank	Headnote to Case Opinion Rank	Question Bates #	Headnote Bates #	Case Opinion Bates #	Arguments for Why Juror Could Conclude that Question Was Not Taken from Headnote
1298	does the double jeopardy clause of the federal constitution not prevent the state from bringing separate criminal and civil forfeiture actions for the same offense under the controlled substances act?	The Double Jeopardy Clause of the federal constitution does not prevent the state from bringing separate criminal and civil forfeiture actions for the same offense under the Controlled Substances Act. U.S.C.A. Const.Amend. 5; NMSA 1978, § 30-31-34.	[3] The United States Supreme Court's decision in Scott establishes that, regardless of a trial court's characterization of its disposition of a case, the double jeopardy clause of the federal constitution does not bar a state from bringing a further criminal proceeding against a defendant who sought and obtained a favorable midtrial termination of criminal proceedings on legal grounds unrelated to a determination as to the sufficiency of the evidence regarding the defendant's factual innocence or guilt of the offense charged.	1	3	ROSS-003280995	TR-0718642	TR-0716036	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not contain citations to U.S.C.A. Const.Amend. 5; NMSA 1978, § 30-31-34.
1337	on ground that a lessee has an option to purchase at conclusion of a lease for nominal consideration, should a court remember that consideration may be sizeable yet still be "nominal"?	Under Connecticut law, in deciding whether so-called equipment lease must conclusively be presumed to constitute a sale with disguised security agreement, on ground that lessee has option to purchase at conclusion of lease for nominal consideration, court should remember that consideration may be sizeable yet still be "nominal." C.G.S.A. § 42a-1-201(37).	Purchase Option Price [6] [7] [8] [9] Under the 1992 New York UCC § 1-201(37), the most significant factor that indicates a disguised security agreement, not a true lease, is where the option price to purchase the leased equipment at the end of the lease term is nominal. If the lease agreement explicitly provides that the lessee has an option to purchase the leased goods for nominal consideration (e.g., for $1), the agreement is presumed to be a disguised security agreement. See Orix Credit Alliance, 946 F.2d at 1261; P.W.L.	2	4	ROSS-003281073	TR-0594367	TR-0598319	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question is not limited to "Under Connecticut law," and is not limited to "equipment leases," as is the headnote and does not reference "C.G.S.A. § 42a-1-201(37)." However, the case opinion discusses New York law, not Connecticut law, so the headnote is inaccurate. Therefore, the question and headnotes are not substantively the same.
1471	can a dismissal of an action on a clerk of court's motion for want of prosecution be vacated if there is a defective notice that the case will be dismissed?	Dismissal of an action on clerk of court's motion for want of prosecution may be vacated if there is defective notice that the case will be dismissed. CR 41(b)(2).	As the Supreme Court held in Thorp Meats, We conclude that the final sentence of CR 41(b)(1) means precisely what it says, a case shall not be dismissed for want of prosecution if it is noted for trial before the hearing on the motion to dismiss. The rule ...	1	4	ROSS-003281334	TR-0786391	TR-0871424	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not reference "CR 41(b)(2)," as does the headnote.
1532	is the united states' constructive trust on insurance proceeds for fire loss on forfeited property not "punishment" for purposes of double jeopardy clause?	United States' constructive trust on insurance proceeds for fire loss on forfeited property is not "punishment" for purposes of double jeopardy clause; government's interest is limited to extent of loss suffered to the forfeited property. U.S.C.A. Const.Amend. 5.	The Ninth Circuit has held that uncontested forfeitures constitute actions against property, *1187 not persons, and thus such a taking "imposes no 'punishment' for purposes of the double jeopardy clause." United States v. Cretacci, 62 F.3d 307, 310-11 (9th Cir.1995). The relevant facts are not in dispute. On February 5, 1991, a notice of default and order of civil forfeiture of a 1984 Corvette registered to the petitioner was filed in the Circuit Court for the State of Oregon for Multnomah County.	1	4	ROSS-003281459	TR-0704409	TR-0725909	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not reference "government's interest is limited to extent of loss suffered to the forfeited property," therefore, the question and headnote are substantively different. The question also does not reference "U.S.C.A. Const.Amend. 5," as does the headnote.
1662	is equitable subrogation a concept derived from principles of restitution and unjust enrichment?	Under Maine law, equitable subrogation is a concept derived from principles of restitution and unjust enrichment.	Legal subrogation, also known as equitable subrogation, derives from the doctrine of preventing unjust enrichment and it applies when a person other than a mere volunteer pays a debt that in equity and good conscience, another should pay.	1	3	ROSS-003281724	TR-0741623	TR-0573741	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question is not limited to "Under Maine law," but the headnote is. Therefore, the question and headnotes are not substantively the same.

ID	Question	Headnote	Case Opinion	Question to Headnote Rank	Headnote to Case Opinion Rank	Question Bates #	Headnote Bates #	Case Opinion Bates #	Arguments for Why Juror Could Conclude that Question Was Not Taken from Headnote
1673	can a court dismiss a case pursuant to either its inherent power or in accordance with rule for want of prosecution?	A trial court may dismiss a case pursuant to either its inherent power or in accordance with rule for want of prosecution. Vernon's Ann.Texas Rules Civ.Proc., Rule 165a.	5 In addition, a trial court may dismiss a case for want of prosecution under its inherent power to control its docket if the case has not been prosecuted with diligence.	1	3	ROSS-003281745	TR-0795782	TR-0733659	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not reference the level of court involved, while the headnote does, referencing the "trial court." Nor the question limited to Texas law as is the headnote based on its citation to "Vernon's Ann.Texas Rules Civ.Proc., Rule 165a." Therefore, the question and headnotes are not substantively the same.
1757	is the act of state doctrine not required by considerations of sovereignty, international law or the constitution, but instead derives from judiciary's concern for its possible interference with conduct of foreign affairs by political branches of government?	Act of state doctrine is not required by considerations of sovereignty, international law or the Constitution, but instead derives from judiciary's concern for its possible interference with conduct of foreign affairs by political branches of government.	Bank of America, 549 F.2d 597, 605 (9th Cir.1976). Instead the doctrine "derives from the judiciary's concern for its possible interference with the conduct of foreign affairs by the political branches of the government." Timberlane Lumber Co. v. Bank of America, 549 F.2d at 605.	1	3	ROSS-003281912	TR-0736000	TR-0736000	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case.
1971	does the act of state doctrine, requiring courts to avoid inquiries respecting validity of acts executed by foreign sovereign within its territory, reflect fundamental notions of separation of powers by urging a nation to conduct foreign relations with unified voice of executive branch?	Act of state doctrine requiring courts to avoid inquiries respecting validity of acts executed by foreign sovereign within its territory reflects fundamental notions of separation of powers and urges nation to conduct foreign relations with unified voice of executive branch.	Redress of grievances by reason of such acts must be obtained through the means open to be availed of by sovereign powers as between themselves. The doctrine has constitutional underpinnings as well. It clearly reflects fundamental notions of separation of powers in urging that our nation conduct its foreign relations with the unified voice of the Executive branch rather than through a multitude of judicial pronouncements.	1	3	ROSS-003282346	TR-0660620	TR-0660620	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case.
2001	is it not the characterization contained within a contract, but the effect of its terms, which is relevant for a pledge of securities?	Under New York law, it is not the characterization contained within contract, but the effect of its terms, which is relevant in distinguishing pledge of securities from absolute conveyance of securities with promise to repurchase.	[3] Zwirn contends that the difficulty in distinguishing true leases from disguised security interests should be properly resolved by giving credence to the parties' freedom to contract, their expressed intentions, and the resulting self-characterization of these documents as financing leases. However, under revised § 1-201(37) applicable to this dispute, the intention of the parties has been abandoned as a proper tool by which to distinguish a true lease from a disguised security interest and replaced by an evaluation of the economic structure of the particular transaction. 30 As recognized in Duke Energy Royal, LLC v. Pillowtex Corp. (In re Pillowtex, Inc.), 349 F.3d 711 (3d Cir.2003): 30 Zwirn's reliance upon In re Edison Bros. Stores, Inc., 207 B.R. 801, 809 (Bankr.D.Del.1997) as authority for its position is misplaced in that Edison Bros. was decided under the prior version of § 1-201(37), which attempted to decipher the intent of the parties rather than the economic structure of the transaction. Under the current regimen, even Article 2A governing finance leases defers to the analysis outlined in § 1-201(37). If the transaction meets the definition of security interest under § 1-201(37), then it does not qualify as a lease under § 2A-103(1)(j). ... the New York U.C.C. no longer looks to the intent of the drafting parties to determine whether a transfer is a lease or a security agreement. Specifically, the 1992 version of § 1-201(37) directed courts to determine "[w]hether a lease is intended as security": this language was amended in 1995	2	5	ROSS-003282407	TR-0597410	TR-0598308	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question is not limited to NY law. Unlike the question, the headnote characterizes the pledge as "distinguishing" and the question contains no reference to Texas law, as does the headnote by citing, "Vernon's Ann.Texas Rules Civ.Proc., Rule 165a." Therefore, the question and headnotes are not substantively the same.

ID	Question	Headnote	Case Opinion	Question to Headnote Rank	Headnote to Case Opinion Rank	Question Bates #	Headnote Bates #	Case Opinion Bates #	Arguments for Why Juror Could Conclude that Question Was Not Taken from Headnote
2064	does a failure to notify borrower that he had a right to rescind the transaction under tila extended the borrower's right to rescind for three years?	Failure to notify borrower that she had right to rescind real estate loan transaction under Truth in Lending Act extended borrower's right to rescind for three years after transaction was consummated. Truth in Lending Act, §§ 102, 125(a), 15 U.S.C.A. §§ 1601, 1635(a); Truth in Lending Regulations, Regulation Z, § 226.23(a) (3), 15 U.S.C.A. foll. § 1700.	[3] The district court's first reason for dismissing the action was that the Beukeeses' asserted right to rescind had expired under 15 U.S.C. § 1635(f) before they filed their action in November 2010. According to § 1635(f), any right to rescind the mortgage transaction because of a failure to disclose the finance charge "expire[d] three years after the date of consummation of the transaction." Jesinoski makes clear, however, that a borrower exercises his right of rescission by notifying the creditor of his intention to rescind, whether or not the borrower has filed an action in court.	2	4	ROSS-003282536	TR-0737520	TR-0771887	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case. question does not contain the reference, "after transaction was consummated," nor does it contain the citation Truth in "Lending Act, §§ 102, 125(a), 15 U.S.C.A. §§ 1601, 1635(a); Truth in Lending Regulations, Regulation Z, § 226.23(a) (3), 15 U.S.C.A. foll. § 1700." Therefore, the question and headnotes are not substantively the same.
2142	does the statutory text of real estate settlement procedures act (respa), limit liability to instances in which a plaintiff is overcharged?	Home purchaser had standing to sue title insurer under anti-kickback provisions of Real Estate Settlement Procedures Act (RESPA), regardless of whether she was overcharged for settlement services; statutory text did not limit liability to instances in which a plaintiff was overcharged. U.S.C.A. Const. Art. 3, § 1 et seq.; Real Estate Settlement Procedures Act of 1974, § 8, 12 U.S.C.A. § 2607; Ohio R.C. §§ 3935.04, 3935.07.	Plaintiffs alleged that this payment was a "kickback" designed to "induce [Dolphin] to refer the loan to Matrix and to secretly raise the interest rate of the loan above the 8.75% for which Plaintiffs were qualified." This $4,149.86 was not paid from the proceeds of the loan. Plaintiffs alleged this kickback, known as a "yield spread premium" 1 (YSP), violated public policy as expressed in the Real Estate Settlement Procedures Act (RESPA) (12 U.S.C. § 2601 et seq. (2000)). They alleged that the YSP "paid by Matrix to Dolphin was unreasonable and was paid simply for the referral of business, not as compensation for goods, facilities, or services performed." Plaintiffs contended: "Dolphin had contracted for and received other compensation for its services as a mortgage broker.	2	5	ROSS-003282693	TR-0675119	TR-0744042	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not contain reference to, "Home purchaser had standing to sue title insurer under anti-kickback provisions" or citations to "U.S.C.A. Const. Art. 3, § 1 et seq.; Real Estate Settlement Procedures Act of 1974, § 8, 12 U.S.C.A. § 2607; Ohio R.C. §§ 3935.04, 3935.07." Therefore, the question and headnotes are not substantively the same.
2146	is the rescission period extended as long as the borrower received one notice of right to cancel?	Under the Massachusetts Consumer Credit Cost Disclosure Act (CCCCDA), as long as the borrower receives one notice of the right to rescind the loan, the rescission period is not extended to four years. M.G.L.A. c. 140D, § 10(f).	4 Giving the Defendants the benefit of the doubt, the Court assumes that this argument was made in jest. D. Truth in Lending Violation (Count IV) The Debtors maintain that, because they did not receive a total of four copies of the Notice of Right to Cancel at closing as required by both the Truth in Lending Act ("TILA") and the Massachusetts Consumer Credit Cost Disclosure Act ("MCCCCDA"), they have an extended right to rescind the underlying loan transaction and void the Mortgage lien. The Defendants contend that the Debtors' TILA and MCCCCDA claims are time barred; and even if timely, the delivery to the Debtors of at least one copy of the Notice of Right to Cancel was sufficient under both statutes.	2	3	ROSS-003282701	TR-0862030	TR-0739537	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not any reference to "the Massachusetts Consumer Credit Cost Disclosure Act (CCCCDA)," or a citation to "M.G.L.A. c. 140D, § 10(f)," as does the headnote.

ID	Question	Headnote	Case Opinion	Question to Headnote Rank	Headnote to Case Opinion Rank	Question Bates #	Headnote Bates #	Case Opinion Bates #	Arguments for Why Juror Could Conclude that Question Was Not Taken from Headnote
2349	when does a court generally decline to hear a subsequent lawsuit pursuant to the prior pending action doctrine?	Where there are two competing lawsuits, a court's decision to not hear the subsequent action pursuant to the prior pending action doctrine is discretionary.	[4] [5] [6] *35 The doctrine of res judicata bars any subsequent lawsuits between the same parties or their privies involving the same cause of action where there was a final judgment on the merits rendered by a court of competent jurisdiction.	2	4	ROSS-003283117	TR-0733569	TR-0652958	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question contains no reference to "are two competing lawsuits" or whether the dismissal would be "discretionary." Therefore, the question and headnote are substantively different.
2384	does the doctrine of equitable subrogation require that the equities of the parties be weighed and balanced?	Under Maine law, the doctrine of equitable subrogation requires that the equities of the parties be weighed and balanced.	at 250, 149 S.E. 485. At its heart, the doctrine of equitable subrogation is concerned with restoring the interests of the parties to their intended position relative to others. See Joynes, 179 Va. at 401-02, 18 S.E.2d 917.	1	3	ROSS-003283189	TR-0741623	TR-0759194	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question is not limited to "Under Maine law: as is headnote. However, the case opinion is interpreting Virginia law, so the headnote is not accurate. Therefore, the question and headnote are substantively different.
2397	does affirmative matter include defenses that defeat cause of action completely?	Term "affirmative matter" within meaning of rule allowing involuntary dismissal of claims when they are barred by such affirmative matter included defenses that defeat cause of action completely. S.H.A. ch. 110, ¶ 2-619(a)(9).	735 ILCS 5/2-615, 2-619(a)(9) (West 2004). [14] [15] A section 2-619(a)(9) motion to dismiss permits involuntary dismissal where "the claim asserted against defendant is barred by other affirmative matter avoiding the legal effect of or defeating the claim." 735 ILCS 5/2-619(a)(9) (West 2004). Affirmative matter is "something in the nature of a defense which negates the cause of action completely or refutes crucial conclusions of law or material fact contained in or inferred from the complaint." Illinois Graphics Co.	2	3	ROSS-003283215	TR-0799349	TR-0548496	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does contains no reference to "within meaning of rule allowing involuntary dismissal of claims when they are barred by such affirmative matter." The question and headnote are substantively different.
2606	does the same procedure for resolving factual disputes concerning subject matter jurisdiction apply to motions to dismiss for lack of personal jurisdiction?	The same procedure for resolving factual disputes concerning subject matter jurisdiction applies to motions to dismiss for lack of personal jurisdiction. Rules Civ.Proc., Rule 12(b)(2).	[1] [2] The Court has authority to resolve factual disputes when a party moving to dismiss for lack of subject matter jurisdiction attacks the substance of the jurisdictional allegations.	1	3	ROSS-003283659	TR-0605791	TR-0583379	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question contains no citation to "Rules Civ.Proc., Rule 12(b)(2)" as does the headnote.
2733	does a prior finding of probable cause in a preliminary hearing create only a rebuttable presumption of probable cause in a malicious prosecution claim?	A prior finding of probable cause in criminal court preliminary hearing raises, in a malicious prosecution action, only a presumption of probable cause, which may be rebutted by evidence.	[3] [4] The primary issue in this appeal, then, is whether the circuit court, hearing the motion for summary judgment in the malicious prosecution case, was entitled to look at Sundeen's prior district court convictions in order to determine whether there was probable cause for the criminal proceedings. In the context of a malicious prosecution action, the existence of probable cause is to be determined by the facts and circumstances surrounding the commencement and continuation of the legal proceedings.	2	3	ROSS-003283938	TR-0705646	TR-0729523	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; the headnote does not contain the term "rebuttable presumption" and the question makes no reference to "evidence" as the headnote does. The question and headnote are substantively different.
2807	does an arbitral forum need to replicate a judicial forum to be enforceable?	Arbitral forum need not replicate the judicial forum for arbitration agreement to be enforceable.	Section 18 of the Agreement provides: "The parties agree that punitive damages may not be awarded in an arbitration proceeding required by this Agreement." Under Cole, an arbitration agreement is enforceable only if it "provides for all of the types of relief that would otherwise be available in court." 105 F.3d at 1482.	2	3	ROSS-003284105	TR-0572707	TR-0784374	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question makes no reference to an "arbitration agreement" while the headnote does. The question and headnote are substantively different.
2843	what is the common denominator of forcible rape and incest?	The common denominator of forcible rape and incest is element of unlawful carnal knowledge.	213, 71 N.E.2d 46), but not of rape. The common denominator is the element of unlawful carnal knowledge. None of our decisions appear to have dealt with the precise problem.	2	3	ROSS-003284182	TR-0828062	TR-0828062	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question contains no reference to "element of unlawful carnal knowledge" as found in the headnote. The question and headnote are substantively different.

ID	Question	Headnote	Case Opinion	Question to Headnote Rank	Headnote to Case Opinion Rank	Question Bates #	Headnote Bates #	Case Opinion Bates #	Arguments for Why Juror Could Conclude that Question Was Not Taken from Headnote
2936	is the nuclear regulatory commission order exempting nuclear plant operator from fire safety regulations reviewable under the hobbs act?	Nuclear Regulatory Commission (NRC) order exempting nuclear power plant operator from certain fire safety regulations was exemption outside of Court of Appeals' Hobbs Act jurisdiction, rather than an amendment to operator's license within Court's jurisdiction; although NRC could have alternatively treated the order as an amendment to the operator's license, it applied its regulations reasonably in opting instead to grant an exemption. Atomic Energy Act of 1954, § 189(a), 42 U.S.C.A. § 2239(a); 10 C.F.R. § 50.12.	§ 50.12, the agency concluded that treating the challenged order as an exemption was authorized by law, presented no undue risk to public health and safety, and was consistent with the common defense and security. As required by 10 C.F.R. § 50.12, the NRC also found that "special circumstances" justified this exemption: specifically, that "the underlying purpose" of the fire safety rule would still be satisfied after the modification. See 10 C.F.R. § 50.12(a)(2)(ii). Although it appears that *183 the NRC could have alternatively treated the order as an amendment to Indian Point's license, the Commission applied its regulations reasonably in opting instead to grant Indian Point an exemption.	2	4	ROSS-003284385	TR-0763563	TR-0763563	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question contains no reference to any of the following: "rather than an amendment to operator's license within Court's jurisdiction; although NRC could have alternatively treated the order as an amendment to the operator's license, it applied its regulations reasonably in opting instead to grant an exemption. Atomic Energy Act of 1954, § 189(a), 42 U.S.C.A. § 2239(a); 10 C.F.R. § 50.12." The question and headnote are substantively different.
3057	does the court owe the federal energy regulatory commission great deference in fashioning electricity rate design?	The court owes Federal Energy Regulatory Commission great deference in fashioning electricity rate design.	[4] With respect to electric energy sales and transmissions, the federal government has placed one agency in charge of implementing the Federal Power Act, the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission. This agency, known as FERC, "regulates the sale of electricity at wholesale in interstate commerce." Entergy La., Inc.	1	3	ROSS-003284657	TR-0798603	TR-0535619	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case.
3067	does claim for damages for overcharge by carriers arise at time extra charge was paid?	In contemplation of law, claim for damages for overcharge by carriers arose at time extra charge was paid. Interstate Commerce Act § 8, 49 U.S.C.A. § 8.	As they would have been liable for an undercharge, they may recover for an overcharge. In contemplation of law the claim for damages arose at the time the extra charge was paid.	2	3	ROSS-003284677	TR-0580570	TR-0580570	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question contains no reference to the citation "Interstate Commerce Act § 8, 49 U.S.C.A. § 8," as in the headnote.
3174	can matters arising pendente lite be pleaded in defense by respondent in mandamus proceeding or by the relator in his replication?	Matters arising pendente lite may be pleaded in defense by respondent in mandamus proceeding or by the relator in his replication.	Here the ultimate deficiency (as of the year's end) developed after the filing of the petition. It has been held that matters arising pendente lite may be pleaded in defense by the respondent (55 C.J.S. Mandamus § 278, p.	1	3	ROSS-003284909	TR-0837829	TR-0837829	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case. Headnote is identical to the case opinion holding.
3182	are presidential actions reviewable for abuse of discretion under the administrative procedure act?	The President is not an "agency" within the meaning of the Administrative Procedure Act (APA); as a result, presidential actions are not reviewable for abuse of discretion under the APA. 5 U.S.C.A. § 702.	[3] The problem illustrated by appellee's apparent misconception of the nature of issues reserved to agency discretion is resolved by a careful reading of the various parts of section 10 of the Administrative Procedure Act; while review is not granted for action 'by law committed to agency discretion,' as noted in section 701(a)(2), review is expressly provided for when there is an abuse of that discretion: Scope of review. * * * (The reviewing court) shall * * * (2) hold unlawful and set aside agency action, findings, and conclusions found to be (A) arbitrary, capricious, an abuse of discretion, or otherwise not in accordance with law; * * *.	2	4	ROSS-003284927	TR-0587981	TR-0853078	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question contains no reference to any of the following fact: "The President is not an "agency" within the meaning of the Administrative Procedure Act (APA)." The question and headnote are substantively different.

ID	Question	Headnote	Case Opinion	Question to Headnote Rank	Headnote to Case Opinion Rank	Question Bates #	Headnote Bates #	Case Opinion Bates #	Arguments for Why Juror Could Conclude that Question Was Not Taken from Headnote
3569	for purposes of statutory prohibition against theft and bribery concerning programs receiving federal funds, can employee of agency entity be agent of principal entity?	For purposes of statutory prohibition against theft and bribery concerning programs receiving federal funds, employee of agency entity cannot be agent of principal entity unless legal construct establishes such relationship. 18 U.S.C.A. § 666.	642, 643-44 (N.D.Ill.1997) (municipal code made city Alderman an agent of both the city and the city council). [2] These cases reach the common-sense conclusion that an employee of an agency entity cannot be an agent of the principal entity unless the legal construct establishes such a relationship. For example, in Moeller, the Fifth Circuit concluded that the defendants were agents of the Texas Department of Agriculture ("TDA") by virtue of their employment at the Texas Federal Inspection Service ("TFIS") because the TFIS was an arm of the TDA empowered to enforce its regulations.	1	3	ROSS-003285780	TR-0640668	TR-0640668	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question contains none of the following headnote language: "unless legal construct establishes such relationship. 18 U.S.C.A. § 666." The question and headnote are substantively different.
3627	can a partnership at will be dissolved at any time?	Under Massachusetts law, an at-will partnership can be dissolved by any partner at any time.	Under Missouri common law, a partnership is dissolved by the admission of a new partner.	2	3	ROSS-003285901	TR-0804604	TR-0578203	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question is not limited to Massachusetts law as is the headnote. However, the case opinion is based on Missouri law, so the headnote is inaccurate. The question and headnote are substantively different.
3704	does a plaintiff have no lawful right to a voluntary nonsuit?	Under current rule, plaintiff had no lawful right to voluntary nonsuit. 30 F.S.A. Rules of Civil Procedure, rule 1.35 and subd. (a).	[1] Petitioner contends that a plaintiff has a right to voluntarily dismiss an action pursuant to Rule 1.420(a), Florida Rules of Civil Procedure, 30 F.S.A., after the court has dismissed the complaint with leave to amend, if no further order has been entered by the Court prior to the service of the notice of dismissal.	2	3	ROSS-003286065	TR-0882977	TR-0567801	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question makes no reference to "current rule" as does headnote.
3730	is a "step" in the prosecution or defense of an action that will avoid abandonment of a suit for lack of prosecution a formal action before the trial court intended to hasten judgment or is the taking of formal discovery?	A "step" in the prosecution or defense of an action that will avoid abandonment of a suit for lack of prosecution is a formal action before the trial court intended to hasten judgment or is the taking of formal discovery. LSA-C.C.P. art. 561.	Article 561 is operative without formal order, but, on ex parte motion of any party or other interested person by affidavit which provides that no step has been timely taken in the prosecution or defense of the action, the trial court shall enter a formal order of dismissal as of the date of its abandonment. La. C.C.P. art. 561(A)(2)(3). [17] [18] [19] [20] [21] [22] [23] A "step" is a formal action before the court intended to hasten the suit towards judgment or is the taking of formal discovery. A step by one party prevents abandonment as to all of the parties, even though they are not solidarily liable.	1	3	ROSS-003286126	TR-0871462	TR-0538863	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not reference citation, "LSA-C.C.P. art. 561."

ID	Question	Headnote	Case Opinion	Question to Headnote Rank	Headnote to Case Opinion Rank	Question Bates #	Headnote Bates #	Case Opinion Bates #	Arguments for Why Juror Could Conclude that Question Was Not Taken from Headnote
3864	can a motion for involuntary dismissal raise defects, defenses, or other affirmative matters that defeat the claim?	A motion for involuntary dismissal based upon certain defects or defenses admits the legal sufficiency of the plaintiff's claim but asserts affirmative defenses or other matters that avoid or defeat the claim. S.H.A. 735 ILCS 5/2-619.	[2] [3] [4] The Withholding Act defines a "payor" as "any payor of income to an obligor." 750 ILCS 28/15(g) (West 2006). Thus, in order for Blue Cross to be a "payor," it must pay Ronald "income." The Withholding Act defines "income," in pertinent part, as "any form of periodic payment to an individual, regardless of source." 750 ILCS 28/15(d) (West 2006). Blue Cross argues that it does not pay Ronald income because it pays Vaughn Center. Blue Cross further contends that Vaughn Center is not an "individual" under the Withholding Act's definitions of "income" and "obligor." However, the affidavit submitted by Ronald establishes that Ronald is a sole proprietor and Vaughn Center is a legal nonentity. "[A] sole proprietorship has no legal identity 487 127 separate from that of the individual who owns it." Vernon v. Schuster, 179 Ill.2d 338, 347, 228 Ill.Dec. 195, 688 N.E.2d 1172, 1176-77 (1997). Moreover, even if a sole proprietor does business under a fictitious name, the sole proprietor has not created a separate legal entity. Vernon, 179 Ill.2d at 347-48, 228 Ill.Dec. 195, 688 N.E.2d at 1176-77. Thus, the word "individual" in the Withholding Act's definition of "income" includes a sole proprietorship. See *835 Shively v. Belleville Township High School District No. 201, 329 Ill.App.3d 1156, 1165-66, 264 Ill.Dec. 225, 769 N.E.2d 1062, 1070 (2002) (interpreting "individuals" in the School Code's professional services exemption (105 ILCS 5/10-20.21(a)(i) (West 2006)) to refer "to the ones performing the service, not the ones with whom the contract	2	3	ROSS-003286416	TR-0598884	TR-0734245	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question contains no reference to "affirmative defenses" or "admits the legal sufficiency of the plaintiff's claim," as does the headnote. The question and headnote are substantively different.
3918	can an action be dismissed as abandoned under the abandonment statute only without prejudice?	An action may be dismissed as abandoned under the abandonment statute only without prejudice. La. Code Civ. Proc. Ann. art. 561.	[9] However, as to the trial court's January 7, 2015 judgment dismissing Plaintiffs' action on the grounds of abandonment, we note that it dismissed Plaintiffs' action "with prejudice." This Court, as well as other courts, has found that a dismissal on the grounds of abandonment is a dismissal "without prejudice." D & S Builders, Inc.	1	3	ROSS-003286526	TR-0742925	TR-0692645	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not reference citation "La. Code Civ. Proc. Ann. art. 561.," as does the headnote.
3919	will all pleadings and supporting documents be interpreted favourable to the non-moving party when proceeding allows dismissal of complaint when claim asserted is barred by other affirmative matter?	When proceeding under Code of Civil Procedure section allowing dismissal of complaint when claim asserted is barred by other affirmative matter avoiding the legal effect of or defeating the claim, all pleadings and supporting documents must be interpreted in the light most favorable to the nonmoving party. S.H.A. 735 ILCS 5/2-619.	When ruling on a motion to dismiss, either because the complaint fails to state a cause of action or because the claims are barred by other affirmative matter that avoids the legal effect of or defeats the claim, the trial court is to interpret all the pleadings and supporting documents in the light most favorable to the nonmoving party. A section 2-615 motion should be granted only if the plaintiff can prove no set of facts that would support a cause of action.	2	3	ROSS-003286528	TR-0842020	TR-0620904	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question is much shorter and very different from headnote, as it makes no reference to "Code of Civil Procedure Section" or "avoiding the legal effect of or defeating the claim." Question uses the term "favourable" which is the British version of the US term favorable, which is used in the case opinion, but not in the headnote. The question and headnote are substantively different.

ID	Question	Headnote	Case Opinion	Question to Headnote Rank	Headnote to Case Opinion Rank	Question Bates #	Headnote Bates #	Case Opinion Bates #	Arguments for Why Juror Could Conclude that Question Was Not Taken from Headnote
3928	in cases involving a legislatively-established application process, does the takings claim arise until after a permit has been sought and denied and the effect of the denial results in economic detriment?	For ripeness purposes, futility exception, to rule that takings claim in case involving legislatively-established application process normally does not arise until permit has been sought and denied so as to result in economic detriment, serves to protect property owners from being required to submit multiple applications when manner in which first application was rejected makes it clear that no project will be approved.	In Palazzolo, the United States Supreme Court held that when an "agency charged with enforcing a challenged land-use regulation entertains an application from an owner and its denial of the application makes clear the extent of development permitted," and when the owner has otherwise complied with the pertinent regulations, "federal ripeness rules do not require the submission of further and futile applications with other agencies." 533 U.S. at 625-26, 121 S.Ct. 2448. Similarly, the United States Court of Appeals for the Federal Circuit ("Federal Circuit") has held that "the futility exception simply serves 'to protect property owners from being required to submit multiple applications when the manner in which the first application was rejected makes it clear that no project will be approved.' " Howard W.	2	3	ROSS-003286547	TR-0673558	TR-0662188	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question contains no reference to "serves to protect property owners from being required to submit multiple applications when manner in which first application was rejected makes it clear that no project will be approved." The question and headnote are substantively different.
3940	in action for injunctive relief, should a plaintiff's right be determined as of the date of trial?	In action for declaratory judgment and for an injunction, plaintiff's right to injunctive relief should be determined as of date of trial.	Nevertheless, "[f]urther relief based on a declaratory judgment or decree may be granted if necessary or proper." C.J. § 3-412(a). The statutory scheme thus permits a party to bring an action for declaratory judgment and, either in conjunction with that action or in a separate action, request further injunctive relief based on the rights determined by *611 that judgment.	2	3	ROSS-003286573	TR-0615743	TR-0726362	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not reference "declaratory judgment," as does the headnote. The question and headnote are substantively different.
3952	do government agencies, including the military, have to comply with the regulations they promulgate?	Government agencies, including those of the military, must comply with their own regulations, and the Navy is obligated to comply with Department of Defense directives.	Conflict with Superior Regulations [8] [9] Army regulations must be in accord with directives promulgated by the Department of Defense.	2	4	ROSS-003286600	TR-0645431	TR-0852540	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not make reference to "Navy is obligated to comply with Department of Defense directives," as does the headnote. The question and headnote are substantively different.
3983	is a clerk of a superior court a part of the judicial branch of the government?	Clerk of superior court is part of judicial branch of government. A.R.S. § 11-401; A.R.S.Const. art. 3; art. 6, § 23.	[3] [4] The circuit clerk is a nonjudicial officer of the judicial branch of government (Ill. Const.1970, art. VI, sec. 18(b); 487 574 Drury v.	2	3	ROSS-003286666	TR-0563019	TR-0741082	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question contains no citation to "A.R.S. § 11-401; A.R.S.Const. art. 3; art. 6, § 23." Both question and headnote are virtually verbatim versions of case opinion language.

ID	Question	Headnote	Case Opinion	Question to Headnote Rank	Headnote to Case Opinion Rank	Question Bates #	Headnote Bates #	Case Opinion Bates #	Arguments for Why Juror Could Conclude that Question Was Not Taken from Headnote
4003	is the evidence of quid pro quo necessary to establish that a public agent commit corrupt solicitation under bribery statute?	Evidence of quid pro quo is not necessary to establish that a public agent solicited corruptly anything of value in connection with a transaction of $5,000 or more. 18 U.S.C.A. § 666(a)(1)(B).	[3] [4] [5] Section 666, the basis (through a conspiracy charge) of Count 23, forbids theft or bribery in publicly funded programs (of which the State of Illinois is one). Count 23 relies on § 666(a)(1)(B), which makes it a crime for an agent of a covered organization to solicit "corruptly ... anything of value" in connection with a transaction worth $5,000 or more. "Corruptly" refers to the recipient's state of mind and indicates that he understands the payment as a bribe or gratuity. United States v. Hawkins, 777 F.3d 880, 882 (7th Cir.2015). It would not be plausible to describe a political trade of favors as an offer or attempt to bribe the other side.	2	3	ROSS-003286706	TR-0642794	TR-0633518	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question contains reference to "a public agent commit corrupt solicitation under bribery statute," but these words do not appear in the headnote. The headnote contains reference to "anything of value in connection with a transaction of $5,000 or more. 18 U.S.C.A. § 666(a)(1)(B)," but none of these words appear in the question. The question and headnote are substantively different.
4028	is a rule governing nonsuits liberally construed in favor of a right to nonsuit?	Rule governing nonsuits is liberally construed in favor of right to nonsuit. Vernon's Ann.Texas Rules Civ.Proc., Rule 164.	(2) The rule is clear that pension statutes are to be liberally construed in favor of those to whom such rights are granted, and that such rights may not be taken away by strained construction.	1	3	ROSS-003286758	TR-0556461	TR-0788091	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not contain citation to "Vernon's Ann.Texas Rules Civ.Proc., Rule 164," as does the headnote.
4036	will a suit be dismissed because of mootness when issue presented is of substantial public interest?	When issue presented is of substantial public interest, a suit will not be dismissed because of mootness.	The Illinois Supreme Court said that, because the issue presented was of substantial public interest and that it was desirable that an authoritative determination be made for the future guidance of public officers in probably recurring cases, appeal should not be dismissed. Another reason given by that court for refusal to dismiss was that an appellate decision would tend to clarify the rights of parties involved in the event a damage suit should be brought, based upon the fact that the operation was performed without the consent of the parents.	2	3	ROSS-003286775	TR-0792799	TR-0629916	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case.
4042	will a motion to dismiss based upon certain defects or defenses admit the legal sufficiency of a claim or assert affirmative matter that defeats the claim?	A motion to dismiss based upon certain defects or defenses admits the legal sufficiency of the complaint, but asserts some affirmative matter that defeats the claim. S.H.A. 735 ILCS 5/2-619.	¶ 9 ANALYSIS [1] ¶ 10 Plaintiff contends that the court erred by dismissing its claim against HMB because the two-year statute of limitations provided in section 13-214.3(b) of the Code did not apply to its claim. A motion to dismiss brought under section 2-619 of the Code admits the legal sufficiency of the plaintiff's claim but asserts an affirmative matter outside of the pleading that defeats the claim.	1	3	ROSS-003286789	TR-0652366	TR-0578199	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not contain citation of "S.H.A. 735 ILCS 5/2-619" as does headnote.
4116	does the existence as a public utility result in the grant of an indeterminate permit?	Existence of municipality supplying water as a public utility does not result in grant of an indeterminate permit to operate as a public utility. W.S.A. 196.01(5).	That it was not the legislative intent to make the declaration that a utility was a public utility equivalent to the granting of an indeterminate permit is shown by the fact that section 1797m--77 of the statutes, chapter 499, Laws of 1907, gave the public utility a right to elect to surrender its franchise and receive an indeterminate permit in lieu thereof. This provision evidences a clear legislative intent not to make the granting of an indeterminate permit automatically follow the legislative declaration that a utility is a public utility.	2	4	ROSS-003286945	TR-0691173	TR-0658585	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not reference "to operate as a public utility. W.S.A. 196.01(5)," as does the headnote. The case opinion does not appear to mention the citation in the headnote. The question and headnote are substantively different.

ID	Question	Headnote	Case Opinion	Question to Headnote Rank	Headnote to Case Opinion Rank	Question Bates #	Headnote Bates #	Case Opinion Bates #	Arguments for Why Juror Could Conclude that Question Was Not Taken from Headnote
4121	is the provision of a civil rule pertaining to a voluntary dismissal separate from, and not meant to be construed together with, a portion of a rule pertaining to involuntary dismissal?	Provision of civil rule pertaining to voluntary dismissal is separate from, and not meant to be construed together with, portion of rule pertaining to involuntary dismissal. Rules Civ.Proc., Rule 41(A, B).	Accordingly, the right to take a nonsuit pursuant to Code § 8.01-380(B) in a Virginia state court is much more expansive than the right to a voluntary dismissal pursuant to Federal Rule 41(a)(1)(A)(i) in federal court. [5] Code § 8.01-380 does not address what impact, if any, a plaintiff's prior voluntary dismissal in federal court may have on that plaintiff's right to take a nonsuit as a matter of right.	1	4	ROSS-003286958	TR-0546713	TR-0739271	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not reference the citation "Rules Civ.Proc., Rule 41(A, B)" which is not part of the holding in the case opinion. Rather the opinion is about Virginia law. Thus, the question is accurate and the headnote is not. The question and headnote are substantively different.
4135	are waiver of subrogation provisions in a construction contract properly applied to damages incurred by a project owner?	Waiver of subrogation provisions in construction contract were properly applied to damages incurred by project owner beyond those sustained to "the work," where contract provided that waiver of subrogation was effective as to person or entity even where person or entity would otherwise have had a duty of indemnification, contractual or otherwise.	for damages caused by fire or other perils to the extent covered by property insurance obtained pursuant to this Paragraph 11.3 or other property insurance applicable to the Work.... A waiver of subrogation shall be effective as to a person or entity even though that person or entity would otherwise have a duty of indemnification, contractual or otherwise, 391 did not pay the insurance premium directly or indirectly, and whether or not the person or entity had an insurable interest in the property damaged.	2	3	ROSS-003286987	TR-0679836	TR-0696114	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case: question does not contain reference to "permit to operate as a public utility," nor has any reference to the citation W.S.A. 196.01(5). The question and headnote are substantively different.
4139	is the burden upon the one seeking subrogation to establish its superior equity, for purposes of applying the superior equities doctrine?	Under California law, for purposes of applying the superior equities doctrine, the burden is upon the one seeking subrogation to establish its superior equity.	[5] [6] The insurer also argues that it should recover under the doctrine of subrogation. Subrogation is an equitable doctrine which prevents unjust enrichment, and one seeking subrogation must have superior equity.	2	3	ROSS-003286996	TR-0734645	TR-0573053	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question contains no limitation to "California law," as the headnote does.
4199	does the cause of action for trespass to chattels require actual damage?	Actual damage is not essential element of cause of action for trespass to chattels, except by dispossession.	[3] It is fundamental that actual damage is an essential element of a cause of action based on negligence or fraud. Widemshek v. Fale (1962), 17 Wis.2d 337, 117 N.W.2d 275. A plaintiff is not required to allege damage where it appears from the facts that damage resulted as a matter of law in order to state a cause of action.	2	3	ROSS-003287121	TR-0553856	TR-0837603	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not reference "essential element of cause of action" or "except by dispossession." The question and headnote are substantively different.
4253	is the crime of offering a bribe complete when a defendant expresses an ability and a desire to pay the bribe?	Statute prohibiting bribery of a public official is satisfied if a defendant expresses an ability and a desire to pay the bribe. 18 U.S.C.A. § 201(b).	It is not necessary for a briber to be familiar with Williston on Contracts in order to make an illegal offer. Under the statute, it is sufficient if a "defendant expresses an ability and a desire to pay the bribe." United States v.	2	3	ROSS-003287238	TR-0646725	TR-0646725	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question makes no reference to "Statute prohibiting bribery of a public official is Satisfied," nor does it contain the citation "18 U.S.C.A. § 201(b)." The question and headnote are substantively different.

ID	Question	Headnote	Case Opinion	Question to Headnote Rank	Headnote to Case Opinion Rank	Question Bates #	Headnote Bates #	Case Opinion Bates #	Arguments for Why Juror Could Conclude that Question Was Not Taken from Headnote
4301	does partial payment of principal and the execution of a new note amount to a novation?	Part payment of principal and execution of new note extending time of payment for balance at same interest was renewal and not novation.	The renewal of a note by taking a new note between the same parties in the same relationship, at the same rate of interest, but extending the time of payment, although the new note is in a less amount which represents a balance due on the principal after a payment reducing the indebtedness represented by the old note has been made, does not constitute a novation of the contract represented in the old note, but is merely a contract extending the time of payment of the original indebtedness as reduced by the payment made thereon.	2	4	ROSS-003287341	TR-0627305	TR-0861323	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case.
4326	does the statute prohibiting theft or bribery by agent of organization receiving federal funds distinguish between high-level and low-level employees?	Plain language of statute prohibiting theft or bribery by agent of organization receiving federal funds does not distinguish between "high-level" and "low-level" employees. 18 U.S.C.A. § 666(a)(1), (d)(1).	To the extent that the statute prohibits acts of bribery, the prohibition "draws content ... from federal statutes proscribing-and defining-similar crimes," including the general federal bribery statute, 18 U.S.C. § 201(b), and the statute prohibiting theft and bribery involving federal funds, 18 U.S.C. § 666(a)(2).	1	4	ROSS-003287394	TR-0643233	TR-0641939	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not reference "Plain language of statute," or citation to "18 U.S.C.A. § 666(a)(1), (d)(1): as does the headnote. The question and headnote are substantively different.
4329	where any one of requirements of statute governing applications for continuances, is not met, is there an abuse of the trial court's discretion to deny a continuance?	Where any one of requirements of statute governing applications for continuances upon the ground of the absence of a witness is not met, there is no abuse of the trial court's discretion to deny a continuance. West's Ga.Code Ann. § 9-10-160.	[1] [2] OCGA § 17-8-25 provides, among other things, that applications for continuance based on the absence of a witness must be accompanied by a showing that the absent witness's testimony is material. "Each of the named requirements must be met before the appellate court will review the trial court's discretion in denying the motion for continuance based upon the absence of a witness.	2	4	ROSS-003287400	TR-0618524	TR-0805576	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not reference citation to "West's Ga.Code Ann. § 9-10-160," as does the headnote.
4451	should the rule recognizing the right of a plaintiff to take a nonsuit be liberally construed?	Rule giving plaintiff right to take a nonsuit should be liberally construed. Rules of Civil Procedure, rule 164.	All allegations of material fact are taken as true and construed in the light most favorable to the plaintiff. Id. Civil rights complaints are to be liberally construed.	2	3	ROSS-003287656	TR-0857117	TR-0569513	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not contain reference to citation to "Rules of Civil Procedure, rule 164."
4474	does a tariff approved by the public utilities commission ("puc") have the force of law?	A tariff, when approved by the Public Utilities Commission (PUC), has the force of law. Cal. Pub.Util.Code § 489(a).	At issue is whether appellants' complaint represents a service complaint, which is within the exclusive jurisdiction of the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio ("PUCO"). For the reasons that follow, we affirm. ¶ 2 Appellants filed this action against Ohio Edison, a public utility, which provided electricity to them at their former residence in Dorset, Ashtabula County, Ohio.	1	3	ROSS-003287706	TR-0564566	TR-0759363	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not contain citation "Cal.Pub.Util.Code § 489(a)." as does the headnote.
4530	is the statute empowering court, on affidavit of necessity and materiality, requires a party to suit to produce documents in his possession supplementary to a statute looking to production of documents at trial?	The statute empowering court, on affidavit of necessity and materiality, to require a party to suit to produce documents in his possession is supplementary to statute looking to production of documents at trial. Code 1940, Tit. 7, §§ 426, 487, 489.	269.57(1), Stats., and reads in part: "The court, or a judge thereof, may * * * require the deposit of the books or documents with the clerk and may require their production at the trial. * * * (Emphasis supplied.) It is obvious that the authority granted by this statute is limited to the deposit of records with the court, and not for making such material part of the court record.	1	4	ROSS-003287831	TR-0685037	TR-0687304	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question contains no reference to citation "Code 1940, Tit. 7, §§ 426, 487, 489."

ID	Question	Headnote	Case Opinion	Question to Headnote Rank	Headnote to Case Opinion Rank	Question Bates #	Headnote Bates #	Case Opinion Bates #	Arguments for Why Juror Could Conclude that Question Was Not Taken from Headnote
4540	does the workers' compensation system make employers absolute insurers of their employees' safety, or is the system meant to protect employees against the potentially devastating consequences of work-related injuries?	Ohio workers' compensation system does not make employers absolute insurers of their employees' safety; rather, system is meant to protect employees against potentially devastating consequences of work-related injuries. Const. Art. 2, § 35.	[4] These general guidelines must nonetheless be tempered by the purpose of the Workers' Compensation Act. The Act is not meant to impose a duty on an employer as an absolute insurer of the employee's safety. Rather, the Act is intended to protect employees against the risks and hazards incident to the performance of their duties.	1	3	ROSS-003287852	TR-0802802	TR-0772325	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question contains no limitation to Ohio law, as does the headnote, nor does it contain a citation to "Const. Art. 2, § 35." The case opinion, like the question, does not cite to the U.S. Constitution. The question and headnote are substantively different.
4550	will factors considered by the court sometimes overlap with the commercial activities exception to the foreign sovereign immunities act?	Although factors to be considered by court in deciding whether to decline inquiry into validity of foreign sovereign's acts, pursuant to "act of state" doctrine, may sometimes overlap with commercial activities exception to Foreign Sovereign Immunities Act, there is no commercial exception to "act of state" doctrine. 28 U.S.C.A. § 1602 et seq.	Once the plaintiff has carried its burden of production, the court must resolve any disputed issues of fact in order to determine whether an exception to immunity applies. Id. The Plaintiff here alleges that the Court has jurisdiction under the "commercial activities exception" found in 28 U.S.C. § 1605(a)(2). This exception provides that *505 a foreign state is not immune from jurisdiction in cases where: the action is based [1] upon a commercial activity carried on in the United States by the foreign state; or [2] upon an act performed in the United States in connection with a commercial activity of the foreign state elsewhere; or [3] upon an act outside the territory of the United States in connection with a commercial activity of the foreign state elsewhere and that act causes a direct effect in the United States.	2	4	ROSS-003287872	TR-0572365	TR-0626700	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not contain reference to "in deciding whether to decline inquiry into Validity" or "pursuant to 'act of state' doctrine." The question and headnote are substantively different.
4578	can the court use section 5 to circumvent the parties designation of an exclusive arbitral forum where the forum is exclusive?	Where the arbitral forum agreed upon by the parties is exclusive, but is unavailable, the district court may not use the section of the Federal Arbitration Act (FAA) governing a lapse in naming an arbitrator to circumvent the parties' designation of an exclusive arbitral forum. 9 U.S.C.A. § 5.	[1] [2] [3] Under the Federal Arbitration Act ("FAA"), 12 "[a] two-step inquiry governs whether parties should be compelled to arbitrate a dispute. First, the court must determine whether the parties agreed to arbitrate the dispute. Once the court finds that the parties agreed to arbitrate, it must consider whether any federal statute or policy renders the claims non-arbitrable." Banc One Acceptance Corp.	2	4	ROSS-003287931	TR-0630445	TR-0668041	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not reference "the section of the Federal Arbitration Act (FAA) governing a lapse in naming an arbitrator," nor does it contain a citation to "9 U.S.C.A. § 5" as does the headnote. The question and headnote are substantively different.
4582	does the statute prohibiting local government agents from fraudulently obtaining property from an organization receiving federal funds require that the agent be a person authorized to act with respect to those funds?	Statute prohibiting local government agents from fraudulently obtaining property from an organization receiving federal funds does not require that the agent be a person authorized to act with respect to those funds. 18 U.S.C.A. § 666(d)(1).	Keen first contests the sufficiency of the evidence supporting his conviction under 18 U.S.C. §§ 666 and 2 for fraudulently obtaining property from an organization receiving federal funds (No. 09-16027). To obtain a conviction under § 666, the government was required to establish the following elements: (1) Mr. Keen was an agent of Dixie County; (2) Mr.	1	3	ROSS-003287940	TR-0640034	TR-0640034	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not reference citation '18 U.S.C.A. § 666(d)(1)."
4700	does authorizing a civil service commission to provide rules to the civil service constitute a delegation of legislative power?	Civil service law, authorizing civil service commission to provide rules as to civil service, are not a delegation of powers to enact laws in violation of Const. art. 1, § 18.	The civil service law (103 O. L. 698) does not confer power on the state civil service commission to investigate the acts and conduct of the mayor of a city with reference to the enforcement by him of that enactment.	2	4	ROSS-003288192	TR-0871834	TR-0871834	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not reference "Civil service law," nor "violation of Const. art. 1, § 18," as does the headnote. The question and headnote are substantively different.

ID	Question	Headnote	Case Opinion	Question to Headnote Rank	Headnote to Case Opinion Rank	Question Bates #	Headnote Bates #	Case Opinion Bates #	Arguments for Why Juror Could Conclude that Question Was Not Taken from Headnote
4714	is a consul the personal agent of his national?	Consul is not personal agent of his national, absent some specific grant of authority.	[8] [9] {25} A person may use an agent to take action under the authority of a statute, even when the agent is not the person specifically identified in the statute.	2	4	ROSS-003288221	TR-0743817	TR-0567077	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not reference.
4729	is there no specific time limitation in the rule allowing dismissal of action based on a plaintiff's failure to exercise due diligence to obtain service on a defendant?	There is no specific time limitation, in rule allowing dismissal of action based on plaintiff's failure to exercise due diligence to obtain service on defendant; rather, trial court must consider passage of time in relation to all other facts and circumstances of each case individually. Sup.Ct.Rules, Rule 103(b).	The action was dismissed with prejudice as to defendant on March 7, 1977, for plaintiffs' failure to show reasonable diligence in obtaining service of process. (Supreme Court Rule 103(b), Ill.Rev.Stat.1975, ch. 110A, par. 103(b).) On May 23, 1977, the court denied plaintiffs' motion to vacate the order of dismissal, stating that there was no just reason to delay enforcement or appeal.	1	4	ROSS-003288253	TR-0543968	TR-0533003	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not reference "absent some specific grant of authority," as does the headnote. The question and headnote are substantively different.
4861	can the doctrine of trespass ab initio apply when the officer taking citizen's property under authority of law abuses the authority?	Doctrine of trespass ab initio applies only where officer taking citizen's property under authority of law abuses authority.	[3] Wrongful acts by the crews of the other Coast Guard vessels cannot render the seizure by the commanding officer of the 289 unlawful under the doctrine of trespass ab initio. It is only where an officer, by whom the property of a citizen is taken under the authority of law, abuses the authority vested in him that this doctrine applies, and not where wrongful acts are committed by others of their own volition, and not by the order, direction, or connivance of the seizing officer.	1	3	ROSS-003288525	TR-0611669	TR-0611669	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not reference "applies only where," as does the headnote. The question and headnote are substantively different.
4897	in order to break the running of the five-year dormancy period under a statute automatically dismissing an action, does the order have to be in writing, signed, and entered?	In order to break running of five-year dormancy period of statute providing for automatic dismissal when no written order is taken for a period of five years, the order has to be in writing, signed and entered. O.C.G.A. § 9-2-60.	The case giving rise to these cross-appeals is a renewal action of a previous case which was dismissed pursuant to OCGA § 9-2-60(b) because no written order had been taken in the case for a period of five years. The complaint in this renewal action was filed on May 31, 1991.	2	4	ROSS-003288602	TR-0800926	TR-0613888	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not reference "when no written order is taken" nor the citation "O.C.G.A. § 9-2-60" as does the headnote. The question and headnote are substantively different.
4930	what is the test to determine whether a single transaction involves the distinct offenses of offering and giving a bribe?	The test of whether single transaction includes distinct offenses of offering and of giving bribe is whether separate acts have been committed with requisite criminal intent. Cr.Code, § 39, 18 U.S.C.A. § 201.	may be punished as separate crimes without offending the double jeopardy clause.... The same transaction, in other words, may constitute separate and distinct crimes where it is susceptible of separation into parts, each of which in itself constitutes a completed offense.... [T]he test is not whether the criminal intent is one and the same and inspiring the whole transaction, but whether separate acts have been committed with the requisite criminal intent and are such as are made punishable by the [statute].	2	3	ROSS-003288669	TR-0642418	TR-0714833	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not reference "is whether separate acts have been committed with requisite criminal intent. Cr.Code, § 39, 18 U.S.C.A. § 201," as does the headnote. The question and headnote are substantively different.

ID	Question	Headnote	Case Opinion	Question to Headnote Rank	Headnote to Case Opinion Rank	Question Bates #	Headnote Bates #	Case Opinion Bates #	Arguments for Why Juror Could Conclude that Question Was Not Taken from Headnote
4942	will the court exceed its authority by setting a second trial date after an initial grant of continuance?	Trial court did not exceed its authority by setting a second trial date, after an initial grant of continuance, that left fewer than 60 days before start of trial; neither party objected to the second trial setting, thereby agreeing to the date set, parties had notice and opportunity to be heard, and no further continuances were requested. Rules Civ.Proc., Rule 40(a).	It should first be observed that there is no legal requirement in this State whereby prior notice of intention to apply for the continuance of any matter must be given to the opposing party or his counsel. This being true, a trial judge has authority to grant a continuance ex parte if he desires, although the exercise of such authority is manifestly a matter of judicial discretion. Once such a continuance is granted, however, such grant is not subject to revocation forthe mere reason that it was ex parte and without prior notice to opposing counsel.	2	4	ROSS-003288693	TR-0822250	TR-0550697	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not reference, "trial court" or "continuance, that left fewer than 60 days before start of trial; neither party objected" or "thereby agreeing to the date set, parties had notice and opportunity to be heard, and no further continuances were requested. Rules Civ.Proc., Rule 40(a)," as does the headnote. The question and headnote are substantively different.
5020	should the exercise of the power of taxation be in such a manner as to permit the taxpayers ability to pay the taxes required by state for its support?	Though state in order to function properly must collect taxes, it must exercise power of taxation in such manner as to permit the solvent survival of taxpayers able to pay the taxes required by state for its support.	A corollary, doubtless recognized by the legislature in formulating the policy above stated, is that it is necessary for the state *908 to exercise its power of taxation, aptly described as "the power to destroy", in such a manner as to permit the solvent survival of taxpayers able to pay the taxes required by the state for its support. In the case at bar it appears that appellant filed regularly and in due time returns which reflected a complete disclosure of all of the sales in controversy, under which disclosure the ascertainment of total liability was only a matter of calculation, and that appellant paid promptly the amount shown to be due, under its asserted theory of liability, by said returns.	2	3	ROSS-003288855	TR-0606249	TR-0606249	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not reference "Though state in order to function properly must collect taxes," as does the headnote. The question and headnote are substantively different.
5041	on a motion to dismiss for lack of personal jurisdiction, need plaintiffs not prove their case?	On a motion to dismiss for lack of personal jurisdiction, plaintiffs need not prove their case, but rather must only establish a prima facie case, where all well-pleaded facts are taken as true.	As such, upon a defendant's motion to dismiss for lack of personal jurisdiction, the plaintiff bears the burden of making out a prima facie case that jurisdiction exists.	1	3	ROSS-003288898	TR-0791480	TR-0663635	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not reference "but rather must only establish a prima facie case, where all well-pleaded facts are taken as true," as does the headnote. The question and headnote are substantively different.
5043	does a bribe need to affect federal funds before it can be considered a violation of the federal bribery statute?	Bribe need not affect federal funds before bribe violates federal bribery statute. 18 U.S.C.A. § 666(a)(1)(B).	Case Law Interpreting the New Jersey Bribery Statute In their analysis of New Jersey's bribery statute, federal and state courts have focused on the relationship between bribe givers and bribe recipients to the corruption of official action at the time of exchange and as each party's role was presented at that time.	2	4	ROSS-003288902	TR-0566235	TR-0641453	Question does not reference "18 U.S.C.A. § 666(a)(1)(B)" as does the headnote.

ID	Question	Headnote	Case Opinion	Question to Headnote Rank	Headnote to Case Opinion Rank	Question Bates #	Headnote Bates #	Case Opinion Bates #	Arguments for Why Juror Could Conclude that Question Was Not Taken from Headnote
5058	where neither party submits evidence on a motion to dismiss for lack of personal jurisdiction, must the allegations of the complaint disclose jurisdiction although the particulars of jurisdiction need not be alleged?	When neither party submits evidence regarding a motion to dismiss for lack of personal jurisdiction, the allegations of the complaint must disclose personal jurisdiction, although the particulars of jurisdiction need not be alleged. Rules Civ.Proc., Rule 12(b)(2), West's N.C.G.S.A. § 1A-1.	Three procedural postures are typical: "(1) the defendant makes a motion to dismiss without submitting any opposing evidence; (2) the defendant supports its motion to dismiss with affidavits, but the plaintiff does not file any opposing evidence; or (3) both the defendant and the plaintiff submit affidavits addressing the personal jurisdiction issues." Id. [10] [11] [12] In this first category where neither party submits evidence, "[t]he allegations of the complaint must disclose jurisdiction although the particulars of jurisdiction need not be alleged." Bruggeman v.	1	3	ROSS-003288934	TR-0823043	TR-0537591	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not reference the citation "Rules Civ.Proc., Rule 12(b)(2), West's N.C.G.S.A. § 1A-1," as does the headnote.
5201	can depositions be admitted in evidence or treated as having force and effect of evidence?	Depositions cannot be admitted in evidence or treated as having force and effect of evidence, unless it appears that they were properly transmitted to court in which legal proceeding was pending.	Among other requirements for the admission in evidence of depositions, it must appear that they were properly transmitted to the court where the legal proceeding in which they were taken was pending.	2	3	ROSS-003289232	TR-0801113	TR-0801113	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not reference "unless it appears that they were properly transmitted to court in which legal proceeding was pending," as does the headnote. The question and headnote are substantively different.
5364	does the head-of-state doctrine apply only to persons the united states government acknowledges as official heads-of-state?	Head-of-State doctrine, which immunizes a Head-of-State from personal jurisdiction in United States courts, applies only to person United States government acknowledges as official Head-of-State; recognition of government and its officers is exclusive function of Executive Branch.	See, Note, Resolving the Confusion Over Head of State Immunity: The Defined Rights of Kings, 86 Colum.L.Rev. 169 (1986). [5] [6] [7] The immunity extends only to the person the United States government acknowledges as the official head-of-state. Recognition of a government and its officers is the exclusive function of the Executive Branch. Whether the recognized head-of-state has de facto control of the government is irrelevant; the courts must defer to the Executive determination.	2	3	ROSS-003289578	TR-0749939	TR-0810255	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not reference "which immunizes a Head-of-State from personal jurisdiction in United States courts," nor "recognition of government and its officers is exclusive function of Executive Branch," as does the headnote. The question and headnote are substantively different.
5371	if facts before trial court on motion to dismiss for lack of subject matter jurisdiction are not in dispute, then is the question of subject matter jurisdiction purely one of law?	If the facts before the trial court are not in dispute on motion to dismiss for lack of subject-matter jurisdiction, the question of subject-matter jurisdiction is purely one of law and the Court of Appeals affords no deference to the trial court's conclusion.	The standard of review is dependent upon: (i) whether the trial court resolved disputed facts; and (ii) if the trial court resolved disputed facts, whether it conducted an evidentiary hearing or ruled on a paper record. Id. [7] [8] [9] [10] If the facts before the trial court are not in dispute, then the question of subject matter jurisdiction is purely one of law and no deference is afforded the trial court's conclusion. Id. On the other hand, if the facts before the trial court are in dispute and the trial court conducts an evidentiary hearing, we give its factual findings and judgment deference.	1	3	ROSS-003289593	TR-0610560	TR-0574651	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not reference "and the Court of Appeals affords no deference to the trial court's conclusion," as does the headnote. The question and headnote are substantively different.
5379	should a defendant make a prima facie showing that the plaintiff failed to act with reasonable diligence in effectuating service after filing the complaint?	When moving for dismissal for plaintiff's failure to exercise reasonable diligence in obtaining service on a defendant, defendant must make a prima facie showing that the plaintiff failed to act with reasonable diligence in effectuating service after filing the complaint. Sup.Ct.Rules, Rule 103(b).	Given the substantial discretion vested in the trial court under Rule 103(b), we review the dismissal of a complaint with prejudice for failure to exercise reasonable diligence in obtaining service to determine whether that discretion was abused. Kole, 325 Ill.App.3d at 949, 259 Ill.Dec. 649, 759 N.E.2d 129. [9] [10] ¶ 21 Once the defendant has made a prima facie showing of a lack of reasonable diligence, the burden shifts to the plaintiff to demonstrate, by way of affidavit or other competent evidentiary materials, that reasonable diligence was exercised and that any delays in effecting service were justified.	1	3	ROSS-003289613	TR-0782023	TR-0656274	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not reference "When moving for dismissal for plaintiff's failure to exercise," or citation to "Sup.Ct.Rules, Rule 103(b)," as does the headnote. The question and headnote are substantively different.

ID	Question	Headnote	Case Opinion	Question to Headnote Rank	Headnote to Case Opinion Rank	Question Bates #	Headnote Bates #	Case Opinion Bates #	Arguments for Why Juror Could Conclude that Question Was Not Taken from Headnote
5381	does even a slight excuse suffice as a good cause for withdrawal of deemed admissions, especially when delay or prejudice to opposing party will not result?	Even a slight excuse will suffice as good cause for withdrawal of deemed admissions, especially when delay or prejudice to opposing party will not result. Vernon's Ann.Texas Rules Civ.Proc., Rule 169(2).	No abuse of discretion occurs in this regard if there is a showing of (1) good cause and (2) no undue prejudice. Id. at 442 (citing TEX.R. CIV. P. 166a(c), 198.3). Good cause is established by a showing that the failure to respond to the request for admissions "was an accident or mistake, not intentional or the result of conscious indifference." Id. "Even a slight excuse will suffice, especially when delay or prejudice to the opposing party will not result." Boulet v.	1	3	ROSS-003289617	TR-0846112	TR-0566096	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not reference the citation "Vernon's Ann.Texas Rules Civ.Proc., Rule 169(2), as does the headnote.
5382	is it within a trial court's discretion to allow service of amended answers in response to request for admission?	It is within trial court's discretion to allow service of amended answers in response to request for admission. Rules Civ.Proc., Rules 36(A), 37(A) (4).	It is, however, within the court's discretion to allow untimely answers to requests for admissions, when such an amendment of the admission will not prejudice the other party.	1	3	ROSS-003289619	TR-0776960	TR-0653972	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not reference the citation "Rules Civ.Proc., Rules 36(A), 37(A)(4), as does the headnote; question and case opinion have significant textual overlap.
5438	where there is no good cause for defendant's absence, may a motion to continue the case on that basis properly be denied particularly when the real purpose in seeking a continuance is to delay trial?	Where there is no good cause for defendant's absence, a motion to continue the case on that basis may properly be denied particularly when the real purpose in seeking a continuance is to delay trial.	If the continuance was sought because of the absence of a witness (Stein), the continuance was properly denied because the motion did not contain the affidavit of that witness, describing the evidence to be adduced. (See Ill.Rev.Stat.1979, ch. 110A, par. 231(a); see also Mann v.	1	4	ROSS-003289733	TR-0557567	TR-0862129	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question and case opinion have textual overlap.
5450	must the trial court be cautious where it chooses to impose severe sanction of dismissal?	Caution must be observed by trial court when it chooses to impose very severe sanction of dismissal for failure of a party to attend a pretrial conference. Civil Rule 16-II.	Despite Appellee's demand for a jury trial earlier in the litigation, the trial court entered the final judgment for Appellee and awarded him damages in the amount of $122,500.00 without a jury proceeding. [2] Trial courts exercise discretion in sanctioning a party for failure to attend a pretrial conference, and striking that party's pleadings is an available punishment. Fla. R. Civ. P. 1.200(c). However, the severe sanction of striking pleadings and entering a default must be supported by an express finding in the order "that the party's conduct was willful and contumacious." Schneider v.	2	3	ROSS-003289759	TR-0673083	TR-0822043	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not reference the citation Civil Rule 16-II, as does the headnote; question and case opinion refere to a "severe sanction" while the headnote refers to a "very severe sanction."
5456	when a party fails to respond in a timely way to a request for admission, does it admit the relevant subject matter of the request?	When a party fails to respond in a timely way to a request for admissions, thus admitting the relevant subject matter of the request, these admissions may then be used to support a summary judgment. Rules Civ.Proc., Rule 36.	[3] Thus, when a party fails to timely respond to a request for admission, that request is deemed admitted pursuant to C.R.C.P. 36(a). That admission may then be used to support a summary judgment motion.	1	3	ROSS-003289772	TR-0866571	TR-0567250	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not reference the citation Rules Civ. Proc., Rule 36, as does the headnote; question and case opinion have significant textual overlap.

ID	Question	Headnote	Case Opinion	Question to Headnote Rank	Headnote to Case Opinion Rank	Question Bates #	Headnote Bates #	Case Opinion Bates #	Arguments for Why Juror Could Conclude that Question Was Not Taken from Headnote
5457	will the court abuse its discretion in denying motion for new trial when the plaintiff substituted counsel to undertake additional discovery and designate experts after plaintiff's original counsel withdrew from case?	Court did not abuse its discretion in denying motion for new trial in interest of justice, despite plaintiff's contention that significant aspects of real controversy were not tried due to trial court's refusal to revise its scheduling order to allow plaintiff's substitute counsel to undertake additional discovery and designate experts after plaintiff's original counsel withdrew from case; no showing was made regarding what expert testimony plaintiff would have presented, and thus, trial court could not have determined whether real controversy was or was not tried. W.S.A. 805.15(1).	To support her claim that the trial court abused its discretion, Mitropoulos asserts that justice was not served and significant aspects of the real controversy were not tried. Because no one knows what discovery would have revealed, the trial court could not have determined whether the real controversy was or was not tried, and therefore had a basis for rejecting this contention. No showing was made regarding what expert testimony Mitropoulos would have presented. The court's refusal to order a new trial in the interest of justice has not been shown to be an abuse of discretion.	2	4	ROSS-003289774	TR-0775430	TR-0775430	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not reference the citation W.S.A. 805.15(1); headnote has significant text that the question does not.
5481	is the power of taxation limited by the will of state as expressed in legislation?	Generally, subject to constitutional restrictions, power of taxation is limited only by will of state as expressed in legislation.	III THE CONSTITUTIONAL AND STATUTORY FRAMEWORK FOR THE VALUATION OF REAL PROPERTY TAXED AD VALOREM [13] [14] [15] [16] ¶ 8 The Legislature has plenary power to tax, subject only to constitutional restrictions and the will of the people expressed through elections. 15 All non-exempt property is taxed ad valorem unless the Legislature provides otherwise through the enactment of a substitute tax.	2	3	ROSS-003289824	TR-0551675	TR-0804560	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not reference "Generally, subject to constitutional restrictions" as does the headnote.
5504	when a party who lacks standing purports to commence an action, does the trial court have no alternative but to dismiss the action?	When a party who lacks standing purports to commence an action, the trial court has no alternative but to dismiss the action.	1 1 Like the parents in Lambert, supra, and Justice, supra, the parents in the present case sought damages for harm to their reputations. " 'When a party without standing purports to commence an action, the trial court acquires no subject-matter jurisdiction.' State v.	1	3	ROSS-003289870	TR-0684171	TR-0790477	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question includes language that is also in the case opinion, including the entire introductory clause of the question.
5552	may a party who fails to timely respond to another party's request for admissions submit contradictory evidence, as a matter admitted by a failure timely to respond is conclusively established?	Party who fails to timely respond to another party's request for admissions may not submit contradictory evidence, as a matter admitted by a failure timely to respond is conclusively established. Rules of Civil Procedure, Rule 36(a, b).	"Any matter admitted under this Rule is conclusively established unless the court on motion permits withdrawal or amendment of the admission." [1] [2] Hence, by this rule, a matter admitted by a failure timely to respond is conclusively established. And, contrary to the ruling of the trial court, admitted matters can constitute an adequate showing for *637 summary judgment without the necessity of producing further supportive evidence.	1	3	ROSS-003289967	TR-0703920	TR-0703920	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not include a citation to "Rules of Civil Procedure, Rule 36(a, b)," as does the headnote. The question and headnote are substantively different.
5554	does dismissal of suit, in which affidavit of indigency is filed, as frivolous or malicious properly, lie where claim has no arguable basis in law or fact?	Dismissal of suit, in which affidavit of indigency is filed, as frivolous or malicious properly lies only where claim has no arguable basis in law or fact. V.T.C.A., Civil Practice & Remedies Code § 13.001(a)(2).	4 2 Section 13.001, the general provision for dismissal of claims, provides: (b) In determining whether an action is frivolous or malicious, the court may consider whether: (2) the claim has no arguable basis in law or in fact TEX. CIV. PRAC. & REM. CODE ANN.	1	3	ROSS-003289970	TR-0806718	TR-0806852	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not include a citation to "V.T.C.A., Civil Practice & Remedies Code § 13.001(a)(2)," as does the headnote. The question and headnote are substantively different.

ID	Question	Headnote	Case Opinion	Question to Headnote Rank	Headnote to Case Opinion Rank	Question Bates #	Headnote Bates #	Case Opinion Bates #	Arguments for Why Juror Could Conclude that Question Was Not Taken from Headnote
5555	is awarding of attorney fees and expenses to a party who was put to necessity of proof by opponent's failure to admit truth of matters contained in requests for admission, an abuse of discretion?	Award of attorney fees and expenses to party who was put to necessity of proof by opponent's failure to admit truth of matters contained in requests for admission was abuse of discretion; requests for admission did not conform to necessary standards of clarity and fairness, and opponent was at risk of conceding away a disputed point by such admission. Sup.Ct.Rules, Rules 4:11, 4:12(c).	[2] We find that the trial court has not abused its discretion. An examination of the record reveals that the attorney for the Hattons moved that the requests for admissions be admitted because of Chem-Haulers' failure to respond within the time required. Chem-Hauler's reply, to this motion, was that the matters contained in the request for admissions had already been denied at pre-trial conference. The trial court then overruled the Hattons' motion. In light of the above, we find there has been no showing that the Hattons have been sufficiently prejudiced for us to find that the trial court abused its discretion.	1	4	ROSS-003289972	TR-0678344	TR-0553068	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not reference "Sup.Ct.Rules, Rules 4:11, 4:12(c)," as does the headnote.
5719	is the burden of proof on all three requirements of rule allowing for withdrawal of deemed admissions on the party seeking withdrawal?	The burden of proof on all three requirements of rule allowing for withdrawal of deemed admissions is on the party seeking withdrawal. Tex. R. Civ. P. 198.3.	Moreover, in such instances, it is presumed that presentation of the merits would be served by allowing withdrawal of the deemed admissions. See, e.g., Marino, 355 S.W.3d at 634. 3 3 The Supreme Court has not decided whether a party moving to withdraw merit-preclusive admissions must prove that withdrawal would not unduly prejudice the non-moving party, or whether the non-moving party must show that withdrawal would be unduly prejudicial.	1	3	ROSS-003290311	TR-0739994	TR-0739994	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not include a citation to "Tex. R. Civ. P. 198.3," as does the headnote.
5731	will even a slight excuse suffice as a good cause to withdraw or amend an admission, especially when delay or prejudice to the opposing party will not result?	Even a slight excuse will suffice as good cause to withdraw or amend an admission, especially when delay or prejudice to the opposing party will not result. Vernon's Ann.Texas Rules Civ.Proc., Rule 198.3.	DEEMED ADMISSIONS A. Good Cause [5] [6] "Good cause" can be shown when a party's failure to answer "was accidental or the result of a mistake, rather than intentional or the result of conscious indifference." Stelly, 927 S.W.2d at 622. "Even a slight excuse will suffice, especially when delay or prejudice to the opposing party will not result." In re Kellogg-Brown & Root, Inc., 45 S.W.3d 772, 775 (Tex.App.-Tyler 2001, orig.	1	3	ROSS-003290339	TR-0735154	TR-0614025	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not include a citation to "Vernon's Ann.Texas Rules Civ.Proc., Rule 198.3," as does the headnote.
5740	was it proper for the court in a bribery case of an internal revenue agent to disregard the question of the merits of the tax case involved and exclude it from evidence?	Court in prosecution for bribery of internal revenue agent properly instructed jury to disregard question of merits of tax case involved.	Failure of the trial court on its own motion to properly instruct the jury with regard to the fundamental issues and applicable law involved in the case is ground for a new trial.	2	4	ROSS-003290357	TR-0639913	TR-0730102	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not reference "jury," as does the headnote.
5786	when do courts sustain disorderly conviction based on unreasonable noise?	To sustain disorderly conduct conviction based on unreasonable noise, state must show that complained-of speech infringed upon right to peace and tranquility enjoyed by others. West's A.I.C. 35-45-1-3(2).	To sustain a conviction, the State must show that the complained-of speech infringed upon the right to peace and tranquility enjoyed by others.	2	3	ROSS-003290463	TR-0572544	TR-0572544	Question reflects holding and the genral rule of law applied in case; question does not reference "state must show that complained-of speech infringed upon right to peace and tranquility enjoyed by others," nor does it include a citation to "West's A.I.C. 35-45-1-3(2)," as does the headnote. The question and headnote are substantively different.

ID	Question	Headnote	Case Opinion	Question to Headnote Rank	Headnote to Case Opinion Rank	Question Bates #	Headnote Bates #	Case Opinion Bates #	Arguments for Why Juror Could Conclude that Question Was Not Taken from Headnote
5790	does failure to answer a request for admissions within fifteen days as provided by civil procedure article per se result in requests for admissions being deemed an admission of facts sought to be established?	Failure to answer request for admissions within 15 days as provided by civil procedure article does not per se result in requests for admissions being deemed an admission of facts sought to be established. LSA-C.C.P. art. 1467.	While it is true that the defendant did not answer the request for admission within fifteen (15) days, he did deny owing any debt by his answer to interrogatories and by answer to Holmes' suit for breach of contract. In our view, failure to answer under Article 1467 does not per se result in requests for admissions being deemed an admission of the facts sought to be established.	1	3	ROSS-003290470	TR-0616788	TR-0616788	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not include a citation to "LSA-C.C.P. art. 1467," as does the headnote.
5797	may an evasive or incomplete answer to a request for admissions be treated by the trial court as a deemed admission?	Evasive or incomplete answer to request for admissions may be treated by trial court as deemed admission. Vernon's Ann.Texas Rules Civ.Proc., Rule 215, subd. 4, par. a.	SMITH.' Stewart answered, '(T)his Defendant has insufficient knowledge either to affirm of deny such request.' [1] [2] [3] [4] If responses to requests for admissions are wholly evasive the trial court may deem them admitted.	2	3	ROSS-003290485	TR-0879376	TR-0726641	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not include a citation to "Vernon's Ann. Texas Rules Civ. Proc., Rule 215, subd. 4, par. a," as does the headnote.
5799	when a party fails to respond in a timely way to a request for admissions, thus admitting the relevant subject matter of the request, may these admissions then be used to support a summary judgment?	When a party fails to respond in a timely way to a request for admissions, thus admitting the relevant subject matter of the request, these admissions may then be used to support a summary judgment. Rules Civ.Proc., Rule 36.	[3] Thus, when a party fails to timely respond to a request for admission, that request is deemed admitted pursuant to C.R.C.P. 36(a). That admission may then be used to support a summary judgment motion.	1	3	ROSS-003290489	TR-0866571	TR-0567250	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not include a citation to "Rules Civ.Proc., Rule 36," as does the headnote.
5847	does a party's failure to answer at all has the effect of a "judicial admission", which cannot be controverted upon the trial?	A party's failure to answer inquiries on adverse party's written request for admission or denial of relevant facts has effect of a "judicial admission", which cannot be controverted upon the trial. Rules of Civil Procedure, rule 169.	*427 In short, the admissions in question established every element of the Appellee Donahoes' cause of action for usury, and established that both contracts were usurious as a matter of law. [3] It is well-settled that the effect of a party's failure to answer inquiries in adverse party's written request for admission or denial of relevant facts made under Rule 169 is comparable to a "legal admission" made in the applicable pleadings of a party, so as to preclude his denial of such facts on the trial of the case.	2	3	ROSS-003290587	TR-0805435	TR-0581982	Question reflects holding and the genral rule of law applied in case; question does not reference "inquiries on adverse party's written request for admission or denial of relevant facts," nor does it include a citation to "Rules of Civil Procedure, rule 169," as does the headnote. The question and headnote are substantively different.
5853	does a foot passenger have priority of right of way over automobiles?	Neither foot passengers nor automobiles have priority of right over the other in streets.	*333 Foot-passengers have equal rights in the streets with those mounted on horseback or driving in carriages. Neither have a priority of right over the other.	2	4	ROSS-003290600	TR-0871650	TR-0728110	Question reflects holding and the genral rule of law applied in case; question does not reference "the other in streets," as does the headnote.

ID	Question	Headnote	Case Opinion	Question to Headnote Rank	Headnote to Case Opinion Rank	Question Bates #	Headnote Bates #	Case Opinion Bates #	Arguments for Why Juror Could Conclude that Question Was Not Taken from Headnote
5872	when a party fails to timely respond to the request for admissions and the admissions become facts of record by operation of law, is it within the trial court's discretion whether it will allow the withdrawal of admissions?	When a party fails to timely respond to the request for admissions and the admissions become facts of record by operation of law, it is within the trial court's discretion whether it will allow the withdrawal of admissions. Rules Civ.Proc., Rule 36.	Pursuant to OCGA § 9-11-36(a) (2), the matters in the requests for admissions were admitted by operation of law when [Neal] failed to answer the requests within 30 days of service. The trial court had the discretion to permit withdrawal of the admissions if the two-prong test of OCGA § 9-11-36(b) was satisfied. Those two prongs are (1) that withdrawal of the admissions will subserve or advance the presentation of the merits of the action and (2) that there is no satisfactory showing that withdrawal will prejudice the party who obtained the admissions.	1	3	ROSS-003290640	TR-0831596	TR-0668330	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not include a citation to "Rules Civ.Proc., Rule 36," as does the headnote.
5914	is voluntary dismissal taken without a court order, unless otherwise stated, without prejudice and may be refiled within one year of dismissal?	Voluntary dismissal taken without court order, unless otherwise stated, is without prejudice and may be refiled within one year of dismissal. Rules Civ.Proc., Rule 41(a)(1), G.S. § 1A-1.	1. governs voluntary dismissals and states such dismissals are without prejudice "[u]nless otherwise stated in the notice or order of dismissal." Neither Osuna's motion nor the court's order stated the dismissal was with prejudice. "Generally, an order granting a voluntary dismissal without prejudice to its being refiled is not an appealable, final judgment." Grand v.	1	3	ROSS-003290725	TR-0761846	TR-0813427	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not include a citation to "Rules Civ.Proc., Rule 41(a)(1), G.S. § 1A-1," as does the headnote.
5947	are trial court scheduling orders, as any other order of court, enforceable?	Trial court scheduling orders, as any other order of court, are enforceable.	The trial court has the authority to set discovery scheduling orders with deadlines and to enforce its deadlines.	1	3	ROSS-003290793	TR-0865580	TR-0771755	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case.
5970	does prejudice from withdrawal of admission obtained by request for admissions mean that a party who has obtained admission will lose benefit of it?	"Prejudice" from withdrawal of admission obtained by request for admissions does not mean that party who has obtained admission will lose benefit of it; rather, it means that party has suffered detriment in preparation of case. Trial Procedure Rule 36(B).	In this context, "prejudice" does not mean that the party who has obtained the admissions will lose the benefit of the admissions; rather, it means that the party has suffered a detriment in the preparation of his case.	1	3	ROSS-003290839	TR-0703369	TR-0703369	Question reflects holding and the genral rule of law applied in case; question does not reference "party has suffered detriment in preparation of case," nor does it include a citation to "Trial Procedure Rule 36(B)," as does the headnote. The question and headnote are substantively different.
5998	what are the factors a trial judge considers before granting a discretionary continuance on motion of a litigant seeking continuance to employ another attorney?	Among the factors a trial judge considers before granting a discretionary continuance on motion of a litigant seeking continuance to employ another attorney are diligence, good faith and reasonable grounds. LSA-C.C.P. art. 1602.	[1] [2] ¶ 11] Deloge contends that the trial court erred in denying his motion for a continuance. We disagree. "A party seeking a continuance has the burden of showing sufficient grounds for granting the motion, and the ruling of the presiding justice is reviewable only for abuse of discretion." Champagne v.	1	4	ROSS-003290894	TR-0683881	TR-0537547	Question reflects holding and the genral rule of law applied in case; question does not reference "diligence, good faith and reasonable grounds," nor does it include a citation to "LSA-C.C.P. art. 1602," as does the headnote.
6001	under bribery sections of statute, what heightened criminal intent is required to prove a case of bribery?	Under bribery sections of statute, heightened criminal intent, i. e., "corrupt" intent, was required, as opposed to simple mens rea required for violation of the gratuity sections of the statute. 18 U.S.C.A. § 201(c)(3).	It is this element of quid pro quo that distinguishes the heightened criminal intent requisite under the bribery sections of the statute from the simple mens rea required for violation of the gratuity sections.	2	3	ROSS-003290900	TR-0646460	TR-0646460	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not include a citation to "18 U.S.C.A. § 201(c)(3)," as does the headnote.

ID	Question	Headnote	Case Opinion	Question to Headnote Rank	Headnote to Case Opinion Rank	Question Bates #	Headnote Bates #	Case Opinion Bates #	Arguments for Why Juror Could Conclude that Question Was Not Taken from Headnote
6003	where the statute prohibiting bribery by a public officer or public employee is unclear, which side should it be construed in favor of?	As criminal statute, law prohibiting bribery by public officer or public employee, had to be construed in favor of defendant and against state. M.S.A. §§ 609.42, subd. 1(2), 609.415.	In the present case, we are interpreting a criminal statute, and "[c]riminal statutes are strictly construed in favor of the defendant and against the government." State v.	2	4	ROSS-003290905	TR-0724394	TR-0712855	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not include a citation to "M.S.A. §§ 609.42, subd. 1(2), 609.415," as does the headnote.
6013	does a court have broad discretion to determine amount of a reasonable attorney fee on motion for costs of proof?	A trial court has broad discretion to determine amount of a reasonable attorney fee on motion for costs of proof. West's Ann.Cal. C.C.P. § 2033, subd. o.	So I'm going to sustain the objection." [22] [23] "The trial court has wide discretion to determine the relevancy of evidence and [e]very reasonable presumption should be made in favor of the correctness of the court's ruling in determining whether there has been an abuse of discretion." (Internal quotation marks omitted.) State v.	1	3	ROSS-003290927	TR-0838526	TR-0839541	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not include a citation to "West's Ann.Cal. C.C.P. § 2033, subd. o," as does the headnote.
6031	for the purposes of the hobbs act, does the fear connected with threats of economic loss need to be the product of the defendant's actions?	For purposes of Hobbs Act, fear connected with threats of economic loss need not be the product of defendant's actions. 18 U.S.C.A. § 1951.	Under the "fear of economic harm" theory, the defendant receives payment from the victim because the victim believes that the defendant can exercise his or her power to the victim's economic detriment. "The fear need not be the product of the defendant's actions. 'It is enough if the fear exists and the defendant intentionally exploits it.' " Id.	1	4	ROSS-003290965	TR-0635437	TR-0640069	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not include a citation to "18 U.S.C.A. § 1951," as does the headnote.
6040	does an amendment of declaration at trial to make it correspond to proof not require continuance?	Amendment of declaration at trial to make it correspond to proof does not require continuance, except on showing of necessity to enable defendant to make defense (Code, c. 131, § 8).	463, this court said: "A declaration may be amended at the trial of an action, to make the allegation correspond to the proof offered, if substantial justice will be thereby promoted, and such amendment does not entitle the defendant to a continuance, unless he shows to the satisfaction of the court that a continuance is necessary to enable him to make his defense." Nothing appears in this case which would satisfy the trial court that a continuance was necessary for a complete defense.	2	4	ROSS-003290985	TR-0823610	TR-0823610	Question reflects holding and the genral rule of law applied in case; question does not reference "showing of necessity," nor does it include a citation to "(Code, c. 131, § 8)," as does the headnote.
6088	in determining a motion to extend time for filing a pleading, is it a prerequisite that a responding party demonstrate good cause to obtain relief granted?	In determining motion to extend time for filing pleading, it is prerequisite that responding party demonstrate good cause to obtain relief granted and absence of prejudice to opposing party is immaterial. Sup.Ct.Rules, Rules 183, 216(c).	"A trial court's decision to grant or deny a motion to continue a trial date is reviewed for an abuse of discretion, and there is a strong presumption the trial court properly exercised its discretion." Id. "A denial of a motion for continuance is [considered to be an] abuse of discretion only if the movant demonstrates good cause for granting it." Id. "However, no abuse of discretion will be found when the moving party has not demonstrated that he or she was prejudiced by the denial." Riffin v.	1	4	ROSS-003291090	TR-0828196	TR-0767270	Question reflects holding and the genral rule of law applied in case; question does not reference "absence of prejudice to opposing party," nor does it include a citation to "Sup.Ct.Rules, Rules 183, 216(c)," as does the headnote.

ID	Question	Headnote	Case Opinion	Question to Headnote Rank	Headnote to Case Opinion Rank	Question Bates #	Headnote Bates #	Case Opinion Bates #	Arguments for Why Juror Could Conclude that Question Was Not Taken from Headnote
6130	did the trial court abuse its discretion in denying motion for continuance to plaintiffs who alleged that they were unable to complete discovery prior to hearing on motion for summary judgment although they had sufficient time to propound discovery?	Trial court did not abuse its discretion in denying motion for continuance to plaintiffs who alleged that they were unable to complete discovery prior to hearing on motion for summary judgment; although hearing was continued previously at plaintiffs' request, they did not propound any discovery until five days before continued hearing, and they had nine months to propound discovery. LSA-C.C.P. arts. 1601, 1603.	§ 35-1-26-1 states: "The defendant shall file such affidavit for continuance at least five [5] days before the date set for trial or shall sustain the burden of establishing to the satisfaction of the court, that the defendant is not at fault for failing to file such affidavit for continuance at an earlier date." We feel that the trial court did not abuse its discretion in denying the motion for continuance. Defendant has failed to show why he was unable with due diligence to obtain the psychiatric evaluation in the four months since his arrest, the three months since filing notice of an insanity defense, or the six weeks since the appearance of new counsel. In addition, the record shows that Dr. Brogno testified about defendant's sanity and was ably questioned by counsel.	2	4	ROSS-003291180	TR-0620534	TR-0785814	Question reflects holding and the genral rule of law applied in case; question does not reference "propund[ing] any discovery until five days before continued hearing," nor does it include a citation to "LSA-C.C.P. arts. 1601, 1603," as does the headnote.
6155	does the court have a right to determine whether legislator's presence is necessary to a fair and proper trial and filing of application for continuance, if any party or attorney is a member of general assembly?	Under statute authorizing continuance where any party or his attorney is a member of general assembly, trial court has right to determine whether legislator's presence is necessary to a fair and proper trial and filing of application for continuance under statute does not instantly divest trial court of jurisdiction. V.A.M.S. § 510.120.	Such a construction takes away all the judicial function of the court in making continuances applied for under this section.' [1] We make reference to the Kyger case to show that when an application for a continuance is filed under Sec. 96, the trial court has the right to determine whether the legislator's presence is necessary to a fair and proper trial. In other words, the filing of such application in proper form does not instanter divest the trial court of jurisdiction and thus prohibit any further proceedings therein 'until the adjournment or recess for twenty days or more of the general assembly (and) ten days thereafter' regardless of the necessity of the legislator's presence to a fair trial and in the present case, regardless of the fact that the legislator attorney was given reasonable opportunity to be present and was actually present and participated in the further proceedings after the application was filed.	2	3	ROSS-003291232	TR-0614604	TR-0614604	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not include a citation to "V.A.M.S. § 510.120," as does the headnote.

ID	Question	Headnote	Case Opinion	Question to Headnote Rank	Headnote to Case Opinion Rank	Question Bates #	Headnote Bates #	Case Opinion Bates #	Arguments for Why Juror Could Conclude that Question Was Not Taken from Headnote
6166	would the court abuse its discretion in failing to grant fourth continuance orally requested by defense counsel on the date of separation trial?	Trial court did not abuse its discretion in failing to grant fourth continuance orally requested by defense counsel on the date of separation trial, where defense counsel simply informed the court that he had instructed his client, who had been subpoenaed, not to appear for trial if he was not in better condition than he had been on the previous day, and that, on the day before trial, upon interviewing his client, he had found him to be in an irrational state.	In the interim, the defendant was voluntarily *584 committed for psychiatric treatment at the V.A. Hospital. On the day of the trial, counsel for the defendant arrived late and then informed the court that he had instructed his client, who had been subpoenaed, not to appear for trial, if he was not in better condition than he had been on the previous day. The day before trial, counsel had interviewed his client and had found the defendant to be in an irrational state. No written motion for a continuance was filed. The trial court allowed plaintiff to put on her case in chief and granted judgment.	2	3	ROSS-003291254	TR-0879523	TR-0879523	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not reference "defense counsel simply informed the court that he had instructed his client, who had been subpoenaed, not to appear for trial if he was not in better condition than he had been on the previous day, and that, on the day before trial, upon interviewing his client, he had found him to be in an irrational state," as does the headnote.
6171	following a determination of liability for punitive damages, once the court orders defendant to produce evidence of financial condition, is there no justification for not specifically following that order?	Following a determination of liability for punitive damages, once the court orders defendant to produce evidence of financial condition, there is no justification for not specifically following that order; if counsel has problems with the court's orders, he or she may seek a pretrial writ or argue the validity of that ruling on appeal. West's Ann.Cal.Civ.Code § 3295(c).	As to the first reason, it may not be a defendant's burden to prove its net worth, but if it is ordered to produce that evidence it is under an obligation to do so. (Civ.Code, § 3295, subd. (c).) Once the court makes the order there is no justification for not specifically following that order. (See *244 People v. Glass (1975) 44 Cal.App.3d 772, 781-782, 118 Cal.Rptr. 797.) If counsel has problems with the court's orders, he or she may seek a pretrial writ or argue the validity of that ruling on appeal.	1	3	ROSS-003291266	TR-0727973	TR-0727973	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not include a citation to "West's Ann.Cal.Civ.Code § 3295(c)," as does the headnote.
6225	should a court consider dismissal for lack of jurisdiction or insufficient process, when a motion to dismiss raises a defense of failure to state a claim and any combination of lack of jurisdiction?	When a motion to dismiss alleged both lack of subject matter jurisdiction and failure to state a claim, the court should consider dismissal for lack of subject matter jurisdiction first and should then consider the failure to state a claim only if it determines that it has subject matter jurisdiction; similarly, when a motion to dismiss raises failure to state a claim and any combination of lack of jurisdiction over the person, insufficient process, and insufficient service, the court should consider the latter issues first and then consider dismissal for failure to state a claim only if it determines that it has personal jurisdiction and that process and service of process were sufficient. Neb. Sup. Ct. § 6-1112(b).	State ex rel. Jones v. Suster (1998), 84 Ohio St.3d 70, 75, 701 N.E.2d 1002. A motion to dismiss for lack of subject matter jurisdiction is made pursuant to Civ.R. 12(B)(1), and "[t]he standard of review for a dismissal pursuant to Civ.R. 12(B)(1) is whether any cause of action cognizable by the forum has been raised in the complaint." State ex rel. Bush v. Spurllock (1989), 42 Ohio St.3d 77, 80, 537 N.E.2d 641. (Citations omitted.) This court has held: [2] {¶ 20} " '[I]n determining whether the plaintiff has alleged a cause of action sufficient to withstand a Civ.R. 12(B) (1) motion to dismiss, the trial court is not confined to the allegations of the complaint and it may consider material pertinent to such inquiry without converting the motion into one for summary judgment.' " Kinder v.	2	4	ROSS-003291382	TR-0856428	TR-0651058	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not reference "insufficient servic,e" nor which issue "the court should consider the [jurisdiction, service, or process] issues first," nor does it include a citation to "Neb. Sup. Ct. § 6-1112(b)," as does the headnote. The question and headnote are substantively different.

ID	Question	Headnote	Case Opinion	Question to Headnote Rank	Headnote to Case Opinion Rank	Question Bates #	Headnote Bates #	Case Opinion Bates #	Arguments for Why Juror Could Conclude that Question Was Not Taken from Headnote
6231	is dismissal for failure to serve process within 120 days required only if reasonable cause for the delay in service is not documented?	Even without a motion to extend the time for service of process, dismissal for failure to serve process within 120 days is required only if reasonable cause for the delay in service is not documented. West's F.S.A. RCP Rule 1.070(j).	Even without a motion to extend, dismissal is required only if reasonable cause for the delay in service is not documented. Root v. Little, 721 So.2d 836, 837 (Fla. 5th DCA 1998). Rule 1.070(j) is designed to be a case management tool, not an additional statute of limitations cutting off the liability of a tortfeasor, and it is not to be imposed inflexibly when the plaintiff demonstrates diligence and good cause.	1	4	ROSS-003291396	TR-0556795	TR-0556795	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not reference "a motion to extend time for service of process," nor does it include a citation to "West's F.S.A. RCR Rule 1.070(j)," as does the headnote.
6243	is the proper procedure for a court to take upon a determination that a case has become moot, dismissal of the action?	The proper procedure for a court to take upon a determination that a case has become moot is dismissal of the action. Appeal by Plaintiff from order entered 2 November 2015 by Judge April C. Wood in Davidson County District Court. Heard in the Court of Appeals 6 September 2016.	He attached a memorandum stating that the order was made upon the grounds that the complaint failed to state a claim against defendants, or any of them, for lack of a justiciable controversy existing between the plaintiff and the defendants; and further that the complaint violated Rule 8.05, Rules of Civil Procedure, which requires that each averment of a pleading be 'simple, concise, and direct.' Thereafter, on November 30, 1965, upon plaintiff's motion the trial judge ordered that judgment of dismissal be entered nunc pro tunc, stating in the order that 'plaintiff desires that judgment be entered pursuant to said order so he can appeal therefrom.' Thus, the judgment of dismissal subsequently entered was dated October 29, 1965, the date of the order dismissing the action, although it was filed by the clerk of the district court on December 1, 1965.	2	4	ROSS-003291418	TR-0703327	TR-0665318	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case.
6263	is the requirement that sanctions for violations of pre-trial orders must be related to offensive conduct not met when the party seeking sanctions can show no prejudice due to the offending party's conduct?	The requirement that sanctions for violations of pre-trial orders must be related to offensive conduct is not met when the party seeking sanctions can show no prejudice due to the offending party's conduct. Vernon's Ann.Texas Rules Civ.Proc., Rule 166.	First, there must be a direct relationship between the offensive conduct and the sanction imposed. TransAmerican, 811 S.W.2d at 917. This requires that the sanction be directed against the abuse and toward remedying the prejudice caused the innocent party. Id. This prong is not met when the party seeking sanctions can show no prejudice due to the offending party's conduct.	1	3	ROSS-003291460	TR-0751772	TR-0595371	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not include a citation to "Vernon's Ann.Texas Rules Civ.Proc., Rule 166," as does the headnote.

ID	Question	Headnote	Case Opinion	Question to Headnote Rank	Headnote to Case Opinion Rank	Question Bates #	Headnote Bates #	Case Opinion Bates #	Arguments for Why Juror Could Conclude that Question Was Not Taken from Headnote
6278	is tax a debt created by law?	Tax is debt created by law rather than "debt created by contract."	Kendig [Wyo., 641 P.2d 1235 (1982)], but we have never deviated from our adherence to the proposition that the worker's compensation law of this state is in the nature of industrial-accident insurance." (Citation omitted.) [1] [2] When we say that worker's compensation law is based on a concept of industrial insurance, we mean that it is based on contract rather than tort principles.	2	4	ROSS-003291492	TR-0766367	TR-0790144	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not reference "debt created by contract," as does the headnote.
6354	will undue prejudice to the nonmoving party that would preclude withdrawing deemed admissions depends on whether withdrawing an admission or filing a late response delay trial or significantly hamper the opposing party's ability to prepare for it?	Undue prejudice to the nonmoving party that would preclude withdrawing deemed admissions depends on whether withdrawing an admission or filing a late response will delay trial or significantly hamper the opposing party's ability to prepare for it. Tex. R. Civ. P. 198.2(a).	"Undue prejudice depends on whether withdrawing an admission or filing a late response will *837 delay trial or significantly hamper the opposing party's ability to prepare for it." Wheeler, 157 S.W.3d at 443. Furthermore, the supreme court has explained that "presentation of the merits will suffer (1) if the requesting party cannot prepare for trial, and also (2) if the requestor can prepare but the case is decided on deemed (but perhaps untrue) facts anyway." Id.	1	3	ROSS-003291653	TR-0576448	TR-0769229	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not include a citation to "Tex. R. Civ. P. 198.2(2)," as does the headnote.
6396	will the degree to which party making denial of requested admission has attempted in good faith to reach reasonable resolution of matter involved, be an appropriate factor to be weighed in determining whether such party had no good reason for denial?	Degree to which party making denial of requested admission has attempted in good faith to reach reasonable resolution of matter involved is also appropriate factor to be weighed in determining whether such party had no good reason for denial so as to warrant imposition of expenses incurred in proving truth of requested admission on such party under § 2034(c). West's Ann.Cal.C.C.P. § 2034(c).	303.) Thus, if a party denies a request for admission (of substantial importance) in circumstances where the party lacked personal knowledge but had available sources of information and failed to make a reasonable investigation to ascertain the facts, such failure will justify an award of expenses under section 2034(c). [6] The degree to which the party making the denial has attempted in good faith to reach a reasonable resolution of the matters involved is also an appropriate factor 844 to be weighed. For example, in at least two federal cases the parties making denials of requests for admission had offered to stipulate to the matters requested under reasonable conditions, but the parties propounding the requests had refused the proffered stipulations.	1	3	ROSS-003291741	TR-0771732	TR-0771732	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not reference "imposition of expenses incurred in proving truth of requested admission," nor does it include a citation to "West's Ann.Cal.C.C.P. § 2034(c)," as does the headnote.
8237	do the power to discontinue a public road conferred by the statute authorizes closing or obstructing roads to use of which property owners have vested property rights?	Statute giving commissioners' court power to discontinue public roads does not authorize closing or obstructing roads in use of which property owners have vested property rights (Vernon's Ann.Civ.St. art. 6703).	The power conferred upon that court by article 6703 of our Revised Statutes to discontinue any public road cannot be construed as authorizing the closing or obstruction of a roadway in the use of which residents thereon have a vested property right; even the Legislature of this state has no such power.	2	3	ROSS-003295836	TR-0699319	TR-0699319	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case. When alternate language from the case opinion, identified via the Bates No. in column H of this row, is considered instead of the case opinion text that Dr. Frederiksen-Cross identified, overlap between the case opinion and question becomes more apparent. Both the question and opinion text refer to the power as "conferred" by statute whereas the headnote does not. The question also does not include a citation to "Vernon's Ann.Civ.St. art. 6703," as does the headnote. The question and headnote are substantively different.

ID	Question	Headnote	Case Opinion	Question to Headnote Rank	Headnote to Case Opinion Rank	Question Bates #	Headnote Bates #	Case Opinion Bates #	Arguments for Why Juror Could Conclude that Question Was Not Taken from Headnote
8399	does the commissioners' court have the authority to discontinue a road?	Commissioners' court had authority to discontinue county road. Vernon's Ann.Civ.St. art. 6705.	[2] [3] In establishing public roads, the county can act only through the Commissioners' Court, the individual Commissioners having no authority to bind the county by their separate actions.	2	3	ROSS-003296167	TR-0674228	TR-0674228	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case.
9060	does a statute subrogating a surety who has paid the debt of his principal to the rights of the creditor impose obligation on principal to indemnify the surety for amounts paid to the creditor?	Statute subrogating surety who has paid debt of his principal to rights of the creditor does not impose obligation on principal to indemnify surety for amounts paid creditor. West's Ga.Code Ann. § 10-7-56.	*100 Respondents misconstrue the law of subrogation. [5] The doctrine of subrogation is an equitable one, and it is recognized that the payment of an obligation by a surety entitles him to stand in the place of the creditor and be substituted to all of the rights of the creditor against the principal.	1	4	ROSS-003297577	TR-0537757	TR-0567948	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not include a citation to "West's Ga.Code Ann. § 10-7-56," as does the headnote.
10015	will a motion for dismissal be barred by affirmative matter avoiding the legal effect of or defeating the claim admit the legal sufficiency of the complaint?	A motion for involuntary dismissal based upon a bar by affirmative matter avoiding the legal effect of or defeating the claim admits the legal sufficiency of the complaint. S.H.A. 735 ILCS 5/2-619(a)(9).	[1] [2] MacNeal Hospital's amended counterclaim was dismissed pursuant to 2-619(a)(5) of the Code, which allows for involuntary dismissal when "the action was not commenced within the time limited by law." 735 ILCS 5/2-619(a)(5) (West 2002). A section 2-619 motion to dismiss admits the legal sufficiency of the complaint and raises defects, defenses, or other affirmative matters that defeat the claim.	1	3	ROSS-003299681	TR-0701134	TR-0625372	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not include a citation to "S.H.A. 735 ILCS 5/2-619(a)(9)," as does the headnote.
10076	is the purpose of pretrial procedure to clarify and simplify issues to be tried, and does the resulting pretrial order control subsequent course of action?	Purpose of pretrial procedure is to clarify and simplify issues to be tried and resulting pretrial order controls subsequent course of action. Rules Civ.Proc., Rule 16.	Consistent with this general rule is Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 16(e), which provides that a pretrial order controls "the subsequent course of the action unless modified by a subsequent order." Rule 16's purpose, however, is "to avoid surprise, not foment it." Wilson v.	1	3	ROSS-003299810	TR-0605976	TR-0828890	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not include a citation to "Rules Civ.Proc., Rule 16," as does the headnote.
10140	to warrant continuance because of the absence of a witness, must a movant show that testimony of an absent witness would be more than cumulative?	To warrant continuance because of absence of witness movant must show that testimony of absent witness would be more than cumulative.	[17] [18] [19] There is no question but that the granting of a continuance is discretionary with the trial court, and also that the movant must show that the testimony of the absent witness would be more than cumulative. Knowles v. Blue, 209 Ala. 27, 95 So. 481; Pate Lumber Company v. Davis, 215 Ala. 547, 112 So. 124. The refusing of a continuance because of an absent witness, where it is not shown what the witness would say if present, is not an abuse of the court's discretion. Authorities, supra. Appellants', Elliott and Ikner, assignment of error No. 8 contends that the court erred in allowing the witness Watts to testify as to the speed of the Ikner vehicle when he did not have the opportunity to form such an opinion. As to this assignment of error, the same may be said as was said about assignment of error No. 8 of the appellant, Mobile Cab and Baggage Company. It is without merit. Supreme Court Rule 45.	1	3	ROSS-003299945	TR-0626808	TR-0626808	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case.
11270	should the federal funds be directly affected by local official's acceptance of bribe in order to constitute violation of federal programs bribery statute?	Federal funds need not be directly affected by local official's acceptance of bribe in order for acceptance to constitute violation of federal programs bribery statute. 18 U.S.C.A. § 666(a)(1)(B).	Brumley, we held that, in order to convict for the federal crime of depriving a state of the honest services of one of its officials, "a federal prosecutor must prove that conduct of a state official breached a duty respecting the provision of services owed to the official's employer under state law." 116 F.3d 728, 734 (5th Cir.1997) (en banc). However, we were careful to note that, in order to constitute a federal crime, the state statute must concern "something close to bribery" and that "the mere violation of a gratuity statute ... will not suffice." Id.	1	4	ROSS-003302361	TR-0640952	TR-0648095	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not include a citation to "18 U.S.C.A. § 666(a)(1)(B)," as does the headnote.

ID	Question	Headnote	Case Opinion	Question to Headnote Rank	Headnote to Case Opinion Rank	Question Bates #	Headnote Bates #	Case Opinion Bates #	Arguments for Why Juror Could Conclude that Question Was Not Taken from Headnote
11394	is an attempt to commit suicide a crime?	Bill of indictment which charged that defendant attempted to commit suicide stated a crime. G.S. § 14-3.	*42 [26] [27] [28] [29] [30] We now turn to the relevant legal principles and our standard of review for claims that the court improperly admitted uncharged misconduct evidence. "Evidence of a defendant's uncharged misconduct is inadmissible to prove that the defendant committed the charged crime or to show the predisposition of the defendant to commit the charged crime. ... Exceptions to this rule have been recognized, however, to render misconduct evidence admissible if, for example, the evidence is offered to prove intent, identity, malice, motive, a system of criminal activity or the elements of a crime.	2	4	ROSS-003302631	TR-0724205	TR-0712508	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not include a citation to "G.S. § 14-3," as does the headnote.
11594	can a party withdraw admission without a motion to amend admission?	Party may not withdraw admission without motion to amend admission. West's F.S.A. RCP Rule 1.370.	§ 1A-1, Rule 36(a), matters as to which admission is requested are deemed admitted unless the party to whom the request is directed serves a written response within the time permitted by the rule. The trial court has discretion to allow a withdrawal of an admission upon a party's motion.	2	4	ROSS-003303052	TR-0761288	TR-0843381	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not include a citation to "West's F.S.A. RCP Rule 1.370," as does the headnote.
12250	can the offense of bribery be committed by anyone other than one who is an officer of the united states or who is acting for or on behalf of the united states in any official capacity?	The offense of asking, accepting and receiving money with intent thereby to influence official action can only be committed by one who is an officer of the United States or who is acting for or on behalf of the United States in any official capacity, the givers of bribes being punishable under a different section of the Criminal Code. Cr.Code, §§ 39, 117, 18 U.S.C.A. §§ 201, 202.	The phrases 'officer or employee' and 'person acting for or on behalf of the United States * * * in any official function' must be read in the disjunctive. See Nordgren v. United States, 9 Cir., 181 F.2d 718, 720. The phrase 'in any official function,' therefore, modifies only the word 'person' and not 'officer or employee.' [2] [3] It is well established that for an offense to be made out under Sec. 201, a person acting for the United States must be doing so in his official capacity.	2	4	ROSS-003304404	TR-0634595	TR-0591838	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not include a citation to "Cr.Code, §§ 39, 117, 18 U.S.C.A. §§ 201, 202," as does the headnote.
13014	does unauthorized entry itself constitute the prohibited purpose necessary to sustain a conviction under section 1382?	Unauthorized entry itself can constitute prohibited purpose necessary to sustain conviction under statute proscribing entry upon naval reservation for purpose prohibited by law. 18 U.S.C.A. § 1382.	[2] We accept Maxwell's premise: "purpose" is indeed an element of a section 1382 offense. But the case law is consentient that an unauthorized entry itself can constitute the prohibited purpose necessary to sustain a conviction under section 1382. See Parrilla Bonilla, 648 F.2d at 1377; United States v. Mowat, 582 F.2d 1194, 1203-04 (9th Cir.1978); United States v. Floyd, 477 F.2d 217, 225 (10th Cir.1973); see also Sharpton, 252 F.3d at 538-39 (accepting rule sub silentio).	2	4	ROSS-003306216	TR-0641813	TR-0641813	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not reference "proscribing entry upon naval reserervation for purpose prohibited by law," nor does it include a citation to "18 U.S.C.A. § 1382," as does the headnote.

ID	Question	Headnote	Case Opinion	Question to Headnote Rank	Headnote to Case Opinion Rank	Question Bates #	Headnote Bates #	Case Opinion Bates #	Arguments for Why Juror Could Conclude that Question Was Not Taken from Headnote
14062	is non-record activity consisting of efforts to serve one defendant not sufficient to require a trial court to reinstate action after dismissal for failure to prosecute?	Nonrecord activity consisting of efforts to serve one defendant was not sufficient to require trial court to reinstate action after dismissal for failure to prosecute. West's F.S.A. RCP Rule 1.420(e).	There is no indication that compliance with § 52-46a is a prerequisite in order for an action to be considered "brought." Rather, once an action has been brought by service of process on the defendant, a trial court may thereafter dismiss the action for failure to return the 952 service of process within the mandated time period.	1	4	ROSS-003308529	TR-0575800	TR-0540802	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not include a citation to "West's F.S.A. RCP Rule 1.420(e)," as does the headnote.
14067	can the public element of an offense be satisfied only if members of the public are likely to be affected?	"Public" element of offense of disorderly conduct may be satisfied if disturbance takes place in a more secluded environment than, for example, on public street or by side of highway, but only if members of the public are likely to be affected. M.G.L.A. c. 272, § 53.	963, 963-964, 650 N.E.2d 360 (1995); or by the side of a highway, see Commonwealth v. Bosk, 29 Mass.App.Ct. 904, 906-907, 556 N.E.2d 1055 (1990). It also may be satisfied where the disturbance takes place in a more secluded environment, but only if members of the public are likely to be affected.	2	3	ROSS-003308538	TR-0697806	TR-0697806	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not reference "disorderly conduct," "a more secluded environment," nor does it include a citation to "M.G.L.A. c. 272, § 53," as does the headnote. The question and headnote are substantively different.
14778	can an assignment of a note be written on a separate instrument?	Assignment of negotiable instrument payable to order may be written on separate instrument. Comp.St.1929, § 62-301.	[8] However, it is well settled that a negotiable instrument payable to order may be transferred by the payee or holder without indorsement, though in such case the transferee takes only the title and right of the one so transferring it, and does not become the holder in due course, but has only the equitable instead of the legal title.	2	3	ROSS-003309998	TR-0533404	TR-0770949	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not include a citation to "Comp.St.1929, § 62-301," as does the headnote.
16121	is the plain language of a provision of fcpa, prohibiting "payments to foreign officials to obtain or retain business" ambiguous?	Plain language of provision of Foreign Corrupt Practices Act (FCPA), prohibiting payments to foreign officials to obtain or retain business was ambiguous, as to what constituted payments to obtain or retain business. Securities Exchange Act of 1934, § 30A(a), as amended, 15 U.S.C.A. § 78dd-1(a); Foreign Corrupt Practices Act of 1977, § 104(a), 15 U.S.C.A. § 78dd-2(a).	Foreign Corrupt Practices Act [1] The FCPA makes it illegal for an individual or company in the United States to make illicit payments to a foreign official to cause that foreign official to assist in obtaining or retaining business for the payor. See 15 U.S.C. § 78dd-2(a). Congress enacted the FCPA in 1977 to criminalize bribery of foreign officials by domestic corporations.	2	4	ROSS-003312907	TR-0639986	TR-0637793	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not include a citation to "Securities Exchange Act of 1934, § 30A(a), as amended, 15 U.S.C.A. § 78dd-1(a); Foreign Corrupt Practices Act of 1977, § 104(a), 15 U.S.C.A. § 78dd-2(a).," as does the headnote.
17007	does the court have jurisdiction to make proper order to compel a party to produce books and records, to end that adverse party might get information therefrom?	Court has jurisdiction to make proper order to compel party to produce books and records, to end that adverse party might get information therefrom.	[14] The court, having no jurisdiction of the corporation, may not compel its officers to produce for inspection its books and papers or make discovery of its affairs.	1	4	ROSS-003314793	TR-0564524	TR-0666879	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case.
17203	would it be an abuse of discretion for the order setting case for trial on a day that gives the defendant ample time to prepare to defend negligence action, rather than granting continuance?	Order setting case for trial on a day certain, which gave defendant ample time to be prepared to defend negligence action, rather than granting continuance to enable defendant to obtain another lawyer, was not an abuse of discretion where defendant had received four previous adjournments. GCR 1963, 503, 503.1.	Therefore, the trial judge did not abuse his discretion in denying appellants' motions for change of venue. Appellants' next contention is that the trial court abused its discretion in proceeding ex parte and dismissing the negligence action against the receiver. Appellants argue that a continuance should have *632 been granted because their counsel was before another court at the time.	2	4	ROSS-003315211	TR-0626348	TR-0577743	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not reference "granting continuance to enable defendant to obtain another lawyer," nor does it include a citation "GCR 1963, 503, 503.1," as does the headnote.
17508	does the mere fact that public official's conduct before board was not authorized by statute, regulation or established usage preclude conviction for offering or promising bribe to such official?	Mere fact that public official's conduct before board was not authorized by statute, regulation or established usage did not preclude conviction for offering or promising bribe to such official. M.G.L.A. c. 268 § 7.	Household, Barber, and Pratt urge that there was no evidence on which the jury could find that the bribe was designed to influence Hanley's conduct in his official capacity (see G.L. c. 268, s 7), since his actions before the Rate Board were not authorized by statute, regulation or established usage.	1	4	ROSS-003315856	TR-0710234	TR-0710234	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not include a citation to "M.G.L.A. c. 268 § 7," as does the headnote. The question and headnote are substantively different.

ID	Question	Headnote	Case Opinion	Question to Headnote Rank	Headnote to Case Opinion Rank	Question Bates #	Headnote Bates #	Case Opinion Bates #	Arguments for Why Juror Could Conclude that Question Was Not Taken from Headnote
17543	does the statute prohibiting theft involving federal funds extend to both bribes and gratuities?	The statute that prohibits theft involving federal funds extends to both bribes and gratuities. 18 U.S.C.A. § 666.	To the extent that the statute prohibits acts of bribery, the prohibition "draws content ... from federal statutes proscribing-and defining-similar crimes," including the general federal bribery statute, 18 U.S.C. § 201(b), and the statute prohibiting theft and bribery involving federal funds, 18 U.S.C. § 666(a)(2).	1	3	ROSS-003315928	TR-0632888	TR-0641939	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not include a citation to "M.G.L.A. c. 268 § 7," as does the headnote. The question and headnote are substantively different.
17891	will the court abuse its discretion in failing to grant plaintiff a second continuance prior to ruling on summary judgment motion brought by adverse party?	Trial court did not abuse its discretion in failing to grant plaintiff a second continuance prior to ruling on summary judgment motion brought by adverse party.	Bankston obtained no order staying the proceedings, and it is clear from the record that she was aware of the date on which the trial was set to occur. Therefore, the trial court did not abuse its discretion in permitting this matter to go to trial. [8] "A judgment dismissing an action shall be rendered upon application of any party, when the plaintiff fails to appear on the day set for trial.	1	4	ROSS-003316648	TR-0850906	TR-0661605	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case.
18022	in a possessory action to recover rented premises, are the rights of the parties and condition of plaintiff's claim to be tested?	In a possessory action to recover rented premises, rights of the parties and condition of plaintiff's claim are to be tested by the facts as they existed on the date the suit was filed.	[4] [5] [6] [7] 3. Even more serious is the claim that the suit was prematurely filed. The suit, as we have seen, was based on the claim that the owner required possession for the purpose of demolishing the house and erecting a new building on the lot, this being one of the excepted grounds on which a landlord is permitted to claim possession under the Rent Act. It is set forth as follows in the Act: 3 3 Code 1940, Supp. V, § 45-1605(b)(4). 'No action or proceeding to recover possession of housing accommodations shall be maintainable by any landlord against any tenant * * * unless * * *' (4) The landlord seeks in good faith to recover possession for the immediate purpose of substantially altering, remodeling, or demolishing the property and replacing it with new construction, the plans for which altered, remodeled, or new construction having been filed with and approved by the Commissioners of the District of Columbia * * *.' (Emphasis supplied.) The evidence revealed that the construction plans had not been approved by the District of Columbia Commissioners at the time the suit was filed, and that notice of such approval was not given to plaintiff until almost two months later, on	1	3	ROSS-003316926	TR-0878148	TR-0732417	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not reference "facts as they existed on the date the suit was filed," as does the headnote.

ID	Question	Headnote	Case Opinion	Question to Headnote Rank	Headnote to Case Opinion Rank	Question Bates #	Headnote Bates #	Case Opinion Bates #	Arguments for Why Juror Could Conclude that Question Was Not Taken from Headnote
18054	will attorney fees be warranted as discovery sanction in employee's action against employer if an employer fails to make certain admissions when requested?	Attorney fees were warranted as discovery sanction in employee's action against employer for misappropriation of company funds, unpaid wages, and failure to repay a loan, where employer's failure to make certain admissions when requested led to substantial additional and unnecessary litigation costs. CR 37(c).	Whether the circuit court abused its discretion when it awarded Edward's motion for attorney's fees. [¶ 16.] Leonard contests the award of attorney fees to Edward. The circuit court determined that Leonard's failure to admit to the requested matters during pre-trial discovery was indefensible under SDCL 15-6-37(c) and caused Edward to incur additional, unnecessary expenses in providing proof.	2	4	ROSS-003316992	TR-0847054	TR-0817002	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not reference "misappropriation of company funds," nor "unnecessary litigation costs," nor does it include a citation to "CR 37(c)" as does the headnote.
18266	does timely filing of a stop payment order by the drawer extinguish his liability to payee?	In absence of consideration passing from payee to drawer of check to support drawer's liability on the check, timely filing of stop payment order by drawer operated to extinguish any liability of drawer to payee.	Further, the parties agree that the mere drafting of a check by a drawer does not constitute an assignment of the funds designated. Therefore, the timely filing of a stop payment order here, without more, would operate to extinguish any liability of Bates to Falco.	2	4	ROSS-003317444	TR-0687184	TR-0687184	The memo question could have been drafted solely from the judicial opinion because its language is taken from the last sentence of the judicial opinion identified.
18278	does a charge of bribery require an official to complete a corrupt exchange for an offer of something of value with the intent to influence an official act?	The official is not required to agree to or actually complete a corrupt exchange for an offer of something of value with the intent to influence an official act to amount to honest-services fraud by bribery. 18 U.S.C.A. § 1346.	The bribery-and-kickback theory of honest services fraud requires "a quid pro quo, that is, a specific intent to give or receive something of value in exchange for an official act." United States v. Wright, 665 F.3d 560, 567-68 (3d Cir.2012) (internal quotation marks and citations omitted). Thus, while the evidence of nondisclosure by itself may not constitute honest services fraud based on a conflict-of-interest theory under Skilling, we believe that where there is also evidence of bribery or kickbacks, as there was before the District Court, then the evidence may be relevant to proof of a scheme to defraud under a bribery-and-kickback theory of honest services fraud.	2	4	ROSS-003317467	TR-0644810	TR-0635223	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not reference "honest-services fraud by bribery" nor does it include a citation to "18 U.S.C.A. § 1346," as does the headnote.
18279	do bona fide salaries, wages, fees, and other compensation either received by or promised by defendants fall within scope of exception excluding such amounts from consideration with regard to bribery statute's three valuation elements?	Bona fide salaries, wages, fees, and other compensation either received by or promised by defendants fall within scope of exception excluding such amounts from consideration with regard to bribery statute's three valuation elements. 18 U.S.C.A. § 666.	Instead, broad language referring to the entire body of the law was used in describing the scope of the exception. As a result, bona fidesalaries, wages, fees, and other compensation either received by or promised by § 666 defendants fall within the scope of the subsection (c) exception. [5] In analyzing § 666's applicability to the alleged misdeeds of the defendants, the district court concluded that the Shelby County government received federal benefits in a one-year period that exceeded the statutory base of $10,000.	1	3	ROSS-003317470	TR-0642498	TR-0642498	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case.
18360	does an action seeking specific performance of a contract for purchase and sale directly related to land cause the relief to be in rem?	For purpose of determining whether county in which purchaser of real property filed suit against vendors was county of preferred venue, action seeking specific performance of contract for purchase and sale directly related to land within meaning of venue rules; action placed ownership of land at issue, and potential for conveyance caused relief to be in rem. Trial Procedure Rule 75(A)(2).	However, this action does not concern merely a question of debt. Rather, the complaint includes a claim for specific performance, which directly "relates" to the land because ownership of the land is at issue. If the appellee prevails on its claim, the land would be conveyed to the proper party. This potential for conveyance causes the relief to be in rem. 1 The appellee wants the property, not merely monetary damages.	2	4	ROSS-003317646	TR-0879955	TR-0879955	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not reference "action placed ownership of land at issue," or the "potential for conveyance caused relief to be in rem;" question does not include a citation "Trial Procedure Rule 75(A)(2)." The question and headnote are substantively different.

ID	Question	Headnote	Case Opinion	Question to Headnote Rank	Headnote to Case Opinion Rank	Question Bates #	Headnote Bates #	Case Opinion Bates #	Arguments for Why Juror Could Conclude that Question Was Not Taken from Headnote
18370	does neither a trial court's failure to hold hearing on motion for voluntary dismissal without prejudice nor dismissal itself deprived opposing parties of any substantial legal right?	Neither trial court's failure to hold hearing on motion for voluntary dismissal without prejudice nor dismissal itself deprived opposing parties of any substantial legal right.	Moreover, we are unpersuaded that the trial court's failure to hold a hearing on the motion to dismiss or the dismissal itself deprived Amfac or CED of a substantial legal right.	1	3	ROSS-003317666	TR-0848875	TR-0848875	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case.
18893	would the dismissal of counterclaim without prejudice be justified by counterclaimant's failure to appear at scheduling conference?	Dismissal of counterclaim without prejudice was justified by counterclaimant's failure to appear at scheduling conference and failure to oppose earlier motions to strike and dismiss counterclaim, despite counterclaimant's allegations that he never received notice; record reflected both that notice was sent to counterclaimant and that he had a history of claiming lack of notice.	The dismissal of appellant's counterclaim was based on appellant's failure to appear at the scheduling conference on October 22, 1993, and on his failure to oppose appellee's earlier motions to strike and dismiss the counterclaim. Appellant claimed that he had failed to appear at the conference because he had never received notice. The trial court found, however, that appellant had previously claimed relief from judgment on the ground of lack of service, and that appellant's failure to appear at the scheduling conference was only the most recent instance of appellant's *1111 disregard for Superior Court procedures.	2	3	ROSS-003318731	TR-0806536	TR-0806536	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not reference "failure to oppose earlier motions" nor that the "record reflected both that notice was sent to counterclaimant and that he had a history of claiming lack of notice."
18904	is permitting depositions for plaintiffs to be filed after the time fixed by the trial court for plaintiffs to take proof discretionary?	Permitting depositions for plaintiffs to be filed after time fixed by trial court for plaintiffs to take proof was discretionary.	*535 [10] It is contended by appellants that the court erred in permitting depositions for appellees to be filed because they were taken after the time fixed by the court for appellees to take proof but under the showing made that was a matter within the discretion of the court and we are not prepared to say that there was any abuse of discretion.	1	3	ROSS-003318753	TR-0618591	TR-0618591	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case.
19132	who does "specific person" within the meaning of the criminal-harassment statute, refer to?	"Specific person," within the meaning of the criminal-harassment statute, which prohibits a pattern of conduct or series of acts of a certain nature "directed at a specific person," means the victim. M.G.L.A. c. 265, § 43A(a).	[8] Section 53a-181d (a) defines the phrase "course of conduct" as requiring "two or more acts." A person violates this statute, inter alia, when he or she engages a course of conduct directed at a specific person. See General Statutes § 53a-181d (b)(1). Reading these two parts of the stalking in the second degree statute together, we conclude that the two or more acts must be directed at a specific person, in this case the plaintiff.	2	4	ROSS-003319310	TR-0648692	TR-0880568	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not include a citation to "M.G.L.A. c. 265 § 43A(a)," as does the headnote.
19276	are the rights of parties governed by the law of the jurisdiction where a note is made and delivered?	Parties' rights held governed by law of jurisdiction in which note was made and delivered.	The rule is the same for promissory notes. Their legal effect is governed by the law of the jurisdiction where they are executed and delivered.	2	3	ROSS-003319663	TR-0550611	TR-0736774	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case.
19375	when should a court consider whether an option price bears a resemblance to a fair market value of an article?	In deciding whether alleged lease permits lessee to purchase for "nominal consideration," so as to qualify as disguised security agreement under Alabama law, court must consider whether option price bears resemblance to fair market value of article; this is the real yardstick in determining whether option price is nominal or substantial.	Purchase Option Price [6] [7] [8] [9] Under the 1992 New York UCC § 1-201(37), the most significant factor that indicates a disguised security agreement, not a true lease, is where the option price to purchase the leased equipment at the end of the lease term is nominal. If the lease agreement explicitly provides that the lessee has an option to purchase the leased goods for nominal consideration (e.g., for $1), the agreement is presumed to be a disguised security agreement.	2	4	ROSS-003319913	TR-0757566	TR-0598319	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question also does not reference "nominal consideration" nor "Alabama law." The question and headnote are substantively different.

ID	Question	Headnote	Case Opinion	Question to Headnote Rank	Headnote to Case Opinion Rank	Question Bates #	Headnote Bates #	Case Opinion Bates #	Arguments for Why Juror Could Conclude that Question Was Not Taken from Headnote
19833	if a lease is a true lease, does the uniform commercial code relating to secured transactions, govern questions involving a lessor interest in property?	If lease is true lease, Article 9 of the Uniform Commercial Code (UCC), relating to secured transactions, does not govern questions involving lessor's interest in property.	Stating that security interests in motor vehicles are within the scope of Article 9 of the Uniform Commercial Code, LaSalle argues that equity principles are contemplated concerning the perfection of security interests in motor vehicles, despite the Tennessee Certificate of Title Statute. [9] "Motor vehicles are goods for the purpose of Article Nine, and therefore, the Uniform Commercial Code applies to transactions intended to create a security interest in automobiles." Keep Fresh Filters, Inc.	1	4	ROSS-003321021	TR-0800811	TR-0742721	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not reference "Article 9 of the Uniform Commercial Code (UCC)."
20142	are labels used by parties to describe their agreement helpful, but not conclusive per se?	Under South Carolina law, labels used by parties to describe their agreement are helpful, but not conclusive per se, in distinguishing lease from disguised security agreement. S.C.Code 1976, § 36-1-201(37).	South Carolina Rentals, Inc. v. Arthur, 187 B.R. 502, 504 (D.S.C.1995) ("State law determines whether or not an agreement is a true lease or a disguised security agreement under the Bankruptcy Code."); In re Architectural Millwork, 226 B.R.	2	4	ROSS-003321626	TR-0752514	TR-0752514	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case. Question also does not reference "South Carolina law" nor does it include a citation to "S.C.Code 1976, § 36-1-201(37)," as does the headnote.
20424	where only the form of the pleading is attacked, will the pleading be viewed with lenient eyes?	Where only the form of a pleading is attacked, pleading will be viewed with lenient eyes.	While this judgment and the judgment roll in the former proceeding were referred to and attacked by intervenors' pleading, they were not attached to or incorporated in the pleading. "A demurrer lies only when the defect asserted as the ground of demurrer is apparent upon the face of the pleading attacked.	1	4	ROSS-003322187	TR-0802986	TR-0615041	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case.
21029	does injury resulting in permanent total disability after the expiration of a war risk policy permit recovery?	Injury resulting in permanent total disability after expiration of war risk policy will not permit recovery thereon.	That he received the injury during his service, which, after 10 years, has now resulted in permanent and total disability, is not sufficient to permit recovery under his policy of insurance, which expired not later than October 5, 1919.	1	3	ROSS-003323444	TR-0642063	TR-0642063	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case.
21055	does a member of an electric cooperative have a private right of action against the cooperative for breach of statutory duty under the electric cooperative corporation act?	Under the Electric Cooperative Corporation Act (ECCA), a member of an electric cooperative does not have a private right of action against the cooperative for breach of statutory duty. V.T.C.A., Utilities Code §§ 161.070, 161.072.	Statutory Duties under the ECCA [13] Hackett also contends that CoServ owes and breached statutory duties to its members under utilities code sections 161.070 and 161.072. CoServ argues that the ECCA does not confer an express private right of action on Hackett, giving her no standing to sue under the ECCA.	2	4	ROSS-003323498	TR-0649030	TR-0649030	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question omits reference to the Electric Cooperative Corporation Act (ECCA) and V.T.C.A., Utilities Code §§ 161.070, 161.072.
21436	is an industry affected with public interest given the character of a public utility?	Mere fact that industry is affected with public interest and may be regulated under police power does not give such industry character of public utility.	940, which dealt directly with the dairy industry and in which the Supreme Court, states 'We may as well say at once that the dairy industry is not, in the accepted sense of the phrase, a public utility.' The Nebbia case upheld the statute regulating the dairy industry as a valid exercise of police power over an industry affected with a public interest but it does not necessarily follow that if the industry is affected with a public interest it becomes a public utility.	2	3	ROSS-003324301	TR-0635745	TR-0635745	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question varies from judicial opinion in only trivial ways.

ID	Question	Headnote	Case Opinion	Question to Headnote Rank	Headnote to Case Opinion Rank	Question Bates #	Headnote Bates #	Case Opinion Bates #	Arguments for Why Juror Could Conclude that Question Was Not Taken from Headnote
21605	is a trustee, who paid secured debt owed by a debtor's related real estate company the debtor's major secured lender under debtor's guarantee of the debt, entitled to be subrogated to the lender's rights as a secured creditor against a real estate company?	Trustee, who paid secured debt owed by debtor's related real estate company to debtor's major secured lender under debtor's guarantee of the debt, was entitled to be subrogated to the lender's rights as a secured creditor against the real estate company.	Under the doctrine of equitable subrogation, where a guarantor has only paid a portion of the debt owed to the creditor, the guarantor is not entitled to be subrogated to the rights of the creditor. See In re Robert F. Ryan, Ltd., 51 Misc.2d 565, 566, 273 N.Y.S.2d 507, 508 (1966) (guarantorwho paid partial amount of debt owed to creditor is not entitled to be subrogated to rights and remedies of creditor until the debt to the creditor is paid in full).	1	4	ROSS-003324685	TR-0760571	TR-0667860	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case.
21857	can company supplying electricity trim branches of trees interfering with wires if necessary for safety and enjoyment of franchise privileges?	Company supplying electricity may trim branches of trees interfering with wires, if necessary for safety and enjoyment of franchise privileges.	at page 607:  * *, but, even if no express authority had been obtained, the authorities hold that an electrical company which has strung wires pursuant to a legal franchise may trim overhanging branches which interfere with its wires if such removal is reasonably necessary to assure safety and the enjoyment of the privileges conferred by the franchise.	1	4	ROSS-003325248	TR-0630480	TR-0703085	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case.
22209	is judge advocate general (jag) an agency under the administrative procedure code?	Navy Judge Advocate General (JAG) was not an agency subject to Administrative Procedure Act (APA) review. 5 U.S.C.A. § 701(b)(1).	Exhaustion of Administrative Remedies: General Rule [2] [3] Judicial review of the final decision of a State agency is governed by the Administrative Procedure Act (APA), N.C. Gen. Stat. § 150B-1 et seq., which applies to "both trial and appellate court review of administrative agency decisions." N.C. Dept. of Correction v.	2	3	ROSS-003325996	TR-0813804	TR-0579598	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question omits reference to Administrative Procedure Act (APA) 5 U.S.C.A. § 701(b)(1).
22338	in an action at law, can a plaintiff recover only for claims existing at the commencement of the action?	In an action at law, plaintiff may recover only for claims existing at commencement of action, whereas in equity court renders judgment as of date of trial.	At law he could have money damages sustained up to the commencement of the action, whereas in equity the court renders judgment as of the date of trial.	2	3	ROSS-003326287	TR-0827958	TR-0827958	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case
22583	does the right to an action or to judgment or relief depend upon facts existing at the time of commencement of the action?	The right to an action or to judgment or relief depends upon facts existing at time of commencement of the action and not at subsequent time.	Furthermore, it is said that, in such an action, 'the right to judgment depends on the facts as they existed at the time of the commencement of the action and not at the time of the trial.' 22 Am.Jur.	1	3	ROSS-003326834	TR-0676473	TR-0863208	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question is largely verbatim from the judicial opinion itself.
23448	where no good cause or excusable neglect exists for failure to make timely service of process, is a trial court left to exercise its discretion as to its choice of whether to direct that service be effected within a specified time?	Where no good cause or excusable neglect exists for failure to make timely service of process, a trial court is left to exercise its discretion as to its choice of whether to direct that service be effected within a specified time, to dismiss action without prejudice, or to drop unserved defendant as a party, except where statute of limitations has run, in which case discretion should normally be exercised in favor of extending time for service of process. West's F.S.A. RCP Rule 1.070(j).	Where no good cause or excusable neglect exists, the trial court is left to exercise its discretion as to which of the three options to select, except where the statute of limitations has run. Where the statute of limitations has run, discretion should normally be exercised in favor of extending the time for service of process: If a plaintiff shows good cause or excusable neglect for failure to make timely service, the court must extend the time for service and has no discretion to do otherwise. However, if neither good cause nor excusable neglect is shown, the trial court is no longer required to dismiss without prejudice or drop the defendant as a party, but is left to exercise its discretion.	1	4	ROSS-003328690	TR-0879679	TR-0879679	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case.

ID	Question	Headnote	Case Opinion	Question to Headnote Rank	Headnote to Case Opinion Rank	Question Bates #	Headnote Bates #	Case Opinion Bates #	Arguments for Why Juror Could Conclude that Question Was Not Taken from Headnote
23453	is a trial court left to exercise its discretion as to its choice of whether to direct that service be effected within a specified time, where no good cause or excusable neglect exists for failure to make timely service of process?	Where no good cause or excusable neglect exists for failure to make timely service of process, a trial court is left to exercise its discretion as to its choice of whether to direct that service be effected within a specified time, to dismiss action without prejudice, or to drop unserved defendant as a party, except where statute of limitations has run, in which case discretion should normally be exercised in favor of extending time for service of process. West's F.S.A. RCP Rule 1.070(j).	Where no good cause or excusable neglect exists, the trial court is left to exercise its discretion as to which of the three options to select, except where the statute of limitations has run. Where the statute of limitations has run, discretion should normally be exercised in favor of extending the time for service of process: If a plaintiff shows good cause or excusable neglect for failure to make timely service, the court must extend the time for service and has no discretion to do otherwise. However, if neither good cause nor excusable neglect is shown, the trial court is no longer required to dismiss without prejudice or drop the defendant as a party, but is left to exercise its discretion.	2	4	ROSS-003328702	TR-0879679	TR-0879679	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question varies from the judicial opinion and the headnote.
23594	can the legislature ratify a grant of pension?	Legislature can ratify grant of pension where it could have authorized grant in the first place.	102, says: 'The general and established proposition is that what the Legislature could have authorized it can ratify, if it can authorize at the time of ratification'-citing numerous cases.	2	4	ROSS-003328997	TR-0866539	TR-0614789	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case.
23976	does the statute addressing failure to answer a request for admissions vest broad discretion in trial court regarding granting permission to withdraw or amend admissions?	Statute addressing failure to answer request for admissions vests broad discretion in trial court regarding granting permission to withdraw or amend admissions. West's Ga.Code Ann. § 9-11-36(b).	In fact, contesting the admissions in a motion for summary judgment satisfies the requirements of the rule. Id. [10] [11] {¶ 19} It is within the trial court's discretion whether it will permit or deny the withdrawal or amendment of admissions. 6750 BMS, L.L.C. Likewise, it is within the court's discretion whether to accept the filing of late responses to a request for admissions.	1	4	ROSS-003329799	TR-0786696	TR-0664059	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question omits reference to West's Ga.Code Ann. § 9-11-36(b).
24035	does the power to set aside continuance and reset case for trial reside in court or trial judge?	Power to set aside continuance and reset case for trial resides in court, not trial judge.	[5] The power and authority to set aside a continuance and reset the case for trial is likewise a power to be exercised by the court, and rests upon the same principles.	1	3	ROSS-003329922	TR-0629639	TR-0629639	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question is largely verbatim from the judicial opinion itself.
24158	would the court refuse to grant a continuance because of attorney's inability to attend hearing on date set was within its discretion?	Where case had record of past continuances and defendant's attorney knew at time he agreed to represent defendant that he could not defend case on day set for hearing before board of arbitrators as he would be engaged in trial of another case on that date, trial court's refusal to grant a continuance because of attorney's inability to attend hearing on date set was within its discretion.	¶ 17 It is well-established that trial courts have the discretion to rule on motions for continuances, and this ruling will only be reversed for an abuse of that discretion. Kinnear v. Dennis, 1924 OK 171, 97 Okla. 206, 223 P. 383, 384. However, when the failure of the court to grant a continuance results in the deprivation of the litigant's right to be represented by counsel who is familiar with the facts and law of his case, the court abuses its discretion. Id. at 385. In Anderson v. State, 1922 OK CR 21, 21 Okla.Crim. 193, 207 P. 977, 983, the Oklahoma Supreme Court discussed the interaction of a criminal defendant's right to counsel *577 and the trial court's discretion to grant continuances as follows:	2	4	ROSS-003330177	TR-0803188	TR-0753691	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case. When alternate language from the case opinion, identified via the Bates No. in column H of this row, is considered instead of the case opinion text that Dr. Frederiksen-Cross identified, overlap between the case opinion and question becomes more apparent. Both the question and opinion text include the phrase "grant a continuance" and the headnote does not.

ID	Question	Headnote	Case Opinion	Question to Headnote Rank	Headnote to Case Opinion Rank	Question Bates #	Headnote Bates #	Case Opinion Bates #	Arguments for Why Juror Could Conclude that Question Was Not Taken from Headnote
24435	if an action to recover contract damages is ultimately dependent upon proof of ownership rights in a mineral lease, is the proper venue the county in which the relevant land is located?	Action to recover contract damages was ultimately dependent upon proof of ownership rights in mineral lease, and thus the only proper venue was the county in which the relevant real property was located; the party seeking contract damages amended its pleading to exclude real property issues such as title and ownership, but the issue of contract damages required determination of ownership rights in the mineral lease, and the Civil Practice and Remedies Code provided that actions on real property interests could only be filed where the relevant land was located. V.T.C.A., Civil Practice & Remedies Code §§ 15.002(a), 15.004, 15.011; Vernon's Ann.Texas Rules Civ.Proc., Rule 87.	ARCO cites several cases it contends support its position that venue was mandatory in Gregg County. On first blush, the venue statute related to land would appear to apply only to recovery of real property or damages to real property. However, the Texas cases have construed this mandatory provision more broadly than to actions ultimately seeking title or to clear title to real property. [6] Madera amended its pleading in an effort to exclude any issues of title or ownership to real property; however, the underlying issue that Madera must prove to show its entitlement to damages involves proof of ownership rights in a mineral lease, which in Texas is well established as real property. Whether the recovery is called to be one for conversion, breach of contract, or other nonreal property types of recovery, the true nature of the lawsuit depends on the facts alleged in the petition, the rights asserted, and the relief sought, not on the terms used to describe the cause of action.	2	4	ROSS-003330751	TR-0799211	TR-0799211	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not include reference to "the party seeking contract damages amended its pleading to exlude real property issues" nor does it include a citation to "V.T.C.A., Civil Practice & Remedies Code §§ 15.002(a), 15.004, 15.011; Vernon's Ann.Texas Rules Civ.Proc., Rule 87," as does the headnote.
24535	did the congress intend to criminalize plea agreements that provide leniency to witnesses in exchange for their testimony?	In passing anti-gratuity statute, which prohibits giving, promising or offering of anything of value in exchange for testimony, Congress did not intend to criminalize Congressionally authorized practice of plea agreements that provide leniency to witnesses in exchange for their testimony. 18 U.S.C.A. §§ 201(c)(2, 3), 3553(e); U.S.S.G. § 5K1.1, 18 U.S.C.A.; Fed.Rules Cr.Proc.Rules 11(e), 35(b), 18 U.S.C.A.	Moreover, even without the witness's testimony, the evidence of McCurvin's guilt was overwhelming, consisting of ten hand-to-hand crack sales to an undercover FBI agent, the interception of narcotics-related conversations pursuant to court-authorized wiretaps, other recorded conversations, narcotics and drug trafficking paraphernalia seized from his residence, and the testimony of another coconspirator. c) Anti-gratuity Statute [7] McCurvin next argues that the admission of coconspirator testimony at his trial violated the so-called "anti-gratuity statute," 18 U.S.C. § 201(c)(2), because the government promised these witnesses leniency in exchange for their truthful testimony. We disagree. [8] Section 201(c)(2) provides that "[w]hoever ... directly or indirectly, gives, offers or promises anything of value to any person, for or because of the testimony under oath or affirmation given or to be given by such person as a witness upon a trial ...	2	4	ROSS-003330967	TR-0636454	TR-0646387	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question omits reference to 18 U.S.C.A. §§ 201(c)(2, 3), 3553(e); U.S.S.G. § 5K1.1, 18 U.S.C.A.; Fed.Rules Cr.Proc.Rules 11(e), 35(b), 18 U.S.C.A.
24588	is a trial court required to sua sponte inquire into whether personal injury plaintiffs want to proceed pro se after their attorney failed to appear at a calendar call?	Trial court was not required to sua sponte inquire into whether personal injury plaintiffs wanted to proceed pro se after their attorney failed to appear at calendar call.	Francone himself was absent in violation of a notice to produce which required him to appear. Counsel for plaintiffs told the court he was discharged by Francone "some 20 minutes ago." The trial court insisted that the cause proceed. A recess was declared and counsel telephoned Francone.	1	4	ROSS-003331088	TR-0789594	TR-0874527	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case.

ID	Question	Headnote	Case Opinion	Question to Headnote Rank	Headnote to Case Opinion Rank	Question Bates #	Headnote Bates #	Case Opinion Bates #	Arguments for Why Juror Could Conclude that Question Was Not Taken from Headnote
24705	does arresting officers' failure to advise accused of his rights to counsel and to remain silent render accused immune from prosecution for attempt to bribe arresting officers after arrest?	Arresting officers' failure to advise accused of his rights to counsel and to remain silent did not render accused immune from prosecution for attempt to bribe arresting officers after arrest.	A failure to give Miranda warnings, however, even in a custodial setting, would not prevent a prosecution for an attempt to bribe a law enforcement officer made subsequent to the arrest.	1	4	ROSS-003331334	TR-0643716	TR-0637775	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case.

EXHIBIT F

Krein Row	Case Name	HN No. in Case	Headnote Text	Judicial Text	Memo Question
1209	Jarecki Mfg. Co. v. Merriam, 104 Kan. 646, 180 P. 224, 225 (1919)	18	The following nonexclusive factors may be considered when deciding whether a trial court abused its discretion in denying a motion for continuance seeking additional time to conduct discovery prior to summary judgment: length of time the case has been on file, materiality and purpose of the discovery sought, and due diligence to obtain the discovery sought. Vernon's Ann.Texas Rules Civ.Proc., Rule 166a(g).	We have considered the following nonexclusive factors when deciding whether a trial court abused its discretion in denying a motion for continuance seeking additional time to conduct discovery: the length of time the case has been on file, the materiality and purpose of the discovery sought, and whether the party seeking the continuance has exercised due diligence to obtain the discovery sought.	"When a movant requests a continuance for additional time to conduct discovery, should any nonexclusive factors be considered?"
1220	Elrod v. Sunflower Meadows Dev., 322 Ga. App. 666, 668 (2013)	4	The movant seeking withdrawal of admissions must show that the admitted requests either were refutable by admissible evidence having a modicum of credibility or were incredible on their face, and that its denial was not offered solely for the purposes of delay. West's Ga.Code Ann. S 9-11-36(b).	In carrying that burden, Crown was required to show "that the admitted requests either were refutable by admissible evidence having a modicum of credibility or were incredible on their face, and that [its] denial was not offered solely for the purposes of delay."	"Should the movant seeking withdrawal of admissions show that the admitted requests either were refutable by admissible evidence having a modicum of credibility or were incredible on their face, and that its denial was not offered solely for the purposes of delay?"

1733	Siderman de Blake v. Republic of Argentina, 965 F.2d 699, 707 (9th Cir. 1992)	4	"Act of state doctrine" is not a jurisdictional limit on courts, but reflects prudential concern that the courts, if they question the validity of sovereign acts by foreign states, may be interfering with the conduct of American foreign policy by the Executive and Congress; doctrine does not bar action for lack of subject matter jurisdiction but for failure to state claim on which relief can be granted. Fed.Rules Civ.Proc.Rule 12(b)(1, 6), 28 U.S.C.A.	In contrast to the jurisdictional nature of foreign sovereign immunity under the FSIA, "[t]he act of state doctrine is not a jurisdictional limit on courts." Liu, 892 F.2d at 1431. The doctrine reflects the prudential concern that the courts, if they question the validity of sovereign acts taken by foreign states, may be interfering with the conduct of American foreign policy by the Executive and Congress.	"Does the act of state doctrine reflect the concern that the judiciary, by questioning the validity of sovereign acts taken by foreign states, may interfere with the executive branch's conduct of foreign policy?"
1749	United States v. Greer, 956 F. Supp. 531, 534 (D. Vt. 1997)	2	Congress was constitutionally authorized to give extraterritorial effect to the Maritime Drug Law Enforcement Act (MDLEA) with respect to conduct taking place upon the high seas. U.S.C.A. Const. Art. 1, S 8, cl. 10; Maritime Drug Law Enforcement Act, S 3, 46 App.U.S.C.A. S 1903.	The Constitution thus authorized Congress to give extraterritorial effect to the MDLEA with respect to conduct taking place upon the high seas.	Is Congress constitutionally authorized to give extraterritorial effect to the Maritime Drug Law Enforcement Act (MDLEA) with respect to conduct taking place upon the high seas?
1790	Spiecker v. Petroff, 971 S.W.2d 536, 538–39 (Tex. App. 1997)	7	Rule regarding withdrawal of deemed admissions should not be construed to give one litigant advantage over his opponent, permitting him to have judgment without supporting testimony, when without injustice to either party, case can be opened for full hearing on evidence. Vernon's Ann.Texas Rules Civ.Proc., Rule 169(2).	The rule should not be construed giving one *539 litigant an advantage over his opponent, permitting him to have judgment without supporting testimony when, without injustice to either party, the case can be opened for a full hearing on the evidence.	Should the rule regarding withdrawal of deemed admissions be construed to give one litigant advantage over his opponent?

2148	King v. Breen, 560 So. 2d 186, 191 (Ala. 1990)	10	Although pretrial orders are to control subsequent course of litigation, liberal allowance of amendments to pleadings takes precedence over strict adherence to rule governing pretrial orders. Rules Civ.Proc., Rules 15, 16.	Although under Rule 16 pretrial orders are to control the subsequent course of litigation, the liberal allowance of amendments under Rule 15 takes precedence over strict adherence to Rule 16.	"Although pretrial orders are to control subsequent course of litigation, do liberal allowance of amendments to pleadings take precedence over strict adherence to rule governing pretrial orders?"
3678	Enax v. New York Tel. Co., 280 A.D.2d 294, 295, 720 N.Y.S.2d 126, 127 (2001)	1	In order to vacate a dismissal of case that has been deemed abandoned, a plaintiff must demonstrate (1) a meritorious cause of action, (2) a reasonable excuse for the delay, (3) the absence of prejudice to the opposing party, (4) and a lack of intent to abandon the action. McKinney's CPLR 3404.	It is well settled that in order to vacate a dismissal pursuant to CPLR 3404, a plaintiff must demonstrate (1) a meritorious cause of action, (2) a reasonable excuse for the delay, (3) the absence of prejudice to the opposing party, (4) and a lack of intent to abandon the action (see Muhammed v. Manhattan Payment Center, Inc. et al., 251 A.D.2d 228, 675 N.Y.S.2d 45; Ramputi v. Timko Contracting Corp. et al., 262 A.D.2d 26, 691 N.Y.S.2d 432). This case satisfies all four requirements.	"In order to vacate dismissal for abandonment, should a plaintiff show reasonable excuse for delay?"

3993	State ex rel. White v. Hais, 17 S.W.3d 903, 904 (Mo. Ct. App. 2000)	3	Party in family court matter was not entitled to writ prohibiting trial court from proceeding with trial , even though counsel filed motion for legislative continuance , where trial court did not rule on motion , it was within trial court's discretion to grant or deny legislative continuance based upon determination of whether presence of attorney, who was also state legislator, was necessary for fair and proper trial , and party was also represented by another attorney, whom trial court would not permit to withdraw.	However, we deny Relator's request to prohibit Judge Hais " from proceeding with trial on May 10, 2000, in light of the filed Motion for Legislative Continuance ." First, Judge Hais has not ruled on Relator's motion for legislative continuance. Further, it would be within the trial court's discretion to grant or deny the legislative continuance, based upon its determination of whether Schneider's presence is necessary for a fair and proper trial , since Relator is still represented by Garnholz.	Can a court exercise discretion to decide whether attorney's presence is necessary for fair and proper trial ?
11611	United States v. Rooney, 37 F.3d 847, 851 (2d Cir. 1994)	3	Manifest purpose of statute prohibiting theft or bribery concerning programs receiving federal funds is to safeguard finite federal resources from corruption and to police those with control of federal funds . 18 U.S.C.A. S 666.	Thus, as is evident from the circumstances surrounding its adoption, § 666's manifest purpose is to safeguard finite federal resources from corruption and to police those with control of federal funds .	Is safeguarding finite federal resources from corruption one of federal bribery statutes purposes ?
11617	Estate of Paulk v. Lott, 217 So.3d 747, 750 (Miss.App., 2017)	8	The presence of an aggravating factor may serve to bolster or strengthen the case for a dismissal; however, neither contumacious conduct nor an aggravating factor is required to support a dismissal for failure to prosecute under the rules of civil procedure. Miss. R. Civ. P. 41(b) .	"The presence of an aggravating factor may serve to bolster or strengthen the case for a dismissal " Holder, 54 So.3d at 200 (31). However, neither "contumacious conduct" nor an "aggravating factor" is required to support a Rule 41(b) dismissal .	Is contumacious conduct or an aggravating factor required to support a dismissal for failure to prosecute under law?

11618	Speedy Gonzalez Landscaping, Inc. v. O.C.A. Const., Inc., 385 Ill. App. 3d 699, 700, 896 N.E.2d 494, 496 (2008)	1	A motion to involuntarily dismiss an action based upon certain defects or defenses admits the legal sufficiency of the complaint , but asserts an affirmative defense or other legal matter effectively defeating the claim . S.H.A. 735 ILCS 5/2-619(a)(9).	Dismissal of a cause of action pursuant to section 2–619(a)(9) is proper where the claim against defendant is “barred by other affirmative matter avoiding the legal effect of or defeating the claim.” 735 ILCS 5/2–619(a)(9) (West 2000). A section 2–619(a)(9) motion to dismiss admits the legal sufficiency of the complaint, but asserts an affirmative defense or other legal matter effectively defeating the claim .	Will a motion for involuntary dismissal assert a defense defeating the claim ?
11751	Pardue v. State, 571 So. 2d 333, 333 (Ala. 1990)	1	Burglar who acquired firearm as loot during course of burglary was “ armed with deadly weapon ,” within meaning of first-degree burglary statute, even though he did not use or possess firearm for purpose of its use or potential use as weapon ; overruling Buchannon v. State, 554 So.2d 477. Code 1975, S 13-7-5(a).	After its application for rehearing was overruled, the State filed a petition for a writ of certiorari, which we granted in order to consider whether a burglar is “ armed with ... a deadly weapon ” in accordance with Ala.Code 1975, § 13A–7–5(a), if he acquires a gun as loot during the burglary but does not use it or possess it for the purpose of its use or potential use as a weapon .	When is a person armed with a deadly weapon under the burglary statute?
11849	United States v. One Parcel of Real Prop. with Bldgs., Appurtenances, 908 F. Supp. 1070, 1073 (D.R.I. 1995)	3	Double jeopardy clause is not limited to "life or limb" sanctions; clause also applies to imprisonment and monetary penalties . U.S.C.A. Const.Amend. 5.	The Clause is not limited to "life or limb" sanctions; the Clause also applies to imprisonment and monetary penalties .	"Is a double jeopardy clause is not limited to ""life or limb"" sanctions? "

13545	United States v. Baumann, 684 F. Supp. 2d 1146, 1151 (D.S.D. 2010)	9	Statute prohibiting bribery concerning programs receiving federal funds does not require that bribe itself be in excess of $5,000 ; government may also allege that business or transaction received in return for bribe was worth in excess of $5,000 . 18 U.S.C.A. S 666(a)(2).	Section 666(a)(1)(B) " does not require that the bribe itself be in excess of $5,000. " Nystrom, 2008 WL 4833984, at *4 (citing United States v. Hines, 541 F.3d 833, 836–37 (8th Cir.2008)); United States v. Zimmermann, 509 F.3d 920, 926–27 (8th Cir.2007). Rather, alleging that the bribe itself exceeded $5,000 is but "one way to satisfy the element." Id. The element "can also be satisfied by showing that the business or transaction received in return for the bribe was worth in excess of $5,000. "	"Does any statute require that the bribe itself be in excess of $5,000? "
13569	Colonial Pipeline Co. v. Commonwealth, 206 Va. 517, 523, 145 S.E.2d 227, 232 (1965)	7	State has inherent and unlimited power of taxation unless restrained by State or Federal Constitution, and power of state to levy taxes is not derived from Federal Constitution as interpreted by Supreme Court.	There are ready answers to this premise. In the first place, the power of the State of Virginia to levy taxes is not derived from the Constitution of the United States as interpreted by the Supreme Court. On the contrary, the State has the inherent and unlimited power of taxation unless restrained by its Constitution or the Constitution of the United States. 18 Mich.Jur., Taxation, § 3, pp. 125, 126, and cases there collected. Moreover, there is a presumption of the constitutionality of a statute and the burden is upon the assailing party to prove its invalidity.	Does the state have inherent and unlimited power of taxation unless restrained by State or Federal Constitution?
13611	Acme Markets, Inc. v. Callanan, 236 Ill. 2d 29, 42, 923 N.E.2d 718, 727 (2009)	10	Purpose of Property Tax Extension Limitation Law (PTELL) is to provide greater citizen control over the levy of taxes they are required to pay. 35 ILCS 200/18-190 (2004 Bar Ed.).	Justice McDade's dissent correctly recognized that the purpose of PTELL "is to provide greater citizen control over the levy of taxes they are required to pay."	What is the purpose of the Property Tax Extension Limitation Law (PTELL)?

16007	McCabe v. Braunstein, 439 B.R. 1, 10 (D. Mass. 2010)	17	Under Massachusetts law, one of the primary purposes of equitable subrogation is to avoid unwarranted windfalls.	One of the primary purposes of subrogation is to avoid unwarranted windfalls.	Is one of the primary purposes of equitable subrogation to avoid unwarranted windfalls?
16095	CompuCredit Corp. v. Greenwood, 565 U.S. 95, 97, 132 S. Ct. 665, 668, 181 L. Ed. 2d 586 (2012)	1	Federal Arbitration Act (FAA) provision requiring enforcement of contracts containing arbitration provisions establishes a liberal federal policy favoring arbitration agreements. 9 U.S.C.A. S 2.	Upon issuance of an order compelling arbitration , Defendant requests that the Court either stay these proceedings until completion of the arbitration pursuant to 9 U.S.C. 3, or dismiss the complaint pursuant to Rule 12(b)(1) and (6). II. DISCUSSION [1] [2] The FAA establishes " a liberal federal policy favoring arbitration agreements. " Moses H.	Does the Federal Arbitration Act establish a liberal federal policy favoring arbitration agreements?
16100	In re H.A. Manosh Corp., 147 Vt. 367, 369, 518 A.2d 18, 19 (1986)	1	Environmental Board rule defining " substantial change " so as to necessitate acquisition of permit under land use law did not negate or undermine legislature's intent , but rather, simply defined parameters of statutory exemption afforded preexisting uses. 10 V.S.A. SS 6081, 6086(a).	Despite respondent's assertions to the contrary, we find no basis for the conclusion 20 that the Board's definition of substantial change negates or undermines the legislature's intent in this area. It simply defines the parameters of the statutory exemption afforded pre-existing uses. Cf. Vermont Brick & Block, Inc.	How Environmental Board Rule define substantial change?
19921	Fla. E. Coast Ry. Co. v. Lewis, 167 So. 2d 104, 108 (Fla. Dist. Ct. App. 1964)	4	Under current rule, plaintiff had no lawful right to voluntary nonsuit. 30 F.S.A. Rules of Civil Procedure, rule 1.35 and subd. (a).	On the authority of Dobson we must hold that on the first trial of the case we now review appellee had no lawful right to an order of voluntary nonsuit , and the trial court erred in entering the order of nonsuit.	Does a plaintiff have no lawful right to a voluntary nonsuit?

EXHIBIT G

Comparison to 100 headnotes Appendix C to Dr. Krein's Reply Report

Krein Row	Case Name	HN No. in Case	Headnote Text	Judicial Text	Memo Question	Analysis
21386	Toney v. C. Courtney, 191 So. 3d 505, 507 (Fla. Dist. Ct. App. 2016)	6	Allegations in prisoner's amended complaint against two physicians and a nurse supported the objective prong of a S 1983 claim for deliberate indifference to a serious medical need in violation of Eighth Amendment prohibition against cruel and unusual punishment; prisoner alleged that he had a diagnosis of celiac disease, a gluten or wheat allergy, that nature of his meals was particularly important because he was also an insulin-dependent diabetic, that for the majority of time alleged in his amended complaint he did not receive gluten-free meals, and that, as a result, he regularly consumed gluten, which, due to his celiac disease, caused vomiting, stomach pains, headaches, fatigue, and skin irritation. U.S.C.A. Const.Amend. 8; 42 U.S.C.A. S 1983.	We are also cognizant that “a complaint that simply strings together a series of sentences and paragraphs containing legal conclusions and theories does not establish a claim for relief.”	"Will a complaint that simply strings together a series of sentences and paragraphs containing legal conclusions and theories, establish a claim for relief?"	Krein Concedes no copying
2349	In re Frankum, 399 B.R. 498, 505 (E.D. Ark. 2009)	15	To invoke the doctrine of equitable subrogation, five criteria must be met: (1) the party seeking subrogation must have made the payment to protect his own interest, (2) the party seeking subrogation must not have acted as a volunteer, (3) the party seeking subrogation must not have been primarily liable for the debt, (4) the party seeking subrogation must have paid off the entire debt, and (5) subrogation must not work injustice to the rights of others.	To invoke the doctrine of equitable subrogation, five criteria must be met: (1) the party seeking subrogation must have made the payment to protect his own interest; (2) the party seeking subrogation must not have acted as a volunteer; (3) the party seeking subrogation must not have been primarily liable for the debt; (4) the party seeking subrogation must have paid off the entire debt; and (5) subrogation must not work injustice to the rights of others.	What criteria must be met to invoke the doctrine of equitable subrogation?	Not Copyrightable (headnote verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation

3225	Horn v. Int'l Bus. Machines Corp., 110 A.D.2d 87, 92, 493 N.Y.S.2d 184, 189 (1985)	1	Literal compliance with Environmental Quality Act's procedural requirements for integrating environmental considerations into decision-making process is mandated; however, state or local "lead agencies" are allowed considerable latitude in exercise of discretion on substantive environmental matters. McKinney's ECL S 8-0101 et seq.	At the outset, it is necessary to emphasize that the standard of judicial review for challenges involving substantive compliance with SEQRA guidelines is limited. While literal compliance with SEQRA's procedural requirements for integrating environmental considerations into the decision making process is mandated (see, Glen Head-Glenwood Landing Civic Council v. Town of Oyster Bay, 88 A.D.2d 484, 490–491, 453 N.Y.S.2d 732; Matter of Rye Town/King Civic Assn. v. Town of Rye, 82 A.D.2d 474, 480–481, 442 N.Y.S.2d 67 appeals dismissed 55 N.Y.2d 747), the courts have allowed State or local "lead agencies" considerable latitude in the exercise of discretion on substantive environmental matters (Aldrich v. Pattison, 107 A.D.2d 258, 486 N.Y.S.2d 23). In Aldrich (supra, at p. 267, 486 N.Y.S.2d 23), this court, in an opinion authored by Justice Rubin, explained:	Do the courts allow state or local agencies considerable latitude in the exercise of discretion on substantive environmental matters?	Not Copyrightable (headnote near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation
17852	Transamerica Insurance Company v. Barnes, 29 Utah 2, 505 P.2d 783, 105 (Utah 1972)	5	Subrogation is not a matter of right but may be invoked only in those circumstances where justice demands its application. (Per Callister, C. J., with one Justice concurring and one Justice concurring in the result.)	Subrogation is not a matter of right but may be invoked only in those circumstances where justice demands its application, and the rights of the one seeking subrogation have a greater equity than the one who opposes him.	Is subrogation permitted only when the rights of those seeking subrogation have greater equity than the rights of those who oppose it?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

18561	Esparza v. Scott and White Hlth. Plan, 909 S.W.2d 548, 551 (Tex. App. 1995)	2	Principal purpose of insurance contract is to protect insured from loss, thereby placing risk of loss on insurer.	The principal purpose of an insurance contract is to protect the insured from loss, thereby placing the risk of loss on the insurer.	What is the purpose of insurance?	Not Copyrightable (headnote near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation
15836	Jackson v. Searcy, 628 So. 2d 887, 889 (Ala. Civ. App. 1993)	3	For agency relationship to exist, there must be meeting of the minds of principal and agent as to scope of agent's employment.	[3] For an agency relationship to exist, there must be a right of control by the principal over the agent. However, it is not essential that the right of control be exercised, so long as that right actually exists. National Security Fire & Casualty Co. v. Bowen, 447 So.2d 133, 137 (Ala.1983). In addition, there must be a meeting of the minds of both the principal and the agent as to the scope of the agent's employment.	Should there be meeting of minds as to the scope of the agent's employment?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
10016	People v. Converse, 42 N.W. 70, 71, 74 Mich. 478, 482 (Mich. 1889)	2	An attorney who collects money for a client acts as agent as well as attorney, and may be convicted of embezzlement for appropriating the money to his own use, with intent to deprive the owner thereof.	If an attorney collects money for his client, he in so doing acts as the agent of his client as well as his attorney; and in either case, after making the collection, he appropriates the money to his own use with the intention of depriving the owner of the same,-he is guilty of the crime of embezzlement. If this were not so, no attorney could be convicted of the embezzlement of his client's money, and this was certainly never the intention of the legislature in passing the statute creating the crime.	Can attorney appropriating money collected for his client be guilty of embezzlement?	Not copyrightable (expired); No Material Appropriation

11125	McCarthy v. Azure, 22 F.3d 351, 355 (1st Cir. 1994)	5	Federal policy favoring arbitration does not extend to situations in which identity of parties who have agreed to arbitrate is unclear.	Once that agreement has been proven and the protagonists identified, cases such as Cone and McMahon instruct courts to use a particular hermeneutical principle for interpreting the breadth of the agreement; that is, if the contract language chosen by the parties is unclear as to the nature of the claims to which an agreement to arbitrate extends, a "healthy regard" for the federal policy favoring arbitration requires that "any doubts concerning the scope of an arbitrable issue be resolved in favor of arbitration." Moses H. Cone, 460 U.S. at 24-25. T The federal policy, however, does not extend to situations in which the identity of the parties who have agreed to arbitrate is unclear.	Does federal policy in favor of arbitration extend to situations in which the identity of the parties who have agreed to arbitrate is unclear?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
8770	Memphis Retail Liquor Dealers' Ass'n, Inc., 547 S.W.2d 244, 245-46 (Tenn. 1977)	1	If an imposition is primarily for the purpose of raising revenue, it is a "tax"; if its purpose is for the regulation of some activity under the police power of the governing authority, it is a "fee."	If the imposition *246 is primarily for the purpose of raising revenue, it is a tax; if its purpose is for the regulation of some activity under the police power of the governing authority, it is a fee.	Is an imposition a tax, if its purpose is for the regulation of some activity under the police power of the governing authority?	Not Copyrightable (headnote near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation
14892	State v. Payne, 2008-Ohio-5447, ¶ 9, 178 Ohio App. 3d 617, 621, 899 N.E.2d 1011, 1014	5	Substantial incapacity sufficient to support a conviction for menacing by stalking does not mean that the victim must be hospitalized, or totally unable to care for herself; incapacity is substantial if it has a significant impact upon the victim's daily life. R.C. S 2903.211(A)(1), (D)(2)(a, b).	"Substantial incapacity does not mean that the victim must be hospitalized, or totally unable to care for herself. Incapacity is substantial if it has a significant impact upon the victim's daily life."	"Does ""substantial incapacity"" for the purposes of a conviction for menacing by stalking, require the victim to be hospitalized?"	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

N/A	N/A	N/A	Clear and unmistakable evidence requirement used in evaluating an arbitration provision's delegation provision pertains to the parties' manifestation of intent, not to the agreement's validity.	N/A	N/A	Not an asserted headnote
13661	Bk. Trust Co. v. Arnold N. May Builders, 90 Ill. App. 3d 454, 456 (Ill. App. Ct. 1980)	3	Motion for judgment on the pleadings tests sufficiency of pleadings as a matter of law and admits truth of all facts pleaded by opposite party.	A motion for judgment on the pleadings tests the sufficiency of the pleadings as a matter of law and admits the truth of all facts well pleaded by the opposite party.	Does a motion for judgment on the pleadings test the sufficiency of the pleadings?	Not Copyrightable (near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation
21129	People v. Hochwender, 20 Cal. 2d 181	2	"Taxes" are not "debts" nor "founded upon contract" but they are charges upon persons or property to raise money for public purposes and the general relationship of sovereign and taxpayer is not founded on nor does it create any contractual rights.	The contention cannot be sustained. In the early case of Perry v. Washburn, 20 Cal. 318, 350, it was held: 'Taxes are not debts * * * due by contract, express or implied.' That case has been consistently and uniformly followed. It was cited and approved in Spurrier v. Neumiller, 37 Cal.App. 683, 174 P. 338, 341, where it was said: 'Taxes are not debts, nor founded upon contract; but they are charges upon persons or property to raise money for public purposes.' This court recently reiterated the rule in Southern Service Co. v. County of Los Angeles, 15 Cal.2d 1, 97 P.2d 963, 969, stating, 'The general relationship of sovereign and tax payer is not founded on nor does it create any contractual rights,' citing Perry v. Washburn, supra, and Spurrier v. Neumiller, supra.	Are taxes debts due by contract?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

2950	Adobe Land Corp. v. Griffin, L.L.C., 236 S.W.3d 351, 357 (Tex.App.-Fort Worth, 2007)	9	A duty to preserve evidence arises only when a party knows or reasonably should know that there is a substantial chance that a claim will be filed and that evidence in its possession or control will be potentially relevant to that claim.	Before any failure to produce evidence may be viewed as discovery abuse, the opposing party must establish that the non-producing party had a duty to preserve the evidence in question. Wal-Mart Stores, Inc., 106 S.W.3d at 722. Such a duty arises only when a party knows or reasonably should know that there is a substantial chance that a claim will be filed and that evidence in its possession or control will be potentially relevant to that claim.	Does a duty to preserve evidence arise only when a party knows or reasonably should know that there is a substantial chance that a claim will be filed and that evidence in its possession or control will be potentially relevant to that claim?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
2585	Hinds v. Glob. Int'l Marine, 57 So. 3d 1181, 1183-84 (La. App. 2011)	6	Any action or step taken in a case to move the case toward judgment should be considered before granting a motion for dismissal for abandonment; dismissal of those cases in which the plaintiff has clearly demonstrated before the court during the prescribed period that he does not intend to abandon his lawsuit is not warranted. LSA-C.C.P. art. 561.	Any *1184 action or step taken in a case to move the case toward judgment should be considered. Dismissal of those cases in which the plaintiff has clearly demonstrated before the court during the prescribed period that he does not intend to abandon his lawsuit is not warranted.	Should any action or step taken in a case to move the case toward judgment be considered before granting a motion for dismissal for abandonment?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
13669	Cole v. O'Toolles of Utica, Inc., 222 A.D.2d 88, 90, 643 N.Y.S.2d 283, 285 (1996)	2	Plaintiffs need not label cause of action in pleading, and in fact, even if cause of action is labeled incorrectly, it will not be dismissed if acts alleged constitute cognizable cause of action.	"The pleading can be pathetically drawn; it can reek of miserable draftsmanship" (Siegel, Practice Commentaries, McKinney's Cons.Laws of NY, Book 7B, CPLR C3013:6, at 724). Plaintiffs need not label the cause of action; in fact, even if the cause of action is labeled incorrectly, it will not be dismissed if the facts alleged constitute a cognizable cause of action (see, Guidetti v. Pratt Plumbing & Heating, 55 A.D.2d 720, 721, 389 N.Y.S.2d 170).	Do plaintiffs need to label a cause of action?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

17915	Stitzel v. Miller, 250 Ill. 72, 75–76 (1911)	1	There cannot be any recovery in an ordinary common-law action, where the money is not due at the institution of the suit.	Without question there cannot be *76 any recovery on an ordinary common-law action if the money is not due at the institution of the suit.	Can there be any recovery in an ordinary common-law action?	Not copyrightable (expired; Headnote near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation
18867	Williams v. United States, 47 Ct. Cl. 316	2	Where a statute enacts that there shall be 26 additional passed assistant and assistant paymasters on the active list of the navy, the President in his discretion may direct that the whole number so added to the active list shall be of the higher grade. Act March 3, 1903, 32 Stat. 1197, 34 U.S.C.A. S 334.	Krein's headnote not found using judicial opinion.	Is the President empowered to appoint either assistant or passed assistant paymasters?	Not Copyrightable (Headnote not in opinion identified); No Material Appropriation
19556	Wellmaker v. Lamar Cnty. Advisory Bd., 43 Ga. App. 816, 160 S.E. 708, 708 (1931)	3	Public road cannot be lawfully discontinued, except in manner prescribed by statute. Civ.Code 1910, SS 636-644.	The county authorities cannot lawfully discontinue a public road except in the manner prescribed by law, after application and notice and registration in the proper office.	Can an existing public road be discontinued without notice and registration in the proper office?	Not copyrightable (Headnote near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation
15085	Rivas v. Napolitano, 714 F.3d 1108, 1110 (9th Cir. 2013)	1	Federal courts are generally without power to review the actions of consular officials.	Federal courts are generally without power to review the actions of consular officials.	Do federal courts have power to review the actions of consular officials?	Not copyrightable (Headnote verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation
4855	Mason v. Connell, 1836 WL 3149, at *1 (Pa. 1836)	5	One partner cannot, without the consent of the other, introduce a stranger into the firm, nor can he, without such consent, make the other partner a member of another firm; but such consent may be implied from the acquiescence and acts of the parties; and if such other partner is made acquainted with the facts, he ought to dissent from the arrangement; otherwise he will be bound by it.	One partner cannot, without the consent of the other, introduce a stranger into the firm, nor can he, without such consent, make the other partner a member of another firm; but such consent may be implied from the acquiescence and acts of the parties; and if such other partner is made acquainted with the facts, he ought to dissent from the arrangement; otherwise he will be bound by it.	Can a partner admit a new member to the partnership without the consent of the other partners?	Not copyrightable (expired; Headnote verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation

8877	Smith v. Thirty-Seventh Judicial Circuit, 847 S.W.2d 755, 758 (Mo. 1993)	7	In workers' compensation law, one making appointment and receiving services necessarily stands in correlative relation of employer; right to control employee determines employer status. V.A.M.S. SS 105.800, 287.120, subd. 1.	In workers' compensation law, the "one making the appointment and receiving the services necessarily stands in the correlative relation of employer." Maltz v. Jackoway-Katz Cap Co., 336 Mo. 1000, 82 S.W.2d 909, [9] 911 (Mo. 1934). The right to control the employee is the "test often applied" to determine the employer, and the element "most frequently referred to."	"In Workers Compensation, who stands as, or is determined to be, the employer?"	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
11649	Carlson v. Hannah, 6 N.J. 202, 212 (N.J. 1951)	2	The power of an agent to bind his principal is limited to such acts as are within his actual or apparent authority.	The power of an agent to bind his principal is limited to such acts as are within his actual or apparent authority.	Is the power of an agent to bind his principal with his acts within his actual or apparent authority?	Not copyrightable (Headnote verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation
6885	Schneider v. Spaeth, 133 So. 3d 1167, 1168–69 (Fla. Dist. Ct. App. 2014)	2	No magic words are required in an order entering a default based on a party's failure to attend a properly noticed case management conference, but rather only a finding that the conduct upon which the order is based was equivalent to willfulness or deliberate disregard. West's F.S.A. RCP Rule 1.200(c).	The requisite written finding of willfulness is, in part, to provide assurance that "the trial judge has made a conscious determination that the noncompliance was more than mere neglect or inadvertence." Commonwealth Fed. Sav. & Loan Ass'n v. Tubero, 569 So.2d 1271, 1273 (Fla.1990). "[N]o 'magic words' are required but rather only a finding that the conduct upon which the order is based was equivalent to willfulness or deliberate disregard."	"In the requisite written finding of wilfulness, are magic words required or only a finding that the conduct upon which the order is based was equivalent to wilfulness or deliberate disregard?"	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
N/A	N/A	N/A	Purpose of statute requiring state to provide notice of intent to seek hard 40 sentence is to make defendant aware of hard 40 prospect so as to be in a position to devise his or her strategy. K.S.A. 21-4624(1).	N/A	N/A	Not an asserted headnote; Krein concedes no copying

2954	St. Mary v. Superior Court, 223 Cal.App.4th 762, 776, 167 Cal.Rptr.3d 517, 528 (Cal.App. 6 Dist., 2014)	11	A "deemed admitted" order establishes, by judicial fiat, that a nonresponding party has responded to requests for admission (RFA) by admitting the truth of all matters contained therein. Cal. Civ. Proc. Code S 2033.280(c).	"[A] deemed admitted order establishes, by judicial fiat, that a nonresponding party has responded to the requests by admitting the truth of all matters contained therein."	"Does a ""deemed admitted"" order establish, by judicial fiat, that a nonresponding party has responded to requests for admission (RFA) by admitting the truth of all matters contained therein?"	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
18697	Brezler v. Mills, 220 F. Supp. 3d 303, 326 (E.D.N.Y. 2016)	19	Navy, like any other agency, must comply with its own binding rules.	The Navy, like any other agency, must comply with its own binding rules.	Does the navy have to comply with its own binding rules?	Not Copyrightable (headnote near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation
11085	S. Indiana Gas & Elec. Co. v. City of Boonville, 215 Ind. 552, 560 (1939)	5	The power of eminent domain is an attribute of sovereignty which inures in every independent state and cannot be surrendered, and if attempted to be contracted away it may be resumed at will.	The power of eminent domain is an attribute of sovereignty and inures in every independent state. It cannot be surrendered, and, if attempted to be contracted away, it may be resumed at will.	Can the power of eminent domain be surrendered?	Not Copyrightable (headnote near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation
21195	Billingsley v. St. Louis County, 70 F.3d 61, 64 (8th Cir. 1995)	5	Government worker who performs technical, ministerial tasks cannot be discharged based on his political beliefs. U.S.C.A. Const.Amend. 1.	It is clear, then, that under Barnes a government worker who performs technical, ministerial tasks cannot be discharged based on his political beliefs.	Is an employees political affiliation an appropriate requirement for performing ministerial duties?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
10054	Teller v. McCoy, 162 W. Va. 367, 384 (1978)	3	Since lease of residential dwelling unit is to be treated and construed as any other contract, covenant to pay rent and warranty of habitability are mutually dependent. Code, 37-6-30.	In response to the second certified question, we hold that since a lease of a residential dwelling unit is to be treated and construed as any other contract, the covenant to pay rent and the warranty of habitability are mutually dependent.	Are leases of urban dwelling units construed like any other contract?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

6431	In re N.J.A.C. 7:15-5.24(b), 420 N.J. Super. 552, 572 (App. Div. 2011)	11	Enabling statute for Department of Environmental Protection (DEP) grants the DEP vast authority to set policy and promulgate regulations for the conservation of the natural resources of the State, the promotion of environmental protection, and the prevention of pollution of the environment of the State. N.J.S.A. 13:1D-1 et seq.	Lastly, HN34 the DEP's general enabling statute, N.J.S.A. 13:1D-1 to -137, grants the agency vast authority to set policy and promulgate regulations "for the conservation of the natural resources of the State, the promotion of environmental protection and the prevention of pollution of the environment of the State." N.J.S.A. 13:1D-9.	What responsibilities are the Department of Environmental Protection charged with?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
12835	M. T. v. State, 2009 Ark. App. 761, 795 (Ark. Ct. App. 2009)	9	For purposes of disorderly conduct, a public inconvenience, annoyance, or alarm can occur due to an individual's conduct whether the individual and the people are on public or private property. West's A.C.A. S 5-71-207(a)(1).	First, our precedent refutes appellant's narrow interpretation of the disorderly conduct statute that the incident giving rise to the charge must occur in a public place. A public inconvenience, annoyance or alarm can occur due to an individual's conduct whether the individual and the people are on public or private property.	Can public inconvenience occur due to an individuals conduct?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
10328	Roberts v. Wells Fargo Bank, N.A., 406 S.W.3d 702, 706 (Tex. App. 2013)	6	When nonsuit is filed after an unfavorable partial summary judgment has been entered against a claimant, the nonsuit is with prejudice as to those claims of which the judgment has disposed; this concept promotes judicial efficiency, protects parties from multiple lawsuits, and prevents inconsistent judgments through the preclusion of matters that have already been decided or which could have been litigated in a prior suit. Vernon's Ann.Texas Rules Civ.Proc., Rules 162, 166a(c).	When nonsuit is filed after an unfavorable partial summary judgment has been entered against the claimant, the nonsuit is with prejudice as to those claims of which the judgment has disposed. This concept promotes judicial efficiency, protects parties from multiple lawsuits, and prevents inconsistent judgments through the preclusion of matters that have already been decided or which could have been litigated in a prior suit.	"When a claimant nonsuits after an unfavorable partial summary judgment, is the nonsuit with prejudice as to the claims disposed of by the judgment?"	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

841	City of Ashland v. Ashland Salvage, 271 Neb. 362, 371 (2006)	15	A party's failure to make a timely and appropriate response to a request for admission constitutes an admission of the subject matter of the request, which matter is conclusively established unless, on motion, the court permits withdrawal of the admission. Discovery Rule 36.	We have held that a party's failure to make a timely and appropriate response to a request for admission constitutes an admission of the subject matter of the request, which matter is conclusively established unless, on motion, the court permits withdrawal of the admission.	"Does a party's failure to make a timely and appropriate response to a request for admission constitute an admission of the subject matter of the request, which matter is conclusively established unless, on motion, the court permits withdrawal of the admission?"	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
8430	Withrow v. Withrow, 278 Ga. 525, 525, 603 S.E.2d 276, 277–78 (2004)	3	The absence of a party's counsel, without leave, to attend proceedings in other courts is no ground for continuance or postponement.	Moreover, "[t]he absence of a [party's] counsel, without leave, to attend proceedings in other courts is no ground for continuance or postponement. [Cit.]" Davis v. Barnes, 158 Ga.App. 89, 90, 279 S.E.2d 330 (1981).	"Is the absence of a party's counsel, without leave, to attend proceedings in other courts no ground for continuance or postponement?"	Not Copyrightable (near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation
1301	Osagie v. Peakload Temp. Services, 91 S.W.3d 326, 329 (Tenn. Ct. App., 2002)	4	Purpose of rule governing dismissal of claim for failure to prosecute is to enable court to manage its own docket, and to protect defendants against plaintiffs who are unwilling to put their claims to the test, but determined to subject them to the continuing threat of an eventual judgment. Rules Civ.Proc., Rule 41.02.	Osagie's wage claim to be a dismissal for failure to prosecute under rule 41.02 of the Rules of Civil Procedure. This rule is necessary to enable the court to manage its own docket, and to protect defendants against plaintiffs who are unwilling to put their claims to the test, but determined to subject them to the continuing threat of an eventual judgment.	Does the purpose of rules governing dismissal of a claim for failure is to prosecute to protect defendants against plaintiffs who are unwilling to put their claims to the test?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

1316	Jgk Industries, LLC v Hayes NY Business, LLC, No. 2014-10060, 2015-04730, 603527/13, 45 N.Y.S.3d 479, 481, 2016 N.Y. Slip Op. 08848, 2016 WL 7445269 (N.Y.A.D. 2 Dept., Dec. 28, 2016)	1	On a motion to dismiss a complaint for failure to state a cause of action, the court must accept the plaintiff's allegations as true and construe the allegations liberally, giving the plaintiff the benefit of every possible favorable inference. McKinney's CPLR 3211(a)(7).	On a motion to dismiss a complaint pursuant to CPLR 3211(a)(7), the court must accept the plaintiff's allegations as true and construe the allegations liberally, giving the plaintiff the benefit of every possible favorable inference	On a motion to dismiss a complaint for failure to state a cause of action, should the complaint be construed liberally?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
18581	Voss v. State, 208 Miss. 303, 304-05, 44 So. 2d 402, 402 (1950)	1	There was no such offense in common law as embezzlement; and it is made such by statute, being a statutory larceny.	In Hampton v. State, 99 Miss. 176, 183, 54 So. 722, 723, it is said: 'There was no such offense at common law as embezzlement; it is made such by statute; it is a statutory larceny.	Is embezzlement a common law offence?	Not Copyrightable (headnote near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation
4196	Palumbo v. Moore, 777 So.2d 1177, 1178 (Fla. App. 5 Dist., 2001)	4	A motion to dismiss for failure to state a cause of action admits all well pleaded facts as true, as well as reasonable inferences that may arise from those facts.	A motion to dismiss for failure to state a cause of action admits all well pleaded facts as true, as well as reasonable inferences that may arise from those facts.	"Should the party moving for dismissal for failure to state a cause of action admit all well pleaded facts as true, as well as reasonable inferences that can arise from those facts?"	Not Copyrightable (headnote verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation

5701	Little v. State Indus. Comm'n, 1936 OK 817	5	Forgery statute is aimed primarily at safeguarding confidence in genuineness of documents relied upon in commercial and business activity; such purpose underlies not only prohibition against forging false instrument but also against possessing or uttering such an instrument. W.S.A. 943.38.	A forgery statute is "aimed primarily at safeguarding confidence in the genuineness of documents relied upon in commercial and business activity." LaFave & Scott, Handbook on Criminal Law, p. 671 (1972). This purpose underlies not only the prohibition against forging a false instrument but also that against possessing or uttering such an instrument. Perkins, Criminal Law, pp. 339-40 (2d ed. 1969).	What is the purpose of forgery statute?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
11132	AAA Pharmacy v. United States, 112 Fed. Cl. 387, 394 (Fed.Cl., 2013)	5	Regulatory takings jurisprudence is characterized by essentially ad hoc, factual inquiries designed to allow careful examination and weighing of all the relevant circumstances. U.S. Const. Amend. 5.	The analysis employed with respect to cases involving a physical occupation, "for the most part, involves the straightforward application of per se rules," whereas "regulatory takings jurisprudence ... is characterized by 'essentially ad hoc, factual inquiries,' designed to allow 'careful examination and weighing of all the relevant circumstances.'	How is regulatory taking jurisprudence characterized?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

17097	Zuzak v. Querbes, 193 So. 258, 261 (La. Ct. App. 1939)	1	On question whether a certain lease was the renewal of a prior lease upon the execution of which additional brokerage commissions were due, both leases, which named a partnership as lessee, involved the same lessee, notwithstanding that a change in membership of partnership occurred between dates of execution of leases, since a "partnership" once formed and put into action becomes in contemplation of law a moral being distinct from the persons who compose it.	It is further observed that both of the above described lease contracts involved the same lessee, namely, D. Goldring, a co-partnership, notwithstanding the fact that a slight change in the membership of that entity occurred between the dates of execution of the first and last instruments. The following phraseology found in Brinson v. Monroe Automobile & Supply Co. et al., 180 La. 1064, 158 So. 558, 562, 96 A.L.R. 1206, sustains this observation: "A partnership, once formed and put into action, becomes, in contemplation of law, a moral being, distinct from the persons who compose it. It is a civil person which has peculiar rights and attributes.	Is a partnership a civil person having civil rights?	Krein Concedes no copying
14865	Zeis v. Fruehauf Corp., 56 Wis. 2d 486, 491, 202 N.W.2d 225, 227 (1972)	4	Public policy requires dismissal of stale lawsuits which have not been adequately prosecuted.	Public policy requires the dismissal of stale lawsuits which have not been adequately prosecuted.	Does public policy require dismissal of stale lawsuits which have not been adequately prosecuted?	Not Copyrightable (headnote near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation
11966	People v. Beltran, 56 Cal. 4th 935, 942 (2013)	5	The mens rea element required for murder is a state of mind constituting either express or implied malice; a person who kills without malice does not commit murder. West's Ann.Cal.Penal Code SS 187, 188.	The mens rea element required for murder is a state of mind constituting either express or implied malice. A person who kills 509 without malice does not commit murder.	"Is the mens rea required for murder malice, expressed or implied? "	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

8072	Birdsboro & Birdsboro Mun. Auth. v. Dep't of Env'tl. Protec., 795 A.2d 444, 447–48 (Pa. Cmmw. 2002)	4	Environmental Hearing Board (EHB) need not provide specific reasons for finding one witness credible over another.	Additionally, the EHB need not provide specific reasons for finding one witness credible over another.	Does the Environmental Hearing Board (EHB) need to provide specific reasons for finding one witness credible over the other?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
14127	Vill. of Tiki Island v. Ronquille, 463 S.W.3d 562, 575 (Tex. App. 2015)	5	The economic impact of a regulation may indicate a taking even if the landowner has not been deprived of all economically beneficial use of his property. Tex. Const. art. 1, S 17.	For example, “the economic impact of a regulation may indicate a taking even if the landowner has not been deprived of all economically beneficial use of his property.”	Can the economic impact of a regulation lead to a taking?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
7230	Onstad v. Wright, 54 S.W.3d 799, 805–06 (Tex. App. 2001)	11	If its order on a motion in limine has been violated, the trial court may apply the sanctions of contempt or take other appropriate action.	An order on a motion in limine, however, is an action taken by the trial court in the exercise of its control over proceedings before that court. When a trial court issues an order granting such a motion in limine, the opposing party has a duty to comply with that order and to instruct the witnesses to do the same. Noncompliance with that order may lead to contempt or other sanctions the trial court deems appropriate. [. . .] The violation of a motion in limine may entitle a party to relief, but any remedies available with regard to such a violation lie with the trial court. See Brazzell, 481 S.W.2d at 131. If its order has been violated, the trial court may apply the sanctions of contempt or take other appropriate action.	"If its order on a motion in limine has been violated, may the trial court apply the sanctions of contempt or take other appropriate action?"	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

9830	Ledford v. Thomas, 144 F.Supp.2d 709, 725 (S.D.Tex.,2000)	7	Under Texas and federal law, jeopardy does not attach at arrest or indictment stage; instead, in jury trial, jeopardy attaches when jury is empaneled and sworn and, in bench trial, when both sides have announced ready and defendant has pleaded to charging instrument. U.S.C.A. Const.Amend. 5.	The case law regarding successive prosecutions supports this conclusion. Under both Texas and federal law, jeopardy does not attach at the arrest or indictment stage. Instead, in a jury trial, jeopardy attaches when the jury is empaneled and sworn. See Crist v. Bretz, 437 U.S. 28, 98 S.Ct. 2156, 57 L.Ed.2d 24 (1978); Proctor v. State, 841 S.W.2d 1 (Tex.Crim.App.1992). In a bench trial, jeopardy does not attach under state law until both sides have announced ready and the defendant has pleaded to the charging instrument.	Will jeopardy attach when both sides have announced ready and defendant has pleaded to charging instrument?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
17986	Knighten v. Knighten, 447 So. 2d 534, 540–41 (La. Ct. App.), writ denied, 448 So. 2d 1303 (La. 1984)	4	Trial court did not err in refusing to grant a continuance to curatrix of husband's estate in connection with curatrix's third-party legal malpractice demand, because curatrix merely argued that she was unable to obtain evidence material to her case, but she failed to assert what evidence she was unable to obtain or how that evidence was material. LSA-C.C.P. arts. 1601, 1602.	The oral motion to continue was based upon Lain's answer to the third party demand not being filed until the day of trial and upon his failure to answer the interrogatories. [...] The curatrix has failed to establish she was entitled to a mandatory continuance under C.C.P. 1602. She merely argues she was unable to obtain evidence material to her case because of Lain's untimely answer and failure to answer the interrogatories. She has failed to assert what evidence she was unable to obtain or how that evidence was material to her case. She has also failed to show that the trial court abused its discretion in refusing to grant the continuance under C.C.P. 1601.	"Should a party who seeks a continuance because he was unable to obtain material evidence, show what evidence he could not obtain?"	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

10108	Warberg Opportunistic Trading Fund L.P. v GeoResources, No. 3552, 3553, 3553A, 652332/12, 58 N.Y.S.3d 1, 8, 2017 N.Y. Slip Op. 04537, 2017 WL 2467326 (N.Y.A.D. 1 Dept., June 08,	9	A novation will not discharge obligations created under a prior agreement unless it was so intended; this question may be determined from the writings and conduct of the parties or, in certain cases, from the documents exclusively.	"A novation will not discharge obligations created under a prior agreement unless it was so intended, and this question may be determined from the writings and conduct of the parties or, in certain cases, from the documents exclusively"	"Is novation unlikely to be found upon the mere issuance of a new security, without any affirmative indication that the parties were changing the terms underlying the warrant being transferred?"	Not Copyrightable (near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation
2657	The Florida Bar v. Greene, 926 So. 2d 1195, 1199 (Fla., 2006)	1	A motion to dismiss is designed to test the legal sufficiency of the complaint, not to determine factual issues, and the allegations of the complaint must be taken as true and all reasonable inferences therefrom construed in favor of the nonmoving party.	A motion to dismiss is designed to test the legal sufficiency of the complaint, not to determine factual issues, and the allegations of the complaint must be taken as true and all reasonable inferences therefrom construed in favor of the nonmoving party.	"Is a motion to dismiss designed to test the legal sufficiency of the complaint, not to determine factual issues?"	Not Copyrightable (headnote verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation
14560	Bartleman v. Humphrey, 441 S.W.2d 335, 349 (Mo. 1969)	28	A deposition under oath consists of original answers as well as changed answers, with witness' reasons, if any for changes.	A deposition under oath consists of 'original answers, as well as * * * changed answers, with his reasons, if any, therefor,'	Does a deposition under oath consist of original answers as well as changed answers?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

17873	Singh v. Larry Fowler Trucking, Inc., 390 S.W.3d 280, 286 (Tenn. Ct. App. 2012)	3	Although plaintiff driver, who was rear-ended by defendant driver, did not make a separate offer of proof, there was sufficient evidence in the record from which appellate court could determine the trial court's reasoning in granting defendant's motion in limine to exclude deposition testimony of plaintiff's medical expert and whether court's ruling was erroneous , given that the appellate record contained full deposition of plaintiff's medical expert, the motion in limine, and the trial court's order on the motion; substance of the evidence and the specific evidentiary basis supporting admission or exclusion were apparent from the context. Rules of Evid., Rule 103(a)(2).	In this case, we are concerned with the exclusion of certain portions of the deposition testimony of Dr. Jaffin. The appellate record contains the evidentiary deposition in its entirety. Although we concede that Mr. Singh did not make a separate offer of proof , because the appellate record contains Dr. Jaffin's full deposition, the motion in limine, and the trial court's order on the motion, there is sufficient evidence in the record from which to determine the trial court's reasoning and whether it was erroneous. The purpose of Rule 103(a)(2) is to help this Court determine whether the trial court's exclusion was reversible error. Here, the substance of the evidence and the specific evidentiary basis supporting admission or exclusion are apparent from the context. Accordingly, Mr. Singh's failure to make a separate offer of proof is not fatal to his appeal.	"Although rulings on motions in limine are within the discretion of the trial court , are discretionary choices left to a court's inclination?"	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
14402	Perkins v. Carter, 09-673 (La. App. 5 Cir. 12/29/09), 30 So. 3d 862, 869 (La. Ct. App. 2009)	14	One of principal purposes of pretrial proceeding is to narrow issues of litigation to those which are contested and to dispense with proof on issues which are not contested. LSA-C.C.P. art. 1551.	One of the principal purposes of pretrial proceedings is to narrow the issues of the litigation to those which are contested and to dispense with proof on the issues which are not contested.	What is the purpose of pretrial proceedings with regard to contested issues ?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

2917	Rozas v. Evangeline Parish Police Jury, 214 So.2d 398, 400 (La.App., 1968)	4	In determining whether a cause of action based on fraud has been pleaded, court may disregard as mere conclusions of the pleader a petition's general charges of fraud if they are unaccompanied by formal allegations setting forth with particularity the circumstances alleged to constitute same. LSA-C.C.P. art. 856.	In determining whether a cause of action has been pleaded, the court may disregard as mere conclusions of the pleader a petition's general charges of fraud if they are unaccompanied by formal allegations setting forth with particularity the circumstances alleged to constitute same.	Will a court disregard general charges of fraud as mere conclusions?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
10769	Gerlich v. Leath, 861 F.3d 697, 705 (8th Cir. 2017)	10	If a state university creates a limited public forum for speech, it may not discriminate against speech on the basis of its viewpoint. U.S. Const. Amend. 1.	If a state university creates a limited public forum for speech, it may not *705 "discriminate against speech on the basis of its viewpoint."	"f a state university creates a limited public forum for speech, can it discriminate against speech on the basis of its viewpoint?"	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
12416	Schulz v. Dattero, 104 A.D.3d 831, 834, 961 N.Y.S.2d 308, 312 (2013)	5	Entering upon the land of another without permission, even if innocently or by mistake, constitutes trespass.	"Entering upon the land of another without permission, even if innocently or by mistake, constitutes trespass"	Can the innocent entry upon the land of another without permission cause a trespass?	Not Copyrightable (headnote near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation
8359	Standard Oil Co. v. Johnson, 316 U.S. 481, 484 (1942)	3	That the establishment and control of army post exchanges have been in accordance with War Department regulations, rather than specific statutory directions, does not alter their status as "arms of the government", since authorized War Department regulations have the force of "law". Act July 15, 1870, 16 Stat. 315, 319; Act March 1, 1875, 18 Stat. 337.	That the establishment and control of post exchanges have been in accordance with regulations rather than specific statutory directions does not alter their 1170 status, for authorized War Department regulations have the force of law. 5 3 Act July 15, 1870, 16 Stat. 315, 319; Act March 1, 1875, 18 Stat. 337.	Do War Department regulations have the force of law?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

15780	Cleveland, C., C. & I. Ry. Co. v. Wynant, 114 Ind. 525, 17 N.E. 118, 120–21 (1888)	9	The mere fact that an object is in a highway in violation of the statute does not necessarily make the owner liable for damages resulting from fright which the object may have occasioned to horses, but there must have been some natural causative connection between the violation of the statute and the frightening of the horses.	The mere fact that an object is in the highway, in violation of a statute, does not necessarily make the owner liable for damages resulting from fright which the object may have occasioned to horses. *121 There must have been some natural, causative connection between the violation of the statute and the frightening of the horses.	"Is there a natural and causative connection between the violation of a statute, and the frightening of a horse?"	Not Copyrightable (expired; headnote near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation
10329	Herrell v. Maddux, 217 Kan. 192, 192 (1975)	2	Generally, a pretrial order which specifies the issues to be tried supersedes and replaces the pleadings. Rules of Civil Procedure, rule 16, K.S.A. 60-216.	A pretrial order which specifies the issues to be tried supersedes and replaces the pleadings.	Does a pretrial order which specifies the issues to be tried supersede and replace the pleadings?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
1329	Thompson v. Echostar Commc'ns Corp., 89 So. 3d 696, 701 (Miss. Ct. App. 2012)	10	Even though the rule providing for the dismissal of an action for failure to prosecute does not specifically mention sanctions, a court may impose lesser sanctions including fines, costs, or damages against a plaintiff or his counsel, attorney disciplinary measures, conditional dismissal, dismissal without prejudice, and explicit warnings. Rules Civ.Proc., Rule 41(b).	Therefore, even though Rule 41(b) does not specifically mention sanctions, a court may impose lesser sanctions instead of dismissing a case for lack of prosecution. See Hoffman v. Paracelsus Health Care Corp., 752 So.2d 1030, 1034 (¶ 12) (Miss.1999). "Lesser sanctions include fines, costs, or damages against [a] plaintiff or his counsel, attorney disciplinary measures, conditional dismissal, dismissal without prejudice, and explicit warnings.	"Can lesser sanctions than dismissal for a plaintiff's delay or contumacious conduct include fines, costs, or damages against plaintiff or his counsel?"	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

5479	M.S.P.C. v. U.S. Customs and Border Protection, 60 F.Supp.3d 1156, 1167 (D.N.M., 2014)	12	The fact that aliens within the territorial jurisdiction of the United States are protected by the Due Process Clause does not lead to the conclusion that all aliens are entitled to the same rights as citizens or to the conclusion that all aliens must be treated alike. U.S.C.A. Const.Amend. 5.	The fact that aliens within the territorial jurisdiction of the United States are protected by the Due Process Clause, however, does not lead to the conclusion that all aliens are entitled to the same rights as citizens or to the conclusion that all aliens must be treated alike.	Does the fact that aliens are protected by the Due Process Clause mean that aliens are entitled to enjoy all the advantages of citizenship?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
16752	Richard v. Perkins, 373 F. Supp. 2d 1211, 1219 (D. Kan. 2005)	16	Student athletes do not have property or liberty interests protected by the Due Process Clause in participating in intercollegiate athletics. U.S.C.A. Const.Amend. 14.	Defendants correctly note that under Tenth Circuit law, that student athletes do not have constitutionally protected property or liberty interests in participating in intercollegiate athletics. Seamons v. Snow, 84 F.3d 1226 (10th Cir.1996) (no protected property interest in participating in school athletic program); Colo. Seminary v. Nat'l Collegiate Athl. Assoc., 417 F.Supp. 885 (D.Colo.1976) (same), aff'd, 612 F.2d 473 (10th Cir.1979); see also Lesser v. Neosho County Community Coll., 741 Supp. 854, 861–62 (D.Kan.1990) (participation in intercollegiate athletics is privilege, not a right); Hysaw v. Washburn Univ. of Topeka, 690 F.Supp. 940 (D.Kan.1987) (no right to pursue college football career).	Do student athletes have a constitutional right to participate in athletic programs?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

18289	City of Washington v. Bd. of Assessment Appeals of Washington Cnty., 550 Pa. 175, 183, 704 A.2d 120, 124 (1997)	6	Fact that tuition charges are levied by private college, without more, does not negate college's status as purely public charity if it is otherwise entitled thereto. Const. Art. 8, S 2(a)(v); 72 P.S. S 5020-204(a)(3).	The fact that tuition charges are levied by W & J does not negate the college's status as a charity.	Is a college a charity if it charges tuition?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
9821	Vera v Soohoo, No. 19763/02, 2010-06630, 953 N.Y.S.2d 615, 617-18, 2012 N.Y. Slip Op. 07104, 2012 WL 5233642 (N.Y.A.D. 2 Dept., Oct. 24, 2012)	1	Court may dismiss an action when a plaintiff is unprepared to proceed to trial at the call of the calendar, and to be relieved of that default, a plaintiff must demonstrate both a reasonable excuse for the default and a potentially meritorious cause of action. N.Y.Ct.Rules, S 202.27.	Under 22 NYCRR 202.27, a court may dismiss an action when a plaintiff is unprepared to proceed to trial at the call of the calendar (see Fink v. Antell, 19 A.D.3d 215, 796 N.Y.S.2d 524; 618 Johnson v. Brooklyn Hosp. Ctr., 295 A.D.2d 567, 569, 744 N.Y.S.2d 215; Farley v. Danaher Corp., 295 A.D.2d 559, 560, 744 N.Y.S.2d 709). In order to be relieved of that default, a plaintiff must demonstrate both a reasonable excuse for the default and a potentially meritorious cause of action	Under 22 NYCRR 202.27 could a court dismiss an action when a plaintiff is unprepared to proceed to trial at the call of the calendar?	Not Copyrightable (near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation
17589	Sun Oil Co., 626 S.W.2d 726, 734 (Tex. 1982)	8	Estoppel is a defensive theory and does not create a contract right that does not otherwise exist.	Estoppel, however, is a defensive theory. It does not create a contract right that does not otherwise exist.	Does estoppel create a contract that does not otherwise exist?	Not Copyrightable (near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation

999	Williams v. National Mortg. Co., 903 S.W.2d 398, 403 (Tex.App. Dallas,1995)	15	Although nonsuit of party's claims does not end adverse party's right to be heard on its pending claims for affirmative relief, claim for affirmative relief filed after notice of lawsuit is usually ineffective to prevent termination of lawsuit. Vernon's Ann.Texas Rules Civ.Proc., Rule 162.	Although a nonsuit of a party's claims does not end an adverse party's right to be heard on its pending claims for affirmative relief, a claim for affirmative relief filed after a notice of nonsuit is usually ineffective to prevent termination of the lawsuit.	"Although nonsuit of party's claims does not end adverse party's right to be heard on its pending claims for affirmative relief, is a claim for affirmative relief filed after notice of nonsuit is usually ineffective to prevent termination of lawsuit?"	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
15034	In re Steele, 323 B.R. 776, 777 (Bankr. N.D. Fla. 2004)	2	Under Florida law, fact that person arranges for his mail to be left at particular address does not make him a "resident" at that address.	Moreover, "[t]he fact that a person ... arranges for his mail to be left ... does not convert him into a resident of that address."	"Does the fact that a person arranges for his mail to be left at particular address not make him a ""resident"" at that address?"	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

N/A	N/A	N/A	It is a violation of Rev.St.U.S. S 5485, 38 U.S.C.A. S 112, which forbids any agent or attorney or other person instrumental in prosecuting any claim for pension directly or indirectly to contract for, demand, receive, or retain any greater compensation for his services than $25, to contract to render such services for more than $25; to demand more than that sum for such services after rendering them without a contract; to retain more than that sum out of the check sent to the pensioner; or to receive more than that sum for such services in pursuance of any agreement, direct or indirect, express or implied, or of any legal or moral obligation; but it is not a violation of the section to receive more than $25 for such services, wholly as a gratuity, and without demand.	N/A	N/A	Not an asserted headnote
19540	Owens v. Fosdick, 153 Fla. 17, 20 (Fla. 1943)	1	The nature of a tax must be determined by its operation rather than by its terminology.	The issue being thus clearly defined, it becomes our duty to ascertain for ourselves upon what the tax is laid, keeping in mind that the nature of the tax must be determined by its operation rather than by its terminology.	Should the nature of a tax be determined by its operation rather than its particular descriptive languagee?	Not Copyrightable (headnote near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation
12876	Browning v. State, 174 Ga. App. 759, 760 (Ga. Ct. App. 1985)	1	Uttering or delivering writing is essential element of offense of forgery in the first degree; but it is not essential element of offense of forgery in the second degree. O.C.G.A. S 16-9-2(a).	Uttering or delivering a writing is an essential element of the offense of forgery in the first degree; but it is not an essential element of the offense of forgery in the second degree.	Is uttering or delivering any writing an essential element of forgery in the first degree?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

11294	Heisig v. Uvalde Rock Asphalt Co., 48 S.W.2d 1109, 1110 (Tex. App. 1932)	3	Cause of action arising subsequent to commencement of suit, and not declared on, cannot furnish basis for recovery.	A suit cannot be maintained upon a cause of action that does not exist at the time the suit is commenced, and the cause of action arising subsequent to the commencement of the suit, and not declared on after it has arisen, cannot furnish a basis for a recovery.	Can a cause of action arising subsequent to commencement of suit furnish basis for recovery?	Not Copyrightable (headnote near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation
4304	Stroll v. Long Island Jewish Med. Ctr., 151 A.D.3d 789, 791, 56 N.Y.S.3d 349, 350 (2017), abrogated by Element E, LLC v. Allyson Enterprises, Inc., 167 A.D.3d 981, 91 N.Y.S.3d 444	3	In order to vacate dismissal for failure to prosecute, a plaintiff is required to demonstrate a justifiable excuse for her default, as well as the existence of a potentially meritorious cause of action. McKinney's CPLR 3216(e).	In order to vacate the dismissal, the plaintiff was required to demonstrate a justifiable excuse for her default, as well as the existence of a potentially meritorious cause of action (see CPLR 3216[e]; Duranti v. Dream Works Constr., Inc., 139 A.D.3d at 1000–1001, 33 N.Y.S.3d 325; Bender v. Autism Speaks, Inc., 139 A.D.3d 989, 990, 32 N.Y.S.3d 312).	In order to vacate a dismissal for failure to prosecute is a plaintiff required to demonstrate a justifiable excuse for her default?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
7346	Rosebud Enterprises v. Idaho Pub. Utilities Comm'n, 128 Idaho 609, 613 (1996)	1	Purpose of Public Utility Regulatory Policies Act (PURPA) was to encourage promotion and development of renewable energy technologies as alternatives to fossil fuels and construction of new generating facilities by electric utilities. Public Utility Regulatory Policies Act of 1978, S 2 et seq., 16 U.S.C.A. S 2601 et seq.	292.101(b) (6) (1995). B. The Rules 1. Federal [1] Congress passed PURPA in 1978 in response to the prevailing energy crisis. Its purpose was to encourage the promotion and development of renewable energy technologies as alternatives to fossil fuels and the construction of new generating facilities by electric utilities. Section 210 of PURPA requires that electric utilities offer to purchase power produced by cogenerators or small power producers that obtain qualifying facility (QF) status under section 201.	What is the purpose of Public Utility Regulatory Act?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

11710	Thornton v. Crowther, 24 Mo. 164, 166 (1857)	2	An assignment of a promissory note, written on a separate paper , although not transferring the legal ownership , transfers the beneficial ownership in the note, so as to enable the assignee to sue on it in his own name .	There is no error in this record. Although the legal ownership of the note was not transferred --the assignment being on a separate paper and not on a note, as required by the statute--yet the beneficial ownership passed, and the assignee became the real party in interest, and entitled as such to sue upon the note in his own name .	Is an assignee of a note entitled to sue in his own name?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
3454	United States v. Loschiavo, 531 F.2d 659, 661 (2d Cir. 1976)	1	For purpose of deciding person's status as "public official" under statute making it federal crime to bribe such public official, it is not aspects of particular project which are of greatest significance, but character and attributes of person's employment relationship, if any, with federal Government. 18 U.S.C.A. S 201(a), (b)(1, 2).	The type of public project involved, or the amount of federal funding entailed, may be important in applying other parts of the statute, such as the 'official act' requirement of s 201(b)(1) or the 'fraud . . . on the United States' requirement of s 201(b)(2), but for the purpose of deciding Morales' status as a 'public official' under s 201(a), it is not the aspects of the particular project which are of the greatest significance, but the character and attributes of his employment relationship, if any, with the federal government.	"In determining status as a public official , are the character and attributes of his employment relationship with the federal government of greatest significance? "	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
5997	Raven v. Panama Canal Co., 583 F.2d 169, 171 (5th Cir. 1978)	5	Acts of Congress may treat aliens differently than citizens without such treatment being considered "invidious" or in violation of the equal protection clause. U.S.C.A.Const. Amend. 14.	The United States Supreme Court has recognized that Acts of Congress may treat aliens differently than citizens without such treatment being considered "invidious" or in violation of the Equal Protection clause. A legitimate distinction exists between citizens and aliens to warrant different treatment.	Can an Act of Congress treat aliens differently than citizens without such treatment being considered invidious?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

4100	Ruddock v. Burrowes, 243 Conn. 569, 577–84 (1998)	6	Consent to dismissal of action may be inferred from plaintiff's failure to file memorandum in opposition to defendant's motion to strike, or from plaintiff's inordinate delay in appointing administrator or executor.	Baker v. Banningoso, supra, 134 Conn. at 387, 58 A.2d 5; or consented to its dismissal. Such consent may be inferred from a plaintiff's failure to file a memorandum in opposition to a defendant's motion to strike; Hughes v. Bemer, 206 Conn. 491, 495, 538 A.2d 703 (1988); or from a plaintiff's inordinate delay in appointing an administrator or executor.	Can consent to dismissal of action be inferred from plaintiff's failure to file memorandum in opposition to defendant's motion to strike?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
9415	Ex Parte Browder, 373 S.W.2d 256, 257 (Tex. Crim. App. 1963)	1	Statute requiring court to continue cause where party or his attorney is member of Legislature is mandatory. Vernon's Ann.Civ.St. art. 2168a.	Art. 2168a, supra, requiring a court to continue a cause where a party or his attorney is a member of the legislature is recognized by the courts to be mandatory.	Is the statute requiring a court to continue cause where party or his attorney is member of Legislature mandatory?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
N/A	N/A	N/A	A township in a county under township organization has statutory power to direct the raising of money by taxation for construction and repairing of roads within its jurisdiction, and to make necessary contracts for that purpose.	N/A	N/A	Not an asserted headnote
10495	Citizens Nat. Bank v. Waltman, 344 So. 2d 725, 728 (Miss. 1977)	1	Execution of a renewal note with full knowledge of the facts constituting defense to the original note waives such defense as to the renewal.	Our law is clear that the execution of a renewal note with full knowledge of the facts constituting a defense to the original note waives that defense as to the renewal.	Does execution of a renewal note with full knowledge of the facts constituting a defense to the original note waive all defenses?	Not Copyrightable (headnote near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation

5385	Peterson v. McCawley, 135 Idaho 282, 284 (2000)	4	In fashioning sanctions, a trial court should balance the equities by comparing the culpability of the disobedient party with the resulting prejudice to the innocent party.	In fashioning sanctions, a trial court should "balance the equities by comparing the culpability of the disobedient party with the resulting prejudice to the innocent party."	"In fashioning sanctions, should a trial court balance the equities by comparing the culpability of the disobedient party with the resulting prejudice to the innocent party?"	Not Copyrightable (headnote near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation
4152	Kuykendall v. Schneidewind, 79 N.E.3d 770, 779 (Ill.App. 5 Dist., 2017)	6	On motion to dismiss on ground that claim is barred by affirmative matter, defendant has initial burden of establishing that affirmative matter defeats plaintiff's claim, and if satisfied, burden shifts to plaintiff to demonstrate that proffered affirmative matter is either unfounded, or requires resolution of material fact. 735 Ill. Comp. Stat. Ann. 5/2-619(a)(9).	The defendant has the initial burden of establishing that an affirmative matter defeats the plaintiff's claim, and if satisfied, the burden shifts to the plaintiff to demonstrate that the proffered affirmative matter is either unfounded, or requires the resolution of a material fact.	Does a defendant bear the initial burden to prove the affirmative matter defeating the plaintiff's claim?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
20822	Carroll Cnty. Sav. Bank v. Strother, 28 S.C. 504, 6 S.E. 313, 319 (1888)	5	A contract to pay money which authorizes the payee to declare it due whenever deemed insecure is not a negotiable note.	As to the other stipulation whereby the payee is invested with authority to declare the so-called note due whenever it is deemed insecure, it seems to us clear that it is sufficient, not only to deprive the paper of its negotiability, but also of its character as a note; for it renders the time of payment altogether uncertain, and dependent only upon the the option of the payee. See Bank v. Bynum, supra; Glidden v. Henry, 104 Ind. 278, 1 N. E. Rep. 369; Mahoney v. Fitzpatrick, 133 Mass. 151, 43 Amer. Rep. 502; Woodbury v. Roberts, 59 Iowa, 348, 13 N. W. Rep. 312.	Are notes promising to pay specified sums of money for the hire of slaves promissory notes?	Krein Concedes no copying; Not Copyrightable (expired)

17887	Fogade v. ENB Revocable Trust, 263 F.3d 1274, 1296 (11th Cir. 2001)	26	Act of state doctrine applies to affirmative defenses.	Therefore, because FOGADE's intervention of Corpofin, upon which Corpofin's claim to ENB is based, was not in violation of international law, the Second Hickenlooper Amendment does not apply to preclude the application of the act of state doctrine to defendants' affirmative defenses questioning the standing of plaintiffs to sue because of the alleged illegality of the intervention of Corpofin.	Does the act of state doctrine apply to affirmative defenses?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
14086	Cayuga Nation v. Tanner, 824 F.3d 321, 328 (2d Cir. 2016)	4	The Bureau of Indian Affairs (BIA) has the authority to make recognition decisions regarding tribal leadership, but only when the situation has deteriorated to the point that recognition of some government was essential for Federal purposes; thus, the BIA has both the authority and responsibility to interpret tribal law when necessary to carry out the government-to-government relationship with the tribe.	Second, the BIA has the authority to make recognition decisions regarding tribal leadership, but "only when the situation [has] deteriorated to the point that recognition of some government was essential for Federal purposes." Wadena, 30 IBIA 130, 145 (1996) (emphasis added). Thus, the BIA "has both the authority and responsibility to interpret tribal law when necessary to carry out the government-to-government relationship with the tribe."	What is the relevance of the Bureau of Indian Affairs?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

1594	Young v. HealthPort Techs., Inc., 877 N.W.2d 124, 127–28 (Iowa 2016)	7	To survive a motion to dismiss for the failure to state a claim on which relief may be granted, the petition need not allege the ultimate facts to support each element of a cause of action; however, it must contain factual allegations sufficient to give the defendant fair notice of each claim asserted so the defendant can adequately respond, and the allegations satisfy this "fair notice" requirement if the petition informs the defendant of the general nature of claim and the incident giving rise to it. I.C.A. Rule 1.421(1)(f).	To survive a motion to dismiss, the petition need not allege the ultimate facts to support each element of a cause of action. Id. However, it must contain factual allegations sufficient to give the defendant fair notice of each claim asserted so the defendant can adequately respond. The allegations in a petition comply with this fair-notice requirement if the petition informs the defendant of the general nature of the claim and the incident giving rise to it.	"To survive a motion to dismiss for the failure to state a claim on which relief can be granted, should the petition not allege the ultimate facts to support each element of a cause of action?"	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
20534	State Fire Marshall v. Lee, 101 Mich. App. 829, 834, 300 N.W.2d 748, 751 (1980)	3	In insuring safety of school children through application of fire regulations, State was not violating free exercise clause of Constitution nor its establishment clause. U.S.C.A.Const. Amend. 1.	In ensuring the safety of school children, the State is not violating the free exercise clause of our Constitution nor its establishment clause.	Does the state has a compelling interest to ensure the safety and welfare of school children?	Krein Concedes no copying
16257	K & K Const., Inc. v. Dep't of Nat. Res., 456 Mich. 570, 580, 575 N.W.2d 531, 536 (1998)	6	Determining size of denominator parcel to be analyzed in takings analysis is inherently a factual inquiry. U.S.C.A. Const.Amend. 5; M.C.L.A. Const. Art. 10, S 2.	The relevant denominator in this case includes at least parcels one, two, and four. [6] Determining the size of the denominator parcel is inherently a factual inquiry. As explained in Ciampitti v.	Is determining the size of the denominator parcel a factual inquiry under the taking laws?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
18558	Davidson v. Bugbee, 227 Mich. App. 264, 575 N.W.2d 574, 269 (Mich. Ct. App. 1997)	8	Cause of action accrues when all the elements of claim have occurred and can be alleged in proper complaint.	A cause of action accrues when all the elements of the claim have occurred and can be alleged in a proper complaint.	Does a cause of action accrue when all the elements of claim have occurred and can be alleged in proper complaint?	Not Copyrightable (headnote near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation

16973	People ex rel. Price v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 266 Ill. 636, 638, 107 N.E. 803, 804 (1915)	1	Under Road and Bridge Law, S 56, S.H.A. ch. 121, S 62, a resolution of the county board directing the county clerk to extend on the tax books road and bridge taxes, is not an approval by the board of the taxes, to render a levy valid.	Under the road and bridge laws of 1913 the original certificate of levy of road and bridge taxes must be filed with the county clerk, and no valid tax can be extended by him upon a copy of the certificate of levy, the original of which is filed with the town clerk as was the practice under the old law. People v. Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railway Co., 269 Ill.	Does the county clerk have authority to extend the road and bridge tax?	Not copyrightable (expired); No Material Appropriation
10928	Mississippi Dept. of Human Services v. Guidry, 830 So. 2d 628, 631 (Miss. 2002)	4	Power to dismiss action for want of prosecution is part of trial court's inherent authority.	"[T]he power to dismiss an action for want of prosecution is part of a trial court's inherent authority."	Is the power to dismiss action for want of prosecution a part of trial court's inherent authority?	Not Copyrightable (headnote near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation
14821	Rachbach v. Cogswell, 547 F.2d 502, 505 (10th Cir. 1976)	8	Section of the Truth in Lending Act providing that obligor who exercises right to rescind is not liable for any finance or other charge does not preclude court from doing equity, and no abuse of discretion was shown in the imposition of interest as an equitable condition to the right of rescission of mortgage contract where the borrower had had the benefit of the use of the loan proceeds. Truth in Lending Act, S 125(b) as amended 15 U.S.C.A. S 1635(b).	Section 1635(b) says that when an obligor exercises his right to rescind "he is not liable for any finance or other charge."	Is an obligor liable for finance or other charges when exercising the right to rescind?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

5145	Town of Kaneville v. Meredith, 361 Ill. 556, 569 (Ill., 1935)	8	In law action rights of parties are determined as of time of beginning of action, but where relief is granted in chancery it is such as nature of case, the law and the facts demand, not at time of inception of litigation, but at time decree is entered therein.	While in an action at law the rights of the parties are determined as of the time of the beginning of the action, a decree in chancery is a determination of the rights of the parties to the suit according to equity and good conscience, and where relief is granted by a decree, it is such as the nature of the case, the law and the facts demand, not at the time of the inception of the litigation, but at the time the decree is entered therein.	"In actions at law, are the rights of the parties generally determined as of the time of beginning of the action?"	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
------	---	---	--	---	--	--

757	Burns v. Drew Woods, 900 S.W.2d 128, 129 (Tex. App. 1995)	2	If trial court makes finding that party's failure to appear was not intentional or result of conscious indifference but was due to accident or mistake, or that failure has been otherwise reasonably explained, it has no discretion and must reinstate case. Vernon's Ann.Texas Rules Civ.Proc., Rule 165a, subd. 1.	Burns does not assert that she attended the pretrial conference or that the court had no authority to dismiss her suit for failing to appear. In a single point of error, she asserts that the court abused its discretion in denying her motion to reinstate the suit against Drew Woods. See id. 165a.3. Rule 165a.3 provides, however, the court "shall reinstate the case upon finding after a hearing that the failure of the party or his attorney was not intentional or the result of conscious indifference but was due to an accident or mistake or that the failure has been otherwise reasonably explained." 1 Id. (emphasis added). Thus, if the court makes the specified finding, it has no discretion and must reinstate the case. When a point of error asserts that the court erred in failing to reinstate a cause, the rule focuses our review not on the court's discretion but on its role in the fact-finding *130 process.	"If trial court makes finding that party's failure to appear was not intentional or result of conscious indifference but was due to accident or mistake, does it have no discretion and must reinstate the case?"	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
4052	US Chem. Storage, LLC v. Berto Constr., Inc., 253 N.C. App. 378, 382, 800 S.E.2d 716, 720 (2017)	7	The standard of review to be applied by a trial court in deciding a motion to dismiss for lack of personal jurisdiction depends upon the procedural context confronting the court. N.C. R. Civ. P. 12(b)(2).	"The standard of review to be applied by a trial court in deciding a motion under Rule 12(b)(2) depends upon the procedural context confronting the court."	Does the standard of review to be applied by a trial court in deciding a motion to dismiss for lack of personal jurisdiction depend upon the procedural context confronting the court?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

5854	State v. Metz, 671 N.Y.S.2d 79, 83 (N.Y. App. Div. 1st Dept. 1998)	2	Generally, function of motion in limine is to permit party to obtain preliminary order before or during trial excluding introduction of anticipated inadmissible, immaterial, or prejudicial evidence or limiting its use; purpose of motion is to prevent introduction of such evidence to trier of fact, in most instances a jury.	Generally, the function of a motion in limine is to permit a party to obtain a preliminary order before or during trial excluding the introduction of anticipated inadmissible, immaterial, or prejudicial evidence or limiting its use. Its purpose is to prevent the introduction of such evidence to the trier of fact, in most instances a jury.	Does a motion in limine challenge evidence which is claimed to be immaterial or request a limitation on the use of such evidence?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
9548	Allred v. Allred, 132 Conn. App. 430, 431 (Conn. App. Ct. 2011)	1	Because service of process implicates a court's personal jurisdiction, an action commenced by improper service must be dismissed.	Because service of process implicates a court's personal jurisdiction, "an action commenced by ... improper service must be dismissed."	Must an action commenced by improper service be dismissed?	Not Copyrightable (headnote near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation
10943	United States v. Deninno, 103 F.3d 82, 87 (10th Cir. 1996)	11	Civil forfeiture does not constitute punishment for purposes of Fifth Amendment's prohibition on double jeopardy. U.S.C.A. Const.Amend. 5.	In Urser, the Supreme Court held that civil forfeiture does not constitute punishment for the purposes of the Fifth Amendment's prohibition on double jeopardy.	Does civil forfeiture not constitute punishment for purposes of a Fifth Amendment's prohibition on double jeopardy?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
4548	Price v. Price, 1989 OK CIV APP 50, ¶ 1 (1989)	1	Generally, subject to few exceptions, complainant has common law and statutory right to control his cause by dismissal at his pleasure on payment of costs. 12 O.S.1981, S 684.	Generally, subject to few exceptions, a complainant has a common law and statutory right to control his cause by dismissal at his pleasure on payment of costs.	"Subject to a few exceptions, does a complainant have common law and statutory right to control his cause by dismissal at his pleasure on payment of costs?"	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

Comparison to 200 headnotes Appendix E to Dr. Krein's Reply Report

Krein Row	Case Name	HN No. in Case	Headnote Text	Judicial Text	Memo Question	Analysis
-----------	-----------	----------------	---------------	---------------	---------------	----------

18724	Flanagin v. Hambleton, 54 Md. 222, 227 (Md. 1880)	8	The word "renewal" has no legal, or strictly technical signification.	The word "renewal" has no legal or strictly technical signification.	Does the word renewal have any legal or technical signification?	Not Copyrightable (expired; headnote near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation
21483	100 Harborview Drive Condo. Council of Unit Owners v. Clark, 224 Md. App. 13, 68, 119 A.3d 87, 119 (2015)	54	Condominium council sued by unit owner for violations of his right to disclosure of records under Maryland Condominium Act (MCA) was not entitled to present testimony of accounting expert on legal issue of whether detailed billing reports of legal counsel were part of the financial books and records that a condominium association is required to keep, as expert was not timely disclosed pursuant to scheduling order. West's Ann.Md.Code, Real Property, S 11-116.	We have deemed substantial compliance with a scheduling order to be sufficient where the opposing party has not suffered prejudice.	Is substantial compliance with a scheduling order sufficient where the opposing party has not suffered prejudice?	Krein Concedes no copying
11731	Avon Hardware Co. v. Ace Hardware Corp., 2013 IL App (1st) 130750, ¶ 13, 998 N.E.2d 1281, 1287	3	In ruling on a motion to dismiss, the complaint's factual allegations are to be interpreted in the light most favorable to the plaintiff. S.H.A. 735 ILCS 5/2-615.	In ruling on a motion to dismiss, the complaint's factual allegations are to be interpreted in the light most favorable to the plaintiff, but factual deficiencies may not be cured by liberal construction.	"In ruling on a motion to dismiss, are the complaint's factual allegations to be interpreted in the light most favorable to the plaintiff? "	Not Copyrightable (headnote near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation

1262	Pac. Exp. Co. v. Needham, 37 Tex. Civ. App. 129, 132–33, 83 S.W. 22, 23 (1904)	6	Under Rev.St.1895, art. 1277, providing that, on the first application for a continuance on the ground of want of testimony, the applicant shall make affidavit that such testimony is material and that he has used due diligence , an application for continuance is properly refused where it fails to state the use of due diligence to procure the required testimony.	Appellant's third assignment of error complains of the action of the *133 court below in overruling its first application for a continuance . In this there was no error, because the application did not comply with the statutory requirements, in that it failed to state that appellant had used due diligence to procure the testimony of the absent witnesses. Rev.St.1895, art. 1277; Crawford v. Saunders (Tex.Civ.App.) 29 S.W. 102; Railway Co. v. Aiken, 71 Tex. 377, 9 S.W. 437; Railway Co. v. Woolum, 84 Tex. 570, 19 S.W. 782; Brown v. Bank, 70 Tex. 750, 8 S.W. 599.	Is an application for continuance properly refused where it fails to state the use of due diligence to procure the required testimony ?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
19480	Ad Miller Associates, Inc. v. Glynn, 736 So. 2d 798, 799 (Fla. Dist. Ct. App. 1999)	2	Default is most serious sanction that can be imposed on defendant.	A default is the most serious sanction that can be imposed on a defendant.	Is default the most serious sanction that can be imposed on a defendant?	Not Copyrightable (headnote near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation
19409	Ash v. Werner, 12 Pa. Super. 39, 43 (1899)	3	A new partner , coming into an existing firm , is not liable for debts contracted by the firm previous to his entering it, unless he expressly assumed them.	A partner who enters a firm already established does not thereby become liable for the debts of the old firm. Nothing but an express agreement will render him so liable: Hart v. Kelley, 83 Pa. 286; Shoemaker v. King, 40 Pa. 107.	Is an incoming partner liable on the contracts entered into by the firm before he became a member?	Not Copyrightable (expired); No Material Appropriation

729	Guggenheimer v. Ginzburg, 372 N.E.2d 17, 20-21 (1977)	6	When evidentiary material is considered in connection with motion to dismiss, criterion is whether proponent of pleading has cause of action, not whether he has stated one, and, unless it has been shown that material facts as claimed by pleader to be one is not fact at all and unless it can be said that no significant dispute exists regarding it, dismissal should not eventuate. CPLR 3211(a), par. 7, (c).	When evidentiary material is considered, the criterion is whether the proponent of the pleading has a cause of action, not whether he has stated one, and, unless it has been 21 shown that a material fact as claimed by the pleader to be one is not a fact at all and unless it can be said that no significant dispute exists regarding it, again dismissal should not eventuate.	"Unless it has been shown that a material fact as claimed by the plaintiff to be one is not a fact at all and unless it can be said that no significant dispute exists regarding it, should a dismissal not eventuate?"	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
5786	Wasko v. Manella, 849 A.2d 777, 781 (Conn. 2004)	3	The right of legal or equitable subrogation is not a matter of contract; it does not arise from any contractual relationship between the parties, but takes place as a matter of equity, with or without an agreement to that effect.	By contrast, [t]he right of [legal or equitable] subrogation is not a matter of contract; it does not arise from any contractual relationship between the parties, but takes place as a matter of equity, with or without an agreement to that effect.	"Does legal subrogation take place as a matter of equity, without any agreement to that effect?"	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
9292	Ins. Co. of N. Am. v. Borsdorff Servs., Inc., 225 A.D.2d 494, 494, 639 N.Y.S.2d 816, 816 (1996)	1	Lease provisions stating agreement by landlord and tenant to obtain fire insurance policies with waiver of subrogation provisions barring action by insurers were valid and enforceable as allocation of risk provision, and, therefore, precluded subrogation action by insurer.	The lease provisions whereby the landlord and tenant agreed to obtain fire insurance policies with waiver of subrogation provisions barring one party's insurer from bringing a subrogation action against the other party to recover amounts paid out under the insurance policy, is valid and enforceable, as an allocation of risk provision, and thereby precludes this subrogation claim (see, Brentano's Inc. v. Charter Mgt. Corp., 46 A.D.2d 861, 361 N.Y.S.2d 665; Cidis v. Net Realty Holding Trust, 143 A.D.2d 720, 533 N.Y.S.2d 288).	Are waiver of subrogation clauses valid and enforceable?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

7283	In re Wead, 38 B.R. 658, 659–60 (Bankr. E.D. Mo. 1984)	2	Bankruptcy Court would not entertain or consider a second Chapter 11 petition involving the same debtors and essentially the same debts where the first case was still pending , where debtors did not present any basis upon which the findings and conclusions in first case could be reconsidered, and where there remained no reasonable likelihood of reorganization, and where the creditors would continue to be prejudiced by operation of second bankruptcy case, which was not filed in good faith. Bankr.Code, 11 U.S.C.A. S 1101 et seq.	It is generally accepted that the pendency of one bankruptcy case precludes a consideration of a second case filed by the same debtor(s) and involving the same debts. . . . Therefore, this Court finds that it cannot entertain or consider a second Chapter 11 petition involving the same debtors and essentially the same debts , when the first case is still pending .	Does the pendency of one bankruptcy case preclude a consideration of a second case filed by the same debtors involving the same debts?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
17903	Philadelphia Indem. Ins. Co. v. Pace Suburban Bus Serv., 2016 IL App (1st) 151659, ¶ 25, 67 N.E.3d 556, 565	11	Subrogation is allowed to prevent injustice and unjust enrichment but will not be allowed where it would be inequitable to do so.	Subrogation is allowed to prevent injustice and unjust enrichment but will not be allowed where it would be inequitable to do so.	Will subrogation be allowed where it would be inequitable?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

1529	Pocahontas First Corp. v. Venture Plan. Grp., Inc., 572 F. Supp. 503, 506 (D. Nev. 1983)	4	It is permissible for court to decide pretrial motion to dismiss for lack of personal jurisdiction on the basis of affidavits alone; where this procedure is followed, plaintiff need make only a prima facie showing of jurisdiction through its affidavits to defeat motion to dismiss.	It is permissible for a court to decide a pretrial motion to dismiss for lack of personal jurisdiction on the basis of affidavits alone. Marine Midland Bank, N.A. v. Miller, 664 F.2d 899, 904 (2nd Cir.1981). Such a procedure seems particularly appropriate in the instant case, where the opposing affidavits don't contradict each other as to the material facts. Disagreement is centered on the legal conclusions to be derived from those facts. Where this approach is followed, the plaintiff need make only a prima facie showing of jurisdiction, through its affidavits, to defeat the motion to dismiss.	"If a court chooses to rule on a motion to dismiss for lack of personal jurisdiction on the basis of affidavits alone, need the party opposing the motion make only a prima facie showing of jurisdiction?"	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
13318	State ex rel. Priest v. Gunn, 326 S.W.2d 314, 329 (Mo. 1959)	18	Matters arising pendente lite may be pleaded in defense by respondent in mandamus proceeding or by the relator in his replication.	It has been held that matters arising pendente lite may be pleaded in defense by the respondent (55 C.J.S. Mandamus § 278, p. 518; State ex rel. Kavanaugh v. Henderson, 350 Mo. 968, 169 S.W.2d 389), or by the relator in his 'replication' (55 C.J.S. Mandamus § 284, p. 522.)	Can matters arising pendente lite be pleaded in defense by respondent in mandamus proceeding or by the relator in his replication?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

833	Zapanta v. Universal Care, Inc., 107 Cal. App. 4th 1167, 1171, 132 Cal. Rptr. 2d 842, 845 (2003)	3	Exceptions to a plaintiff's right to dismiss action before commencement of trial generally arise where the action has proceeded to a determinative adjudication, or to a decision that is tantamount to an adjudication; upon the proper exercise of that right, a trial court would thereafter lack jurisdiction to enter further orders in the dismissed action, except for matters such as attorney fees. West's Ann.Cal.C.C.P. S 581.	But the right of a plaintiff to voluntarily dismiss an action before commencement of trial is not absolute. (Cravens v. State Bd. of Equalization (1997) 52 Cal.App.4th 253, 256, 60 Cal.Rptr.2d 436.) “ ‘Code of Civil Procedure section 581 recognizes exceptions to the right; other limitations have evolved through the courts' construction of the term ‘commencement of trial.’ These exceptions generally arise where the action has proceeded to a determinative adjudication, or to a decision that is tantamount to an adjudication.’ ” (Ibid., quoting Harris v. Billings (1993) 16 Cal.App.4th 1396, 1402, 20 Cal.Rptr.2d 718.) “ ‘Upon the proper exercise of that right, a trial court would thereafter lack jurisdiction to enter further orders in the dismissed action’ [citation] except for matters such as attorney's fees.	Do exceptions to a plaintiff's right to dismiss action before commencement of a trial generally arise where the action has proceeded to a determinative adjudication?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
-----	--	---	--	---	--	---

19820	Affholter v. Franklin Cnty. Water Dist., No. 1:07CV03880 WWDLB, 2008 WL 5385810, at *13–14 (E.D. Cal. Dec. 23, 2008)	1	Arbitration clauses in agreements for the sale of property were not unconscionable. Therefore, purchasers' claims for property damage, economic losses, and emotional distress arising out of the alleged discharge of pollutants from various public and private wastewater treatment, refuse, and disposal facilities, irrigation canals, and other facilities were subject to arbitration under the Federal Arbitration Act. The purchasers alleged that the provision was substantively unconscionable because it precluded discovery. However, the arbitration rules and regulations provided for depositions as a matter of right and depositions based upon a showing of reasonable need. 9 U.S.C.A. § 1 et seq.	Ranchwood Plaintiffs first assert that the Arbitration Provision is substantively unconscionable because it “precludes discovery.” Doc. 210 at 12. This is not an entirely accurate description of the provision. Subparagraph (g) of the Arbitration Provision provides: [. . .] *14 (Emphasis added.) Accordingly, if the applicable arbitration rules provide for discovery, discovery may be available. In this case, the parties have already agreed that if arbitration proceeds it will commence pursuant to the rules and regulations of Jams/Endispute, which provide that each party may take one (1) deposition as a matter of right, and that additional depositions may be permitted upon a showing of “reasonable need.” (Decl. of Christopher S. Hall, Doc. 216–2, at ¶ 4 and Ex. B.)	Did the Federal Arbitration Act (FAA) create rules of contract construction favoring arbitration?	Krein Concedes no copying
11866	Ortiz v. State, 849 S.W.2d 921, 924 (Tex. App. 1993)	7	Exception to rule that, generally, prior jeopardy does not constitute bar to retrial when defendant consents to new trial, exists when governmental conduct, either by judge or prosecutor, is designed to goad defendant into moving for retrial; then, double jeopardy clause will bar reprosecution despite defendant's consent to new trial. U.S.C.A. Const.Amend. 5.	Generally, prior jeopardy does not constitute a bar to retrial when the defendant consents to a new trial. An exception, however, exists to the above rule when governmental conduct, either by the judge or the prosecutor, is designed to goad the defendant into moving for a mistrial. Then, the Double jeopardy clause will bar reprosecution despite the defendant's consent to the new trial.	Does prior jeopardy not constitute a bar to retrial when a defendant consents to a new trial?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

2765	Carter v. VistaCare, LLC, 335 Ga. App. 616, 624, 782 S.E.2d 678, 686 (2016)	18	The moving party's burden on a motion to withdraw admissions is not perfunctorily satisfied, and the failure to present admissible, credible evidence contradicting the admitted matters justifies the denial of the motion to withdraw. West's Ga.CodeAnn. S 9-11-36(b).	This burden "is not perfunctorily satisfied," Turner, 280 Ga.App. at 257(1), 633 S.E.2d 641, and the "[f]ailure to present admissible, credible evidence contradicting the admitted matters justifies the denial of the motion to withdraw." (Citation omitted.) Brooks, 317 Ga.App. at 267(1), 730 S.E.2d 509. Moreover, [t]he party seeking to withdraw the admissions has the burden of establishing the first prong by showing that the admitted request either can be refuted by admissible evidence having a modicum of credibility or is incredible on its face, and the denial is not offered solely for purposes of delay. Failure to present admissible, credible evidence contradicting the admitted matters justifies the denial of the motion to withdraw. (Citations and punctuation omitted.) Porter v.	"Is the moving party's burden on a motion to withdraw admissions perfunctorily satisfied, and the failure to present admissible, credible evidence contradicting the admitted matters justifies the denial of the motion to withdraw?"	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
18022	Merchants Nat. Bank of Aurora v. Frazier, 329 Ill. App. 191, 201 (Ill. App. Ct. 1946)	5	An agent, as such, does not have title to the property of the principal, though he may be intrusted with possession and though he may have power to pass title.	An agent as such does not have title to the property of the principal, although he may be entrusted with possession and although he may have power to pass title; a trustee has title to the trust fund.	Does Agent have title to the property of the principal?	Not Copyrightable (headnote near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation

12577	Land Title Bank & Tr. Co. v. Ward, 20 F. Supp. 810, 812–13 (E.D. Pa. 1937)	4	"According to its value" as used in statute retaining in the states and their subdivisions the power to tax real property of a national bank to the same extent, according to its value as other real property is taxed, does not limit the manner of collection of state taxes but merely limits the tax which a state might levy to an ad valorem tax levied upon the same basis as all real estate similarly situated in the taxing district. 12 U.S.C.A. § 548(3).	As we understand the clause 'according to its value,' it is not intended to limit the manner of collection of state taxation at all. That is only limited by the manner in which 'other real property is taxed,' by the state. The purpose of the clause 'according to its value' was to limit the tax which a state might levy to an ad valorem tax levied upon the same basis on all real estate similarly situated in the *813 taxing district. In other words, Congress has declared that, while the states remain free to levy and collect taxes upon the real estate of national banks in the same manner as upon other real estate, such taxes shall be levied according to a definite percentage of the value of the real estate taxed, and that both the rate and basis of valuation applied to the real estate of a national bank shall be the same as those applied to other real estate within the taxing district similarly situated.	"How is an ""ad valorem property taxes"" levied?"	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
6794	Whisman v. Fawcett, 470 N.E.2d 73, 77 (Ind. 1984)	4	Reasons for avoiding overly technical application of pretrial orders are amplified when pretrial order is not definitive, specific, complete, or detailed.	Furthermore, the reasons for avoiding overly technical application of pretrial orders are amplified when, as in this case, the pretrial order is not definitive, specific, complete, or detailed.	"Are reasons for avoiding overly technical application of pretrial orders amplified when a pretrial order is not definitive, specific, complete, or detailed?"	Not Copyrightable (headnote near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation

1211	Bounds v. Caudle, 549 S.W.2d 438, 444 (Tex. Civ. App.), writ granted (July 27, 1977), rev'd, 560 S.W.2d 925 (Tex. 1977)	9	Purpose of rule of civil procedure governing discovery is to permit inspection and copying of tangible things within opposing party's custody upon a showing of good cause; although courts are required to give such rule a liberal construction, it was never intended to allow fishing excursions and was not intended to allow invasion of opposing party's thinking processes or that of his expert witnesses. Rules of Civil Procedure, rule 167.	*444 [9] The purpose of Rule 167 is to permit inspection and copying of "tangible things" within the opposing party's custody upon a showing of good cause. Although we are required to give this rule a liberal construction, it was never intended to allow fishing excursions. Texhoma Stores, Inc. v. American Central Insurance Company, 424 S.W.2d 466 (Tex.Civ.App. Dallas 1968, writ ref'd n. r. e.). Rule 167 was not intended to allow invasion of the opposing party's thinking processes or that of his expert witnesses.	Is the purpose of a rule of civil procedure governing discovery to permit inspection and copying of tangible things within an opposing party's custody upon a showing of good cause?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
12624	United States v. Kay, 200 F. Supp. 2d 681, 683 (S.D. Tex. 2002), rev'd and remanded, 359 F.3d 738 (5th Cir. 2004)	3	Payments made by the defendants to foreign government officials for purpose of reducing customs duties and taxes did not fall under the scope of provision of the Foreign Corrupt Practices Act (FCPA), prohibiting payments to foreign officials to obtain or retain business; although the plain language of the statute was ambiguous, legislative history showed that the Congress specifically rejected proposed language to broaden the "obtain or retain business" clause that would have covered the defendants' conduct. Securities Exchange Act of 1934, S 30A(a), as amended, 15 U.S.C.A. S 78dd-1(a); Foreign Corrupt Practices Act of 1977, S 104(a), 15 U.S.C.A. S 78dd-2(a).	In applying criminal laws, federal courts must generally follow the plain and unambiguous language of the statute. E.g., Salinas v. United States, 522 U.S. 52, 57, 118 S.Ct. 469, 139 L.Ed.2d 352 (1997); Johnson v. Sawyer, 120 F.3d 1307, 1319 (5th Cir.1997). Reviewing the "obtain or retain business" language, together with the exceptions listed above, the Court determines that the FCPA is ambiguous under these circumstances.4 Therefore, the Court turns to an analysis of the legislative history of the FCPA. See, e.g., Ratzlaf v. United States, 510 U.S. 135, 147-48, 114 S.Ct. 655, 126 L.Ed.2d 615 (1994) ("[W]e do not resort to legislative history to cloud a statutory text that is clear.").	"Is the plain language of a provision of FCPA, prohibiting payments to foreign officials to obtain or retain business ambiguous?"	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

16447	Sands v. State Through Louisiana State Med. Ctr., Sch. of Dentistry, 458 So. 2d 960, 961 (La. Ct. App. 1984)	1	A continuance is not due on a naked showing that a client has discharged his or her lawyer; to discharge one's lawyer, even without any cause, would otherwise enable one to delay going to trial forever.	We deem it beyond question that a continuance is not due on a naked showing that a client has discharged his or her lawyer. To discharge one's lawyer, even without any cause, would otherwise enable one to delay going to trial forever.	Is a continuance not due on a naked showing that a client has discharged his or her lawyer?	Not Copyrightable (headnote near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation
11527	Lazar v. Black & White Cab Co., 50 Ga. App. 567, 179 S.E. 250, 251-52 (1935)	10	Depositions cannot be admitted in evidence or treated as having force and effect of evidence, unless it appears that they were properly transmitted to court in which legal proceeding was pending.	Among other requirements for the admission in evidence of depositions, it must appear that they were properly transmitted to the court where the legal proceeding in which they were taken was pending. Findlay v. Mineralized Rubber Co., 98 Ga. 275, 25 S. E. 456; Johnstone v. Etowah Milling Co., 8 Ga. App. 807 (2), 809, 70 S. E. 180. Even though properly sworn to by the witness and properly executed, not only can they not be admitted in evidence, but they cannot be treated as having the force and effect of evidence in the case, until thus properly transmitted.	Can depositions be admitted in evidence or treated as having force and effect of evidence?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
13256	South Carolina v. McDonald's, 375 S.C. 90, 91-92 (2007)	2	Ruling on motion in limine is generally not considered a final order on the admissibility of evidence and, for that reason, is not immediately appealable.	A motion in limine is generally not considered a final order on the admissibility of evidence and, for that reason, is not immediately appealable.	Is a ruling on a motion in limine considered a final order?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

7067	Epstein v. Chicago Bd. of Educ., 178 Ill. 2d 370, 383, 687 N.E.2d 1042, 1049 (1997)	8	Appeal from involuntary dismissal on ground that claim is barred by other affirmative matter avoiding legal effect of or defeating claim resembles grant of summary judgment motion and is likewise reviewed de novo; appellate court must consider whether existence of genuine issue of material fact should have precluded dismissal or, absent such issue of fact, whether dismissal is proper as matter of law. S.H.A. 735 ILCS 5/2-619(a)(9).	A dismissal of this type resembles the grant of a summary judgment motion. For that reason, the reviewing court conducts de novo review and considers whether "the existence of a genuine issue of material fact should have precluded the dismissal or, absent such an issue of fact, whether dismissal is proper as a matter of law."	Can a court determine whether a genuine issue of material fact should preclude dismissal?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
1323	White v. Jasper City Bd. of Educ., 644 So.2d 16, 17 (Ala.Civ.App.,1994)	2	Although dismissal of action for failure to prosecute or to comply with rules or order is harsh sanction, it is warranted when there is clear record of delay, willful default or contumacious conduct of plaintiff. Rules Civ.Proc., Rule 41(b).	Although a Rule 41(b) dismissal is a harsh sanction, it is warranted when there is a "clear record of delay, willful default or contumacious conduct of the plaintiff."	"Is dismissal of action for failure to prosecute or to comply with rules or order warranted when there is clear record of delay, willful default or contumacious conduct of plaintiff?"	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
20411	Anderson Living Tr. v. WPX Energy Prod., LLC, 312 F.R.D. 620, 648 (D.N.M. 2015)	18	In ruling on a motion to reconsider an interlocutory order, a court should consider the case's overall progress and posture, the motion's timeliness relative to the order it challenges, and any direct evidence the parties may produce, and use those factors to assess the degree of reasonable reliance the opposing party has placed in the court's prior ruling. Fed. R. Civ. P. 54(b).	Second, the Court should consider the case's overall progress and posture, the motion for reconsideration's timeliness relative to the ruling it challenges, and any direct evidence the parties may produce, and use those factors to assess the degree of reasonable reliance the opposing party has placed in the Court's prior ruling.	Is processing something that takes place in order for the gas to be marketable to interstate pipelines?	Krein Concedes no copying

3847	Halifax Paper Co. v. Roanoke Rapids Sanitary Dist., 232 N.C. 421, 429 (1950)	6	The fact that a business or enterprise is, generally speaking, a public utility, does not make every service performed or rendered by it a public service and it may act in a private capacity as distinguished from its public capacity, and, in so doing, is subject to the same rules as a private person.	The fact that a business or enterprise is, generally speaking, a public utility, does not make every service performed or rendered by it a public service, but it may act in a private capacity as distinguished from its public capacity, and in so doing is subject to the same rules as a private person.	Is a public utility subject to the same rules as a private person when it acts in a private capacity?	Not Copyrightable (headnote near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation
18308	Grannis v. Stevens, 216 N.Y. 583, 111 N.E. 263 (1916)		Act and intention are the essential constituents of a delivery which makes an instrument operative according to its terms. The final question is, Did the obligor do such act in reference to it as evidences an intention to give it, in the possession or control of the obligee, effect and operation according to its terms?	Krein's headnote not found using judicial opinion.	What is the essential ingredient of a delivery?	Not Copyrightable (expired; no headnote)
8776	USLIFE Corp. v. U.S. Life Ins. Co., 560 F. Supp. 1302, 1304 (N.D. Tex. 1983)	3	Equitable estoppel focuses on relationship between parties to prior litigation, and applies where one of parties has detrimentally relied upon position taken by other party in earlier proceeding.	Equitable estoppel focuses on the relationship between the parties to the prior litigation, and it applies where one of the parties has detrimentally relied upon the position taken by the other party in the earlier proceeding.	Does equitable estoppel focus on the relationship between parties to the prior litigation?	Not Copyrightable (headnote near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation
4104	Vidal v. Perez, 720 So. 2d 605, 606 (Fla. Dist. Ct. App. 1998)	3	Trial judge has broad discretion in declining to dismiss an action if reasonable cause for the failure to effect timely service is documented.	"The trial judge has broad discretion in declining to dismiss an action if reasonable cause for the failure to effect timely service is documented." Morales v. Sperry Rand Corp., 601 So.2d 538, 540 (Fla.1992).	Does a trial judge have broad discretion in declining to dismiss an action if reasonable cause for the failure to effect timely service is documented?	Not Copyrightable (headnote near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation

981	Sourbier v. State, 498 N.W.2d 720, 723 (Iowa, 1993)	4	Under workers' compensation law, employer provides, secures, or pays compensation for any and all personal injuries sustained by employee arising out of and in course of employment, and in such case, employer is relieved from other liability for recovery of damages or other compensation for such personal injury. I.C.A. S 85.3.	Under workers' compensation law, an employer provides, secures, or pays compensation for any and all personal injuries sustained by an employee arising out of and in the course of the employment, and in such case, the employer is relieved from other liability for recovery of damages or other compensation for such personal injury. Iowa Code 85.3.	"Under workers compensation law, does an employer provide, secure, or pay compensation for any and all personal injuries sustained by an employee arising out of and in the course of employment, and in such case, the employer is relieved from other liability for recovery of damages or other compensation for such personal injury?"	Not Copyrightable (headnote near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation
-----	---	---	--	---	--	---

19834	W. Elec. Co. v. Cooley, 79 Cal. App. 770, 777-78, 251 P. 331, 334 (Cal. Ct. App. 1926)	3	Electric power line is " structure ," within statute giving lien on building or other structure. Code Civ.Proc. S 1183.	That decisions from other states are of little value in considering our statute arises from the fact that, in almost every instance which we have examined, there is a difference in the wording employed by the Legislature, but in the Oregon case the language is identical with our own, and *778 we think the holding of the court in that case conforms with the intent of section 15 of article 20 of our Constitution and the enactments of the Legislature, as expressed in section 1183, Code of Civil Procedure, and that an electric power line , consisting of poles and wires strung thereon, insulators, and such materials as enter into the work, constitutes a structure upon which materialmen may be entitled to a lien , other provisions of the law necessary to the enforcement thereof being complied with.	Are electric poles supporting power lines considered structures ?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
4437	State v. Higgins, 149 N.H. 290, 298 (2003)	17	Sexual assault victim's status as a prostitute does not necessarily mean that she will accept every opportunity that comes along to engage in sexual relations or relent to the desires of any paying customer, regardless of her motivation for engaging in prostitution in the first instance; a prostitute does not lose the right of choice, and may consent or not consent according to her own will.	Further, the victim's status as a prostitute does not necessarily mean that she will accept every opportunity that comes along to engage in sexual relations or relent to the desires of any paying customer, regardless of her motivation for engaging in prostitution in the first instance. See Harris, 362 S.E.2d at 213; Patnaude, 438 A.2d at 407. " A prostitute does not lose the right of choice, and may consent or not consent according to her own will. "	Does the victim's status as a prostitute prove consent to sexual relations ?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

10413	Davis v. Barnes, 158 Ga. App. 89, 90 (1981)	2	Absence of a plaintiff's counsel, without leave, to attend proceeding in other court is no ground for continuance or postponement of a case.	The absence of a plaintiff's counsel, without leave, to attend proceedings in other courts is no ground for continuance or postponement.	Is absence of counsel without leave to attend trial of cases pending in other courts no ground for continuance?	Not Copyrightable (headnote near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation
1226	Fox Run Properties, LLC v. Murray, 288 Ga. App. 568, 570-71, 654 S.E.2d 676, 680 (2007)	7	To show that the presentation of the merits of a case would be subverted by the withdrawal of admissions resulting from a party's failure to respond to requests for admissions, party seeking withdrawal of admissions is required to establish that the admitted requests either could have been refuted on trial of the issues by admissible evidence having a modicum of credibility, or that the admitted requests were incredible on their face, and that the denials being tendered to the court with the motion to withdraw had not been offered solely for purposes of delay. West's Ga.Code Ann. S 9-11-36(b).	Rather, in order to show that the presentation of the merits of this case would be subverted by the withdrawal, Fox Run was required to establish that "the admitted requests either could have been refuted on trial of the issues by admissible evidence having a modicum of credibility or that the admitted requests were incredible on their face; and that the denials being tendered to the court *571 with the motion to withdraw had not been offered solely for purposes of delay." Whitemarsh Contractors v.	"If the burden of proof on the subject matter of the request for admission is on the requestor, is the movant required to show the admitted request?"	Krein Concedes no copying

20882	Bd. of Directors of St. Francis Levee Dist. v. Bodkin, 108 Tenn. 700, 69 S.W. 270, 270 (1902)	5	An Act of the Legislature incorporating a Board of Directors and authorizing it to build, rebuild, and repair levees for the protection of a large district from overflow; to make all necessary contracts, and to levy taxes upon the inhabitants of the district and collect them, and to issue bonds for said purposes, constitutes such Board of Directors a public corporation, clothed with governmental duties and functions of the same general class as cities and counties.	The supreme court of Arkansas has had occasion to consider the nature and character of this board, and has adjudged it a public corporation clothed with governmental duties and functions, including the power to buy and collect public taxes. Carson v. St. Francis Levee Dist., 59 Ark. 536, 27 S. W. 590; Memphis Land & Timber Co. v. St. Francis Levee Dist., 64 Ark. 258, 42 S. W. 763. It is well settled that the property and taxes of municipal corporations held and used for public purposes cannot be seized and appropriated by creditors to the payment of their debts. [...] In Klein v. City of New Orleans, 99 U.S. 149, 25 L. Ed. 430, Waite, C. J., states the reason for this rule with much force and clearness. viz.: "If the lands are held by the corporation for public purposes, and the ground rents are part of the public revenue, it is well settled they cannot be levied on and sold.	Can lands held for public purposes be levied or sold?	Krein Concedes no copying; Not Copyrightable (expired)
10431	Reuille v. Bowers, 409 N.E.2d 1144, 1154 (Ind. Ct. App. 1980)	9	Proof of violation of motor vehicle safety statute is prima facie evidence of negligence, subject to being overcome by proof to the contrary.	Indiana law is now well established that proof by a party of violation of a motor vehicle safety statute is "prima facie evidence of negligence, subject to being overcome by proof to the contrary.	Can proof of violation of a motor vehicle statute be an evidence of negligence?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

2645	People v. Gagnon, 21 Misc. 3d 594	2	Specific intent to cause fear of serious bodily injury is gravamen of offense of felony menacing, C.R.S. 18-3-206; while it is not necessary to prove actual subjective fear on the part of the victim as an element of the offense, what the victim saw or heard and his reactions thereto are relevant considerations in determining whether defendant had the requisite intent to place victim in fear.	The specific intent to cause fear of serious bodily injury is the gravamen of this offense. People v. McPherson, 200 Colo. 429, 619 P.2d 38 (1980); § 18-3-206, C.R.S. (1978 Repl.Vol. 8). While it is not necessary to prove actual subjective fear on the part of the victim as an element of the offense, People v. Stout, 193 Colo. 466, 568 P.2d 52 (1977), nonetheless what the victim saw or heard, and his reactions thereto, are relevant considerations in determining whether defendant had the requisite intent to place him in fear.	What are relevant considerations in determining whether defendant had the requisite intent to place the victim in fear?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
13313	St. Paul Fire Marine v. Amerada Hess Corp., 275 N.W.2d 304, 308 (N.D. 1979)	13	Waiver of right of subrogation must be by act of subrogee; it cannot be contracted away by conduct or agreement of third parties.	A waiver of the right of subrogation must be by an act of the subrogee; it cannot be contracted away by the conduct or agreement of third parties.	Is a waiver of the right of subrogation an act of the subrogee?	Not Copyrightable (headnote near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation
2324	Jordan v. O'Dwyer, 152 A.D.2d 671, 671 (N.Y.S.2d Sup. Ct. 1989)	1	Unlike situation in which criminal trial has resulted in judgment of acquittal, retrial of indictment is not automatically barred where merits of charge against defendant have not been finally resolved. U.S.C.A. Const.Amend. 5.	Unlike the situation in which a criminal trial has resulted in a judgment of acquittal, retrial of an indictment is not automatically barred where the merits of the charges against the defendant have not been finally resolved	"Unlike situation in which criminal trial has resulted in judgment of acquittal, is retrial of indictment not automatically barred where merits of a charge against defendant have not been finally resolved?"	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

10236	Encore Productions, Inc. v. Promise Keepers, 53 F. Supp. 2d 1101, 1108 (D. Colo. 1999)	7	When a dispute arises under an expired contract that contained a broad arbitration provision, courts must presume that the parties intended to arbitrate their dispute, even if the facts of the dispute occurred after the contract expired.	Even if the Termination Agreement effectively terminated the entire Service Contract, including its arbitration provision, "when a dispute arises under an expired contract that contained a broad arbitration provision, courts must presume that the parties intended to arbitrate their dispute. This is so even if the facts of the dispute occurred after the contract expired."	Can courts order arbitration when the contract requiring arbitration has expired?	Not Copyrightable (headnote near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation
12808	Larocca v. Bailey, 799 So. 2d 1263, 1270 (La. Ct. App. 2001)	8	A motion and order to dismiss without prejudice has the same force and effect as a final judgment. LSA-C.C.P. art. 1918.	We begin this analysis with the understood rule that a motion and order to dismiss without prejudice has the same force and effect as a final judgment. La.Code Civ.P. art. 1918 reads in part that "[a] final judgment shall be identified as such by appropriate language "	Does a motion and order to dismiss without prejudice have the same force and effect as a final judgment?	Not Copyrightable (headnote near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation
213	United States v. Demko, 385 U.S. 149, 151 (Pa. 1966)	2	Historically, workmen's compensation statutes were offspring of desire to give injured workers quicker and more certain recovery than can be obtained from tort suits; they are practically always thought of as substitutes for, not supplements to, common-law tort actions.	Historically, workmen's compensation statutes were the offspring of a desire to give injured workers a quicker and more certain recovery than can be obtained from tort suits based on negligence and subject to common-law defenses to such suits. Thus compensation laws are practically always thought of as substitutes for, not supplements to, 384 common-law tort actions.	"Historically, were workmens compensation statutes the offspring of a desire to give injured workers quicker and more certain recovery than could be obtained from tort suits, and were they practically always thought of as substitutes for, not supplements to, common-law tort actions?"	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

15099	Heisler v. Hines Motor Co., 282 Mont. 270, 275 (Mont. 1997)	3	Pretrial order serves to prevent surprise, simplify the issues, and permit counsel to prepare their case for trial.	A pretrial order serves to "prevent surprise, simplify the issues, and permit counsel to prepare their case for trial on the basis of the pretrial order."	Does a pretrial order prevent surprise?	Not Copyrightable (headnote near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation
17682	Norwegian Twp. v. Schuylkill Cnty. Bd. of Assessment Appeals, 74 A.3d 1124, 1132 (Pa. Commw. Ct. 2013)	13	Substantial evidence supported the trial court's conclusion that Board of Assessment Appeals failed to meet its burden to prove taxability of township's property; sole evidence that the Board placed into record was tax assessment record card and picture of the property, establishing only that the property was currently vacant, and township produced ample evidence to show that property was actually and regularly being used for public purpose and to support court's finding that property was available to public for recreational activities, had been used by township to benefit public, and that township had made good-faith effort to develop the land for a park or playground, and though not required for property to be tax-immune/exempt, court also found that the township made a good-faith effort to develop the property. Const. Art. 8, S 2.	As we noted in Granville, the distinction between tax immunity and tax exemption is unnecessary in the context of government-owned property. 900 A.2d at 1016 n. 3. Whether either term is used, government-owned property is not taxable if it is being used for a public purpose, and the taxing authority bears the burden to prove its taxability. Id. at 1016. Stated otherwise, the taxing authority must prove that the government-owned property is not being used for a governmental purpose in order for the property to be taxable. Norwegian Twp. v. Schuylkill Cnty. Bd. of Assessment Appeals, 74 A.3d 1124, 1131 (Pa. Commw. Ct. 2013)	"Is a government-owned property taxable, if it is being used for a public purpose?"	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
5326	Emerick v. Town of Glastonbury, 145 Conn.App. 122, 127 (Conn.App.,2013)	1	A motion to dismiss for lack of standing properly attacks the jurisdiction of the court, essentially asserting that the plaintiff cannot as a matter of law and fact state a cause of action that should be heard by the court.	"A motion to dismiss [for lack of standing] ... properly attacks the jurisdiction of the court, essentially asserting that the plaintiff cannot as a matter of law and fact state a cause of action that should be heard by the court.	Does a motion to dismiss for lack of standing properly attack the jurisdiction of the court?	Not Copyrightable (headnote near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation

9549	Reeves v. Travelers Ins. Companies, 421 A.2d 47, 50 (Me., 1980)	2	In exercising its discretion under Rules of Civil Procedure governing sanctions to be imposed for failure to comply with discovery or failure to comply with pretrial order, trial court must consider whether to impose sanction, upon whom, party or counselor or both, to impose sanction, and what sanction to impose. Rules of Civil Procedure, Rules 16(d), 37(b)(2).	In exercising its discretion under Rule 16(d) or 37(b)(2), the trial court must answer three questions: (1) whether to impose a sanction; (2) upon whom-party or counsel or both-to impose the sanction; and (3) what sanction to impose. [...] We recognize that the sanction of dismissal, or of default judgment if imposed on a defendant, is a drastic one; its direct consequence falls not upon the attorney, but upon the party, who thereby loses all chance for an adjudication on the merits. For that reason, the ultimate sanction should be imposed only for the most serious instances of noncompliance with pretrial procedures. Mindful of that fact, we are nonetheless well satisfied that the special circumstances present in this case make it an appropriate occasion for dismissal, in order to penalize a serious delinquency and to deter like conduct by others.	Will the answer whether to impose a sanction on the party or counsel and what sanction to impose for failure to comply with the requirements of the rule governing pretrial procedure depend upon the particular circumstances?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
19287	Yellen v. Cooper, 828 F.2d 1471, 1476 (10th Cir. 1987)	4	Waiver, like immunity, is affirmative defense that must be affirmatively pleaded. Fed.Rules Civ.Proc.Rule 8(c), 28 U.S.C.A.	Waiver, like immunity, is an affirmative defense which must be affirmatively pleaded.	Should waiver be affirmatively plead?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
10678	Giles v. Gen. Motors Corp., 344 Ill. App. 3d 1191, 1195, 802 N.E.2d 858, 862 (2003)	3	A motion to dismiss under statute governing involuntary dismissal based upon defects or defenses should not be granted when it cannot be determined with reasonable certainty that movant's alleged defense exists. S.H.A. 735 ILCS 5/2-619.	A section 2-619 motion to dismiss should not be granted when it cannot be determined with reasonable certainty that the movant's alleged defense exists.	Should a motion to dismiss be granted when it cannot be determined with reasonable certainty that movant's alleged defense exists?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

1225	Sheehan v. Nw. Mut. Life Ins. Co., 44 S.W.3d 389, 394 (Mo.App. E.D., 2000)	2	Factors that should be considered in deciding whether to allow leave to amend a petition are (1) hardship to the moving party if leave is not granted; (2) reasons for failure to include any new matter in earlier pleadings; (3) timeliness of the application; (4) the possibility of an amendment curing any inadequacy of the moving party's pleading; and (5) injustice resulting to the party opposing the motion, should it be granted. V.A.M.R. 55.33.	Factors that should be considered in deciding whether to allow leave to amend a petition are: (1) hardship to the moving party if leave is not granted; (2) reasons for failure to include any new matter in earlier pleadings; (3) timeliness of the application; (4) whether an amendment could cure any inadequacy of the moving party's pleading; and (5) injustice resulting to the party opposing the motion, should it be granted.	What are the factors that should be considered in deciding whether to grant leave to amend a pleading?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
20805	In re Feldman's Est., 387 Ill. 568, 577-78, 56 N.E.2d 405, 409 (1944)	4	Where note was dated March 1, 1931, and promised on or before date to pay a named person $3,000 with interest at 5 per cent. per annum from date until paid at named bank and contained in lower left-hand margin the statement "Due Mar. 1, 1939," the note matured on March 1, 1939. S.H.A. ch. 98, SS 27, 31, 47, 73, 78.	In other words, if the parties had intended to make the note payable on demand or at any time after the date of execution, simple words to that effect could readily have been inserted in the blank provided therefor in the note. To avoid such a strained and abnormal meaning we naturally look elsewhere in the note and find what appears to be a clear explanation of the intention of the parties. That is, referring to the left-hand corner of the note we find the due date to be 'Mar. 1, 1939.' Reading this with the 'On or Before' provision makes the note quite intelligible and eliminates the unnatural result which would follow from making it payable even before it was executed. We recognize that the words 'On or Before' could possible have referred to the date of March 1, 1931.	Will marginal notation be regarded as part of a note if it conflicts with the terms of its main body?	Krein Concedes no copying

2159	Am. Seal-Kap Corp. v. Smith Lee Co., 154 Misc. 176, 177, 277 N.Y.S. 549, 550–51 (Sup. Ct. 1935)	1	Ordinarily, a defendant is entitled to full particulars of plaintiff's claim, and plaintiff is entitled to examine defendant before trial, particularly in case where many of facts upon which action is grounded are in possession of defendant.	Ordinarily, a defendant is entitled to full particulars of the plaintiff's claim, and a plaintiff is entitled to examine before trial, particularly in a case where many of the facts upon which the action is grounded are in the possession of the defendant.	"Is the defendant entitled to full particulars of plaintiffs claim and is plaintiff entitled to examine before trial, particularly where many facts upon which action is grounded are in defendants possession?"	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
6290	Antenucci v. Hartford Roman Catholic, 142 Conn. 349, 355–56, 114 A.2d 216, 219 (Conn. 1955)	4	Highway is nothing but an easement, comprehending merely right of all individuals in community to pass and repass, with incidental right in public to do all of acts necessary to keep it in repair.	'A highway is nothing but an easement, comprehending merely the right of all the individuals in the community to pass and repass, with the incidental right in the public to do all of the acts necessary to keep it in repair.' *356 Peck v.	Is a highway an easement comprehending merely the right of all the individuals in the community to pass and repass?	Not Copyrightable (headnote near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation
7255	Tesoro Petroleum Corp. v. Nabors Drilling USA, 106 S.W.3d 118, 133 (Tex. App. 2002)	32	Where a party to an indemnity contract relating to an oil and gas well is not contractually obligated to enforce a waiver of subrogation, the other party cannot insist that it assert a waiver of subrogation.	Where a party to an indemnity contract relating to an oil and gas well is not contractually obligated to enforce a waiver of subrogation, the other party cannot insist that it assert a waiver of subrogation.	"Wherea party to an indemnity contract is not contractually obligated to enforce a waiver of subrogation, can the other party insist that it assert a waiver of subrogation?"	Not Copyrightable (headnote verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation

2139	Rainer v. Wal-Mart Assocs., Inc., 119 So. 3d 398, 401 (Miss. Ct. App. 2013)	2	While rule governing requests for admissions, which states that a matter is admitted unless, within 30 days after service the party to whom the request is directed serves upon the party requesting the admission a written answer or objection, provides a harsh penalty for the failure to comply, a trial court is still given great discretion when determining whether it will allow the untimely answers to requests for admissions. Rules Civ.Proc., Rule 36.	Rule 36(a) provides in pertinent part that a “matter is admitted unless, within thirty days after service of the request, or within such shorter or longer time as the court may allow, the party to whom the request is directed serves upon the party requesting the admission a written answer or objection addressed to the matter[.]” 2 ¶ 8. Under Rule 36(b), the trial court has the discretion to allow withdrawal of the deemed-admitted requests. The rule states that “the court may permit withdrawal or amendment when the presentation of the merits of the action will be subverted thereby and the party who obtained the admission fails to satisfy the court that withdrawal or amendment will prejudice him in maintaining his action or defense on the merits.” M.R.C.P. 36(b). So “[w]hile [Rule] 36 provides a harsh penalty for the failure to comply, a trial court is still given great discretion when determining whether it will allow the untimely answers to requests for admissions.”	"Are requested admissions deemed admitted unless, within 30 days after service of request, a party to whom the request is directed serves a written answer or objection?"	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
17356	Hatcher v. Bowen, 74 Ga. 840, 841 (1885)	6	Absence of counsel in attendance on other courts is not a favored ground for a postponement.	Absence of counsel in attendance on other courts is not a favored ground for a postponement.	Is absence of counsel in attendance on other courts not a favoured ground for a postponement?	Not Copyrightable (headnote verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation

4536	New York Mortg. Tr., Inc. v. Dasdemir, 116 A.D.3d 679, 679 (2014)	1	In general, absent a showing of special circumstances, including prejudice to a substantial right of the defendant or other improper consequences, a motion for a voluntary discontinuance should be granted without prejudice. McKinney's CPLR 3217(c).	In general, absent a showing of special circumstances, including prejudice to a substantial right of the defendant or other improper consequences, a motion for a voluntary discontinuance should be granted without prejudice	"Absent a showing of special circumstances, should a motion for a voluntary discontinuance be granted without prejudice?"	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
13112	Burt v. Beautiful Savior Lutheran Church of Broomfield, 809 P.2d 1064, 1067 (Colo. App. 1990)	2	"Trespass" is physical intrusion upon property of another without permission of person lawfully entitled to possession of real estate, and liability requires only intent to do act that itself constitutes or inevitably causes intrusion, without reference to nature or immediacy of harm or whether intrusion was caused by negligent act.	In Colorado, liability for trespass requires only an intent to do the act that itself constitutes, or inevitably causes, the intrusion.	Does liability for trespass require only an intent to do the act that itself constitutes the intrusion?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
10942	Garfias v. State, 424 S.W.3d 54, 58 (Tex. Crim. App. 2014)	3	A multiple-punishments double jeopardy violation can arise either in the context of lesser-included offenses, where the same conduct is punished under a greater and a lesser-included offense, and when the same conduct is punished under two distinct statutes where the Legislature only intended for the conduct to be punished once. U.S.C.A. Const.Amend. 5.	There are three types of double jeopardy claims: (1) a second prosecution for the same offense after acquittal; (2) a second prosecution for the same offense after conviction; and (3) multiple punishments for the same offense. A multiple- punishments violation can arise either in the context of lesser- included offenses, where the same conduct is punished under a greater and a lesser-included offense, and when the same conduct is punished under two distinct statutes where the Legislature only intended for the conduct to be punished once.	What are the distinct types of double jeopardy claims?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

5637	Sweets v. State, 2013 WY 98, ¶¶ 19-20 (2013)	8	The Double Jeopardy Clauses of the United States and Wyoming constitutions afford three distinct protections: 1) protection against a second prosecution for the same offense following an acquittal; 2) protection against a second prosecution for the same offense after a conviction; and 3) protection against multiple punishments for the same offense. U.S.C.A. Const.Amend. 5; West's Wyo.Stat.Ann. Const. Art. 1, S 11.	The double jeopardy clauses of the United States and Wyoming constitutions afford three distinct protections: "1) [P]rotection against a second prosecution for the same offense following an acquittal; 2) protection against a second prosecution for the same offense after a conviction; and 3) protection against multiple punishments for the same offense."	What are the three distinct protections double jeopardy clauses afford?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
20810	Dellums v. Smith, 577 F. Supp. 1449, 1454–55 (N.D. Cal. 1984)	6	Attorney General could not refuse to conduct preliminary investigation under Ethics in Government Act on whether President, Secretaries of State and Defense, and other executive officials violated Neutrality Act by supporting paramilitary operations against Nicaragua on ground that the operations were authorized by the President since the Neutrality Act applied to all persons, including the President. 18 U.S.C.A. S 960; 28 U.S.C.A. SS 591-598.	[HN 6] The history of the Neutrality Act and judicial precedent demonstrate the reasonableness of the view that the Act applies to all persons, including the President. The Court reaffirms its original determination that the "Executive actions alleged by plaintiffs, if true, may violate federal law." Consequently, in this case, a preliminary investigation may not be refused. [HN 7] Defendants further argue that even if the Neutrality Act applies to the activities alleged by plaintiffs, a preliminary investigation is not required. [. . .] Defendants say the existence of that policy justifies the Attorney General's refusal to conduct any investigation under the Ethics in Government Act. For reasons set forth *1455 below, the Court finds that such a policy, even if shown to exist, could not constitute a valid basis for refusing to conduct a preliminary investigation.	Does the Neutrality Act dispense power in any officer or person whatsoever?	Krein Concedes no copying

17335	Gower v. Lamb, 282 S.W.2d 867, 869 (Mo. App. 1955)	4	In petition for damage allegedly done to plaintiff's parked automobile as result of being struck by defendant's vehicle, driven at time by thief, allegation that plaintiff's damage had been result of negligence by defendant was not a conclusion, but an ultimate fact, which could be pleaded as such, and therefore petition could be regarded as charging common-law negligence as well as statutory negligence, notwithstanding fact that main reliance was upon violation of statute prohibiting motorist to leave unattended a vehicle with ignition unlocked. Section 304.150 RSMo 1949, V.A.M.S.	Plaintiff has also alleged in her petition that her damages were the result of negligence by the defendant. This allegation is not a conclusion, but an ultimate fact, which may be pleaded as such. Maybach v. Falstaff Brewing Corporation, 359 Mo. 446, 222 S.W.2d 87, loc. cit. 92; Cushulas v. Schroeder & Tremayne, 225 Mo.App. 567, 22 S.W.2d 872, loc. cit. 874. We, therefore, feel compelled to regard the petition as charging common-law negligence as well as statutory negligence, and to consider the sufficiency of the agreed stipulation of facts to support the judgment for defendant on the theory of a breach of a *870 common-law duty. This question is also preserved for appellate review under Supreme Court Rule 3.23, 42 V.A.M.S., and was argued by both appellant and respondent.	Can negligence be pleaded as such?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
3030	United States v. Rosen, 716 F.3d 691, 700 (2d Cir. 2013)	4	To establish the corrupt intent necessary to support a federal bribery conviction, the government must prove that the defendant had a specific intent to give something of value in exchange for an official act, which generally includes any act taken under color of official authority. 18 U.S.C.A. S 666(a)(2).	To establish the " 'corrupt' intent necessary to a bribery conviction," the Government must prove that the defendant had " 'a specific intent to give ... something of value in exchange for an official act,' " United States v. Alfisi, 308 F.3d 144, 149 (2d Cir.2002) (emphasis in original) (quoting United States v. Sun-Diamond Growers of Cal., 526 U.S. 398, 404-05, 119 S.Ct. 1402, 143 L.Ed.2d 576 (1999)), which generally includes any act taken "under color of official authority," Ganim, 510 F.3d at 142 n. 4.	What should the government prove in order to establish the corrupt intent necessary to a bribery conviction?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

7011	Gordon v. Purdue Univ., 862 N.E.2d 1244, 1250 (Ind. App. 2007)	5	When reviewing grant of motion to dismiss for failure to state a claim, appellate courts do not defer to the trial court's decision because deciding a motion to dismiss based upon failure to state a claim involves a pure question of law. Trial Procedure Rule 12(B)(6).	The standard of review of a trial court's grant or denial of a motion to dismiss for failure to state a claim under Ind. Trial Rule 12(B)(6) is de novo. Sims v. Beamer, 757 N.E.2d 1021, 1024 (Ind.Ct.App.2001). We do not defer to the trial court's decision because deciding a motion to dismiss based upon failure to state a claim involves a pure question of law.	Does resolving a motion to dismiss for failure to state a claim involve only a question of law?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
5009	Campbell v. Louisiana Intrastate Gas Corp., 528 So.2d 626, 628 (La.App. 2 Cir.,1988)	2	"St. Julien Doctrine" provides method of acquiring utility servitudes without formal expropriation proceedings when utility has used private property in public interest in good faith and with landowner's consent or acquiescence for period of time. LSA-R.S. 19:14.	Defendant contends that its right to use and maintain the pipeline after the foreclosure, and particularly in 1985, arises from the St. Julien Doctrine. This doctrine, now statutorily recognized, provides a method of acquiring utility servitudes without formal expropriation proceedings when a utility company has used private property in the public interest in good faith and with the landowner's consent or acquiescence for a period of time. LRS 19:14; St. Julien v.	What is the St. Julien Doctrine concerning utility services?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

21683	Godfredson v. JBC Legal Group, P.C., 387 F. Supp. 2d 543, 549 (E.D.N.C. 2005)	2	To make out action under North Carolina law for damages caused by acts committed pursuant to formed conspiracy, plaintiff must show: (1) agreement between two or more persons; (2) to do wrongful act; (3) commission of some overt act by one member of conspiracy in furtherance of objectives; and (4) damage to plaintiff as result of actions of conspirators.	There is, under North Carolina law, no such thing as a civil action for conspiracy. There is, rather, an action for damages caused by acts committed pursuant to a formed conspiracy. In order to make out such an action, plaintiff must show "(1) an agreement between two or more persons (2) to do a wrongful act, (3) commission of some overt act by one member of the conspiracy in furtherance of the objectives, and (4) damage to the plaintiff as a result of the actions of the conspirators."	Is a statement of intention to file a suit to enforce one's claimed legal rights a threat?	Krein Concedes no copying
5789	In re Climate Control Mech. Servs., 570 B.R. 673, 678 (M.D. Fla. 2017)	6	When, upon default of contractor, surety pays all the bills of the job to date and completes the job, surety stands in shoes of contractor insofar as there are receivables due it, in the shoes of laborers and materialmen who have been paid by surety, who may have liens, and in the shoes of the government, for whom job was completed.	"When, on default of the contractor, [the surety] pays all the bills of the job to date and completes the job, it stands in the shoes of the contractor insofar as there are receivables due it; in the shoes of laborers and material men who have been paid by the surety-who may have had liens; and, not least, in the shoes of the government, for whom the job was completed."	Is a surety who pays claims of laborers and materialmen only entitled to stand in shoes of those laborers and materialmen who might have had liens but for the surety's payment?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
12158	Snyder v. Motorists Mut. Ins. Co., 2 Ohio App. 2d 19, 21 (1965)	6	Sovereignty of nations bordering seas does not stop at shoreline but extends over and under the ocean for some distance.	From early times, it has been recognized that the sovereignty of nations bordering the seas does not stop at the shoreline, but that for some distance it extends over and under the ocean.	Does the sovereignty of nations bordering seas stop at shoreline or does it extend over and under the ocean for some distance?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
11562	People v. Boose, 139 Ill. App. 3d 471, 474 (1985)	5	Criminal intent formulated after lawful entry will satisfy offenses of larceny, i.e., retail theft, or burglary by illegally remaining; it will not, however, satisfy the offense of burglary by illegal entry. S.H.A. ch. 38, P 19-1(a).	A criminal intent formulated after a lawful entry will satisfy the offenses of larceny (retail theft) or burglary by illegally remaining. It will not, however, satisfy the offense of burglary by illegal entry.	Does criminal intent formed after a lawful entry satisfy the burglary statute?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

21789	All Purpose Vending, Inc. v. City of Philadelphia, 127 Pa. Cmwlth. 415, 420, 561 A.2d 1309, 1311–12 (1989)	2	That administrative review options to contest tax on taxpayers' for profit coin-operated mechanical amusement devices for film or video presentations were coupled with sanctions for noncompliance did not constitute prior restraint on taxpayers' freedom of speech . U.S.C.A. Const.Amend. 1.	It is asserted that because these options are coupled with sanctions for non-compliance , ¹⁰ the administrative process acts as a prior restraint on appellants' freedom of speech and is, therefore, inadequate. We agree with the trial court's conclusion that the Ordinance does not act 1312 as a prior restraint on appellants' right of free speech.	Is a legislative declaration entitled to any weight when determining the nature of a tax?	Krein Concedes no copying
17936	F.C.C. v. Fla. Power Corp., 480 U.S. 245, 245–46, 252, 107 S. Ct. 1107, 1109, 1112, 94 L. Ed. 2d 282 (1987)	2	Element of required acquiescence is at the heart of concept of occupation for purposes of per se taking analysis under the Fifth Amendment. U.S.C.A. Const.Amend. 5.	The Court of Appeals erred in applying Loretto 's narrow per se rule, since the element of required acquiescence is at the heart of the concept of occupation under Loretto, whereas nothing in the Act, as interpreted by *246 the FCC, requires utility companies to give cable companies space on utility poles or prohibits utility companies from refusing to enter into attachment agreements. Since the Act clearly contemplates voluntary commercial leases rather than forced governmental licensing, it merely regulates the economic relations of utility company landlords and cable company tenants, which regulation is not a per se taking under Loretto. [...] This element of required acquiescence is at the heart of the concept of occupation .	Is the element of required acquiescence at the heart of the concept of occupation?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

5652	In re Forfeiture of U.S. Currency in Amount of Ninety-One Thousand Three Hundred Fifty-Seven & 12/100 Dollars ($91,357.12), 595 So. 2d 998, 1000 (Fla. 4th Dist. App. 1992)	6	"Equitable subrogation" applies where claimant satisfied obligation of another and then stands in shoes of satisfied creditor; doctrine prevents unjust forfeiture and windfall amounting to unjust enrichment.	The doctrine of equitable subrogation is designed to apply where the claimant satisfied an obligation of another and then stands in the shoes of the satisfied creditor. The doctrine is founded on established principles of equity to prevent an unjust forfeiture, on the one hand, and a windfall amounting to unjust enrichment, on the other.	"Is doctrine of equitable subrogation recognized as one founded on established principles of equity to prevent unjust forfeiture, and windfall amounting to unjust enrichment on the other? "	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
9593	In re Bledsoe, 41 S.W.3d 807, 813 (Tex. App. 2001)	14	Only in exceptional situations may case-determinative sanctions be imposed in the first instance-when they are clearly justified and no lesser sanctions will promote compliance.	Only in exceptional situations may case-determinative sanctions be imposed in the first instance-when they are clearly justified and no lesser sanctions will promote compliance.	"Only in exceptional situations, can case-determinative sanctions be imposed in the first instance-when they are clearly justified?"	Not Copyrightable (headnote verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation

4137	Betts v. City of Chicago, 2013 IL App (1st) 123653, ¶¶ 12-14, 1 N.E.3d 1199, 1202-1203	5	Once a defendant moving for involuntary dismissal, on grounds that the claim asserted is barred by other affirmative matter avoiding the legal effect of or defeating the claim, satisfies the initial burden of presenting affirmative matter, the burden then shifts to the plaintiff to establish that the defense is unfounded or requires the resolution of an essential element of material fact before it is proven. S.H.A. 735 ILCS 5/2-619(a).	“A motion to dismiss based on the immunity conferred by the Act, however, is more appropriately raised in a section 2–619(a)(9) motion, which allows for dismissal when the claim asserted against the defendant is ‘barred by other affirmative matter avoiding the legal effect of or defeating the claim’ (735 ILCS 5/2–619(a)(9) (West 2008)).” [...] A motion for involuntary dismissal pursuant to section 2–619(a) admits the legal sufficiency of the complaint, but raises defects, defenses, or other affirmative matter which avoids the legal effect or defeats a plaintiff's claim. [...] In re Estate of Schlenker, 209 Ill.2d 456, 461, 283 Ill.Dec. 707, 808 N.E.2d 995 (2004). “Once a defendant satisfies the initial burden of presenting affirmative matter, the burden then shifts to the plaintiff to establish that the defense is ‘unfounded or requires the resolution of an essential element of material fact before it is proven.’ ”	Will the burden shift from the defendant to plaintiff once the claim asserted is barred by other affirmative matter?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
8115	Fort Halifax Packing Co., Inc. v. Coyne, 107 S.Ct. 2211, 2222, 482 U.S. 1, 21 (U.S.Me.,1987)	5	Pre-emption should not be lightly inferred under National Labor Relations Act in area of substantive labor standards, inasmuch as establishment of labor standards falls within traditional police power of the state. National Labor Relations Act, SS 7, 8, as amended, 29 U.S.C.A. SS 157, 158.	Furthermore, pre-emption should not be lightly inferred in this area, since the establishment of labor standards falls within the traditional police power of the State.	Is pre-emption of employment standards within the traditional police power of the state that should not be lightly inferred?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

20117	State ex Rel. Olson v. Guilford, 174 Minn. 457, 459 (1928)	2	Equity may enjoin and abate public nuisances.	Equity has jurisdiction to enjoin and abate public nuisances.	Does equity have the jurisdiction to abate public nuisances?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
727	DeLoatch v. Becker, 698 A.2d 94, 96 (Pa. 1997)	2	Judgment of "non pros" is founded upon equitable principle of laches and may properly be entered when party to a proceeding has shown a want of due diligence in failing to proceed with reasonable promptitude, and there is no compelling reason for delay, and delay has caused some prejudice to adverse party.	Further, we note that the non pros doctrine is founded upon the equitable principle of laches and may properly be entered "when a party to a proceeding has shown a want of due diligence in failing to proceed with reasonable promptitude, and there is no compelling reason for the delay, and the delay has caused some prejudice to the adverse party."	"Can judgment of ""non pros"" properly be entered when party to a proceeding has shown a want of due diligence in failing to proceed with reasonable promptitude?"	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
15284	Echtenkamp v. Loudon Cty. Pub. Sch., 263 F. Supp. 2d 1043, 1061 (E.D. Va. 2003)	36	Under Virginia law, merely offensive or unpleasant statements are not defamatory, rather, defamatory statements are those that make plaintiff appear odious, infamous, or ridiculous.	In other words, "[m]erely offensive or unpleasant statements" are not defamatory; rather, defamatory statements "are those that make the plaintiff appear odious, infamous, or ridiculous."	Are unpleasant and offensive statements defamatory?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
3442	New Albertsons, Inc. v. Superior Ct., 168 Cal. App. 4th 1403, 1420-21, 86 Cal. Rptr. 3d 457, 470 (2008)	6	Because the law strongly favors trial and disposition on the merits, any doubts in ruling on a motion to withdraw or amend an admission must be resolved in favor of the party seeking relief. West's Ann.Cal.C.C.P. S 2033.300.	The trial court's discretion in ruling on a motion to withdraw or amend an admission is not unlimited, but must be exercised in conformity with the spirit of the law and in a manner that serves the interests of justice. Because the law strongly favors trial and disposition on the merits, any doubts in applying section 2033.300 must be resolved in favor of the party seeking relief.	Should any doubts in ruling on a motion to withdraw or amend an admission be resolved in favor of the party seeking relief because the law strongly favors trial and disposition on the merits?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

777	Jones v. Halliburton Co., 583 F.3d 228, 233–34 (5th Cir. 2009)	2	A two-step analysis is employed to determine whether a party may be compelled to arbitrate, under which, first, whether the party has agreed to arbitrate the dispute is examined, and this question itself is further subdivided, such that a court, to determine whether the party has agreed to arbitrate a dispute, must ask: (1) is there a valid agreement to arbitrate the claims, and (2) does the dispute in question fall within the scope of that arbitration agreement; if both questions are answered in the affirmative, the court then asks whether any federal statute or policy renders the claims nonarbitrable.	A two-step analysis is employed to determine whether a party may be compelled to arbitrate. Id. First, whether *234 the party has agreed to arbitrate the dispute is examined. This question itself is further subdivided; to determine whether the party has agreed to arbitrate a dispute, our court must ask: "(1) is there a valid agreement to arbitrate the claims and (2) does the dispute in question fall within the scope of that arbitration agreement". Id. (citing JP Morgan Chase & Co. v. Conegie ex rel. Lee, 492 F.3d 596, 598 (5th Cir.2007)). If both questions are answered in the affirmative, our court then asks whether "any federal statute or policy renders the claims nonarbitrable".	How do courts determine whether a party is compelled to arbitrate?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
7881	Caywood v. Gossett, 382 Ill. App. 3d 124, 129, 887 N.E.2d 686, 691 (2008)	4	Dismissal of complaint is allowed when the claim asserted is barred by other affirmative matter avoiding the legal effect of or defeating the claim. S.H.A. 735 ILCS 5/2-619(a)(9).	A section 2-619(a)(9) motion to dismiss permits involuntary dismissal where "the claim asserted against defendant is barred by other affirmative matter avoiding the legal effect of or defeating the claim." 735 ILCS 5/2-619(a)(9).	Can a complaint be dismissed when the claim asserted is barred by other affirmative matter avoiding the legal effect of or defeating the claim?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

18100	United States v. Harder, 168 F. Supp. 3d 732, 738, 745, 747 (E.D. Pa. 2016)	20	Government was required to prove different facts to support charges against defendant for violation of Foreign Corrupt Practices Act (FCPA) and for charge of international money laundering, and charges were thus distinct and did not require merger, even though charges were based on same payments defendant allegedly made to bank official's sister, knowing that those bribes would be given, directly or eventually, to the employee, to induce him to violate the law; government was required to prove that defendant offered or paid anything of value to a foreign official for corrupt purposes to support FCPA charge, and was required to prove that defendant transferred funds abroad from the United States with intent to promote unlawful activity, i.e., intent to promote an FCPA violation, to support money laundering charge, and the government was thus required to prove different facts to make out the violations charged. 15 U.S.C.A. S 78dd-2(a)(1), (3); 18 U.S.C.A. S 1956(a)(2)(A).	Additionally, the Government has charged, as it must, that Defendant paid Official Sister knowing that those bribes would be given, directly or eventually, to Official to induce him to violate the law. [...] As I have discussed, FCPA requires proof of offer or payment of anything of value to a foreign official for a corrupt purpose. See 15 U.S.C. 78dd-2(a)(1), (3). To prove an international money laundering violation, the Government must prove that the defendant transferred funds abroad from the United States with the intent to promote unlawful activity. See 18 U.S.C. 1956(a)(2)(A). That the international money laundering statute requires intent to promote unlawful activity -i.e., intent to promote an FCPA violation- renders the offenses distinct. See United States v. Paramo, 998 F.2d 1212, 1218 (3d Cir.1993) (rejecting argument that, as a matter of law, a defendant cannot promote an already completed unlawful activity). Plainly, then, the Government must prove different facts to make out a violation of the money laundering statute.	Do courts doubt on the Congresss intention to hold an individual liable under 15 U.S.C. 78dd1(a)(3)(A) if he took great care to know exactly whom his agent would be bribing and what precise steps that official would be taking?	Krein Concedes no copying
-------	---	----	---	--	---	----------------------------------

11426	Gonzales v. Surplus Ins. Servs., 863 S.W.2d 96, 99 (Tex. App. 1993)	2	Admissions, once deemed admitted, are judicial admissions, and party against whom admissions are deemed admitted may not then introduce controverting testimony in any legal proceeding related to action. Vernon's Ann.Texas Rules Civ.Proc., Rules 21a, 169.	In examining the record before us, appellant failed to timely answer request for admissions, or to file written objections, or to file a motion to file answers late, resulting in the appellee's admissions being deemed. [. . .] Admissions, once deemed admitted, are judicial admissions and appellant may not then introduce controverting testimony in any legal proceeding related to the instant action.	" Are deemed admissions, resulting from a party's failure to answer a request for admissions, judicial admissions and may not be controverted with testimony?"	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
1355	State v. Jandreau, 157 A.3d 239, 242 (Me., 2017)	1	Absent defendant's consent to or the manifest necessity for a mistrial, the Double Jeopardy Clauses of the federal and state constitutions preclude state from bringing a second prosecution of the defendant on the same charges after the declaration of a mistrial. U.S. Const. Amend. 5; Me. Const. art. 1, S 8.	Absent the defendant's consent to or the manifest necessity for a mistrial, the Double Jeopardy Clauses of the United States and Maine Constitutions preclude the State from bringing a second prosecution of the defendant on the same charges after the declaration of a mistrial.	"Absent defendant's consent to or the manifest necessity for a mistrial, does the Double Jeopardy Clauses of the federal and state constitutions preclude a state from bringing a second prosecution of the defendant on the same charges after the declaration of a mistrial?"	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

21822	James T. Scatuorchio Racing Stable, LLC v. Walmac Stud Mgmt., LLC, 941 F. Supp. 2d 807, 824 (E.D. Ky. 2013)	26	Agreement between owner of thoroughbred stallion and breeding farm, for the services of managing breeding career of race horse, was not subject to New Jersey Consumer Fraud Act (NJCFA); services to manage stud's career was not something sold to the general public, but instead a service highly particularized and unique, and the parties, as sophisticated breeders and competitive racers who entered into complex, multi-million dollar contracts with the aid of counsel, were not typical consumers. N.J.S.A. 56:8-1 et seq.	An accounting is an equitable remedy and is defined as “an adjustment of the accounts of the parties and a rendering of a judgment for the balance ascertained to be due.”	What is accounting ?	Krein Concedes no copying
12651	In re Interest of M.M., 571 So. 2d 112, 112-13 (Fla. Dist. Ct. App. 1990)	1	Ownership of building or structure is material element of burglary and must be proven as alleged in order to support conviction. West's F.S.A. S 810.02.	Additionally, ownership of the building or structure is a material element of the crime and must be *113 proven as alleged in order to support a conviction for burglary.	Is ownership of the building or structure a material element of burglary?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

14383	Eisen v. Venulum Ltd., 244 F. Supp. 3d 324, 336 (W.D.N.Y. 2017)	15	District Court, rather than arbitrator, would determine enforceability of arbitration clauses in investment contracts involving interests in fine wines, even though contracts included requirement that all disputes under contracts be sent to arbitration, since there was no language in contracts expressly stating that arbitrability disputes would be resolved by arbitration, contracts stated that International Chamber of Commerce (ICC) rules would control any arbitration, ICC rule provided that arbitrator determined validity of arbitration agreement if party against which claim had been made challenged its validity, but investor, who was bringing claims against foreign corporation for violations of securities laws, was challenging validity of arbitration clauses.	Defendants' main argument is that it is the province of the arbitrator, and not the Court, to determine whether the arbitration clauses are valid or invalid. (Dkt. 13 at 5–10). Defendants rely on Shaw Group Inc. v. Triplefine Int'l Corp., 322 F.3d 115 (2d Cir. 2003) for the proposition that under the International Chamber of Commerce (“ICC”) arbitration rules “any question of arbitrability must be decided by the arbitral tribunal.” (Dkt. 13 at 6). Shaw Group provides that if the parties reference the ICC rules of arbitration in an arbitration clause they have “evinced a clear and unmistakable agreement to arbitrate arbitrability,” and the court is required to defer questions of arbitrability to the arbitrator. Shaw Group, 322 F.3d at 121.	Does reference to International Chamber of Commerce rules in an arbitration clause present a clear and unmistakable agreement to arbitrate arbitrability ?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
12909	Wells Fargo Bank, N.A. v. Bohatka, 112 So. 3d 596, 601 (Fla. Dist. Ct. App. 2013)	7	For purposes of general rule that trial courts are to give plaintiffs an opportunity to amend a defective pleading, the failure to attach necessary documents is a remediable offense.	As a general matter, trial courts are to give plaintiffs “an opportunity to amend the defective pleading, unless it is apparent that the pleading cannot be amended to state a cause of action.” See Kairalla v. John D. Catherine T. MacArthur Found., 534 So.2d 774, 775 (Fla. 4th DCA 1988). And the failure to attach necessary documents is a remediable offense. See Wells Fargo Bank, N.A. v. Reeves, 92 So.3d 249, 253 (Fla. 1st DCA 2012).	“As a general matter, are trial courts to give plaintiffs an opportunity to amend a defective pleading?”	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

8356	City of Orlando v. State, 67 So. 2d 673, 675 (Fla. 1953)	3	A "special assessment" is an enforced contribution imposed upon theory that that portion of the community which is required to bear it receives some special or peculiar benefit in the enhancement of value of property against which it is imposed as a result of improvement made with proceeds of special assessment.	It is imposed upon the theory that that portion *675 of the community which is required to bear it receives some special or peculiar benefit in the enhancement of value of the property against which it is imposed as a result of the improvement made with the proceeds of the special assessment.	Is tax a burden imposed by a sovereign right?	Krein Concedes no copying
19012	Doe v. Diocese of Raleigh, 242 N.C. App. 42, 57, 776 S.E.2d 29, 41 (2015)	16	Individual's negligent infliction of emotional distress (NIED) claim against diocese and bishop of diocese based on negligent supervision of priest incardinated to diocese and, who allegedly sexually assaulted individual when he was a minor, did not implicate Free Exercise Clause or Establishment Clause of First Amendment, such that trial court had authority to adjudicate claim; determination of whether individual established elements of NIED based on negligent supervision of priest did not entangle court in ecclesiastical inquiries. U.S.C.A. Const.Amend. 1.	Consequently, Plaintiff's NIED claim premised on the assertion that such negligent conduct resulted in him suffering severe emotional distress and that it was reasonably foreseeable that the Diocese Defendants' conduct would result in such distress is likewise permissible under the First Amendment. Because a determination of whether Plaintiff has successfully established the elements of NIED based on the Diocese Defendants' negligent supervision of Sepulveda will not entangle the court in ecclesiastical inquiries, subject matter jurisdiction exists in the trial court as to this claim.	"Because negligent infliction of emotional distress (NIED) claims are premised upon negligent conduct by defendants, will a determination that an underlying negligence claim is subject to dismissal result in dismissal of a corresponding NIED claim as well?"	Krein Concedes no copying
17233	Miller v. Mod. Motor Co. of Glendale, 107 Cal. App. 38, 41, 290 P. 122, 124 (Cal. Ct. App. 1930)	2	Where waiver is relied upon, in bringing action, facts constituting waiver must be set forth.	We believe, upon general demurrer, that these allegations sufficiently comply with the rule that where a waiver is relied upon, the facts constituting the waiver must be set forth.	Should facts constituting waiver be pleaded if a waiver is relied upon?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

13124	Matthews v. Malkus, 377 F. Supp. 2d 350, 359 (S.D.N.Y. 2005)	16	Under New York law, requisite elements for claim of trespass are: (1) intentional entry by defendants onto plaintiff's land, and (2) wrongful use without justification or consent .	Trespass [16] The requisite elements for a claim of trespass are the intentional entry by defendants on to plaintiffs' land and the wrongful use without justification or consent .	What are the elements of a trespass claim ?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
1844	First Community Bank, N.A. v. First Tennessee Bank, N.A., 489 S.W.3d 369, 382 (Tenn. 2015)	7	When trial court expresses an intent to rule on motion to dismiss for lack of personal jurisdiction without an evidentiary hearing , defendant may, but is not required to, support motion with affidavits or other evidentiary materials . Tenn. R. Civ. P. 12.02(2).	When a trial court expresses an intent to rule on a motion to dismiss without an evidentiary hearing , a defendant "may, but is not required to, support the motion with affidavits or other evidentiary materials ."	"When a trial court expresses an intent to rule on motion to dismiss for lack of personal jurisdiction without an evidentiary hearing , should a defendant support the motion with affidavits or other evidentiary materials ?"	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

16880	Langford v. Douglas, 359 S.W.2d 951, 953 (Tex. Civ. App. 1962)	2	Motion to reinstate an action dismissed for lack of prosecution could be considered as a bill of review , but as a bill of review , it properly did not belong in original cause .	The trial court, therefore, properly sustained defendants' motion and reinstated the order dismissing the suit for want of prosecution . But, 'The policy of the law is, that appellant should have his day in court for the purpose of establishing the alleged wrong perpetrated on him [...] In view of the narrow language of the trial court's order above quoted, we accordingly hold that plaintiffs' motion to reinstate, considered as a bill of review , is still pending. No doubt plaintiffs will desire to amend it. Its presence in the original suit is an irregularity. Osborn v. Younger (Com.App.), 235 S.W. 558; McDonald, Texas Civil Practice, supra. The trial court could transfer it to an independent place on his docket for trial or other disposition. Wilson v. Ammann & Jordan, Tex.Civ.App., 163 S.W.2d 660. Since the motion, as bill of review, properly does not belong in the original cause , the trial court's order was a final, appealable judgment. It is affirmed.	Can a motion to reinstate an action dismissed for lack of prosecution be considered as a bill of review ?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
18639	Dept. of Revenue v. Merritt Square Corp., 334 So. 2d 351, 354 (Fla. 1st Dist. App. 1976)	1	Under statute defining "public utility" for purposes of regulation, a privately owned utility is "public utility" if it holds itself out to serve general public . West's F.S.A. SS 366.01 et seq., 366.02.	The nature of the service must be such that all members of the public have an enforceable right to demand it.' 229 P.2d at 672. It is, thus, clear that a privately owned utility is a Public utility if it holds itself out to serve the general public .	When is a privately owned utility a public utility ?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

19108	Price ex rel. Est. of Price v. City of Seattle, 106 Wash. App. 647, 660, 24 P.3d 1098, 1105 (2001)	12	Failure of city, as owner of property located at top of bluff where landslide took place, to take measures to prevent landslide did not establish trespass claim by landowners whose property was damaged by landslide.	The residents essentially argue that the City knew that a landslide was a substantially certain consequence of its failure to take preventive measures. But they have provided no authority for the proposition that an "act", as used in defining the elements of trespass, means a failure to act. Stated in terms of a failure to act, their trespass claim is no different from their negligence claim. Cf. Lewis v. Krussel, 101 Wash.App. at 183, 2 P.3d 486 (nuisance claim in case involving fallen trees, grounded in inaction, need not be considered separately from the negligence claim). As there is no evidence that the City acted to cause the landslide, the trespass claim also fails.	Can a failure to act fulfill the intentional act element required for a claim of trespass?	Krein Concedes no copying
11048	Lake Cnty. Tr. Co. v. Lane, 478 N.E.2d 684, 688 (Ind. Ct. App. 1985)	4	In view of rule that owner of property whereon public highway lies holds property in fee, subject only to public's easement, owners of property that abutted county road on the east, rather than the county, were owners to whom one half of abandoned railroad right-of-way easement reverted where the east edge of the right-of-way met the abutting property at approximately the outline of the highway.	It is the law in Indiana that the owner of property whereon a public highway lies holds the property in fee, subject only to the public's easement. Magee v. Overshiner (1898), 150 Ind. 127, 49 N.E. 951; The Terre Haute and Southeastern Railroad Company v.	"Does the owner of a property, whereon public highway lies, hold property in fee, subject only to public's easement? "	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
15198	Calvert & Marsh Coal Co. v. Pass, 393 So. 2d 955, 957 (Ala. 1981)	5	Wantonness in a trespass action is established by mere knowledge on the part of the defendant of his invasion of the plaintiff's rights.	Wantonness in a trespass action is established by the mere knowledge on the part of the defendant of his invasion of the plaintiff's rights.	How is the element of wantonness established in a trespass action?	Not Copyrightable (headnote near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation

601	Holland v. Lefler, 80 Ark. App. 316, 321 (2003)	6	Service of process under civil procedure rule governing summons must be accomplished within 120 days after the filing of complaint unless plaintiff has filed a motion to extend time prior to the expiration of the deadline; if service is not obtained within that time and no timely motion to extend is made, dismissal of the action is mandatory. Rules Civ.Proc., Rule 4(i).	Service of process under Rule 4(i) must be accomplished within 120 days after the filing of the complaint unless the plaintiff has filed a motion to extend time prior to the expiration of the deadline. Id. If service is not obtained within that time and no timely motion to extend is made, dismissal of the action is mandatory.	Should service of process under civil procedure rule governing summons be accomplished within 120 days after the filing of complaint unless a plaintiff has filed a motion to extend time prior to the expiration of the deadline?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
14711	Henry v. Shober, 566 N.W.2d 190, 192 (Iowa 1997)	5	If delay in obtaining service of process is presumptively abusive, it does not matter whether delay is intentional, and action is subject to dismissal if plaintiff fails to carry burden of proving that delay was justified. Rules Civ.Proc., Rule 49.	As the above analysis suggests, if a delay in service is presumptively abusive, it does not matter whether the delay is intentional.	"If delay in obtaining service of process is presumptively abusive, does it not matter whether delay is intentional?"	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
12657	Gambino v. Standard Fire Ins. Co., 12-474 (La. App. 5 Cir. 2/21/13), 110 So. 3d 1127, 1130	4	A step by one party prevents abandonment of a suit for lack of prosecution as to all of the parties, even though they are not solidarily liable. LSA-C.C.P. art. 561.	"A 'step' is a formal action before the court intended to hasten the suit towards judgment or is the taking of formal discovery. A step by one party prevents abandonment as to all of the parties, even though they are not solidarily liable." (Internal citations omitted.) Id.	Does a step by one party prevent abandonment of a suit for lack of prosecution as to all of the parties?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
7127	People v. $8,450 U.S. Currency, 276 Ill. App. 3d 952, 955 (1995)	7	Despite its label as civil, forfeiture is "punishment" for double jeopardy purposes when its goal is either retribution or deterrence. U.S.C.A. Const.Amend. 5.	However, despite its label as civil, a forfeiture is a punishment for double jeopardy purposes when its goal is either retribution or deterrence.	"Despite its label as civil, is forfeiture punishment for double jeopardy purposes when its goal is either retribution or deterrence?"	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

19604	Fed. Home Loan Mortg. Corp. v. Lamar, 503 F.3d 504, 512 (6th Cir. 2007)	8	Collection notice is deceptive, in violation of Fair Debt Collection Practices Act (FDCPA), when it can be reasonably read to have two or more different meanings, one of which is inaccurate. Fair Debt Collection Practices Act, S 807, 15 U.S.C.A. S 1692e.	"[A] collection notice is deceptive when it can be reasonably read to have two or more different meanings, one of which is inaccurate." Russell v. Equifax A.R.S., 74 F.3d 30, 35 (2d Cir.1996).	What damages can a consumer recover if a debt collector violates the Fair Debt Collection Protection Act (FDCPA)?	Krein Concedes no copying
10902	United States v. Allen, 984 F.2d 940, 941 (8th Cir. 1993)	2	Double jeopardy clause does not generally preclude reprosecution if defendant requests or consents to mistrial. U.S.C.A. Const.Amend. 5.	Const.Amend. V. The double jeopardy clause generally does not preclude reprosecution when a defendant requests or consents to a mistrial.	Does a double jeopardy clause not generally preclude reprosecution if a defendant requests or consents to mistrial?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
5036	In re Wiley, 438 B.R. 331, 333 (Bankr. D.N.M. 2010)	2	Under New Mexico law, "subrogation" is equitable remedy of civil law origin, whereby, through a supposed succession to legal rights of another, a loss is put ultimately on the one who in equity and good conscience should pay it.	Subrogation ... is an equitable remedy of civil law origin whereby through a supposed succession to the legal rights of another, a loss is put ultimately on that one who in equity and good conscience should pay it.	Is subrogation an equitable remedy of civil law origin?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
15267	Chase v. Ameriquet Mortg. Co., 155 N.H. 19, 27 (N.H. 2007)	19	Equitable subrogation applies where one who has discharged the debt of another may, under certain circumstances, succeed to the rights and position of the satisfied creditor.	[E]quitable subrogation "applies where one who has discharged the debt of another may, under certain circumstances, succeed to the rights and position of the satisfied creditor.	When does subrogation apply?	Not Copyrightable (headnote near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation

18618	City of Sherman v. Pub. Util. Commn. of Texas, 643 S.W.2d 681, 684-85 (Tex. 1983)	3	While the Public Utility Commission may share original jurisdiction with a municipality over the operations or services of a public utility which operates both inside and outside municipal limits, it has no statutory authority to regulate the operations or services of "municipally-owned utilities" under statute relating to original municipal jurisdiction within territorial limits of each municipality and original commission jurisdiction outside municipal boundaries. Vernon's Ann. Texas Civ.St. art. 1446c, S 17(e).	The Act also contains the following provisions relating to original municipal jurisdiction within the territorial limits of each municipality, and original PUC jurisdiction outside of municipal boundaries: Sec. 17. (a) Subject to the limitations imposed in this Act, and for the purpose of regulating rates and services ..., the governing body of each municipality shall have exclusive original jurisdiction over all electric, water, and sewer utility rates, operations, and services provided by an electric, water, and sewer utility within its city or town limits. [...] We conclude that while the PUC may share original jurisdiction with a municipality over the operations or services of a "public utility" which operates both inside and outside municipal limits, it has no statutory authority to regulate the operations or services of "municipally-owned utilities" under section 17(e).	Are municipally owned utilities different from privately owned utilities?	Krein Concedes no copying
8220	Barragan v. Banco BCH, 188 Cal. App. 3d 283, 296, 232 Cal. Rptr. 758, 765 (Ct. App. 1986)	9	Act of state doctrine, being merely issue preclusion device, did not affect power of court to enter default judgment.	Because the act of state doctrine is merely an issue preclusion device (Arango v. Guzman Travel Advisors Corp., supra, 621 F.2d at p. 1380; National American Corp. v. Fed. Rep. of Nigeria, supra, 448 F.Supp. at p. 640), it does not affect the power of the court to enter a default judgment.	Does the act of state doctrine affect the power of the court to enter default judgment?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

19258	Pascoag Reservoir & Dam, LLC v. Rhode Island, 217 F. Supp. 2d 206, 221–22 (D.R.I. 2002), aff'd, 337 F.3d 87 (1st Cir. 2003)	21	Record owner of reservoir alleged sufficient facts to make out a federal takings claim where it alleged that state had acquired title to a portion of the bottom of the reservoir and an easement by prescription on behalf of the public to use the reservoir for recreational purposes; because of the State's actions, State wiped out all of owner's economically beneficial use of the property and impressed a private individual into service to provide the public unrestricted use of private property. U.S.C.A. Const.Amend. 5.	Here, the State has acquired title to a portion of the bottom of the Reservoir and an easement by prescription on behalf of the public to use the Reservoir for recreational purposes. [...] Therefore, plaintiff has alleged a sufficient takings claim in the complaint in this case. This Court also notes that because the State acquired title to a portion of the reservoir bottom, the State has wiped out all of plaintiff's economically beneficial use of that property. [...] The State has impressed a private individual into service to provide the public unrestricted use of private property.	Should a private owner bring an inverse condemnation action for public use of private property within a specified period of time?	Krein Concedes no copying
797	Faysound Ltd. v. Walter Fuller Aircraft Sales, 748 F. Supp. 1365, 1373 (E.D. Ark. 1990)	3	To qualify as act of state, it is necessary to prove that act occurred as result of considered policy determination by government to give effect to its political and public interest, matters that would have significant impact on American foreign relations.	To qualify as an act of state, it is necessary to prove that the act "occurred as a result of a considered policy determination by a government to give effect to its political and public interest-matters that would have significant impact on American foreign relations."	"To qualify as an act of state, is it necessary to prove that the act occurred as a result of a considered policy determination by a government to give effect to its political and public interest?"	Not Copyrightable (headnote near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation
15704	Clifton v. Koontz, 160 Tex. 82 (Tex. 1959)	6	In a mineral lease, the terms "produced" and "produced in paying quantities" mean substantially the same thing.	While the lease does not expressly use the term 'paying quantities', it is well settled that the terms 'produced' and 'produced in paying quantities' mean substantially the same thing.	Do the terms produced and produced in paying quantities mean substantially the same thing?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

637	In re Gateway Ethanol, 415 B.R. 486, 503 (2009)	18	Under Illinois law, when the bright-line test for whether a transaction in the form of a lease creates a security interest is not satisfied, the court must then answer the question whether the lessor retained a reversionary interest, either an upside or downside risk. S.H.A. 810 ILCS 5/1-201(37) (2005).	When the bright line test is not satisfied, UCC 1-201(37) requires the court to consider "the facts of each case." This consideration is guided by the fact that the drafters of amended UCC 1-201(37) sought to "preserve common law principles," under which the "central feature of a true lease is the reservation of an economically meaningful interest to the lessor at the end of the lease term." 59 The Official UCC Comments states: "If a transaction creates a lease and not security interest, the lessee's interest in the goods is limited to its leasehold estate; the residual interest in the goods belongs to the lessor." 60 When the bright line test is not satisfied, the court must then answer the question whether the lessor retained a reversionary interest, either an upside or downside risk.	"When the bright-line test for whether a transaction in the form of a lease creates a security interest is not satisfied, should the court then answer the question whether the lessor retained a reversionary interest, either an upside or downside risk?"	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
-----	---	----	---	--	---	--

15624	U.S. v. Leyva, 282 F.3d 623, 625 (9th Cir. 2002)	3	Use of an official position was not an element of bribery offense; plain language of statute required only that the public official accept a thing of value in exchange for perpetrating a fraud, and absence of any official act requirement was particularly pointed in light of explicit "official act" or "official duty" language in other subsections of statute. 18 U.S.C.A. S 201(b)(2)(B).	[T]he public official must use his official position to commit or aid in the commission of the fraud. The district court did not err in rejecting these instructions because Leyva's proposed "use of official position" condition is supported by neither the text of the statute nor case law. Under the rules of statutory construction, "[t]he plain meaning of the statute controls, and courts will look no further, unless its application leads to unreasonable or impracticable results." United States v. Daas, 198 F.3d 1167, 1174 (9th Cir.1999). Here, the plain language of 201(b)(2)(B) requires only that the public official accept a thing of value in exchange for perpetrating a fraud. The absence of any official act requirement is particularly pointed in light of explicit "official act" or "official duty" language in other subsections of 201.	Is the use of an official position an element of the bribery statute?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
16416	Roberson v. Medtronic, 494 F. Supp. 2d 864, 870 (W.D. Tenn. 2007)	5	Federal Anti-Kickback Act provides only criminal penalties for its violation and provides no private right of action. Social Security Act, S 1128B, 42 U.S.C.A. S 1320a-7b.	The language of the statute and relevant case law support Defendants' position that the Anti-Kickback Act provides only criminal penalties for its violation and provides no private right of action.	Does the Anti-Kickback Statute provide for a private right of action?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
6871	Sabatino v. LaSalle Bank, N.A., 96 S.W.3d 113, 116 (Mo. Ct. App. 2003)	5	In order for "title to be affected," so as to predicate venue in the county where the land is located, title to the land must be the subject of the controversy; it is not enough for the judgment to affect the title incidentally or collaterally. V.A.M.S. S 508.030.	In order for "title to be affected" so as to predicate venue in the county where the land is located, title to the land must be the subject of the controversy. It is not enough for the judgment to affect the title incidentally or collaterally.	"For the title to be affected, so as to predicate venue in the county where the land is located, is it required that the land is the subject of the controversy?"	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

4539	Metmor Financial, Inc. v. Landoll Corp., 976 S.W.2d 454, 462 (Mo.App. W.D.,1998)	11	Party seeking equitable subrogation must prove by clear and convincing evidence that equity requires another party to bear the loss.	A party seeking equitable subrogation must prove by clear and convincing evidence that equity requires another party to bear the loss.	Should a party seeking subrogation or equitable subrogation prove by clear and convincing evidence that equity requires another party to bear the loss?	Not Copyrightable (headnote near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation
16049	Bibiano v. Lynch, 834 F.3d 966, 974 (9th Cir. 2016)	14	Given unique circumstances of case in which alien, a Mexican citizen and transgender woman who returned to United States unlawfully following her removal pursuant to in absentia removal order issued by immigration judge (IJ) in the Ninth Circuit, petitioned for review of Board of Immigration Appeals (BIA) order upholding the denial of her request for withholding of removal by IJ in the Eleventh Circuit, the interests of justice favored keeping petition in the Ninth Circuit, as opposed to transfer pursuant to court's inherent authority; the government acknowledged that alien's confusion over venue was understandable, as case spanned multiple decision-makers and three jurisdictions, one of which was the Ninth Circuit where alien originally filed for asylum, there were no allegations of gamesmanship or forum shopping, case had been pending for more than a year and had been fully briefed under Ninth Circuit law, and transfer would waste judicial resources and cause unnecessary delay.	As discussed above, the venue provision in 8 U.S.C. § 1252(b)(2) does not remove our subject matter jurisdiction over final orders of removal; thus, that the Eleventh Circuit is the proper venue does not defeat our jurisdiction over this case. [...] Given the unique circumstances of this case, we hold that transfer is not in the interests of justice. Here, the government acknowledges that Bibiano's confusion over venue "may have understandably been caused by legitimate confusion as to the proper forum for review." Indeed, the case spans multiple decision-makers and three jurisdictions, one of which was the Ninth Circuit where Bibiano originally filed for asylum. 10 See e.g., Sorcia, 643 F.3d at 123; cf. Trejo-Mejia, 593 F.3d at 914 (ordering a transfer where none of the proceedings occurred in the Ninth Circuit). In addition, the case at bar has been pending in our court for more than a year and has already been fully briefed under Ninth Circuit law. Transfer would not be more convenient "by having the parties brief their arguments afresh using a different	Can a court have jurisdiction even if it is not the proper venue?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

13429	H.D. Arnaiz, Ltd. v. Cnty. of San Joaquin, 96 Cal. App. 4th 1357, 1364–65, 118 Cal. Rptr. 2d 71, 77 (2002)	6	A voluntary dismissal by written request to the clerk is not a final judgment as no judgment, final or otherwise, is necessary to the dismissal. West's Ann.Cal.C.C.P. S 581(b)(1).	A voluntary dismissal under *1365 Code of Civil Procedure section 581, subdivision (b)(1) by written request to the clerk is not a final judgment, as no judgment, final or otherwise, is necessary to the dismissal.	Is a voluntary dismissal by written request to the clerk a final judgment as no judgment?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
5177	King v. Zimmerman, 266 Mont. 54, 66 (Mont.,1994)	15	Purpose of pretrial orders is to prevent surprise, simplify issues, and permit counsel to prepare their case for trial on basis of pretrial orders.	The purpose of pretrial orders is to prevent surprise, simplify the issues, and permit counsel to prepare their case for trial on the basis of the pretrial order.	"Is the purpose of pretrial orders to prevent surprise, simplify issues, and permit counsel to prepare their case for trial on basis of pretrial orders?"	Not Copyrightable (headnote near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation
7622	Merrick v. Britton, 26 Ark. 496, 503 (1871)	2	Where a party, for any good cause, is unprepared to go to trial, and fails by motion to postpone or continue, to show the fact to the court, at the proper time, he waives his want of preparation, and all right to afterwards object.	It is therefore incumbent upon a party, if for any good cause he finds himself unprepared to go on, to state the circumstances to the court and move a postponement of his case. If he fails to do so, he waives his want of preparation, and all right after to object	Does a party waives all his right to object if he fails to move a postponement of his case for any good cause he finds himself unprepared to go on?	Not Copyrightable (expired); No Material Appropriation
7181	R.J.W. v. State, 910 So. 2d 357, 361 (Fla. Dist. Ct. App. 2005)	3	An acquittal bars the prosecution from seeking another opportunity to supply evidence that it failed to muster in the first place.	An acquittal bars the prosecution from seeking "another opportunity to supply evidence that it failed to muster" in the first place.	Does an acquittal bar the prosecution from seeking another opportunity to supply evidence that it failed to muster in the first place?	Not Copyrightable (headnote near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation

19808	Dunn v. Terry, 216 Va. 234, 239, 217 S.E.2d 849, 854 (1975)	4	Convicts may freely execute contracts and deeds and transact business.	Convicts are not civilly dead in Virginia, and they may freely execute contracts and deeds. Haynes v. Peterson, 125 Va. 730, 100 S.E. 471 (1919); See also Scott v. Nance, Adm'r, 202 Va. 355, 358, 117 S.E.2d 279, 281 (1960). Here, Dunn was Sui juris at the time the action against him was instituted, and the trial court acquired jurisdiction over him. Dunn was free to make whatever arrangements he desired to defend the action. Unlike an infant or insane person, he was not legally incompetent to transact business either before or after his conviction in the criminal case.	Can convicts execute contracts?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
13224	Sec. Bank & Tr. Co. v. Larkin, Hoffman, Daly & Lindgren, Ltd., 897 N.W.2d 821, 825 (Minn. Ct. App. 2017)	9	A cause of action "accrues" when all of the elements of the action have occurred, such that the cause of action could be brought and would survive a motion to dismiss for failure to state a claim.	In so doing, we are mindful that "[a] cause of action accrues when all of the elements of the action have occurred, such that the cause of action could be brought and would survive a motion to dismiss for failure to state a claim."	When does a cause of action accrue?	Not Copyrightable (headnote near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation
7613	Arthur v. Sexton Dental Clinic, 368 S.C. 326, 334, 628 S.E.2d 894, 898 (Ct. App. 2006)	5	Decision whether to conduct a hearing on the issuance of the scheduling order is a matter left to the discretion of the trial judge.	Initially, we reject Appellants' contention that Judge Brogdon was required to hold a hearing on the issuance of the scheduling order. Our review of the above-cited rules of civil procedure reveals that the decision of whether to conduct a hearing is a matter left to the discretion of the trial judge.	Is the decision whether to conduct a hearing on the issuance of the scheduling order a matter left to the discretion of the judge?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

11756	Martin Glennon v. First Fid. Bank, N.A., 279 N.J. Super. 48, 57 (App. Div. 1995)	4	Under statutes, instrument is converted when it is paid on a forged endorsement, and depository bank warrants to the drawees that all signatures are genuine, also making it liable to the drawer for conversion. N.J.S.A. 12A:3-417(2), 12A:3-419(1)(c).	We start with the propositions that under N.J.S.A. 12A:3-419(1)(c) an instrument is converted when it is paid on a forged endorsement, and a depository bank warrants to the drawees that all signatures are genuine N.J.S.A. 12A:3-417(2), also making it liable to the drawer for conversion.	When does conversion of an instrument take place under the UCC?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
1031	Poteat v. St. Paul Mercury Ins. Co., 277 Mont. 117, 119 (1996)	1	When deciding motion to dismiss based on lack of subject matter jurisdiction, district court must determine whether complaint states facts that, if true, would vest district court with subject matter jurisdiction.	When deciding a motion to dismiss based on lack of subject matter jurisdiction, a district court must determine whether the complaint states facts that, if true, would vest the district court with subject matter jurisdiction.	"When deciding a motion to dismiss based on lack of subject matter jurisdiction, must a trial court determine whether the complaint states facts that would vest the court with subject matter jurisdiction?"	Not Copyrightable (headnote near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation
5647	Green v. Cont'l Rentals, 292 N.J. Super. 241, 253, 678 A.2d 759, 764-65 (1994)	8	Inclusion of contractual provision that, upon compliance with lease terms, customer shall become owner of property for no additional consideration, identifies agreement as security interest as matter of law.	The inclusion of a contractual provision that upon compliance with the lease terms the customer shall become 765 the owner of the property for no additional consideration, identifies the agreement as a security interest as a matter of law.	When should a customer become an owner of property for no additional consideration?	Not Copyrightable (headnote near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation
5644	United States v. Cessa, 861 F.3d 121, 140 (5th Cir. 2017)	23	Doctrine of double jeopardy bars retrial when the defendant has been acquitted, or when an appellate court reverses on grounds of evidentiary insufficiency; however, double jeopardy does not apply when a conviction is set aside because of an error in the proceedings leading to conviction. U.S. Const. Amend. 5.	The doctrine of double jeopardy bars retrial when the defendant has been acquitted, or when an appellate court reverses "on grounds of evidentiary insufficiency." Burks v. United States, 437 U.S. 1, 16, 98 S.Ct. 2141, 57 L.Ed.2d 1 (1978). However, double jeopardy does not apply when a "conviction is set aside because of an error in the proceedings leading to conviction.	"Does the doctrine of double jeopardy bar retrial when the defendant has been acquitted, or when an appellate court reverses on grounds of evidentiary insufficiency?"	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

8846	Pontiac Lodge No. 294 v. Dep't of Revenue, 243 Ill. App. 3d 186, 189 (1993)	4	Circuit court has reasonable discretion in determining whether to reinstate complaint after it has been dismissed for want of prosecution.	Even when the pleading involved is a criminal complaint, the circuit court has reasonable discretion in determining whether to reinstate such a complaint after it has been dismissed for want of prosecution.	Does a circuit court have reasonable discretion in determining whether to reinstate a complaint after it has been dismissed for want of prosecution?	Not Copyrightable (headnote near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation
13997	Farmer v. State, 341 Ark. 220, 224 (Ark.,2000)	4	Sexual gratification, like intent, is rarely capable of proof by direct evidence and must usually be inferred from the circumstances. A.C.A. SS 5-14-101(1)(B), 5-14-103.	Indeed, short of a confession or physical evidence, sexual gratification, like intent, is rarely capable of proof by direct evidence and must usually be inferred from the circumstances.	Can sexual gratification be inferred from the circumstances?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
10448	Morgan v. Crowley, 91 Ga. App. 58, 68 (Ga. Ct. App. 1954)	14	A demurrer must itself be free from imperfection, and a special demurrer must put its finger upon exact weakness which it seeks to point out.	As has been frequently said: A demurrer being a critic must itself be free from imperfection, and a special demurrer must, as it were, put its finger upon the exact weakness which it seeks to point out.	Must a special demurrer put its finger on the exact point of weakness?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

15187	Willowbrook Dev. Corp. v. Illinois Pollution Control Bd., 92 Ill. App. 3d 1074, 1082, 416 N.E.2d 385, 392 (1981)	7	Since Pollution Control Board acted unconditionally in granting variance from ban on future connections between sanitary drainage outlets and sewer for 52 of developer's 152 proposed units, while unconditionally denying the variance for the remaining 100 units and since mere fact that Board granted partial variance did not give rise to imposition of a condition on the variance within meaning of Environmental Protection Act, Board's decision to deny variance for 100 of the units was a quasijudicial decision reviewable under the manifest weight of evidence test. S.H.A. ch. 1111/212, SS 1035, 1036.	The Board has acted unconditionally in granting a variance for 52 units at Lake Willow Way, while unconditionally denying a variance for the remaining 100 units. The mere fact that the Board has granted a partial variance does not give rise to a "condition on a variance" within the meaning of section 36 of the Environmental Protection Act (Ill.Rev.Stat.1979, ch. 1111/2, par. 1036). Therefore, the Board's decision to deny a variance for 100 of the units planned for Lake Willow Way must be viewed as a quasijudicial decision reviewable under the manifest weight of the evidence test.[...] Section 35 of the Environmental Protection Act (Ill.Rev.Stat.1979, ch. 1111/2, par. 1035) provides that the Board may grant a variance when "compliance with any rule or regulation, requirement or order of the Board would impose an arbitrary or unreasonable hardship."	Can the Pollution Control Board grant a variance if a regulation imposes an arbitrary or unreasonable hardship on an individual polluter under Section 35 of the Environmental Protection Act?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
19196	In re Meyer, 563 B.R. 708, 713–14 (Bankr. N.D. Iowa 2017)	2	Under Iowa law, a lease is a contract and, as such, is subject to ordinary contract principles.	Under Iowa law, a lease is a contract. *714 Alta Vista Props., LLC v. Mauer Vision Ctr., PC, 855 N.W.2d 722, 727 (Iowa 2014). "Because leases are contracts ... ordinary contract principles apply."	Are leases controlled by the principles of contract law?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

20211	Bruce v. Landmark Cent. Bank Trust Co., 592 S.W.2d 198, 200 (Mo. Ct. App. 1979)	1	Contract of guaranty should be interpreted like other types of contracts; all terms of contract should be given effect.	Contracts of guaranty should be interpreted like other types of contracts. Standard Meat Co. v. Taco Kid of Springfield, Inc., 554 S.W.2d 592, 595 (Mo.App.1977). All terms of the contract should be given effect.	Will a guaranty be treated like other contracts?	Not Copyrightable (headnote near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation
6657	Schowalter v. Washington Mut. Bank, 275 Ga. App. 182, 183 (2005)	3	Purpose of the pretrial order is to determine which of the claims pleaded will actually be tried; claims, issues, and evidence are limited by the order, and the course of the action is thereby narrowed to expedite the proceeding.	The rationale is that the purpose of the pretrial order "is to determine which of the claims pleaded will actually be tried. The claims, issues, and evidence are limited by the order and the course of the action is thereby narrowed to expedite the proceeding."	"What is the purpose of a pretrial order and are claims, issues, and evidence limited by the order?"	Not Copyrightable (headnote near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation
9161	Oak Springs Villas Homeowners Ass'n v. Advanced Truss Sys., Inc., 206 Cal.App.4th 1304, 1307 (Cal. Ct. App. 2012)	2	A good faith settlement determination is a non-appealable interlocutory ruling and immediate review of the merits of that determination is obtainable only by a timely writ petition. West's Ann.Cal.C.C.P. S 877.6.	A good faith settlement determination is a nonappealable interlocutory ruling and immediate review of the merits of that determination is obtainable only by a timely writ petition pursuant to Code of Civil Procedure, section 877.6.	Is good faith settlement determination a non-appealable interlocutory ruling?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
18388	W. Pittsburgh P'ship ex rel. WEHAV Governing Comm'n v. McNeilly, 840 A.2d 498, 503 (Pa. Commw. Ct. 2004)	4	An order dismissing an action as to fewer than all plaintiffs is not a final order. Rules App.Proc., Rule 341(b, c), 42 Pa.C.S.A.	It is now well established that an order dismissing an action as to fewer than all plaintiffs is not a final order.	Is an order dismissing an action as to fewer than all plaintiffs not a final order?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

3484	Holly Ridge Assocs. v. N. Carolina Dep't of Env't & Nat. Res., 176 N.C. App. 594, 605 (2006)	13	In passing on a motion for a continuance, a trial court must pass on the grounds urged in support of it, and should consider all the facts in evidence, and not act on its own mental impression or facts outside the record. Rules Civ.Proc., Rule 40(b), West's N.C.G.S.A. S 1A-1.	40(b)), "wisely makes no attempt to enumerate them but leaves it to the judge to determine, in each case, whether 'good cause' for a continuance has been shown." Shankle, 289 N.C. at 483, 223 S.E.2d at 386. "In passing on the motion the trial court must pass on the grounds urged in support of it, and ... should consider all the facts in evidence, and not act on its own mental impression or facts outside the record." Id.	"In passing on a motion for a continuance, should a trial court consider all the facts in evidence, and not act on its own mental impression or facts outside the record?"	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
9355	Dye v. Mo. Dep't of Soc. Servs., 476 S.W.3d 359, 363 (Mo. Ct. App. 2015)	1	A voluntary dismissal is effective on the date it is filed with the court; consequently, a trial court loses jurisdiction to enter any subsequent orders regarding the dismissed action. Mo. Sup. Ct. R. 67.02(a).	"A voluntary dismissal is effective on the date it is filed with the court." [...] "Consequently, a trial court loses jurisdiction to enter any subsequent orders regarding the dismissed action." Id. "The circuit court may take no further steps as to the dismissed action, and any step attempted is viewed a nullity."	Do a trial court loses jurisdiction to enter any subsequent orders regarding the dismissed action?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

19822	Jordan v. Town of Canton, 265 A.2d 96, 99 (Me. 1970)	4	When all reasonable access to public way has been destroyed, property right has been "taken" within meaning of constitutional prohibition against taking private property for public uses without just compensation. M.R.S.A.Const. art. 1, S 21.	We recognize that in a number of states the constitution has been amended to provide that compensation must be paid when private property is 'damaged' as well as 'taken.' We hold, however, that when all reasonable access has been destroyed, the property right has been 'taken' within the meaning of Art. I, Sec. 21. [...] The effect of the statute is to permit an actual or 'de facto' discontinuance of a public way without any accompanying provision for compensation for the 'taking' of private property rights which will almost inevitably result therefrom. In judging whether a statute satisfies constitutional requirements, we look to the possible and not merely the probable consequences which may flow therefrom.	Is there a constitutional requirement that private property not be taken without just compensation?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
-------	--	---	--	---	--	---

14150	Evans v. State, 317 Ark. 532, 539 (Ark. 1994)	5	Whether incest victim had subsequent sexual relations with another and whether she initially admitted or denied such conduct to investigating authorities was entirely collateral, and even if there was some relevance to that subsequent conduct, probative value was not substantially outweighed by danger of unfair prejudice. Rule of Evid., Rule 403; A.C.A. S 5-26-202.	Since consent is never an issue in the crime of incest, whether this victim had subsequent sexual relations with another and whether she initially admitted or denied such conduct to investigating authorities is entirely collateral. Nothing in her direct testimony at trial was contradictory to her initial statement. Even if we could say there was relevance to this subsequent conduct, giving due deference to the trial court, as we are pledged to do, we cannot say that the probative value of such evidence was not substantially outweighed by the danger of unfair prejudice.	Is consent an issue in a charge of incest?	Krein Concedes no copying
-------	---	---	---	---	--	---------------------------

15710	In re Manion, No. 07-08-0318-CV, 2008 WL 4180294, at *3 (Tex. App. Sept. 11, 2008)	1	The trial court did not abuse its discretion in ordering discovery of financial records in a contract and tort suit involving the care and breeding of horses. The record contained no indication that the documents were confidential or privileged, and the party seeking to avoid discovery failed to cite any authority in support of a constitutional privacy right in one's personal financial records.	Freeman also alleges Manion served as Stallion Manager from 1983 until the present. Therefore, the record does not support a conclusion that the trial court abused its discretion by ordering the discovery of Manion's financial documents from 2000 to the present. [. . .] Once again, the record fails to establish any basis on which to exclude these documents from discovery. ² [. . .] Manion cites no authority in support of an asserted constitutional right to privacy, and it has previously been determined there is no constitutionally protected privacy right in one's personal financial records. Having determined that the trial court did not abuse its discretion in ordering discovery, we deny mandamus relief, vacate our stay order, and declare Freeman's Emergency Motion for Stay of Underlying Proceedings filed September 5, 2008, moot.	Do financial records have a constitutional right to privacy?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
6909	Shipe v. Pub. Wholesale Water Supply Dist. No. 25, 289 Kan. 160, 160 (2009)	6	If a party does not have standing to challenge an action or to request a particular type of relief, then there is no justiciable case or controversy and the suit must be dismissed.	If a party does not have standing to challenge an action or to request a particular type of relief, then there is no justiciable case or controversy and the suit must be dismissed.	Should a suit be dismissed if a party does not have standing to challenge an action or to request a particular type of relief?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

10753	Trendmark Homes, Inc. v. Bank of N. Ga., 314 Ga. App. 886, 888 (Ga. Ct. App. 2012)	4	Because a promissory note is an unconditional promise, and the contract is complete as written, parol evidence may not be used to impose conditions which are not apparent from the face of the note.	"It is well established that [such] a promissory note may not be modified by the imposition of conditions not apparent on its face.... The note being an unconditional promise, the contract is complete as written; parol evidence may not be used to impose conditions which are not apparent from the face of the note."	Can a promissory note be modified by imposition of conditions which are not apparent on its face?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
13772	Kidd v. Commonwealth, 273 Ky. 300, 116 S.W.2d 636, 638 (1938)	5	The word "break" implies force, and, as used in the storehouse breaking statute, it has the same well-known and definite meaning as at common law with reference to the crime of burglary. Ky.St. S 1164.	But the word "break" implies force. McFarland v. Commonwealth, 227 Ky. 411, 13 S.W.2d 277. As used in the statute, it has a well-known and definite meaning at common law with reference to the crime of burglary, and the same definitions apply to this statute	What does the word break denote in the context of burglary?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

18125	Bob Marshall All. v. Hodel, 852 F.2d 1223, 1229–30 (9th Cir. 1988)	5	Decision by federal agencies not to issue oil and gas leases in designated wilderness of national forest would not be equivalent to formal "withdrawal" of wilderness from mineral leasing under Federal Land Policy and Management Act, but would constitute legitimate exercise of discretion granted to Interior Secretary under Mineral Leasing Act. Federal Land Policy and Management Act of 1976, S 204, 43 U.S.C.A. S 1714; Mineral Lands Leasing Act, SS 1 et seq., 17(a), 30 U.S.C.A. SS 181 et seq., 226(a).	Kohlman argues that if the agencies had either denied or deferred action on the Deep Creek lease applications, their action would have constituted an illegal administrative "withdrawal" of Deep Creek from mineral leasing. ⁵ [...] We fail to see how a decision not to issue oil and gas leases on Deep Creek would be equivalent *1230 to a formal withdrawal. [...] Yet as the court acknowledged, the Mineral Leasing Act gives the Interior Secretary discretion to determine which lands are to be leased under the statute. 30 U.S.C. § 226(a) (1982); see Mountain States, 499 F.Supp. at 391–92. We have held that the Mineral Leasing Act "allows the Secretary to lease such lands, but does not require him to do so.... [T]he Secretary has discretion to refuse to issue any lease at all on a given tract." [...] Thus refusing to issue the Deep Creek leases, far from removing Deep Creek from the operation of the mineral leasing law, would constitute a legitimate exercise of the discretion granted to the Interior Secretary under that statute.	Does the Mineral Leasing Act allow the Secretary to lease such lands but does not require him to do so?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
7323	Wilson v. Comm'r, 161 F.2d 661, 664 (7th Cir. 1947)	5	Generally, a "partnership" is created when persons join together their money, goods, labor, or skill for purpose of carrying on a trade, profession, or business, and when there is a community of interest in profits and losses.	A partnership is generally said to be created when persons join together their money, goods, labor, or skill for the purpose of carrying on a trade, profession, or business and when there is community of interest in the profits and losses.	"Are money, property, skill and labor required in a partnership?"	Not Copyrightable (headnote near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation

427	State v. Vanlue, 216 S.W.3d 729, 733 (Mo. Ct. App. 2007)	1	Appellate courts are wary of claims that a trial court erred in failing to sua sponte make objections and rulings in the closing argument of a criminal case; to convict a trial court of an error not put forth by the defendant allows an accused to stand mute when incidents unfavorable to him or her occur during trial, gamble on the verdict, and then seek favorable results on appeal.	"Appellate courts are wary of claims that a trial court erred in failing to ... sua sponte [make objections and rulings] in [closing argument of] a criminal case.' " State v. Taylor, 166 S.W.3d 599, 608 (Mo.App.2005) (quoting State v. Derrick, 965 S.W.2d 418, 419 n. 1 (Mo.App.1998)) (emphasis added). " "To convict a trial court of an error, not put forth by the defendant ... allows an accused to stand mute when incidents unfavorable to him or her occur during trial, gamble on the verdict, and then seek favorable results on appeal.' " Taylor, 166 S.W.3d at 608 (quoting State v. Tilley, 104 S.W.3d 814, 819 (Mo.App.2003)).	Are appellate courts especially wary of a claim that the trial court failed to declare a mistrial sua sponte?	Not Copyrightable (headnote near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation
10073	Schmidt v. Cal-Dive International, 240 F. Supp. 3d 532, 542 (W.D. La. 2017)	9	Under Louisiana law, when the words at issue are not defamatory per se, plaintiff must prove, in addition to defamatory meaning and publication, falsity, malice or fault, and injury.	When the words at issue are not defamatory per se, a plaintiff must prove, in addition to defamatory meaning and publication, falsity, malice (or fault) and injury.	What does the plaintiff need to prove when the words at issue are not defamatory per se?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
9545	Xylem Dewatering Sols., Inc. v. Dir., Div. of Tax'n, 30 N.J. Tax 41, 67 (2017), as corrected (Apr. 10, 2017)	12	The federal constitution places limits on a State's power to tax value earned outside of its borders.	"The Constitution places limits on a State's power to tax value earned outside of its borders."	Does the federal constitution place limits on a State's power to tax value earned outside of its borders?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

11493	Pauls v. Sec'y of Air Force, 457 F.2d 294, 297 (1st Cir. 1972)	1	Military officers serve at pleasure of the President and have no constitutional right to be promoted or retained in service and the services of an officer may be terminated with or without reason.	It is well-established law that military officers serve at the pleasure of the President and have no constitutional right to be promoted or retained in service and that the services of an officer may be terminated with or without reason.	Can a military officer be terminated with or without reason?	Not Copyrightable (headnote near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation
14718	Nunez v. Burgos, 215 So. 3d 931, 934 (La. Ct. App. 2017)	5	Abandonment is meant not as a ground to dismiss actions on mere technicalities, but to dismiss actions which in fact clearly have been abandoned. La. Code Civ. Proc. Ann. art. 561.	As previously stated, abandonment is not meant to dismiss actions on mere technicalities, but to dismiss actions which in fact clearly have been abandoned.	Is abandonment not meant to dismiss actions on mere technicalities?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
3841	Lewis v. Buena Vista Mut. Ins. Ass'n, 183 N.W.2d 198, 201 (Iowa 1971)	5	Motion in limine is not ordinarily employed to choke off entire claim or defense but it is usually used to prohibit mention of some specific matter, such as an inflammatory piece of evidence, until admissibility of that matter has been shown out of hearing of jury, and trial courts would ordinarily be well advised to require evidentiary hearing on motion if its validity or invalidity is not manifest from face of motion.	Moreover, the motion in limine is not ordinarily employed to choke off an entire claim or defense, as it was here regarding arson. Rather, it is usually used to prohibit mention of some specific matter, such as an inflammatory piece of evidence, until the admissibility of that matter has been shown out of the hearing of the jury. E.g., Mead v. Scott, 256 Iowa 1285, 130 N.W.2d 641 (previous accidents); Wagner v. Larson, 257 Iowa 1202, 136 N.W.2d 312 (collateral benefits and marital trouble); Baysinger v. Haney, 155 N.W.2d 496 (Iowa) (indirect revelation of contents of privileged report). [...] Since no one knows exactly how the trial will proceed, trial courts would ordinarily be well advised to require an evidentiary hearing on the motion when its validity or invalidity is not manifest from the face of the motion.	"Should a motion in limine be used to ""choke off"" a party's entire claim or defense?"	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

10933	Allen v. Phinney Oil Co., 241 S.C. 173, 180 (S.C. 1962)	5	Courts may not enlarge meaning of terms of Workmen's Compensation Act or extend by construction its scope so as to include persons not embraced by its terms.	However, the Courts are without authority to enlarge the meaning of the terms of the act or to extend by construction its scope so as to include persons not embraced by its terms, and one who seeks to avail himself of the act must come within its terms.	"In workmens compensation, may the courts enlarge the meaning of the terms in the law?"	Krein Concedes no copying
3674	Kraft v. Forest Park Realty & Ins. Co., 111 Ga.App. 621, 626 (Ga.App. 1965)	9	If a dismissal for want of prosecution is entered erroneously or improvidently, court may reinstate it upon motion without notice to or consent of defendant.	If a dismissal for want of prosecution is entered erroneously or improvidently, the court may reinstate it upon motion without notice to or the consent of the defendant.	"If a dismissal for want of prosecution is entered erroneously or improvidently, can a court reinstate it upon motion without notice to or consent of defendant?"	Not Copyrightable (headnote near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation
1864	Rockdale Mgmt. Co. v. Shawmut Bank, N.A., 418 Mass. 596, 598 (Mass., 1994)	2	When fraud on court is shown through clear and convincing evidence to have been committed in ongoing case, trial judge has inherent power and broad discretion to fashion judicial response warranted by fraudulent conduct; dismissal of claims or entire action, or entry of default judgment, may be warranted by fraud.	When a fraud on the court is shown through clear and convincing evidence to have been committed in an ongoing case, the trial judge has the inherent power to take action in response to the fraudulent conduct. The judge has broad discretion to fashion a judicial response warranted by the fraudulent conduct. Dismissal of claims or of an entire action may be warranted by the fraud, see, e.g., Aoude, supra at 1118, as may be the entry of a default judgment, see, e.g., Eppes v.	"When faced with a finding of fraud on the court, does the judge have broad discretion to fashion a judicial response warranted by the fraudulent conduct?"	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

2019	Frymire Eng'g Co., ex rel. Liberty Mut. Ins. Co. v. Jomar Int'l, Ltd., 194 S.W.3d 713, 715 (Tex. App. 2006)	3	The "equitable subrogation doctrine" allows one who involuntarily pays another's debt to seek repayment of that debt by the person who in equity and good conscience should have paid it.	The equitable subrogation allows a person, not acting voluntarily, who pays the debt owed by another to seek repayment of that debt by the person who in equity and good conscience should have paid it.	Does the equitable subrogation doctrine allow one who involuntarily pays another's debt to seek repayment of that debt by the person who in equity and good conscience should have paid it?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
7900	Baker v. Forest Pres. Dist. of Cook Cty., 2015 IL App (1st) 141157, ¶ 39, 33 N.E.3d 745, 752	15	Special districts, like a county's Forest Preserve District (FPD), are creations of the Legislature and the statutes granting power to them are to be strictly construed and their powers are not to be enlarged by construction. S.H.A. Const. Art. 7, S 8.	Special districts, like the FPD, are creations of the legislature and the "[s]tatutes granting power to them are to be strictly construed and their powers are not to be enlarged by construction." Forest Preserve District v. Jirsa, 336 Ill. 624, 628, 168 N.E. 690 (1929); Ill. Const., 1970, art. VII 8.	Are Forest Preserve District (FPD) creations of the legislature and should the statutes granting power to them be strictly construed?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

19894	Mississippi Comm'n on Jud. Performance v. Ishee, 627 So. 2d 283, 288 (Miss. 1993)	5	Justice court judge's failure to resign from office while running for office of circuit clerk violates prohibition against running for nonjudicial office while holding office as judge; office of circuit clerk was nonjudicial, notwithstanding constitutional placement of office within judicial branch. Code of Jud.Conduct, Canon 7, subd. A(3); Const. Art. 6, S 168.	In Feltz v. Crabtree, 179 W.Va. 524, 370 S.E.2d 619 (1988), the West Virginia Supreme Court of Appeals held that the office of circuit clerk was not a judicial office. This case arose in much the same way as the case sub judice. A magistrate received notice that he was required to resign his position in order to seek the office of circuit clerk . The magistrate was removed from the payroll pursuant to that directive. By a petition for writ of mandamus, the magistrate asked to be reinstated. Canon 7 A(3) of the Judicial Code of Ethics in West Virginia is identical to our Canon 7 A(3). Furthermore, this was a case of first impression defining the term "judicial office." Article VIII, W.Va. Const. created the office of the circuit clerk within the judicial system. Feltz concluded that the office of circuit clerk is not a "judicial office" as used in Art. VIII, § 7, W.Va. Const. and Canon 7 A(3).	Is the office of circuit clerk a judicial office?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
4992	Mundi v. Union Sec. Life Ins. Co., 555 F.3d 1042, 1044 (C.A.9 (Cal.),2009)	2	In determining whether parties have agreed to arbitrate dispute, federal court applies general state-law principles of contract interpretation, while giving due regard to federal policy in favor of arbitration by resolving ambiguities as to scope of arbitration in favor of arbitration. 9 U.S.C.A. S 1 et seq.	In determining whether parties have agreed to arbitrate a dispute, we apply "general state-law principles of contract interpretation, while giving due regard to the federal policy in favor of arbitration by resolving ambiguities as to the scope of arbitration in favor of arbitration."	What laws do courts apply to contract disputes in arbitration proceedings?	Krein Concedes no copying

16408	Jaynes v. Commonwealth, 276 Va. 443, 459, 666 S.E.2d 303, 311 (2008)	10	"Trespass" is the unauthorized use of or entry onto another's property.	Trespass is the unauthorized use of or entry onto another's property.	Is the unauthorized use of or entry onto another's property a trespass?	Not Copyrightable (headnote near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation
1332	James Bros. Lumber Co. v. Union Banking & Tr. Co. of Du Bois, Pa., 432 Pa. 129, 132 (1968)	1	Court may enter judgment of non pros. when party has shown want of due diligence in failing to proceed with reasonable promptitude and there has been no compelling reason for delay, and delay has caused some prejudice to adverse party, such as death of or unexplained absence of material witness.	A Court may properly enter a judgment of non pros. when a party to the proceeding has shown a want of due diligence in failing to proceed with reasonable promptitude, and there has been no compelling reason for the delay, and the delay has caused some prejudice to the adverse party, such as the death of or unexplained absence of material witnesses.	Is entry of non pros proper if party to proceeding has shown want of due diligence by failing to proceed with reasonable promptness?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
99	Long v. Elborno, 376 Ill. App. 3d 970, 979 (Ill. App. Ct. 2007)	7	A court must consider the following seven factors in determining whether to grant a motion to dismiss based on the plaintiff's alleged failure to exercise reasonable diligence in serving a summons and complaint: (1) the length of time used to obtain service of process; (2) the activities of plaintiff; (3) plaintiff's knowledge of defendant's location; (4) the ease with which defendant's whereabouts could have been ascertained; (5) actual knowledge on the part of the defendant of pendency of the action; (6) special circumstances which would affect plaintiff's efforts; and (7) actual service on defendant. Sup.Ct.Rules, Rule 103(b); S.H.A. 735 ILCS 5/2-622(a)(1, 2).	The supreme court in Segal identified the following seven factors a court must consider when determining whether to grant a Rule 103(b) motion: "(1) the length of time used to obtain service of process; (2) the activities of plaintiff; (3) plaintiff's knowledge of defendant's location; (4) the ease with which defendant's whereabouts could have been ascertained; (5) actual knowledge on the part of the defendant of pendency of the action* * *; (6) special circumstances which would affect plaintiff's efforts; and (7) actual service on defendant."	Should courts consider a number of factors when determining whether to grant a motion to dismiss for lack of diligence?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

14132	Piven v. Comcast Corp., 397 Md. 278, 285 (2007)	2	Transitory actions can ordinarily be brought wherever the defendant works, lives, or has a principal office.	Maryland has long recognized a distinction between local actions, which must be brought where the subject matter *285 of the action is located, and transitory actions, which ordinarily may be brought wherever the defendant works, lives, or has a principal office.	Can transitory actions be brought where the defendant works or lives?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
2898	In re Advanced Powder Sols., 496 S.W.3d 838, 854 (Tex. App. 2016)	26	When a reasonable person would conclude from the severity of an accident or other circumstances that a substantial chance of litigation exists, a duty to preserve evidence arises.	When a reasonable person would conclude from the severity of an accident or other circumstances that a substantial chance of litigation exists, a duty to preserve evidence arises.	"When a reasonable person would conclude from the severity of an accident or other circumstances that a substantial chance of litigation exists, does a duty to preserve evidence arise?"	Not Copyrightable (headnote verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation
1374	Matter of Safriet, 112 N.C. App. 747, 751 (1993)	2	Before ruling on motion for continuance, judge should hear the evidence, pro and con, consider it judicially, along with whether moving party has acted with diligence and in good faith, and then rule with view to promoting substantial justice.	Before ruling on a motion for a continuance, the judge should hear the evidence, pro and con, consider it judicially, along with whether the moving party has acted with diligence and in good faith and then rule with a view to promoting substantial justice.	Should a judge find out whether moving party has acted with diligence and in good faith and then rule with a view to promoting substantial justice?	Not Copyrightable (headnote near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation
9179	Moore v. Scott, 759 S.W.2d 827, 830 (Ky. Ct. App. 1988)	8	Principal has power to revoke naked power of attorney and agent has power to renounce, although doing so is in violation of contract between the parties and although authority is expressed to be irrevocable; statement in contract that authority cannot be terminated by either party is effective only to create liability for its wrongful termination.	The principal has power to revoke and the agent has power to renounce, although doing so is in violation of a contract between the parties and although the authority is expressed to be irrevocable. A statement in a contract that the authority cannot be terminated by either party is effective only to create liability for its wrongful termination.	Can Agency be terminated due to renunciation by an agent?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

19445	Stockgrowers' Nat. Bank of Cheyenne v. Crosby, 39 Wyo. 454, 273 P. 679, 681 (1929)	2	Note may be assigned without writing to transfer ownership to assignee and enable assignee to sue thereon without indorsement.	It need not even be in writing, and appellant could become the owner of the note in suit by such assignment so as to become the real party in interest and so as to sue thereon in its own name without any indorsement on the note.	Does an assignment need to be in writing and endorsed?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
18408	Guild v. Herrick, 51 N.Y.S.2d 326, 330-31 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1944)	8	Where some members of stock brokerage firm knew or should have known that customer's securities were being improperly manipulated in course of partnership business, other partners could not escape liability on ground that they had no knowledge of the manipulations. Partnership Law, S 24.	The Court also finds that the partners of Herrick, Berg & Co. knew or should have known, from their own books and records, that at the time Charles became a partner in the firm he did not have his own money to make such contribution of capital and that plaintiff's securities were used to enable him to get the $25,000 which he contributed to the firm's capital. [. . .] The defendants also contend that they are not liable because they had no knowledge of the manipulations of plaintiff's securities. Partners are individually responsible for torts by a firm when acting within the general scope of its business, whether they personally participated therein or not. [...] Partners are individually responsible for torts by a firm when acting within the general scope of its business, whether they personally participated therein or not. As held in Kavanaugh v. McIntyre, 210 N.Y. 175, at page 183, 104 N.E. 135, 137, the individual members of a conpartnership are liable for torts of which they have no knowledge, committed by any member	"Are individual members of a partnership held responsible for torts they had no knowledge of, committed by any member of the firm in the course of partnership business?"	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

13237	Shockey v. Pelfrey, 314 Ky. 441, 444, 235 S.W.2d 1017, 1018 (1951)	1	An exhibit forms a part of a pleading and may aid and cure an allegation which is vaguely, indefinitely and defectively stated, but exhibit cannot supply an averment which has been wholly omitted. Civ.Code Prac. S 120.	An exhibit forms a part of the pleading by the express language of the Civil Code of Practice, and it may aid and cure an allegation in the pleading vaguely, indefinitely and defectively stated. Tackett v. Pickeville Supply & Planing Mill Co., 249 Ky. 835, 61 S.W.2d 881; Newport & Dayton Lumber Co. v. Lichtenfeldt, 72 S.W. 778, 24 Ky.Law Rep. 1969. It cannot, however, supply an averment which has been wholly omitted.	Can an exhibit cure or aid a defective allegation?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
1631	League of United Latin Am. Citizens v. Wilson, 908 F. Supp. 755, 768 (C.D. Cal. 1995)	12	Even if state law related to immigration is not impermissible regulation of immigration, it may still be preempted if there is showing that it was clear and manifest purpose of Congress to effect complete ouster of state power, including state power to promulgate laws not in conflict with federal laws with respect to subject matter which statute attempts to regulate; statute is preempted where Congress intended to occupy the field which statute attempts to regulate.	Under the second test, even if the state law is not an impermissible regulation of immigration, it may still be preempted if there is a showing that it was the "clear and manifest purpose of Congress" to effect a "complete ouster of state power- including state power to promulgate laws not in conflict with federal laws" with respect to the subject matter which the statute attempts to regulate. Id. at 357, 96 S.Ct. at 937. In other words, under the second test, a statute is preempted where Congress intended to "occupy the field" which the statute attempts to regulate.	Are state statutes relating to immigration preempted by federal law?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
17390	First National Bank of Fredonia v. Meadows, 460 S.W.2d 604, 606 (Mo. 1970)	2	Kansas Negotiable Instruments Act has no application to a nonnegotiable instrument, but it does not follow that an action may not be declared on as if negotiable. K.S.A. 84-3-407, 84-4-401, 84-8-206.	Of course, the negotiable instruments act has no application to a nonnegotiable instrument (10 C.J.S. Bills and Notes s 12, p. 423) but it does not follow that an action may not be 'declared on as if negotiable.'	Does the Uniform Negotiable Instruments Act apply to nonnegotiable instruments?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

14406	Michigan Employment Sec. Comm'n v. Patt, 4 Mich. App. 228, 233 (Mich. Ct. App. 1966)	3	Essential characteristics of a "tax" are that it is not a voluntary payment or donation, but an enforced contribution, exacted pursuant to legislative authority.	68: '* * * the essential characteristics of a tax are that it is not a voluntary payment or donation, but an enforced contribution, exacted pursuant to legislative authority'.'	Is tax a voluntary payment or donation?	Not Copyrightable (headnote near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation
10779	Nw. Mut. Life Ins. Co. v. State Bd. of Equalization, 73 Cal. App. 2d 548, 551, 166 P.2d 917, 919 (1946)	3	There is a broad and well recognized distinction between a tax levied for general governmental or public purposes, and a special assessment levied for improvements made under special laws of a local character.	'There is a broad and well-recognized distinction between a tax levied for general governmental or public purposes, and a special assessment levied for improvements made under special laws of a local character.'	Is there a broad distinction between a tax and a special assessment?	Not Copyrightable (headnote near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation

8972	Clouser v. Espy, 42 F.3d 1522, 1539 (C.A.9 (Or.),1994)	13	Forest Service did not act arbitrarily and capriciously under Administrative Procedure Act (APA) in determining that motorized access to mining claim in wilderness area of national forest was not essential for operation of claim and not customarily used as required for approval of motorized access under Forest Service regulations; Forest Service examiner had used pack horse to carry same equipment to claim, and access trails had been closed to motorized traffic for over ten years so that they were returning to natural condition. 5 U.S.C.A. S 706(2)(A); 36 C.F.R. S 228.15(b, c)	It is true our circuit has held that Forest Service regulation of activities on mining claims must comport with the standard set out in 30 U.S.C. § 612. See United States v. Doremus, 888 F.2d 630, 633 (9th Cir.1989) (upholding Forest Service requirement that claim holders obtain permit before beginning operations on grounds that such Forest Service regulation did not “materially interfere” with mining operation), cert. denied, 498 U.S. 1046, 111 S.Ct. 751, 112 L.Ed.2d 772 (1991). [...] We therefore affirm the district court's rejection of this argument on the ground that the “materially interfere” standard of 30 U.S.C. § 612 does not apply to actions taken by the government to regulate mining-related activities that occur on national forest lands outside of the boundary of the mining claim.	Is the Forest Service authorized to interfere with mining claims ?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
10962	Farrell v. State, 364 Md. 499, 506 (Mass. 2001)	5	An intentionally rendered verdict of not guilty is final and precludes, under common law, any further prosecution for the same offense.	In holding that an intentionally rendered verdict of "not guilty" is final and precludes, under Maryland common law, any further prosecution for the same offense...	"Is an intentionally rendered verdict of not guilty final and precludes, under common law, any further prosecution for the same offense?"	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

5889	Barlow & Haun v. United States, 118 Fed. Cl. 597, 616 (2014)	17	A claim that the application of government regulations effects a taking of a property interest is not ripe until the government entity charged with implementing the regulations has reached a final decision regarding the application of the regulations to the property at issue. U.S.C.A. Const. Amend 5.	"[A] claim that the application of government regulations effects a taking of a property interest is not ripe until the government entity charged with implementing the regulations has reached a final decision regarding the application of the regulations to the property at issue."	"Where a land owner has not yet obtained a final decision regarding application of a land regulation to the particular property in question, is the claim ripe for review?"	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
13590	Commissioner of Revenue v. Franchi, 423 Mass. 817, 822 (Mass. 1996)	2	General rule is that tax statutes are to be strictly construed according to their plain meaning, as State has no power to tax unless that power has been expressly conferred by statute.	The general rule is that tax statutes are to be strictly construed according to their plain meaning, as the State has no power to tax unless that power has been expressly conferred by statute.	Does the State have the power to tax?	Not Copyrightable (headnote near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation
18135	Wheeling Steel Corp. v. Glander, 337 U.S. 562, 572, 69 S. Ct. 1291, 1297, 93 L. Ed. 1544 (1949)	7	Under Ohio law, tax on intangibles such as notes and accounts receivable is not a franchise, privilege, occupation, or income tax, but is an ad valorem property tax. Gen.Code Ohio, SS 5325-1, 5327, 5328-1, 5328-2, 5638.	Ohio holds this tax on intangibles to be an ad valorem property tax, Bennett v. Evatt, 145 Ohio St. 587, 62 N.E.2d 345, and in no sense a franchise, privilege, occupation or income tax.	"Is a tax on intangibles an ""ad valorem tax""?"	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
6390	Harwell v. State Farm Mut. Auto. Ins. Co., 896 S.W.2d 170, 173 (Tex. 1995)	2	When determining whether summary judgment was proper, appellate court reviews evidence in light most favorable to nonmovant, taking all evidence in favor of nonmovant as true and resolving all doubts as to existence of genuine issue of material fact in its favor.	When determining whether summary judgment was proper, we review the evidence in the light most favorable to the nonmovant, taking all evidence in favor of the nonmovant as true and resolving all doubts as to the existence of a genuine issue of material fact in its favor.	Will all conflicts in the evidence will be disregarded and the evidence favorable to the nonmovant will be accepted as true when deciding summary judgment?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

7641	Canal Oil Co. v. Nat'l Oil Co., 19 Cal. App. 2d 524, 535, 66 P.2d 197, 202 (1937)	10	Liberality should be exercised in granting postponements of trials to obtain presence of material evidence and to prevent miscarriages of justice. West's Ann.Code Civ.Proc. S 595, as amended by St.1933, p. 1873.	It is true that liberality should be exercised in granting postponements of trials to obtain the presence of material evidence and to prevent miscarriages of justice , but, in the interest of expediting litigation to prevent injustice and to procure orderly procedure, the granting or denial of a continuance will not be disturbed on appeal except for an abuse of discretion on the part of the trial judge.	Should liberality be exercised in granting postponements or continuances of trial to obtain material evidence and to prevent miscarriage of justice?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
16763	Klinge v. Ithaca Coll., 167 Misc. 2d 458, 464, 634 N.Y.S.2d 1000, 1004 (Sup. Ct. 1995), aff'd as modified, 235 A.D.2d 724, 652 N.Y.S.2d 377 (1997)	7	Where a college has adopted a rule, the law requires substantial compliance.	Where a college has adopted a rule, the law requires substantial compliance (Tedeschi v. Wagner College, 49 N.Y.2d 652, 660, 427 N.Y.S.2d 760, 404 N.E.2d 1302).	"If a college adopts a rule, does the law require substantial compliance?"	Not Copyrightable (headnote verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation
21624	Litz v. Maryland Dep't of Env't, 446 Md. 254, 277-78, 131 A.3d 923, 937 (2016)	10	Tort of trespass is subject to the notice of claim requirement of the Local Government Tort Claims Act. West's Ann.Md.Code, Courts and Judicial Proceedings, S 5-304(d).	We are tasked here, however, with determining whether the LGTCA's notice requirement applies to the trespass *278 claim. The Court of Special Appeals determined that a trespass claim is considered a tort subject to the LGTCA. We agree	What is a trespass?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
21852	Anderson v. State, 21 Okla. Crim. 135	n/a	A county court is without jurisdiction to try municipal offenses.	Krein's headnote not found using judicial opinion	"Will an application for a continuance on the ground of the absence of leading counsel be denied, where the defendant is duly represented by his other counsel?"	Krein Concedes no copying; Not Copyrightable (no headnote in opinion)

7327	Washington v. Confederated Bands & Tribes of Yakima Indian Nation, 439 U.S. 463, 500–01, 99 S. Ct. 740, 761, 58 L. Ed. 2d 740 (1979)	12	Unique legal status of Indian tribes under federal law permits the federal government to enact legislation singling out tribal Indians, which might otherwise be constitutionally offensive, but states do not enjoy the same unique relationship with Indians. U.S.C.A.Const. Amend. 14.	It is settled that “the unique legal status of Indian tribes under *501 federal law” permits the Federal Government to enact legislation singling out tribal Indians, legislation that might otherwise be constitutionally offensive. Morton v. Mancari, 417 U.S. 535, 551–552, 94 S.Ct. 2474, 2483, 41 L.Ed.2d 290. States do not enjoy this same unique relationship with Indians, but Chapter 36 is not simply another state law.	What is the status of Indian nations or tribes?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
15716	Canning v. N.L.R.B., 705 F.3d 490, 500 (D.C. Cir. 2013)	7	When interpreting a constitutional provision, court must look to the natural meaning of the text as it would have been understood at the time of the ratification of the constitution.	When interpreting a constitutional provision, we must look to the natural meaning of the text as it would have been understood at the time of the ratification of the Constitution.	How should a statute or constitutional provision be interpreted?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
6649	In re Advanced Powder Sols., 496 S.W.3d 838, 853–54 (Tex. App. 2016)	24	A person has a duty to preserve evidence only when a party knows or reasonably should know that there is a substantial chance that a claim will be filed and that evidence in its possession or control will be material and relevant to that claim.	A person has a duty to preserve evidence "only when a party knows *854 or reasonably should know that there is a substantial chance that a claim will be filed and that evidence in its possession or control will be material and relevant to that claim."	When does law impute a person a duty to preserve evidence in its possession or control that will be material and relevant to that claim?	Not Copyrightable (headnote near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation
11630	State Fid. Mortg. Co. v. Varner, 740 S.W.2d 477, 480 (Tex. App. 1987), writ denied (Mar. 23, 1988)	4	Assignee obtains only right, title and interest of his assignor at time of assignment and thus, may recover only those damages potentially available to assignor.	An assignee obtains only the right, title, and interest of his assignor at the time of his assignment, and no more. Houchins v. Scheltz, 590 S.W.2d 745, 751 (Tex.Civ.App.—Houston [14th Dist.] 1979, no writ); Carter v. Associates Discount Corp., 550 S.W.2d 399, 401 (Tex.Civ.App.—Amarillo 1977, no writ). Accordingly, an assignee may recover only those damages potentially available to his assignor.	What rights does an assignee obtain from the assignor at the time of assignment?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

13302	Hoffmann v. T.J. Ronan Co., 275 A.D. 57, 60, 87 N.Y.S.2d 585, 588 (App. Div. 1949)	4	In equity action, state of facts existing at time of trial, not at commencement of action, controls.	In actions in equity, the state of facts existing at the time of the trial controls, not at the commencement of the action.	"In actions in equity, does the state of facts existing at the time of the trial control?"	Not Copyrightable (headnote near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation
19877	State v. Bengé, 272 N.C. 261, 263 (1967)	1	"Manslaughter" is the unlawful killing of a human being without malice and without premeditation or deliberation.	Manslaughter is the unlawful killing of a human being without malice and without premeditation or deliberation.	What is manslaughter?	Not Copyrightable (headnote near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation
3284	Cramer v. U.S., 65 S.Ct. 918, 934-35, 325 U.S. 1, 34-35 (U.S., 1945)	9	The minimum function that an "overt act" must perform in treason prosecution is that it show sufficient action by accused, in its setting, to sustain a finding that accused actually gave aid and comfort to the enemy. Cr.Code S 1, 18 U.S.C.A. S 2381; U.S.C.A. Const. art. 3, S 3.	The very minimum function that an overt act 43 must perform in a treason 935 prosecution is that it show sufficient action by the accused, in its setting, to sustain a finding that the accused actually gave 44 aid and comfort to the enemy.	Can an overt act in a treason prosecution be used to determine whether the accuseds action was an aid and comfort to the enemy?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
12322	Fenton v. Thompson, 352 Mo. 199, 210 (Mo. 1944)	17	The taking of a nonsuit is essentially the act of the plaintiff rather than of the court, which records and gives sanction to plaintiff's act. V.A.M.S. SS 510.130, 510.150.	The taking of a nonsuit is essentially the act of the plaintiff rather than of the court, which records and gives sanction to the plaintiff's act.'	Is the taking of a nonsuit an act of a plaintiff or of a court which records and gives sanction to the plaintiff's act?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation
8894	Torres v. Rios, 869 S.W.2d 555, 556 (Tex.App. Corpus Christi,1993)	2	Trial court has authority to dismiss cause for want of prosecution pursuant to court's inherent powers as well as under rules of procedure. Vernon's Ann.Texas Rules Civ.Proc., Rule 165a.	A trial court is expressly vested with the authority to dismiss a cause for want of prosecution under our rules of procedure. See TEX.R.CIV.P. 165a. The same authority exists pursuant to the court's inherent powers.	Does the trial court have authority to dismiss cause for want of prosecution pursuant to court's inherent powers?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

19641	Hoppe v. Russo-Asiatic Bank, 200 A.D. 460, 465, 193 N.Y.S. 250, 254 (App. Div. 1922), aff'd, 235 N.Y. 37, 138 N.E. 497 (1923)	2	Motives influencing assignor in making assignment, or the consideration does not affect validity of assignment as against debtor.	As to the motive of the assignor in making the assignment or the consideration given therefor, it is well settled (5 Corp. Juris, 940) that 'it is of no importance to the debtor what motives influence the assignor in making the assignment	Is the motive influencing an assignment important?	Not Copyrightable (expired); No Material Appropriation
19745	Yamamoto v. Bank of New York, 329 F.3d 1167, 1172 (9th Cir. 2003)	2	Mortgagee's security interest did not become automatically void upon mortgagors' notice that they were exercising their right to rescind loan based upon mortgagee's alleged failure to disclose their right to cancel and alleged inaccurate disclosure of appraisal fees in violation of TILA, where mortgagee contested mortgagors' right to rescind and presented evidence that it did not violate TILA. Truth in Lending Act, S 125(b), 15 U.S.C.A. S 1635(b); 12 C.F.R. S 226.23.	If BNY had acquiesced in Tampon's notice of rescission, then the transaction would have been rescinded automatically, thereby causing the security interest to become void and triggering the sequence of events laid out in subsections (d)(2) and (d)(3). But here, BNY contested the notice and produced evidence sufficient to create a triable issue of fact about compliance with TILA's disclosure requirements. In these circumstances, it cannot be that the security interest vanishes immediately upon the giving of notice. Otherwise, a borrower could get out from under a secured loan simply by claiming TILA violations, whether or not the lender had actually committed any. Rather, under the statute and the regulation, the security interest "becomes void" only when the consumer "rescinds" the transaction. In a contested case, this happens when the right to rescind is determined in the borrower's favor.	When can the obligor exercise his right of rescission?	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

9918	Shaw v. Nat Cty Mut Fire Ins. Co., 723 S.W.2d 236, 238 (Tex. App. 1986)	2	Admission once admitted, deemed or otherwise, is judicial admission and party may not then introduce controverting testimony in any legal proceeding related to action.	An admission once admitted, deemed or otherwise, is a judicial admission, and a party may not then introduce controverting testimony in any legal proceeding related to the action.	"Are deemed admissions, resulting from a party's failure to answer a request for admissions, judicial admissions and may not be controverted with testimony?"	Not Copyrightable (headnote near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation
6478	Wasko v. Manella, 849 A.2d 777, 781 (Conn. 2004)	4	The object of legal or equitable subrogation is the prevention of injustice; it is designed to promote and to accomplish justice, and is the mode which equity adopts to compel the ultimate payment of a debt by one who, in justice, equity, and good conscience, should pay it.	The object of [legal or equitable] subrogation is the prevention of injustice. It is designed to promote and to accomplish justice, and is the mode which equity adopts to compel the ultimate payment of a debt by one who, in justice, equity, and good conscience, should pay it....	Is prevention of injustice the object of subrogation?	Not Copyrightable (headnote near verbatim of judicial opinion); No Material Appropriation
8595	Thomas v. Giant, 174 Md. App. 103, 113 (2007)	5	Workers' compensation benefits are a creature of statute, and when the controlling enactments are clear, they must guide the outcome. West's Ann.Md.Code, Labor and Employment, S 9-101 et seq.	Thomas characterizes this result as a boon to Giant, which need not pay Workers' compensation benefits are a creature of statute, however, and when the controlling enactments are clear, they must guide the outcome.	"Are workers compensation benefits a creature of statute, and when the controlling enactments are clear, must they guide the outcome?"	Not Copyrightable; No Material Appropriation

EXHIBIT H

ID	Question	Headnote	Case Opinion	Question to Headnote Rank	Headnote to Case Opinion Rank	Question Bates #	Headnote Bates #	Case Opinion Bates #	Arguments for Why Juror Could Conclude that Question Was Not Taken from Headnote
31	is promissory estoppel an equitable doctrine that sounds in contract rather than tort?	Promissory estoppel is an equitable doctrine that sounds in contract rather than tort, for purposes of applying New York choice-of-law rules to such claim.	[11] [12] ¶ 88 " [P]romissory estoppel is a doctrine under which the plaintiff may recover without the presence of a contract.' " Newton, 233 Ill.2d at 53, 329 Ill.Dec.	1	4	ROSS-000000047, ROSS-003281283	TR-0584355	TR-0747397	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; the question does not include reference to "New York choice-of-law-rules" as does the headnote, and is therefore, substantively different.
38	are actions for breach of the implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing generally limited to contract damages?	Under California law, actions for breach of the implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing are generally limited to contract damages.	GSS alleges state law causes of action for breach of contract, breach of the implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing, and conversion. The County moved to dismiss the Complaint under Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 12(b) (6), and oral argument was heard on August 1, 2011.	1	3	ROSS-000000061, ROSS-003295133	TR-0726531	TR-0865518	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; the question does not include the limitation of "Under California law" as does the headnote, and is therefore, substantively different.
263	after the attachment of jeopardy, should there be a jeopardy terminating event, most commonly an acquittal or a final judgment of conviction?	After the attachment of jeopardy, there must be a jeopardy terminating event, most commonly an acquittal or a final judgment of conviction, in order for double jeopardy protections to apply to subsequent proceedings. U.S.C.A. Const.Amend. 5.	[21] [22] The protections provided by the Double Jeopardy Clause do not "alter the fundamental principle that an accused must suffer jeopardy before he can suffer double jeopardy." Id. at 393, 95 S.Ct. at 1065. As jeopardy does not attach until a *241 defendant is put before the trier of fact, the constitutional prohibitions cannot be applied to judicial proceedings where no prosecution occurs.	1	4	ROSS-003278500	TR-0639882	TR-0636912	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question makes no reference "to apply to subsequent proceedings," nor does if reference "U.S.C.A. Const.Amend. 5." Thus, the headnote and the question are substantively different.
278	does a defendant's failure to object to mistrial not constitute implied consent to mistrial, if a defendant had no opportunity to object?	Defendant's failure to object to mistrial does not constitute implied consent to mistrial, if defendant had no opportunity to object. U.S.C.A. Const.Amend. 5.	Given the brevity of the record of the circumstances attendant to the declaration of the mistrial, the only circumstance suggesting consent is Harrison's failure to object to the trial court's action. Before such failure constitutes an implied consent to the mistrial, however, Harrison must have been given an adequate opportunity to object.	1	3	ROSS-003278546	TR-0638360	TR-0551604	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question makes no reference to "U.S.C.A. Const.Amend. 5." Thus, the headnote and the question are substantively different.
310	do courts allow some overlap between motions filed under rules and a confluence between the two rules exists where an affirmative matter is apparent on the face of the complaint?	Although the rule providing for dismissal based on defects or defenses, like the rule providing for dismissal on the pleadings, permits attack based on defects on the complaint's face, those defects should be coupled with grounds not appearing of record; however, courts allow some overlap between motions filed under these rules and a confluence between the two rules exists where an affirmative matter is apparent on the face of the complaint. S.H.A. 735 ILCS 5/2-615, 5/2-619.	3d DCA 2010) (reversing dismissal with prejudice where trial court considered facts other than those alleged in the complaint). [6] [7] Affirmative defenses, such as statute of limitations and laches, are generally matters raised in an answer and not a motion to dismiss. Rigby v. Liles, 505 So.2d 598, 601 (Fla. 1st DCA 1987). However, where the facts constituting the defense affirmatively appear on the face of the complaint and establish conclusively that the defense bars the action as a matter of law, a motion to dismiss raising the defense is properly granted.	2	4	ROSS-003278631	TR-0829733	TR-0881121	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question contains no reference to "Although the rule providing for dismissal based on defects or defenses, like the rule providing for dismissal on the pleadings, permits attack based on defects on the complaint's face, those defects should be coupled with grounds not appearing of record," as does the headnote. Therefore the question and headnote are factually and substantively different.
419	is a motion to dismiss based on a contractual forum selection clause properly pleaded as a motion to dismiss for failure to state a claim?	A motion to dismiss based on a contractual forum selection clause is properly pleaded as a motion to dismiss for failure to state a claim. Rules Civ.Proc., Rule 12(b)(6), 47 M.G.L.A.	Standard of Review [2] [3] [4] [5] [6] "[A]n attempt to seek enforcement of the outbound forum-selection clause is properly presented in a motion to dismiss without prejudice, pursuant to Rule 12(b)(3), Ala. R. Civ. P., for contractually improper venue.	1	3	ROSS-003278922	TR-0576944	TR-0684981	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not contain citation to "Rules Civ.Proc., Rule 12(b)(6), 47 M.G.L.A." Nor does the case opinion, which refers to a different rule, "Rule 12(b)(3), Ala. R. Civ. P." Therefore the question and headnote are factually and substantively different.

ID	Question	Headnote	Case Opinion	Question to Headnote Rank	Headnote to Case Opinion Rank	Question Bates #	Headnote Bates #	Case Opinion Bates #	Arguments for Why Juror Could Conclude that Question Was Not Taken from Headnote
496	does a dismissal for failure to state claim bar a subsequent action and generally involves merits of action?	Dismissal for failure to state claim bars subsequent action and generally involves merits of action. Rules Civ.Proc., Rule 12(b)(5).	*375 STANDARD FOR REVIEWING MOTION TO DISMISS [2] [3] [4] [5] Our review of a trial court's dismissal for failure to state a claim upon which relief can be granted involves a de novo consideration on our part as to whether the petition is legally sufficient.	1	3	ROSS-003279131	TR-0798774	TR-0734903	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not contain citations to "Rules Civ.Proc., Rule 12(b)(5)." Nor does the case opinion.
508	is the cumulative remedies provision in a rule governing dismissal for want of prosecution and reinstatement limited to other viable procedures and remedies which are not inherently inconsistent?	Cumulative remedies provision in rule governing dismissal for want of prosecution and reinstatement is limited to other viable procedures and remedies which are not inherently inconsistent with procedures set forth in rule itself. Vernon's Ann.Texas Rules Civ.Proc., Rule 165a, subd. 4.	Nevertheless, appellees contend the notice in this case permitted the trial judge to dismiss under the court's inherent authority because rule 165a(4) "speaks of the Trial Court's inherent authority." Rule 165a(4) addresses cumulative remedies and provides that the "same reinstatement procedures and timetable are applicable to all dismissals for want of prosecution including cases which are dismissed pursuant to the court's inherent power, whether or not a motion to dismiss has been filed." TEX.R.	1	4	ROSS-003279160	TR-0691126	TR-0797211	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not contain references to, "procedures set forth in rule itself," or citations to "Vernon's Ann.Texas Rules Civ.Proc., Rule 165a, subd. 4," as does the headnote. Therefore the question and headnote are factually and substantively different.
523	are motions to dismiss a complaint for failure to state a claim upon which relief can be granted not favored and are rarely granted in light of the liberal pleading standards contained in the rules of civil procedure?	Motions to dismiss a complaint for failure to state a claim upon which relief can be granted are not favored and are rarely granted in light of the liberal pleading standards contained in the rules of civil procedure. Rules Civ.Proc., Rule 12.02(6).	[3] [4] [5] ¶ 12 This appeal turns on the merits of DPT's motion to dismiss. A motion under C.R.C.P. 12(b)(5) "to dismiss [a complaint] for failure to state a claim upon which relief can be granted serves as a test of the formal sufficiency of a plaintiff's complaint." Pub.	1	3	ROSS-003279204	TR-0533675	TR-0539322	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not contain citation to "Rules Civ.Proc., Rule 12.02(6)." The case opinion cites to a different Rule, Rule 12(b)(5).
526	where there was legal mistrial without verdict, does jeopardy not attach?	Where there was legal mistrial without verdict, jeopardy did not attach. Vernon's Ann.C.C.P. art. 36.29; Vernon's Ann.St. Const. art. 5, § 13.	Where the civil forfeiture settles without a hearing, it follows that jeopardy does not attach until the district court accepts the settlement.	1	3	ROSS-003279213	TR-0781568	TR-0647297	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not reference citation "Vernon's Ann.C.C.P. art. 36.29; Vernon's Ann.St. Const. art. 5, § 13," as does the headnote.
617	in ruling on a motion to dismiss for failure to state a claim, is the circuit court not to make factual findings?	In ruling on a motion to dismiss for failure to state a claim, the circuit court is not to make factual findings.	When reviewing a dismissal order, an appellate court accepts as true all the facts which are well pled and the proper and reasonable inferences of law and fact which may be drawn therefrom, but not the pleader's conclusions. *534 3. Motions to Dismiss: Pleadings. To prevail against a motion to dismiss for failure to state a claim, the pleader 255 must allege sufficient facts, accepted as true, to state a claim to relief that is plausible on its face.	1	3	ROSS-003279441	TR-0825385	TR-0679197	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case.
638	can a motion to reinstate an action dismissed for lack of prosecution be considered as a bill of review?	Motion to reinstate an action dismissed for lack of prosecution could be considered as a bill of review, but as a bill of review, it properly did not belong in original cause.	relative to the claimed indebtedness." [1] The common law of this jurisdiction has long recognized that the dismissal of a suit for lack of prosecution alone would not operate as a bar to the cause of action.	1	4	ROSS-003279506	TR-0806047	TR-0534089	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not contain reference to "but as a bill of review, it properly did not belong in original cause," and therefore the question and headnote are factually and substantively different.

ID	Question	Headnote	Case Opinion	Question to Headnote Rank	Headnote to Case Opinion Rank	Question Bates #	Headnote Bates #	Case Opinion Bates #	Arguments for Why Juror Could Conclude that Question Was Not Taken from Headnote
683	is construction of a proposed highway a typical public purpose for which property may be taxed by the state?	Construction and maintenance of serviceable roads is public purpose for which property may be taxed by state.	1096, said: "The construction and maintenance of serviceable roads in any community is a matter in which the whole community have an interest and is a typical public purpose for which property may be taxed by the state.	2	3	ROSS-003279627	TR-0577135	TR-0845874	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not contain reference to, "Construction and maintenance of serviceable Roads," and therefore the question and headnote are factually and substantively different.
727	is application of rule that a defendant can move for dismissal of an action or of any claim against him for failure of plaintiff to prosecute or to comply with rules or any order of court a matter that is within discretion of court?	Application of rule that a defendant may move for dismissal of an action or of any claim against him for failure of plaintiff to prosecute or to comply with rules or any order of court is a matter that is within discretion of court. CR 41.02.	41(b) authorizes the trial court to involuntarily dismiss an action "[f]or failure of the plaintiff to prosecute or to comply with these rules or any order of court." The decision to impose such a sanction is left to the discretion of the trial court, to be overturned only where the court "impos[es] a penalty too strict or unnecessary under the circumstances." Braxton v.	1	3	ROSS-003279744	TR-0613003	TR-0841613	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not contain reference to "CR 41.02."
776	is university property owned by the state?	The University of Mississippi, the Mississippi State College and the Mississippi State College for Women are arms of the state and their property is owned by the state. Act Feb. 28, 1844; Act Feb. 28, 1878; Laws 1884, c. 30; Laws 1932, c. 127.	The acts creating the colleges now known as Mississippi State College (February 28, 1878) and Mississippi State College for Women (March 12, 1884, Laws 1884 c. 30) must be similarly construed and such construction is not at all affected by Chapter 127 of the Laws of 1932, creating a single board of trustees for all the state institutions of higher learning.	2	3	ROSS-003279878	TR-0695635	TR-0744329	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not reference "The University of Mississippi, the Mississippi State College and the Mississippi State College for Women are arms of the state" or the citation" Act Feb. 28, 1844; Act Feb. 28, 1878; Laws 1884, c. 30; Laws 1932, c. 127," as does the headnote. The question and headnotes are factually and substantively different.
777	should a motion to dismiss a complaint for failure to state a cause of action be granted only in rare instances, ordinarily without prejudice?	A motion to dismiss a complaint for failure to state a cause of action should be granted only in rare instances, ordinarily without prejudice.	Defendant now moves to dismiss plaintiffs' complaint for failure to state a claim pursuant to R. 4:6-2. [1] [2] [3] Motions to dismiss a plaintiff's complaint should be "approach[ed] with great caution" and should only be granted in "the rarest of instances." Printing Mart-Morristown v.	1	3	ROSS-003279883	TR-0724808	TR-0745442	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; the question and headnote both reflect the key language used in the case opinion.
833	is abandonment of franchise a question of intention?	Abandonment of franchise requires intention to abandon.	[11] Abandonment of a public road requires proof of intent to abandon and proof of nonuse.	2	3	ROSS-003280037	TR-0544174	TR-0664251	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case.
931	are all expenses incurred by a party regarded as costs which must be paid before a plaintiff refiles an action he previously dismissed?	Not all expenses incurred by party are regarded as costs which must be paid before plaintiff refiles action he previously dismissed.	In light of the above authority, we conclude that a monetary sanction imposed under OCGA § 9-11-37(d) does not constitute a court cost which must be paid before a plaintiff refiles an action he previously dismissed. OCGA § 9-11-41(d).	1	3	ROSS-003280277	TR-0585818	TR-0584440	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case.

ID	Question	Headnote	Case Opinion	Question to Headnote Rank	Headnote to Case Opinion Rank	Question Bates #	Headnote Bates #	Case Opinion Bates #	Arguments for Why Juror Could Conclude that Question Was Not Taken from Headnote
1001	is "conscious indifference," in context of a rule requiring reinstatement of a case following dismissal for want of prosecution if party's failure to appear not intentional or result of conscious indifference?	"Conscious indifference," in context of rule requiring reinstatement of a case following dismissal for want of prosecution if party's failure to appear was not intentional or result of conscious indifference but was due to accident or mistake or has otherwise been reasonably explained, means more than mere negligence. Vernon's Ann.Texas Rules Civ.Proc., Rule 165a, subd. 3.	Point of Error Two In their second point of error, appellants argue that the trial court abused its discretion in denying their motion to reinstate. [6] A case may be reinstated upon a finding by the trial court that the failure of a party or his attorney to appear was not intentional or the result of conscious indifference but was due to an accident or a mistake or that the failure has been otherwise reasonably explained. TEX.R.CIV.P. 165a(3). Reinstatement must be granted if the trial court finds that the failure of the party or his attorney was not intentional or the result of conscious indifference.	1	3	ROSS-003280420	TR-0861126	TR-0668104	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; the question does not contain references to, "but was due to accident or mistake or has otherwise been reasonably explained, means more than mere negligence." The question also does not contain citations to "Vernon's Ann.Texas Rules Civ.Proc., Rule 165a, subd. 3." The question and the headnote are factually and substantively different.
1066	is a motion to reinstate the failsafe to prevent improper dismissal of cases for failure to appear?	Motion to reinstate is the failsafe to prevent improper dismissal of cases for failure to appear, for failure to dispose of case within Supreme Court's time standards for disposition, and for failure to diligently prosecute case. Vernon's Ann.Texas Rules Civ.Proc., Rule 165a, subds. 1, 2.	The notice to dismiss must state whether the dismissal is: (1) for failure to appear under Rule 165a(1); (2) for failure to comply with the Supreme Court's time standards under Rule 165a(2); or (3) for failure to diligently prosecute the suit under the court's inherent power.	2	3	ROSS-003280548	TR-0785473	TR-0730729	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not reference "failure to dispose of case within Supreme Court's time standards for disposition, and for failure to diligently prosecute case." Nor does the question contain citations to "Vernon's Ann.Texas Rules Civ.Proc., Rule 165a, subds. 1, 2." The question and the headnote are factually and substantively different.
1071	can parties agree to treat a general lease as a more specific finance lease?	Under Iowa law, parties may agree to treat a general lease as a more specific finance lease; however, parties may not agree to treat a secured transaction as a lease.	Code (1975), s 1-105(1) of the Commercial Law Article. [2] [3] It is now generally accepted that the parties to a contract may agree as to the law which will govern their transaction, even as to issues going to the validity of the contract.	2	4	ROSS-003280559	TR-0879227	TR-0792539	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question is not limited to "Iowa law," nor does it reference, "parties may not agree to treat a secured transaction as a lease." The question and the headnote are factually and substantively different.
1203	does the rule governing dismissal of action for failure to appear contemplate dismissal with prejudice when plaintiff again fails to appear after claim has been refiled?	Rule governing dismissal of action for failure to appear is quite specific, and contemplates dismissal with prejudice only when plaintiff again fails to appear after claim has been refiled. Small Claims Rule 10(A).	Zeigler Building Materials, Inc., 436 N.E.2d 1168, 1170 (Ind.Ct.App.1982), the rule is quite specific. "Dismissal with prejudice is contemplated only when the plaintiff again fails to appear after the claim has been refiled." Id. [5] [6] In the present case, the trial court entered judgment for the defendants without permitting Multivest to present its evidence.	2	3	ROSS-003280812	TR-0656559	TR-0656559	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not indicate that the rule is "is quite specific," and contains no reference to "Small Claims Rule 10(A)." The question and the headnote are factually and substantively different.
1222	is there any requirement that the legislature use the language "is hereby authorized to levy a tax" in order to validly authorize a tax?	In order to have a validly authorized tax, there is no requirement that the Legislature use language "is hereby authorized to levy a tax."	* * * * [4] We do not think that to have a validly authorized tax, the rules for construing tax statutes restrict the legislature to the use of such language. Although the authority in sections 75-6207(3)(b), 75-7204, and 75-6717 is not spelled out as directly as in those statutes pointed to by the plaintiff, we think it is nevertheless clear and specific.	1	4	ROSS-003280848	TR-0781029	TR-0781029	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case. The question quotes the key terms from the text of the opinion.

ID	Question	Headnote	Case Opinion	Question to Headnote Rank	Headnote to Case Opinion Rank	Question Bates #	Headnote Bates #	Case Opinion Bates #	Arguments for Why Juror Could Conclude that Question Was Not Taken from Headnote
1298	does the double jeopardy clause of the federal constitution not prevent the state from bringing separate criminal and civil forfeiture actions for the same offense under the controlled substances act?	The Double Jeopardy Clause of the federal constitution does not prevent the state from bringing separate criminal and civil forfeiture actions for the same offense under the Controlled Substances Act. U.S.C.A. Const.Amend. 5; NMSA 1978, § 30-31-34.	[3] The United States Supreme Court's decision in Scott establishes that, regardless of a trial court's characterization of its disposition of a case, the double jeopardy clause of the federal constitution does not bar a state from bringing a further criminal proceeding against a defendant who sought and obtained a favorable midtrial termination of criminal proceedings on legal grounds unrelated to a determination as to the sufficiency of the evidence regarding the defendant's factual innocence or guilt of the offense charged.	1	3	ROSS-003280995	TR-0718642	TR-0716036	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not contain citations to U.S.C.A. Const.Amend. 5; NMSA 1978, § 30-31-34.
1337	on ground that a lessee has an option to purchase at conclusion of a lease for nominal consideration, should a court remember that consideration may be sizeable yet still be "nominal"?	Under Connecticut law, in deciding whether so-called equipment lease must conclusively be presumed to constitute a sale with disguised security agreement, on ground that lessee has option to purchase at conclusion of lease for nominal consideration, court should remember that consideration may be sizeable yet still be "nominal." C.G.S.A. § 42a-1-201(37).	Purchase Option Price [6] [7] [8] [9] Under the 1992 New York UCC § 1-201(37), the most significant factor that indicates a disguised security agreement, not a true lease, is where the option price to purchase the leased equipment at the end of the lease term is nominal. If the lease agreement explicitly provides that the lessee has an option to purchase the leased goods for nominal consideration (e.g., for $1), the agreement is presumed to be a disguised security agreement. See Orix Credit Alliance, 946 F.2d at 1261; P.W.L.	2	4	ROSS-003281073	TR-0594367	TR-0598319	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question is not limited to "Under Connecticut law," and is not limited to "equipment leases," as is the headnote and does not reference "C.G.S.A. § 42a-1-201(37)." However, the case opinion discusses New York law, not Connecticut law, so the headnote is inaccurate. Therefore, the question and headnotes are not substantively the same.
1471	can a dismissal of an action on a clerk of court's motion for want of prosecution be vacated if there is a defective notice that the case will be dismissed?	Dismissal of an action on clerk of court's motion for want of prosecution may be vacated if there is defective notice that the case will be dismissed. CR 41(b)(2).	As the Supreme Court held in Thorp Meats, We conclude that the final sentence of CR 41(b)(1) means precisely what it says, a case shall not be dismissed for want of prosecution if it is noted for trial before the hearing on the motion to dismiss. The rule ...	1	4	ROSS-003281334	TR-0786391	TR-0871424	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not reference "CR 41(b)(2)," as does the headnote.
1532	is the united states' constructive trust on insurance proceeds for fire loss on forfeited property not "punishment" for purposes of double jeopardy clause?	United States' constructive trust on insurance proceeds for fire loss on forfeited property is not "punishment" for purposes of double jeopardy clause; government's interest is limited to extent of loss suffered to the forfeited property. U.S.C.A. Const.Amend. 5.	The Ninth Circuit has held that uncontested forfeitures constitute actions against property, *1187 not persons, and thus such a taking "imposes no 'punishment' for purposes of the double jeopardy clause." United States v. Cretacci, 62 F.3d 307, 310-11 (9th Cir.1995). The relevant facts are not in dispute. On February 5, 1991, a notice of default and order of civil forfeiture of a 1984 Corvette registered to the petitioner was filed in the Circuit Court for the State of Oregon for Multnomah County.	1	4	ROSS-003281459	TR-0704409	TR-0725909	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not reference "government's interest is limited to extent of loss suffered to the forfeited property," therefore, the question and headnote are substantively different. The question also does not reference "U.S.C.A. Const.Amend. 5," as does the headnote.
1662	is equitable subrogation a concept derived from principles of restitution and unjust enrichment?	Under Maine law, equitable subrogation is a concept derived from principles of restitution and unjust enrichment.	Legal subrogation, also known as equitable subrogation, derives from the doctrine of preventing unjust enrichment and it applies when a person other than a mere volunteer pays a debt that in equity and good conscience, another should pay.	1	3	ROSS-003281724	TR-0741623	TR-0573741	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question is not limited to "Under Maine law," but the headnote is. Therefore, the question and headnotes are not substantively the same.

ID	Question	Headnote	Case Opinion	Question to Headnote Rank	Headnote to Case Opinion Rank	Question Bates #	Headnote Bates #	Case Opinion Bates #	Arguments for Why Juror Could Conclude that Question Was Not Taken from Headnote
1673	can a court dismiss a case pursuant to either its inherent power or in accordance with rule for want of prosecution?	A trial court may dismiss a case pursuant to either its inherent power or in accordance with rule for want of prosecution. Vernon's Ann.Texas Rules Civ.Proc., Rule 165a.	5 In addition, a trial court may dismiss a case for want of prosecution under its inherent power to control its docket if the case has not been prosecuted with diligence.	1	3	ROSS-003281745	TR-0795782	TR-0733659	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not reference the level of court involved, while the headnote does, referencing the "trial court." Nor the question limited to Texas law as is the headnote based on its citation to "Vernon's Ann.Texas Rules Civ.Proc., Rule 165a." Therefore, the question and headnotes are not substantively the same.
1757	is the act of state doctrine not required by considerations of sovereignty, international law or the constitution, but instead derives from judiciary's concern for its possible interference with conduct of foreign affairs by political branches of government?	Act of state doctrine is not required by considerations of sovereignty, international law or the Constitution, but instead derives from judiciary's concern for its possible interference with conduct of foreign affairs by political branches of government.	Bank of America, 549 F.2d 597, 605 (9th Cir.1976). Instead the doctrine "derives from the judiciary's concern for its possible interference with the conduct of foreign affairs by the political branches of the government." Timberlane Lumber Co. v. Bank of America, 549 F.2d at 605.	1	3	ROSS-003281912	TR-0736000	TR-0736000	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case.
1971	does the act of state doctrine, requiring courts to avoid inquiries respecting validity of acts executed by foreign sovereign within its territory, reflect fundamental notions of separation of powers by urging a nation to conduct foreign relations with unified voice of executive branch?	Act of state doctrine requiring courts to avoid inquiries respecting validity of acts executed by foreign sovereign within its territory reflects fundamental notions of separation of powers and urges nation to conduct foreign relations with unified voice of executive branch.	Redress of grievances by reason of such acts must be obtained through the means open to be availed of by sovereign powers as between themselves. The doctrine has constitutional underpinnings as well. It clearly reflects fundamental notions of separation of powers in urging that our nation conduct its foreign relations with the unified voice of the Executive branch rather than through a multitude of judicial pronouncements.	1	3	ROSS-003282346	TR-0660620	TR-0660620	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case.
2001	is it not the characterization contained within a contract, but the effect of its terms, which is relevant for a pledge of securities?	Under New York law, it is not the characterization contained within contract, but the effect of its terms, which is relevant in distinguishing pledge of securities from absolute conveyance of securities with promise to repurchase.	[3] Zwirn contends that the difficulty in distinguishing true leases from disguised security interests should be properly resolved by giving credence to the parties' freedom to contract, their expressed intentions, and the resulting self-characterization of these documents as financing leases. However, under revised § 1-201(37) applicable to this dispute, the intention of the parties has been abandoned as a proper tool by which to distinguish a true lease from a disguised security interest and replaced by an evaluation of the economic structure of the particular transaction. 30 As recognized in Duke Energy Royal, LLC v. Pillowtex Corp. (In re Pillowtex, Inc.), 349 F.3d 711 (3d Cir.2003): 30 Zwirn's reliance upon In re Edison Bros. Stores, Inc., 207 B.R. 801, 809 (Bankr.D.Del.1997) as authority for its position is misplaced in that Edison Bros. was decided under the prior version of § 1-201(37), which attempted to decipher the intent of the parties rather than the economic structure of the transaction. Under the current regimen, even Article 2A governing finance leases defers to the analysis outlined in § 1-201(37). If the transaction meets the definition of security interest under § 1-201(37), then it does not qualify as a lease under § 2A-103(1)(j). ... the New York U.C.C. no longer looks to the intent of the drafting parties to determine whether a transfer is a lease or a security agreement. Specifically, the 1992 version of § 1-201(37) directed courts to determine "[w]hether a lease is intended as security": this language was amended in 1995	2	5	ROSS-003282407	TR-0597410	TR-0598308	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question is not limited to NY law. Unlike the question, the headnote characterizes the pledge as "distinguishing" and the question contains no reference to Texas law, as does the headnote by citing, "Vernon's Ann.Texas Rules Civ.Proc., Rule 165a." Therefore, the question and headnotes are not substantively the same.

ID	Question	Headnote	Case Opinion	Question to Headnote Rank	Headnote to Case Opinion Rank	Question Bates #	Headnote Bates #	Case Opinion Bates #	Arguments for Why Juror Could Conclude that Question Was Not Taken from Headnote
2064	does a failure to notify borrower that he had a right to rescind the transaction under tila extended the borrower's right to rescind for three years?	Failure to notify borrower that she had right to rescind real estate loan transaction under Truth in Lending Act extended borrower's right to rescind for three years after transaction was consummated. Truth in Lending Act, §§ 102, 125(a), 15 U.S.C.A. §§ 1601, 1635(a); Truth in Lending Regulations, Regulation Z, § 226.23(a) (3), 15 U.S.C.A. foll. § 1700.	[3] The district court's first reason for dismissing the action was that the Beukeeses' asserted right to rescind had expired under 15 U.S.C. § 1635(f) before they filed their action in November 2010. According to § 1635(f), any right to rescind the mortgage transaction because of a failure to disclose the finance charge "expire[d] three years after the date of consummation of the transaction." Jesinoski makes clear, however, that a borrower exercises his right of rescission by notifying the creditor of his intention to rescind, whether or not the borrower has filed an action in court.	2	4	ROSS-003282536	TR-0737520	TR-0771887	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case. question does not contain the reference, "after transaction was consummated," nor does it contain the citation Truth in "Lending Act, §§ 102, 125(a), 15 U.S.C.A. §§ 1601, 1635(a); Truth in Lending Regulations, Regulation Z, § 226.23(a) (3), 15 U.S.C.A. foll. § 1700." Therefore, the question and headnotes are not substantively the same.
2142	does the statutory text of real estate settlement procedures act (respa), limit liability to instances in which a plaintiff is overcharged?	Home purchaser had standing to sue title insurer under anti-kickback provisions of Real Estate Settlement Procedures Act (RESPA), regardless of whether she was overcharged for settlement services; statutory text did not limit liability to instances in which a plaintiff was overcharged. U.S.C.A. Const. Art. 3, § 1 et seq.; Real Estate Settlement Procedures Act of 1974, § 8, 12 U.S.C.A. § 2607; Ohio R.C. §§ 3935.04, 3935.07.	Plaintiffs alleged that this payment was a "kickback" designed to "induce [Dolphin] to refer the loan to Matrix and to secretly raise the interest rate of the loan above the 8.75% for which Plaintiffs were qualified." This $4,149.86 was not paid from the proceeds of the loan. Plaintiffs alleged this kickback, known as a "yield spread premium" 1 (YSP), violated public policy as expressed in the Real Estate Settlement Procedures Act (RESPA) (12 U.S.C. § 2601 et seq. (2000)). They alleged that the YSP "paid by Matrix to Dolphin was unreasonable and was paid simply for the referral of business, not as compensation for goods, facilities, or services performed." Plaintiffs contended: "Dolphin had contracted for and received other compensation for its services as a mortgage broker.	2	5	ROSS-003282693	TR-0675119	TR-0744042	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not contain reference to, "Home purchaser had standing to sue title insurer under anti-kickback provisions" or citations to "U.S.C.A. Const. Art. 3, § 1 et seq.; Real Estate Settlement Procedures Act of 1974, § 8, 12 U.S.C.A. § 2607; Ohio R.C. §§ 3935.04, 3935.07." Therefore, the question and headnotes are not substantively the same.
2146	is the rescission period extended as long as the borrower received one notice of right to cancel?	Under the Massachusetts Consumer Credit Cost Disclosure Act (CCCCDA), as long as the borrower receives one notice of the right to rescind the loan, the rescission period is not extended to four years. M.G.L.A. c. 140D, § 10(f).	4 Giving the Defendants the benefit of the doubt, the Court assumes that this argument was made in jest. D. Truth in Lending Violation (Count IV) The Debtors maintain that, because they did not receive a total of four copies of the Notice of Right to Cancel at closing as required by both the Truth in Lending Act ("TILA") and the Massachusetts Consumer Credit Cost Disclosure Act ("MCCCCDA"), they have an extended right to rescind the underlying loan transaction and void the Mortgage lien. The Defendants contend that the Debtors' TILA and MCCCCDA claims are time barred; and even if timely, the delivery to the Debtors of at least one copy of the Notice of Right to Cancel was sufficient under both statutes.	2	3	ROSS-003282701	TR-0862030	TR-0739537	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not any reference to "the Massachusetts Consumer Credit Cost Disclosure Act (CCCCDA)," or a citation to "M.G.L.A. c. 140D, § 10(f)," as does the headnote.

ID	Question	Headnote	Case Opinion	Question to Headnote Rank	Headnote to Case Opinion Rank	Question Bates #	Headnote Bates #	Case Opinion Bates #	Arguments for Why Juror Could Conclude that Question Was Not Taken from Headnote
2349	when does a court generally decline to hear a subsequent lawsuit pursuant to the prior pending action doctrine?	Where there are two competing lawsuits, a court's decision to not hear the subsequent action pursuant to the prior pending action doctrine is discretionary.	[4] [5] [6] *35 The doctrine of res judicata bars any subsequent lawsuits between the same parties or their privies involving the same cause of action where there was a final judgment on the merits rendered by a court of competent jurisdiction.	2	4	ROSS-003283117	TR-0733569	TR-0652958	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question contains no reference to "are two competing lawsuits" or whether the dismissal would be "discretionary." Therefore, the question and headnote are substantively different.
2384	does the doctrine of equitable subrogation require that the equities of the parties be weighed and balanced?	Under Maine law, the doctrine of equitable subrogation requires that the equities of the parties be weighed and balanced.	at 250, 149 S.E. 485. At its heart, the doctrine of equitable subrogation is concerned with restoring the interests of the parties to their intended position relative to others. See Joynes, 179 Va. at 401-02, 18 S.E.2d 917.	1	3	ROSS-003283189	TR-0741623	TR-0759194	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question is not limited to "Under Maine law: as is headnote. However, the case opinion is interpreting Virginia law, so the headnote is not accurate. Therefore, the question and headnote are substantively different.
2397	does affirmative matter include defenses that defeat cause of action completely?	Term "affirmative matter" within meaning of rule allowing involuntary dismissal of claims when they are barred by such affirmative matter included defenses that defeat cause of action completely. S.H.A. ch. 110, ¶ 2-619(a)(9).	735 ILCS 5/2-615, 2-619(a)(9) (West 2004). [14] [15] A section 2-619(a)(9) motion to dismiss permits involuntary dismissal where "the claim asserted against defendant is barred by other affirmative matter avoiding the legal effect of or defeating the claim." 735 ILCS 5/2-619(a)(9) (West 2004). Affirmative matter is "something in the nature of a defense which negates the cause of action completely or refutes crucial conclusions of law or material fact contained in or inferred from the complaint." Illinois Graphics Co.	2	3	ROSS-003283215	TR-0799349	TR-0548496	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does contains no reference to "within meaning of rule allowing involuntary dismissal of claims when they are barred by such affirmative matter." The question and headnote are substantively different.
2606	does the same procedure for resolving factual disputes concerning subject matter jurisdiction apply to motions to dismiss for lack of personal jurisdiction?	The same procedure for resolving factual disputes concerning subject matter jurisdiction applies to motions to dismiss for lack of personal jurisdiction. Rules Civ.Proc., Rule 12(b)(2).	[1] [2] The Court has authority to resolve factual disputes when a party moving to dismiss for lack of subject matter jurisdiction attacks the substance of the jurisdictional allegations.	1	3	ROSS-003283659	TR-0605791	TR-0583379	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question contains no citation to "Rules Civ.Proc., Rule 12(b)(2)" as does the headnote.
2733	does a prior finding of probable cause in a preliminary hearing create only a rebuttable presumption of probable cause in a malicious prosecution claim?	A prior finding of probable cause in criminal court preliminary hearing raises, in a malicious prosecution action, only a presumption of probable cause, which may be rebutted by evidence.	[3] [4] The primary issue in this appeal, then, is whether the circuit court, hearing the motion for summary judgment in the malicious prosecution case, was entitled to look at Sundeen's prior district court convictions in order to determine whether there was probable cause for the criminal proceedings. In the context of a malicious prosecution action, the existence of probable cause is to be determined by the facts and circumstances surrounding the commencement and continuation of the legal proceedings.	2	3	ROSS-003283938	TR-0705646	TR-0729523	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; the headnote does not contain the term "rebuttable presumption" and the question makes no reference to "evidence" as the headnote does. The question and headnote are substantively different.
2807	does an arbitral forum need to replicate a judicial forum to be enforceable?	Arbitral forum need not replicate the judicial forum for arbitration agreement to be enforceable.	Section 18 of the Agreement provides: "The parties agree that punitive damages may not be awarded in an arbitration proceeding required by this Agreement." Under Cole, an arbitration agreement is enforceable only if it "provides for all of the types of relief that would otherwise be available in court." 105 F.3d at 1482.	2	3	ROSS-003284105	TR-0572707	TR-0784374	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question makes no reference to an "arbitration agreement" while the headnote does. The question and headnote are substantively different.
2843	what is the common denominator of forcible rape and incest?	The common denominator of forcible rape and incest is element of unlawful carnal knowledge.	213, 71 N.E.2d 46), but not of rape. The common denominator is the element of unlawful carnal knowledge. None of our decisions appear to have dealt with the precise problem.	2	3	ROSS-003284182	TR-0828062	TR-0828062	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question contains no reference to "element of unlawful carnal knowledge" as found in the headnote. The question and headnote are substantively different.

ID	Question	Headnote	Case Opinion	Question to Headnote Rank	Headnote to Case Opinion Rank	Question Bates #	Headnote Bates #	Case Opinion Bates #	Arguments for Why Juror Could Conclude that Question Was Not Taken from Headnote
2936	is the nuclear regulatory commission order exempting nuclear plant operator from fire safety regulations reviewable under the hobbs act?	Nuclear Regulatory Commission (NRC) order exempting nuclear power plant operator from certain fire safety regulations was exemption outside of Court of Appeals' Hobbs Act jurisdiction, rather than an amendment to operator's license within Court's jurisdiction; although NRC could have alternatively treated the order as an amendment to the operator's license, it applied its regulations reasonably in opting instead to grant an exemption. Atomic Energy Act of 1954, § 189(a), 42 U.S.C.A. § 2239(a); 10 C.F.R. § 50.12.	§ 50.12, the agency concluded that treating the challenged order as an exemption was authorized by law, presented no undue risk to public health and safety, and was consistent with the common defense and security. As required by 10 C.F.R. § 50.12, the NRC also found that "special circumstances" justified this exemption: specifically, that "the underlying purpose" of the fire safety rule would still be satisfied after the modification. See 10 C.F.R. § 50.12(a)(2)(ii). Although it appears that *183 the NRC could have alternatively treated the order as an amendment to Indian Point's license, the Commission applied its regulations reasonably in opting instead to grant Indian Point an exemption.	2	4	ROSS-003284385	TR-0763563	TR-0763563	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question contains no reference to any of the following: "rather than an amendment to operator's license within Court's jurisdiction; although NRC could have alternatively treated the order as an amendment to the operator's license, it applied its regulations reasonably in opting instead to grant an exemption. Atomic Energy Act of 1954, § 189(a), 42 U.S.C.A. § 2239(a); 10 C.F.R. § 50.12." The question and headnote are substantively different.
3057	does the court owe the federal energy regulatory commission great deference in fashioning electricity rate design?	The court owes Federal Energy Regulatory Commission great deference in fashioning electricity rate design.	[4] With respect to electric energy sales and transmissions, the federal government has placed one agency in charge of implementing the Federal Power Act, the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission. This agency, known as FERC, "regulates the sale of electricity at wholesale in interstate commerce." Entergy La., Inc.	1	3	ROSS-003284657	TR-0798603	TR-0535619	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case.
3067	does claim for damages for overcharge by carriers arise at time extra charge was paid?	In contemplation of law, claim for damages for overcharge by carriers arose at time extra charge was paid. Interstate Commerce Act § 8, 49 U.S.C.A. § 8.	As they would have been liable for an undercharge, they may recover for an overcharge. In contemplation of law the claim for damages arose at the time the extra charge was paid.	2	3	ROSS-003284677	TR-0580570	TR-0580570	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question contains no reference to the citation "Interstate Commerce Act § 8, 49 U.S.C.A. § 8," as in the headnote.
3174	can matters arising pendente lite be pleaded in defense by respondent in mandamus proceeding or by the relator in his replication?	Matters arising pendente lite may be pleaded in defense by respondent in mandamus proceeding or by the relator in his replication.	Here the ultimate deficiency (as of the year's end) developed after the filing of the petition. It has been held that matters arising pendente lite may be pleaded in defense by the respondent (55 C.J.S. Mandamus § 278, p.	1	3	ROSS-003284909	TR-0837829	TR-0837829	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case. Headnote is identical to the case opinion holding.
3182	are presidential actions reviewable for abuse of discretion under the administrative procedure act?	The President is not an "agency" within the meaning of the Administrative Procedure Act (APA); as a result, presidential actions are not reviewable for abuse of discretion under the APA. 5 U.S.C.A. § 702.	[3] The problem illustrated by appellee's apparent misconception of the nature of issues reserved to agency discretion is resolved by a careful reading of the various parts of section 10 of the Administrative Procedure Act; while review is not granted for action 'by law committed to agency discretion,' as noted in section 701(a)(2), review is expressly provided for when there is an abuse of that discretion: Scope of review. * * * (The reviewing court) shall * * * (2) hold unlawful and set aside agency action, findings, and conclusions found to be (A) arbitrary, capricious, an abuse of discretion, or otherwise not in accordance with law; * * *.	2	4	ROSS-003284927	TR-0587981	TR-0853078	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question contains no reference to any of the following fact: "The President is not an "agency" within the meaning of the Administrative Procedure Act (APA)." The question and headnote are substantively different.

ID	Question	Headnote	Case Opinion	Question to Headnote Rank	Headnote to Case Opinion Rank	Question Bates #	Headnote Bates #	Case Opinion Bates #	Arguments for Why Juror Could Conclude that Question Was Not Taken from Headnote
3569	for purposes of statutory prohibition against theft and bribery concerning programs receiving federal funds, can employee of agency entity be agent of principal entity?	For purposes of statutory prohibition against theft and bribery concerning programs receiving federal funds, employee of agency entity cannot be agent of principal entity unless legal construct establishes such relationship. 18 U.S.C.A. § 666.	642, 643-44 (N.D.Ill.1997) (municipal code made city Alderman an agent of both the city and the city council). [2] These cases reach the common-sense conclusion that an employee of an agency entity cannot be an agent of the principal entity unless the legal construct establishes such a relationship. For example, in Moeller, the Fifth Circuit concluded that the defendants were agents of the Texas Department of Agriculture ("TDA") by virtue of their employment at the Texas Federal Inspection Service ("TFIS") because the TFIS was an arm of the TDA empowered to enforce its regulations.	1	3	ROSS-003285780	TR-0640668	TR-0640668	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question contains none of the following headnote language: "unless legal construct establishes such relationship. 18 U.S.C.A. § 666." The question and headnote are substantively different.
3627	can a partnership at will be dissolved at any time?	Under Massachusetts law, an at-will partnership can be dissolved by any partner at any time.	Under Missouri common law, a partnership is dissolved by the admission of a new partner.	2	3	ROSS-003285901	TR-0804604	TR-0578203	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question is not limited to Massachusetts law as is the headnote. However, the case opinion is based on Missouri law, so the headnote is inaccurate. The question and headnote are substantively different.
3704	does a plaintiff have no lawful right to a voluntary nonsuit?	Under current rule, plaintiff had no lawful right to voluntary nonsuit. 30 F.S.A. Rules of Civil Procedure, rule 1.35 and subd. (a).	[1] Petitioner contends that a plaintiff has a right to voluntarily dismiss an action pursuant to Rule 1.420(a), Florida Rules of Civil Procedure, 30 F.S.A., after the court has dismissed the complaint with leave to amend, if no further order has been entered by the Court prior to the service of the notice of dismissal.	2	3	ROSS-003286065	TR-0882977	TR-0567801	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question makes no reference to "current rule" as does headnote.
3730	is a "step" in the prosecution or defense of an action that will avoid abandonment of a suit for lack of prosecution a formal action before the trial court intended to hasten judgment or is the taking of formal discovery?	A "step" in the prosecution or defense of an action that will avoid abandonment of a suit for lack of prosecution is a formal action before the trial court intended to hasten judgment or is the taking of formal discovery. LSA-C.C.P. art. 561.	Article 561 is operative without formal order, but, on ex parte motion of any party or other interested person by affidavit which provides that no step has been timely taken in the prosecution or defense of the action, the trial court shall enter a formal order of dismissal as of the date of its abandonment. La. C.C.P. art. 561(A)(2)(3). [17] [18] [19] [20] [21] [22] [23] A "step" is a formal action before the court intended to hasten the suit towards judgment or is the taking of formal discovery. A step by one party prevents abandonment as to all of the parties, even though they are not solidarily liable.	1	3	ROSS-003286126	TR-0871462	TR-0538863	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not reference citation, "LSA-C.C.P. art. 561."

ID	Question	Headnote	Case Opinion	Question to Headnote Rank	Headnote to Case Opinion Rank	Question Bates #	Headnote Bates #	Case Opinion Bates #	Arguments for Why Juror Could Conclude that Question Was Not Taken from Headnote
3864	can a motion for involuntary dismissal raise defects, defenses, or other affirmative matters that defeat the claim?	A motion for involuntary dismissal based upon certain defects or defenses admits the legal sufficiency of the plaintiff's claim but asserts affirmative defenses or other matters that avoid or defeat the claim. S.H.A. 735 ILCS 5/2-619.	[2] [3] [4] The Withholding Act defines a "payor" as "any payor of income to an obligor." 750 ILCS 28/15(g) (West 2006). Thus, in order for Blue Cross to be a "payor," it must pay Ronald "income." The Withholding Act defines "income," in pertinent part, as "any form of periodic payment to an individual, regardless of source." 750 ILCS 28/15(d) (West 2006). Blue Cross argues that it does not pay Ronald income because it pays Vaughn Center. Blue Cross further contends that Vaughn Center is not an "individual" under the Withholding Act's definitions of "income" and "obligor." However, the affidavit submitted by Ronald establishes that Ronald is a sole proprietor and Vaughn Center is a legal nonentity. "[A] sole proprietorship has no legal identity 487 127 separate from that of the individual who owns it." Vernon v. Schuster, 179 Ill.2d 338, 347, 228 Ill.Dec. 195, 688 N.E.2d 1172, 1176-77 (1997). Moreover, even if a sole proprietor does business under a fictitious name, the sole proprietor has not created a separate legal entity. Vernon, 179 Ill.2d at 347-48, 228 Ill.Dec. 195, 688 N.E.2d at 1176-77. Thus, the word "individual" in the Withholding Act's definition of "income" includes a sole proprietorship. See *835 Shively v. Belleville Township High School District No. 201, 329 Ill.App.3d 1156, 1165-66, 264 Ill.Dec. 225, 769 N.E.2d 1062, 1070 (2002) (interpreting "individuals" in the School Code's professional services exemption (105 ILCS 5/10-20.21(a)(i) (West 2006)) to refer "to the ones performing the service, not the ones with whom the contract	2	3	ROSS-003286416	TR-0598884	TR-0734245	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question contains no reference to "affirmative defenses" or "admits the legal sufficiency of the plaintiff's claim," as does the headnote. The question and headnote are substantively different.
3918	can an action be dismissed as abandoned under the abandonment statute only without prejudice?	An action may be dismissed as abandoned under the abandonment statute only without prejudice. La. Code Civ. Proc. Ann. art. 561.	[9] However, as to the trial court's January 7, 2015 judgment dismissing Plaintiffs' action on the grounds of abandonment, we note that it dismissed Plaintiffs' action "with prejudice." This Court, as well as other courts, has found that a dismissal on the grounds of abandonment is a dismissal "without prejudice." D & S Builders, Inc.	1	3	ROSS-003286526	TR-0742925	TR-0692645	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not reference citation "La. Code Civ. Proc. Ann. art. 561.," as does the headnote.
3919	will all pleadings and supporting documents be interpreted favourable to the non-moving party when proceeding allows dismissal of complaint when claim asserted is barred by other affirmative matter?	When proceeding under Code of Civil Procedure section allowing dismissal of complaint when claim asserted is barred by other affirmative matter avoiding the legal effect of or defeating the claim, all pleadings and supporting documents must be interpreted in the light most favorable to the nonmoving party. S.H.A. 735 ILCS 5/2-619.	When ruling on a motion to dismiss, either because the complaint fails to state a cause of action or because the claims are barred by other affirmative matter that avoids the legal effect of or defeats the claim, the trial court is to interpret all the pleadings and supporting documents in the light most favorable to the nonmoving party. A section 2-615 motion should be granted only if the plaintiff can prove no set of facts that would support a cause of action.	2	3	ROSS-003286528	TR-0842020	TR-0620904	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question is much shorter and very different from headnote, as it makes no reference to "Code of Civil Procedure Section" or "avoiding the legal effect of or defeating the claim." Question uses the term "favourable" which is the British version of the US term favorable, which is used in the case opinion, but not in the headnote. The question and headnote are substantively different.

ID	Question	Headnote	Case Opinion	Question to Headnote Rank	Headnote to Case Opinion Rank	Question Bates #	Headnote Bates #	Case Opinion Bates #	Arguments for Why Juror Could Conclude that Question Was Not Taken from Headnote
3928	in cases involving a legislatively-established application process, does the takings claim arise until after a permit has been sought and denied and the effect of the denial results in economic detriment?	For ripeness purposes, futility exception, to rule that takings claim in case involving legislatively-established application process normally does not arise until permit has been sought and denied so as to result in economic detriment, serves to protect property owners from being required to submit multiple applications when manner in which first application was rejected makes it clear that no project will be approved.	In Palazzolo, the United States Supreme Court held that when an "agency charged with enforcing a challenged land-use regulation entertains an application from an owner and its denial of the application makes clear the extent of development permitted," and when the owner has otherwise complied with the pertinent regulations, "federal ripeness rules do not require the submission of further and futile applications with other agencies." 533 U.S. at 625-26, 121 S.Ct. 2448. Similarly, the United States Court of Appeals for the Federal Circuit ("Federal Circuit") has held that "the futility exception simply serves 'to protect property owners from being required to submit multiple applications when the manner in which the first application was rejected makes it clear that no project will be approved.' " Howard W.	2	3	ROSS-003286547	TR-0673558	TR-0662188	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question contains no reference to "serves to protect property owners from being required to submit multiple applications when manner in which first application was rejected makes it clear that no project will be approved." The question and headnote are substantively different.
3940	in action for injunctive relief, should a plaintiff's right be determined as of the date of trial?	In action for declaratory judgment and for an injunction, plaintiff's right to injunctive relief should be determined as of date of trial.	Nevertheless, "[f]urther relief based on a declaratory judgment or decree may be granted if necessary or proper." C.J. § 3-412(a). The statutory scheme thus permits a party to bring an action for declaratory judgment and, either in conjunction with that action or in a separate action, request further injunctive relief based on the rights determined by *611 that judgment.	2	3	ROSS-003286573	TR-0615743	TR-0726362	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not reference "declaratory judgment," as does the headnote. The question and headnote are substantively different.
3952	do government agencies, including the military, have to comply with the regulations they promulgate?	Government agencies, including those of the military, must comply with their own regulations, and the Navy is obligated to comply with Department of Defense directives.	Conflict with Superior Regulations [8] [9] Army regulations must be in accord with directives promulgated by the Department of Defense.	2	4	ROSS-003286600	TR-0645431	TR-0852540	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not make reference to "Navy is obligated to comply with Department of Defense directives," as does the headnote. The question and headnote are substantively different.
3983	is a clerk of a superior court a part of the judicial branch of the government?	Clerk of superior court is part of judicial branch of government. A.R.S. § 11-401; A.R.S.Const. art. 3; art. 6, § 23.	[3] [4] The circuit clerk is a nonjudicial officer of the judicial branch of government (Ill. Const.1970, art. VI, sec. 18(b); 487 574 Drury v.	2	3	ROSS-003286666	TR-0563019	TR-0741082	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question contains no citation to "A.R.S. § 11-401; A.R.S.Const. art. 3; art. 6, § 23." Both question and headnote are virtually verbatim versions of case opinion language.

ID	Question	Headnote	Case Opinion	Question to Headnote Rank	Headnote to Case Opinion Rank	Question Bates #	Headnote Bates #	Case Opinion Bates #	Arguments for Why Juror Could Conclude that Question Was Not Taken from Headnote
4003	is the evidence of quid pro quo necessary to establish that a public agent commit corrupt solicitation under bribery statute?	Evidence of quid pro quo is not necessary to establish that a public agent solicited corruptly anything of value in connection with a transaction of $5,000 or more. 18 U.S.C.A. § 666(a)(1)(B).	[3] [4] [5] Section 666, the basis (through a conspiracy charge) of Count 23, forbids theft or bribery in publicly funded programs (of which the State of Illinois is one). Count 23 relies on § 666(a)(1)(B), which makes it a crime for an agent of a covered organization to solicit "corruptly ... anything of value" in connection with a transaction worth $5,000 or more. "Corruptly" refers to the recipient's state of mind and indicates that he understands the payment as a bribe or gratuity. United States v. Hawkins, 777 F.3d 880, 882 (7th Cir.2015). It would not be plausible to describe a political trade of favors as an offer or attempt to bribe the other side.	2	3	ROSS-003286706	TR-0642794	TR-0633518	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question contains reference to "a public agent commit corrupt solicitation under bribery statute," but these words do not appear in the headnote. The headnote contains reference to "anything of value in connection with a transaction of $5,000 or more. 18 U.S.C.A. § 666(a)(1)(B)," but none of these words appear in the question. The question and headnote are substantively different.
4028	is a rule governing nonsuits liberally construed in favor of a right to nonsuit?	Rule governing nonsuits is liberally construed in favor of right to nonsuit. Vernon's Ann.Texas Rules Civ.Proc., Rule 164.	(2) The rule is clear that pension statutes are to be liberally construed in favor of those to whom such rights are granted, and that such rights may not be taken away by strained construction.	1	3	ROSS-003286758	TR-0556461	TR-0788091	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not contain citation to "Vernon's Ann.Texas Rules Civ.Proc., Rule 164," as does the headnote.
4036	will a suit be dismissed because of mootness when issue presented is of substantial public interest?	When issue presented is of substantial public interest, a suit will not be dismissed because of mootness.	The Illinois Supreme Court said that, because the issue presented was of substantial public interest and that it was desirable that an authoritative determination be made for the future guidance of public officers in probably recurring cases, appeal should not be dismissed. Another reason given by that court for refusal to dismiss was that an appellate decision would tend to clarify the rights of parties involved in the event a damage suit should be brought, based upon the fact that the operation was performed without the consent of the parents.	2	3	ROSS-003286775	TR-0792799	TR-0629916	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case.
4042	will a motion to dismiss based upon certain defects or defenses admit the legal sufficiency of a claim or assert affirmative matter that defeats the claim?	A motion to dismiss based upon certain defects or defenses admits the legal sufficiency of the complaint, but asserts some affirmative matter that defeats the claim. S.H.A. 735 ILCS 5/2-619.	¶ 9 ANALYSIS [1] ¶ 10 Plaintiff contends that the court erred by dismissing its claim against HMB because the two-year statute of limitations provided in section 13-214.3(b) of the Code did not apply to its claim. A motion to dismiss brought under section 2-619 of the Code admits the legal sufficiency of the plaintiff's claim but asserts an affirmative matter outside of the pleading that defeats the claim.	1	3	ROSS-003286789	TR-0652366	TR-0578199	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not contain citation of "S.H.A. 735 ILCS 5/2-619" as does headnote.
4116	does the existence as a public utility result in the grant of an indeterminate permit?	Existence of municipality supplying water as a public utility does not result in grant of an indeterminate permit to operate as a public utility. W.S.A. 196.01(5).	That it was not the legislative intent to make the declaration that a utility was a public utility equivalent to the granting of an indeterminate permit is shown by the fact that section 1797m--77 of the statutes, chapter 499, Laws of 1907, gave the public utility a right to elect to surrender its franchise and receive an indeterminate permit in lieu thereof. This provision evidences a clear legislative intent not to make the granting of an indeterminate permit automatically follow the legislative declaration that a utility is a public utility.	2	4	ROSS-003286945	TR-0691173	TR-0658585	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not reference "to operate as a public utility. W.S.A. 196.01(5)," as does the headnote. The case opinion does not appear to mention the citation in the headnote. The question and headnote are substantively different.

ID	Question	Headnote	Case Opinion	Question to Headnote Rank	Headnote to Case Opinion Rank	Question Bates #	Headnote Bates #	Case Opinion Bates #	Arguments for Why Juror Could Conclude that Question Was Not Taken from Headnote
4121	is the provision of a civil rule pertaining to a voluntary dismissal separate from, and not meant to be construed together with, a portion of a rule pertaining to involuntary dismissal?	Provision of civil rule pertaining to voluntary dismissal is separate from, and not meant to be construed together with, portion of rule pertaining to involuntary dismissal. Rules Civ.Proc., Rule 41(A, B).	Accordingly, the right to take a nonsuit pursuant to Code § 8.01-380(B) in a Virginia state court is much more expansive than the right to a voluntary dismissal pursuant to Federal Rule 41(a)(1)(A)(i) in federal court. [5] Code § 8.01-380 does not address what impact, if any, a plaintiff's prior voluntary dismissal in federal court may have on that plaintiff's right to take a nonsuit as a matter of right.	1	4	ROSS-003286958	TR-0546713	TR-0739271	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not reference the citation "Rules Civ.Proc., Rule 41(A, B)" which is not part of the holding in the case opinion. Rather the opinion is about Virginia law. Thus, the question is accurate and the headnote is not. The question and headnote are substantively different.
4135	are waiver of subrogation provisions in a construction contract properly applied to damages incurred by a project owner?	Waiver of subrogation provisions in construction contract were properly applied to damages incurred by project owner beyond those sustained to "the work," where contract provided that waiver of subrogation was effective as to person or entity even where person or entity would otherwise have had a duty of indemnification, contractual or otherwise.	for damages caused by fire or other perils to the extent covered by property insurance obtained pursuant to this Paragraph 11.3 or other property insurance applicable to the Work.... A waiver of subrogation shall be effective as to a person or entity even though that person or entity would otherwise have a duty of indemnification, contractual or otherwise, 391 did not pay the insurance premium directly or indirectly, and whether or not the person or entity had an insurable interest in the property damaged.	2	3	ROSS-003286987	TR-0679836	TR-0696114	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case: question does not contain reference to "permit to operate as a public utility," nor has any reference to the citation W.S.A. 196.01(5). The question and headnote are substantively different.
4139	is the burden upon the one seeking subrogation to establish its superior equity, for purposes of applying the superior equities doctrine?	Under California law, for purposes of applying the superior equities doctrine, the burden is upon the one seeking subrogation to establish its superior equity.	[5] [6] The insurer also argues that it should recover under the doctrine of subrogation. Subrogation is an equitable doctrine which prevents unjust enrichment, and one seeking subrogation must have superior equity.	2	3	ROSS-003286996	TR-0734645	TR-0573053	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question contains no limitation to "California law," as the headnote does.
4199	does the cause of action for trespass to chattels require actual damage?	Actual damage is not essential element of cause of action for trespass to chattels, except by dispossession.	[3] It is fundamental that actual damage is an essential element of a cause of action based on negligence or fraud. Widemshek v. Fale (1962), 17 Wis.2d 337, 117 N.W.2d 275. A plaintiff is not required to allege damage where it appears from the facts that damage resulted as a matter of law in order to state a cause of action.	2	3	ROSS-003287121	TR-0553856	TR-0837603	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not reference "essential element of cause of action" or "except by dispossession." The question and headnote are substantively different.
4253	is the crime of offering a bribe complete when a defendant expresses an ability and a desire to pay the bribe?	Statute prohibiting bribery of a public official is satisfied if a defendant expresses an ability and a desire to pay the bribe. 18 U.S.C.A. § 201(b).	It is not necessary for a briber to be familiar with Williston on Contracts in order to make an illegal offer. Under the statute, it is sufficient if a "defendant expresses an ability and a desire to pay the bribe." United States v.	2	3	ROSS-003287238	TR-0646725	TR-0646725	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question makes no reference to "Statute prohibiting bribery of a public official is Satisfied," nor does it contain the citation "18 U.S.C.A. § 201(b)." The question and headnote are substantively different.

ID	Question	Headnote	Case Opinion	Question to Headnote Rank	Headnote to Case Opinion Rank	Question Bates #	Headnote Bates #	Case Opinion Bates #	Arguments for Why Juror Could Conclude that Question Was Not Taken from Headnote
4301	does partial payment of principal and the execution of a new note amount to a novation?	Part payment of principal and execution of new note extending time of payment for balance at same interest was renewal and not novation.	The renewal of a note by taking a new note between the same parties in the same relationship, at the same rateof interest, but extending the time of payment, although the new note is in a less amount which represents a balance due on the principal after a payment reducing the indebtedness represented by the old note has been made, does not constitute a novation of the contract represented in the old note, but is merely a contract extending the time of payment of the original indebtedness as reduced by the payment made thereon.	2	4	ROSS-003287341	TR-0627305	TR-0861323	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case.
4326	does the statute prohibiting theft or bribery by agent of organization receiving federal funds distinguish between high-level and low-level employees?	Plain language of statute prohibiting theft or bribery by agent of organization receiving federal funds does not distinguish between "high-level" and "low-level" employees. 18 U.S.C.A. § 666(a)(1), (d)(1).	To the extent that the statute prohibits acts of bribery, the prohibition "draws content ... from federal statutes proscribing-and defining-similar crimes," including the general federal bribery statute, 18 U.S.C. § 201(b), and the statute prohibiting theft and bribery involving federal funds, 18 U.S.C. § 666(a)(2).	1	4	ROSS-003287394	TR-0643233	TR-0641939	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not reference "Plain language of statute," or citation to "18 U.S.C.A. § 666(a)(1), (d)(1): as does the headnote. The question and headnote are substantively different.
4329	where any one of requirements of statute governing applications for continuances, is not met, is there an abuse of the trial court's discretion to deny a continuance?	Where any one of requirements of statute governing applications for continuances upon the ground of the absence of a witness is not met, there is no abuse of the trial court's discretion to deny a continuance. West's Ga.Code Ann. § 9-10-160.	[1] [2] OCGA § 17-8-25 provides, among other things, that applications for continuance based on the absence of a witness must be accompanied by a showing that the absent witness's testimony is material. "Each of the named requirements must be met before the appellate court will review the trial court's discretion in denying the motion for continuance based upon the absence of a witness.	2	4	ROSS-003287400	TR-0618524	TR-0805576	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not reference citation to "West's Ga.Code Ann. § 9-10-160," as does the headnote.
4451	should the rule recognizing the right of a plaintiff to take a nonsuit be liberally construed?	Rule giving plaintiff right to take a nonsuit should be liberally construed. Rules of Civil Procedure, rule 164.	All allegations of material fact are taken as true and construed in the light most favorable to the plaintiff. Id. Civil rights complaints are to be liberally construed.	2	3	ROSS-003287656	TR-0857117	TR-0569513	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not contain reference to citation to "Rules of Civil Procedure, rule 164."
4474	does a tariff approved by the public utilities commission ("puc") have the force of law?	A tariff, when approved by the Public Utilities Commission (PUC), has the force of law. Cal. Pub.Util.Code § 489(a).	At issue is whether appellants' complaint represents a service complaint, which is within the exclusive jurisdiction of the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio ("PUCO"). For the reasons that follow, we affirm. {¶ 2} Appellants filed this action against Ohio Edison, a public utility, which provided electricity to them at their former residence in Dorset, Ashtabula County, Ohio.	1	3	ROSS-003287706	TR-0564566	TR-0759363	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not contain citation "Cal.Pub.Util.Code § 489(a)." as does the headnote.
4530	is the statute empowering court, on affidavit of necessity and materiality, requires a party to suit to produce documents in his possession supplementary to a statute looking to production of documents at trail?	The statute empowering court, on affidavit of necessity and materiality, to require a party to suit to produce documents in his possession is supplementary to statute looking to production of documents at trail. Code 1940, Tit. 7, §§ 426, 487, 489.	269.57(1), Stats., and reads in part: 'The court, or a judge thereof, may * * * require the deposit of the books or documents with the clerk and may require their production at the trial. * * *' (Emphasis supplied.) It is obvious that the authority granted by this statute is limited to the deposit of records with the court, and not for making such material part of the court record.	1	4	ROSS-003287831	TR-0685037	TR-0687304	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question contains no reference to citation "Code 1940, Tit. 7, §§ 426, 487, 489."

ID	Question	Headnote	Case Opinion	Question to Headnote Rank	Headnote to Case Opinion Rank	Question Bates #	Headnote Bates #	Case Opinion Bates #	Arguments for Why Juror Could Conclude that Question Was Not Taken from Headnote
4540	does the workers' compensation system make employers absolute insurers of their employees' safety, or is the system meant to protect employees against the potentially devastating consequences of work-related injuries?	Ohio workers' compensation system does not make employers absolute insurers of their employees' safety; rather, system is meant to protect employees against potentially devastating consequences of work-related injuries. Const. Art. 2, § 35.	[4] These general guidelines must nonetheless be tempered by the purpose of the Workers' Compensation Act. The Act is not meant to impose a duty on an employer as an absolute insurer of the employee's safety. Rather, the Act is intended to protect employees against the risks and hazards incident to the performance of their duties.	1	3	ROSS-003287852	TR-0802802	TR-0772325	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question contains no limitation to Ohio law, as does the headnote, nor does it contain a citation to "Const. Art. 2, § 35." The case opinion, like the question, does not cite to the U.S. Constitution. The question and headnote are substantively different.
4550	will factors considered by the court sometimes overlap with the commercial activities exception to the foreign sovereign immunities act?	Although factors to be considered by court in deciding whether to decline inquiry into validity of foreign sovereign's acts, pursuant to "act of state" doctrine, may sometimes overlap with commercial activities exception to Foreign Sovereign Immunities Act, there is no commercial exception to "act of state" doctrine. 28 U.S.C.A. § 1602 et seq.	Once the plaintiff has carried its burden of production, the court must resolve any disputed issues of fact in order to determine whether an exception to immunity applies. Id. The Plaintiff here alleges that the Court has jurisdiction under the "commercial activities exception" found in 28 U.S.C. § 1605(a)(2). This exception provides that *505 a foreign state is not immune from jurisdiction in cases where: the action is based [1] upon a commercial activity carried on in the United States by the foreign state; or [2] upon an act performed in the United States in connection with a commercial activity of the foreign state elsewhere; or [3] upon an act outside the territory of the United States in connection with a commercial activity of the foreign state elsewhere and that act causes a direct effect in the United States.	2	4	ROSS-003287872	TR-0572365	TR-0626700	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not contain reference to "in deciding whether to decline inquiry into Validity" or "pursuant to 'act of state' doctrine." The question and headnote are substantively different.
4578	can the court use section 5 to circumvent the parties designation of an exclusive arbitral forum where the forum is exclusive?	Where the arbitral forum agreed upon by the parties is exclusive, but is unavailable, the district court may not use the section of the Federal Arbitration Act (FAA) governing a lapse in naming an arbitrator to circumvent the parties' designation of an exclusive arbitral forum. 9 U.S.C.A. § 5.	[1] [2] [3] Under the Federal Arbitration Act ("FAA"), 12 "[a] two-step inquiry governs whether parties should be compelled to arbitrate a dispute. First, the court must determine whether the parties agreed to arbitrate the dispute. Once the court finds that the parties agreed to arbitrate, it must consider whether any federal statute or policy renders the claims non-arbitrable." Banc One Acceptance Corp.	2	4	ROSS-003287931	TR-0630445	TR-0668041	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not reference "the section of the Federal Arbitration Act (FAA) governing a lapse in naming an arbitrator," nor does it contain a citation to "9 U.S.C.A. § 5" as does the headnote. The question and headnote are substantively different.
4582	does the statute prohibiting local government agents from fraudulently obtaining property from an organization receiving federal funds require that the agent be a person authorized to act with respect to those funds?	Statute prohibiting local government agents from fraudulently obtaining property from an organization receiving federal funds does not require that the agent be a person authorized to act with respect to those funds. 18 U.S.C.A. § 666(d)(1).	Keen first contests the sufficiency of the evidence supporting his conviction under 18 U.S.C. §§ 666 and 2 for fraudulently obtaining property from an organization receiving federal funds (No. 09-16027). To obtain a conviction under § 666, the government was required to establish the following elements: (1) Mr. Keen was an agent of Dixie County; (2) Mr.	1	3	ROSS-003287940	TR-0640034	TR-0640034	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not reference citation '18 U.S.C.A. § 666(d)(1)."
4700	does authorizing a civil service commission to provide rules to the civil service constitute a delegation of legislative power?	Civil service law, authorizing civil service commission to provide rules as to civil service, are not a delegation of powers to enact laws in violation of Const. art. 1, § 18.	The civil service law (103 O. L. 698) does not confer power on the state civil service commission to investigate the acts and conduct of the mayor of a city with reference to the enforcement by him of that enactment.	2	4	ROSS-003288192	TR-0871834	TR-0871834	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not reference "Civil service law," nor "violation of Const. art. 1, § 18," as does the headnote. The question and headnote are substantively different.

ID	Question	Headnote	Case Opinion	Question to Headnote Rank	Headnote to Case Opinion Rank	Question Bates #	Headnote Bates #	Case Opinion Bates #	Arguments for Why Juror Could Conclude that Question Was Not Taken from Headnote
4714	is a consul the personal agent of his national?	Consul is not personal agent of his national, absent some specific grant of authority.	[8] [9] {25} A person may use an agent to take action under the authority of a statute, even when the agent is not the person specifically identified in the statute.	2	4	ROSS-003288221	TR-0743817	TR-0567077	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not reference.
4729	is there no specific time limitation in the rule allowing dismissal of action based on a plaintiff's failure to exercise due diligence to obtain service on a defendant?	There is no specific time limitation, in rule allowing dismissal of action based on plaintiff's failure to exercise due diligence to obtain service on defendant; rather, trial court must consider passage of time in relation to all other facts and circumstances of each case individually. Sup.Ct.Rules, Rule 103(b).	The action was dismissed with prejudice as to defendant on March 7, 1977, for plaintiffs' failure to show reasonable diligence in obtaining service of process. (Supreme Court Rule 103(b), Ill.Rev.Stat.1975, ch. 110A, par. 103(b).) On May 23, 1977, the court denied plaintiffs' motion to vacate the order of dismissal, stating that there was no just reason to delay enforcement or appeal.	1	4	ROSS-003288253	TR-0543968	TR-0533003	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not reference "absent some specific grant of authority," as does the headnote. The question and headnote are substantively different.
4861	can the doctrine of trespass ab initio apply when the officer taking citizen's property under authority of law abuses the authority?	Doctrine of trespass ab initio applies only where officer taking citizen's property under authority of law abuses authority.	[3] Wrongful acts by the crews of the other Coast Guard vessels cannot render the seizure by the commanding officer of the 289 unlawful under the doctrine of trespass ab initio. It is only where an officer, by whom the property of a citizen is taken under the authority of law, abuses the authority vested in him that this doctrine applies, and not where wrongful acts are committed by others of their own volition, and not by the order, direction, or connivance of the seizing officer.	1	3	ROSS-003288525	TR-0611669	TR-0611669	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not reference "applies only where," as does the headnote. The question and headnote are substantively different.
4897	in order to break the running of the five-year dormancy period under a statute automatically dismissing an action, does the order have to be in writing, signed, and entered?	In order to break running of five-year dormancy period of statute providing for automatic dismissal when no written order is taken for a period of five years, the order has to be in writing, signed and entered. O.C.G.A. § 9-2-60.	The case giving rise to these cross-appeals is a renewal action of a previous case which was dismissed pursuant to OCGA § 9-2-60(b) because no written order had been taken in the case for a period of five years. The complaint in this renewal action was filed on May 31, 1991.	2	4	ROSS-003288602	TR-0800926	TR-0613888	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not reference "when no written order is taken" nor the citation "O.C.G.A. § 9-2-60" as does the headnote. The question and headnote are substantively different.
4930	what is the test to determine whether a single transaction involves the distinct offenses of offering and giving a bribe?	The test of whether single transaction includes distinct offenses of offering and of giving bribe is whether separate acts have been committed with requisite criminal intent. Cr.Code, § 39, 18 U.S.C.A. § 201.	may be punished as separate crimes without offending the double jeopardy clause.... The same transaction, in other words, may constitute separate and distinct crimes where it is susceptible of separation into parts, each of which in itself constitutes a completed offense.... [T]he test is not whether the criminal intent is one and the same and inspiring the whole transaction, but whether separate acts have been committed with the requisite criminal intent and are such as are made punishable by the [statute].	2	3	ROSS-003288669	TR-0642418	TR-0714833	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not reference "is whether separate acts have been committed with requisite criminal intent. Cr.Code, § 39, 18 U.S.C.A. § 201," as does the headnote. The question and headnote are substantively different.

ID	Question	Headnote	Case Opinion	Question to Headnote Rank	Headnote to Case Opinion Rank	Question Bates #	Headnote Bates #	Case Opinion Bates #	Arguments for Why Juror Could Conclude that Question Was Not Taken from Headnote
4942	will the court exceed its authority by setting a second trial date after an initial grant of continuance?	Trial court did not exceed its authority by setting a second trial date, after an initial grant of continuance, that left fewer than 60 days before start of trial; neither party objected to the second trial setting, thereby agreeing to the date set, parties had notice and opportunity to be heard, and no further continuances were requested. Rules Civ.Proc., Rule 40(a).	It should first be observed that there is no legal requirement in this State whereby prior notice of intention to apply for the continuance of any matter must be given to the opposing party or his counsel. This being true, a trial judge has authority to grant a continuance ex parte if he desires, although the exercise of such authority is manifestly a matter of judicial discretion. Once such a continuance is granted, however, such grant is not subject to revocation forthe mere reason that it was ex parte and without prior notice to opposing counsel.	2	4	ROSS-003288693	TR-0822250	TR-0550697	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not reference, "trial court" or "continuance, that left fewer than 60 days before start of trial; neither party objected" or "thereby agreeing to the date set, parties had notice and opportunity to be heard, and no further continuances were requested. Rules Civ.Proc., Rule 40(a)," as does the headnote. The question and headnote are substantively different.
5020	should the exercise of the power of taxation be in such a manner as to permit the taxpayers ability to pay the taxes required by state for its support?	Though state in order to function properly must collect taxes, it must exercise power of taxation in such manner as to permit the solvent survival of taxpayers able to pay the taxes required by state for its support.	A corollary, doubtless recognized by the legislature in formulating the policy above stated, is that it is necessary for the state *908 to exercise its power of taxation, aptly described as "the power to destroy", in such a manner as to permit the solvent survival of taxpayers able to pay the taxes required by the state for its support. In the case at bar it appears that appellant filed regularly and in due time returns which reflected a complete disclosure of all of the sales in controversy, under which disclosure the ascertainment of total liability was only a matter of calculation, and that appellant paid promptly the amount shown to be due, under its asserted theory of liability, by said returns.	2	3	ROSS-003288855	TR-0606249	TR-0606249	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not reference "Though state in order to function properly must collect taxes," as does the headnote. The question and headnote are substantively different.
5041	on a motion to dismiss for lack of personal jurisdiction, need plaintiffs not prove their case?	On a motion to dismiss for lack of personal jurisdiction, plaintiffs need not prove their case, but rather must only establish a prima facie case, where all well-pleaded facts are taken as true.	As such, upon a defendant's motion to dismiss for lack of personal jurisdiction, the plaintiff bears the burden of making out a prima facie case that jurisdiction exists.	1	3	ROSS-003288898	TR-0791480	TR-0663635	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not reference "but rather must only establish a prima facie case, where all well-pleaded facts are taken as true," as does the headnote. The question and headnote are substantively different.
5043	does a bribe need to affect federal funds before it can be considered a violation of the federal bribery statute?	Bribe need not affect federal funds before bribe violates federal bribery statute. 18 U.S.C.A. § 666(a)(1)(B).	Case Law Interpreting the New Jersey Bribery Statute In their analysis of New Jersey's bribery statute, federal and state courts have focused on the relationship between bribe givers and bribe recipients to the corruption of official action at the time of exchange and as each party's role was presented at that time.	2	4	ROSS-003288902	TR-0566235	TR-0641453	Question does not reference "18 U.S.C.A. § 666(a)(1)(B)" as does the headnote.

ID	Question	Headnote	Case Opinion	Question to Headnote Rank	Headnote to Case Opinion Rank	Question Bates #	Headnote Bates #	Case Opinion Bates #	Arguments for Why Juror Could Conclude that Question Was Not Taken from Headnote
5058	where neither party submits evidence on a motion to dismiss for lack of personal jurisdiction, must the allegations of the complaint disclose jurisdiction although the particulars of jurisdiction need not be alleged?	When neither party submits evidence regarding a motion to dismiss for lack of personal jurisdiction, the allegations of the complaint must disclose personal jurisdiction, although the particulars of jurisdiction need not be alleged. Rules Civ.Proc., Rule 12(b)(2), West's N.C.G.S.A. § 1A-1.	Three procedural postures are typical: "(1) the defendant makes a motion to dismiss without submitting any opposing evidence; (2) the defendant supports its motion to dismiss with affidavits, but the plaintiff does not file any opposing evidence; or (3) both the defendant and the plaintiff submit affidavits addressing the personal jurisdiction issues." Id. [10] [11] [12] In this first category where neither party submits evidence, "[t]he allegations of the complaint must disclose jurisdiction although the particulars of jurisdiction need not be alleged." Bruggeman v.	1	3	ROSS-003288934	TR-0823043	TR-0537591	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not reference the citation "Rules Civ.Proc., Rule 12(b)(2), West's N.C.G.S.A. § 1A-1," as does the headnote.
5201	can depositions be admitted in evidence or treated as having force and effect of evidence?	Depositions cannot be admitted in evidence or treated as having force and effect of evidence, unless it appears that they were properly transmitted to court in which legal proceeding was pending.	Among other requirements for the admission in evidence of depositions, it must appear that they were properly transmitted to the court where the legal proceeding in which they were taken was pending.	2	3	ROSS-003289232	TR-0801113	TR-0801113	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not reference "unless it appears that they were properly transmitted to court in which legal proceeding was pending," as does the headnote. The question and headnote are substantively different.
5364	does the head-of-state doctrine apply only to persons the united states government acknowledges as official heads-of-state?	Head-of-State doctrine, which immunizes a Head-of-State from personal jurisdiction in United States courts, applies only to person United States government acknowledges as official Head-of-State; recognition of government and its officers is exclusive function of Executive Branch.	See, Note, Resolving the Confusion Over Head of State Immunity: The Defined Rights of Kings, 86 Colum.L.Rev. 169 (1986). [5] [6] [7] The immunity extends only to the person the United States government acknowledges as the official head-of-state. Recognition of a government and its officers is the exclusive function of the Executive Branch. Whether the recognized head-of-state has de facto control of the government is irrelevant; the courts must defer to the Executive determination.	2	3	ROSS-003289578	TR-0749939	TR-0810255	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not reference "which immunizes a Head-of-State from personal jurisdiction in United States courts," nor "recognition of government and its officers is exclusive function of Executive Branch," as does the headnote. The question and headnote are substantively different.
5371	if facts before trial court on motion to dismiss for lack of subject matter jurisdiction are not in dispute, then is the question of subject matter jurisdiction purely one of law?	If the facts before the trial court are not in dispute on motion to dismiss for lack of subject-matter jurisdiction, the question of subject-matter jurisdiction is purely one of law and the Court of Appeals affords no deference to the trial court's conclusion.	The standard of review is dependent upon: (i) whether the trial court resolved disputed facts; and (ii) if the trial court resolved disputed facts, whether it conducted an evidentiary hearing or ruled on a paper record. Id. [7] [8] [9] [10] If the facts before the trial court are not in dispute, then the question of subject matter jurisdiction is purely one of law and no deference is afforded the trial court's conclusion. Id. On the other hand, if the facts before the trial court are in dispute and the trial court conducts an evidentiary hearing, we give its factual findings and judgment deference.	1	3	ROSS-003289593	TR-0610560	TR-0574651	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not reference "and the Court of Appeals affords no deference to the trial court's conclusion," as does the headnote. The question and headnote are substantively different.
5379	should a defendant make a prima facie showing that the plaintiff failed to act with reasonable diligence in effectuating service after filing the complaint?	When moving for dismissal for plaintiff's failure to exercise reasonable diligence in obtaining service on a defendant, defendant must make a prima facie showing that the plaintiff failed to act with reasonable diligence in effectuating service after filing the complaint. Sup.Ct.Rules, Rule 103(b).	Given the substantial discretion vested in the trial court under Rule 103(b), we review the dismissal of a complaint with prejudice for failure to exercise reasonable diligence in obtaining service to determine whether that discretion was abused. Kole, 325 Ill.App.3d at 949, 259 Ill.Dec. 649, 759 N.E.2d 129. [9] [10] ¶ 21 Once the defendant has made a prima facie showing of a lack of reasonable diligence, the burden shifts to the plaintiff to demonstrate, by way of affidavit or other competent evidentiary materials, that reasonable diligence was exercised and that any delays in effecting service were justified.	1	3	ROSS-003289613	TR-0782023	TR-0656274	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not reference "When moving for dismissal for plaintiff's failure to exercise," or citation to "Sup.Ct.Rules, Rule 103(b)," as does the headnote. The question and headnote are substantively different.

ID	Question	Headnote	Case Opinion	Question to Headnote Rank	Headnote to Case Opinion Rank	Question Bates #	Headnote Bates #	Case Opinion Bates #	Arguments for Why Juror Could Conclude that Question Was Not Taken from Headnote
5381	does even a slight excuse suffice as a good cause for withdrawal of deemed admissions, especially when delay or prejudice to opposing party will not result?	Even a slight excuse will suffice as good cause for withdrawal of deemed admissions, especially when delay or prejudice to opposing party will not result. Vernon's Ann.Texas Rules Civ.Proc., Rule 169(2).	No abuse of discretion occurs in this regard if there is a showing of (1) good cause and (2) no undue prejudice. Id. at 442 (citing TEX.R. CIV. P. 166a(c), 198.3). Good cause is established by a showing that the failure to respond to the request for admissions "was an accident or mistake, not intentional or the result of conscious indifference." Id. "Even a slight excuse will suffice, especially when delay or prejudice to the opposing party will not result." Boulet v.	1	3	ROSS-003289617	TR-0846112	TR-0566096	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not reference the citation "Vernon's Ann.Texas Rules Civ.Proc., Rule 169(2), as does the headnote.
5382	is it within a trial court's discretion to allow service of amended answers in response to request for admission?	It is within trial court's discretion to allow service of amended answers in response to request for admission. Rules Civ.Proc., Rules 36(A), 37(A) (4).	It is, however, within the court's discretion to allow untimely answers to requests for admissions, when such an amendment of the admission will not prejudice the other party.	1	3	ROSS-003289619	TR-0776960	TR-0653972	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not reference the citation "Rules Civ.Proc., Rules 36(A), 37(A)(4), as does the headnote; question and case opinion have significant textual overlap.
5438	where there is no good cause for defendant's absence, may a motion to continue the case on that basis properly be denied particularly when the real purpose in seeking a continuance is to delay trial?	Where there is no good cause for defendant's absence, a motion to continue the case on that basis may properly be denied particularly when the real purpose in seeking a continuance is to delay trial.	If the continuance was sought because of the absence of a witness (Stein), the continuance was properly denied because the motion did not contain the affidavit of that witness, describing the evidence to be adduced. (See Ill.Rev.Stat.1979, ch. 110A, par. 231(a); see also Mann v.	1	4	ROSS-003289733	TR-0557567	TR-0862129	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question and case opinion have textual overlap.
5450	must the trial court be cautious where it chooses to impose severe sanction of dismissal?	Caution must be observed by trial court when it chooses to impose very severe sanction of dismissal for failure of a party to attend a pretrial conference. Civil Rule 16-II.	Despite Appellee's demand for a jury trial earlier in the litigation, the trial court entered the final judgment for Appellee and awarded him damages in the amount of $122,500.00 without a jury proceeding. [2] Trial courts exercise discretion in sanctioning a party for failure to attend a pretrial conference, and striking that party's pleadings is an available punishment. Fla. R. Civ. P. 1.200(c). However, the severe sanction of striking pleadings and entering a default must be supported by an express finding in the order "that the party's conduct was willful and contumacious." Schneider v.	2	3	ROSS-003289759	TR-0673083	TR-0822043	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not reference the citation Civil Rule 16-II, as does the headnote; question and case opinion refere to a "severe sanction" while the headnote refers to a "very severe sanction."
5456	when a party fails to respond in a timely way to a request for admission, does it admit the relevant subject matter of the request?	When a party fails to respond in a timely way to a request for admissions, thus admitting the relevant subject matter of the request, these admissions may then be used to support a summary judgment. Rules Civ.Proc., Rule 36.	[3] Thus, when a party fails to timely respond to a request for admission, that request is deemed admitted pursuant to C.R.C.P. 36(a). That admission may then be used to support a summary judgment motion.	1	3	ROSS-003289772	TR-0866571	TR-0567250	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not reference the citation Rules Civ. Proc., Rule 36, as does the headnote; question and case opinion have significant textual overlap.

ID	Question	Headnote	Case Opinion	Question to Headnote Rank	Headnote to Case Opinion Rank	Question Bates #	Headnote Bates #	Case Opinion Bates #	Arguments for Why Juror Could Conclude that Question Was Not Taken from Headnote
5457	will the court abuse its discretion in denying motion for new trial when the plaintiff substituted counsel to undertake additional discovery and designate experts after plaintiff's original counsel withdrew from case?	Court did not abuse its discretion in denying motion for new trial in interest of justice, despite plaintiff's contention that significant aspects of real controversy were not tried due to trial court's refusal to revise its scheduling order to allow plaintiff's substitute counsel to undertake additional discovery and designate experts after plaintiff's original counsel withdrew from case; no showing was made regarding what expert testimony plaintiff would have presented, and thus, trial court could not have determined whether real controversy was or was not tried. W.S.A. 805.15(1).	To support her claim that the trial court abused its discretion, Mitropoulos asserts that justice was not served and significant aspects of the real controversy were not tried. Because no one knows what discovery would have revealed, the trial court could not have determined whether the real controversy was or was not tried, and therefore had a basis for rejecting this contention. No showing was made regarding what expert testimony Mitropoulos would have presented. The court's refusal to order a new trial in the interest of justice has not been shown to be an abuse of discretion.	2	4	ROSS-003289774	TR-0775430	TR-0775430	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not reference the citation W.S.A. 805.15(1); headnote has significant text that the question does not.
5481	is the power of taxation limited by the will of state as expressed in legislation?	Generally, subject to constitutional restrictions, power of taxation is limited only by will of state as expressed in legislation.	III THE CONSTITUTIONAL AND STATUTORY FRAMEWORK FOR THE VALUATION OF REAL PROPERTY TAXED AD VALOREM [13] [14] [15] [16] ¶ 8 The Legislature has plenary power to tax, subject only to constitutional restrictions and the will of the people expressed through elections. 15 All non-exempt property is taxed ad valorem unless the Legislature provides otherwise through the enactment of a substitute tax.	2	3	ROSS-003289824	TR-0551675	TR-0804560	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not reference "Generally, subject to constitutional restrictions" as does the headnote.
5504	when a party who lacks standing purports to commence an action, does the trial court have no alternative but to dismiss the action?	When a party who lacks standing purports to commence an action, the trial court has no alternative but to dismiss the action.	1 1 Like the parents in Lambert, supra, and Justice, supra, the parents in the present case sought damages for harm to their reputations. " 'When a party without standing purports to commence an action, the trial court acquires no subject-matter jurisdiction.' State v.	1	3	ROSS-003289870	TR-0684171	TR-0790477	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question includes language that is also in the case opinion, including the entire introductory clause of the question.
5552	may a party who fails to timely respond to another party's request for admissions submit contradictory evidence, as a matter admitted by a failure timely to respond is conclusively established?	Party who fails to timely respond to another party's request for admissions may not submit contradictory evidence, as a matter admitted by a failure timely to respond is conclusively established. Rules of Civil Procedure, Rule 36(a, b).	"Any matter admitted under this Rule is conclusively established unless the court on motion permits withdrawal or amendment of the admission." [1] [2] Hence, by this rule, a matter admitted by a failure timely to respond is conclusively established. And, contrary to the ruling of the trial court, admitted matters can constitute an adequate showing for *637 summary judgment without the necessity of producing further supportive evidence.	1	3	ROSS-003289967	TR-0703920	TR-0703920	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not include a citation to "Rules of Civil Procedure, Rule 36(a, b)," as does the headnote. The question and headnote are substantively different.
5554	does dismissal of suit, in which affidavit of indigency is filed, as frivolous or malicious properly, lie where claim has no arguable basis in law or fact?	Dismissal of suit, in which affidavit of indigency is filed, as frivolous or malicious properly lies only where claim has no arguable basis in law or fact. V.T.C.A., Civil Practice & Remedies Code § 13.001(a)(2).	4 2 Section 13.001, the general provision for dismissal of claims, provides: (b) In determining whether an action is frivolous or malicious, the court may consider whether: (2) the claim has no arguable basis in law or in fact TEX. CIV. PRAC. & REM. CODE ANN.	1	3	ROSS-003289970	TR-0806718	TR-0806852	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not include a citation to "V.T.C.A., Civil Practice & Remedies Code § 13.001(a)(2)," as does the headnote. The question and headnote are substantively different.

ID	Question	Headnote	Case Opinion	Question to Headnote Rank	Headnote to Case Opinion Rank	Question Bates #	Headnote Bates #	Case Opinion Bates #	Arguments for Why Juror Could Conclude that Question Was Not Taken from Headnote
5555	is awarding of attorney fees and expenses to a party who was put to necessity of proof by opponent's failure to admit truth of matters contained in requests for admission, an abuse of discretion?	Award of attorney fees and expenses to party who was put to necessity of proof by opponent's failure to admit truth of matters contained in requests for admission was abuse of discretion; requests for admission did not conform to necessary standards of clarity and fairness, and opponent was at risk of conceding away a disputed point by such admission. Sup.Ct.Rules, Rules 4:11, 4:12(c).	[2] We find that the trial court has not abused its discretion. An examination of the record reveals that the attorney for the Hattons moved that the requests for admissions be admitted because of Chem-Haulers' failure to respond within the time required. Chem-Hauler's reply, to this motion, was that the matters contained in the request for admissions had already been denied at pre-trial conference. The trial court then overruled the Hattons' motion. In light of the above, we find there has been no showing that the Hattons have been sufficiently prejudiced for us to find that the trial court abused its discretion.	1	4	ROSS-003289972	TR-0678344	TR-0553068	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not reference "Sup.Ct.Rules, Rules 4:11, 4:12(c)," as does the headnote.
5719	is the burden of proof on all three requirements of rule allowing for withdrawal of deemed admissions on the party seeking withdrawal?	The burden of proof on all three requirements of rule allowing for withdrawal of deemed admissions is on the party seeking withdrawal. Tex. R. Civ. P. 198.3.	Moreover, in such instances, it is presumed that presentation of the merits would be served by allowing withdrawal of the deemed admissions. See, e.g., Marino, 355 S.W.3d at 634. 3 3 The Supreme Court has not decided whether a party moving to withdraw merit-preclusive admissions must prove that withdrawal would not unduly prejudice the non-moving party, or whether the non-moving party must show that withdrawal would be unduly prejudicial.	1	3	ROSS-003290311	TR-0739994	TR-0739994	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not include a citation to "Tex. R. Civ. P. 198.3," as does the headnote.
5731	will even a slight excuse suffice as a good cause to withdraw or amend an admission, especially when delay or prejudice to the opposing party will not result?	Even a slight excuse will suffice as good cause to withdraw or amend an admission, especially when delay or prejudice to the opposing party will not result. Vernon's Ann.Texas Rules Civ.Proc., Rule 198.3.	DEEMED ADMISSIONS A. Good Cause [5] [6] "Good cause" can be shown when a party's failure to answer "was accidental or the result of a mistake, rather than intentional or the result of conscious indifference." Stelly, 927 S.W.2d at 622. "Even a slight excuse will suffice, especially when delay or prejudice to the opposing party will not result." In re Kellogg-Brown & Root, Inc., 45 S.W.3d 772, 775 (Tex.App.-Tyler 2001, orig.	1	3	ROSS-003290339	TR-0735154	TR-0614025	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not include a citation to "Vernon's Ann.Texas Rules Civ.Proc., Rule 198.3," as does the headnote.
5740	was it proper for the court in a bribery case of an internal revenue agent to disregard the question of the merits of the tax case involved and exclude it from evidence?	Court in prosecution for bribery of internal revenue agent properly instructed jury to disregard question of merits of tax case involved.	Failure of the trial court on its own motion to properly instruct the jury with regard to the fundamental issues and applicable law involved in the case is ground for a new trial.	2	4	ROSS-003290357	TR-0639913	TR-0730102	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not reference "jury," as does the headnote.
5786	when do courts sustain disorderly conviction based on unreasonable noise?	To sustain disorderly conduct conviction based on unreasonable noise, state must show that complained-of speech infringed upon right to peace and tranquility enjoyed by others. West's A.I.C. 35-45-1-3(2).	To sustain a conviction, the State must show that the complained-of speech infringed upon the right to peace and tranquility enjoyed by others.	2	3	ROSS-003290463	TR-0572544	TR-0572544	Question reflects holding and the genral rule of law applied in case; question does not reference "state must show that complained-of speech infringed upon right to peace and tranquility enjoyed by others," nor does it include a citation to "West's A.I.C. 35-45-1-3(2)," as does the headnote. The question and headnote are substantively different.

ID	Question	Headnote	Case Opinion	Question to Headnote Rank	Headnote to Case Opinion Rank	Question Bates #	Headnote Bates #	Case Opinion Bates #	Arguments for Why Juror Could Conclude that Question Was Not Taken from Headnote
5790	does failure to answer a request for admissions within fifteen days as provided by civil procedure article per se result in requests for admissions being deemed an admission of facts sought to be established?	Failure to answer request for admissions within 15 days as provided by civil procedure article does not per se result in requests for admissions being deemed an admission of facts sought to be established. LSA-C.C.P. art. 1467.	While it is true that the defendant did not answer the request for admission within fifteen (15) days, he did deny owing any debt by his answer to interrogatories and by answer to Holmes' suit for breach of contract. In our view, failure to answer under Article 1467 does not per se result in requests for admissions being deemed an admission of the facts sought to be established.	1	3	ROSS-003290470	TR-0616788	TR-0616788	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not include a citation to "LSA-C.C.P. art. 1467," as does the headnote.
5797	may an evasive or incomplete answer to a request for admissions be treated by the trial court as a deemed admission?	Evasive or incomplete answer to request for admissions may be treated by trial court as deemed admission. Vernon's Ann.Texas Rules Civ.Proc., Rule 215, subd. 4, par. a.	SMITH.' Stewart answered, '(T)his Defendant has insufficient knowledge either to affirm of deny such request.' [1] [2] [3] [4] If responses to requests for admissions are wholly evasive the trial court may deem them admitted.	2	3	ROSS-003290485	TR-0879376	TR-0726641	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not include a citation to "Vernon's Ann. Texas Rules Civ. Proc., Rule 215, subd. 4, par. a," as does the headnote.
5799	when a party fails to respond in a timely way to a request for admissions, thus admitting the relevant subject matter of the request, may these admissions then be used to support a summary judgment?	When a party fails to respond in a timely way to a request for admissions, thus admitting the relevant subject matter of the request, these admissions may then be used to support a summary judgment. Rules Civ.Proc., Rule 36.	[3] Thus, when a party fails to timely respond to a request for admission, that request is deemed admitted pursuant to C.R.C.P. 36(a). That admission may then be used to support a summary judgment motion.	1	3	ROSS-003290489	TR-0866571	TR-0567250	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not include a citation to "Rules Civ.Proc., Rule 36," as does the headnote.
5847	does a party's failure to answer at all has the effect of a "judicial admission", which cannot be controverted upon the trial?	A party's failure to answer inquiries on adverse party's written request for admission or denial of relevant facts has effect of a "judicial admission", which cannot be controverted upon the trial. Rules of Civil Procedure, rule 169.	*427 In short, the admissions in question established every element of the Appellee Donahoes' cause of action for usury, and established that both contracts were usurious as a matter of law. [3] It is well-settled that the effect of a party's failure to answer inquiries in adverse party's written request for admission or denial of relevant facts made under Rule 169 is comparable to a "legal admission" made in the applicable pleadings of a party, so as to preclude his denial of such facts on the trial of the case.	2	3	ROSS-003290587	TR-0805435	TR-0581982	Question reflects holding and the genral rule of law applied in case; question does not reference "inquiries on adverse party's written request for admission or denial of relevant facts," nor does it include a citation to "Rules of Civil Procedure, rule 169," as does the headnote. The question and headnote are substantively different.
5853	does a foot passenger have priority of right of way over automobiles?	Neither foot passengers nor automobiles have priority of right over the other in streets.	*333 Foot-passengers have equal rights in the streets with those mounted on horseback or driving in carriages. Neither have a priority of right over the other.	2	4	ROSS-003290600	TR-0871650	TR-0728110	Question reflects holding and the genral rule of law applied in case; question does not reference "the other in streets," as does the headnote.

ID	Question	Headnote	Case Opinion	Question to Headnote Rank	Headnote to Case Opinion Rank	Question Bates #	Headnote Bates #	Case Opinion Bates #	Arguments for Why Juror Could Conclude that Question Was Not Taken from Headnote
5872	when a party fails to timely respond to the request for admissions and the admissions become facts of record by operation of law, is it within the trial court's discretion whether it will allow the withdrawal of admissions?	When a party fails to timely respond to the request for admissions and the admissions become facts of record by operation of law, it is within the trial court's discretion whether it will allow the withdrawal of admissions. Rules Civ.Proc., Rule 36.	Pursuant to OCGA § 9-11-36(a) (2), the matters in the requests for admissions were admitted by operation of law when [Neal] failed to answer the requests within 30 days of service. The trial court had the discretion to permit withdrawal of the admissions if the two-prong test of OCGA § 9-11-36(b) was satisfied. Those two prongs are (1) that withdrawal of the admissions will subserve or advance the presentation of the merits of the action and (2) that there is no satisfactory showing that withdrawal will prejudice the party who obtained the admissions.	1	3	ROSS-003290640	TR-0831596	TR-0668330	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not include a citation to "Rules Civ.Proc., Rule 36," as does the headnote.
5914	is voluntary dismissal taken without a court order, unless otherwise stated, without prejudice and may be refiled within one year of dismissal?	Voluntary dismissal taken without court order, unless otherwise stated, is without prejudice and may be refiled within one year of dismissal. Rules Civ.Proc., Rule 41(a)(1), G.S. § 1A-1.	1. governs voluntary dismissals and states such dismissals are without prejudice "[u]nless otherwise stated in the notice or order of dismissal." Neither Osuna's motion nor the court's order stated the dismissal was with prejudice. "Generally, an order granting a voluntary dismissal without prejudice to its being refiled is not an appealable, final judgment." Grand v.	1	3	ROSS-003290725	TR-0761846	TR-0813427	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not include a citation to "Rules Civ.Proc., Rule 41(a)(1), G.S. § 1A-1," as does the headnote.
5947	are trial court scheduling orders, as any other order of court, enforceable?	Trial court scheduling orders, as any other order of court, are enforceable.	The trial court has the authority to set discovery scheduling orders with deadlines and to enforce its deadlines.	1	3	ROSS-003290793	TR-0865580	TR-0771755	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case.
5970	does prejudice from withdrawal of admission obtained by request for admissions mean that a party who has obtained admission will lose benefit of it?	"Prejudice" from withdrawal of admission obtained by request for admissions does not mean that party who has obtained admission will lose benefit of it; rather, it means that party has suffered detriment in preparation of case. Trial Procedure Rule 36(B).	In this context, "prejudice" does not mean that the party who has obtained the admissions will lose the benefit of the admissions; rather, it means that the party has suffered a detriment in the preparation of his case.	1	3	ROSS-003290839	TR-0703369	TR-0703369	Question reflects holding and the genral rule of law applied in case; question does not reference "party has suffered detriment in preparation of case," nor does it include a citation to "Trial Procedure Rule 36(B)," as does the headnote. The question and headnote are substantively different.
5998	what are the factors a trial judge considers before granting a discretionary continuance on motion of a litigant seeking continuance to employ another attorney?	Among the factors a trial judge considers before granting a discretionary continuance on motion of a litigant seeking continuance to employ another attorney are diligence, good faith and reasonable grounds. LSA-C.C.P. art. 1602.	[1] [2] ¶ 11] Deloge contends that the trial court erred in denying his motion for a continuance. We disagree. "A party seeking a continuance has the burden of showing sufficient grounds for granting the motion, and the ruling of the presiding justice is reviewable only for abuse of discretion." Champagne v.	1	4	ROSS-003290894	TR-0683881	TR-0537547	Question reflects holding and the genral rule of law applied in case; question does not reference "diligence, good faith and reasonable grounds," nor does it include a citation to "LSA-C.C.P. art. 1602," as does the headnote.
6001	under bribery sections of statute, what heightened criminal intent is required to prove a case of bribery?	Under bribery sections of statute, heightened criminal intent, i. e., "corrupt" intent, was required, as opposed to simple mens rea required for violation of the gratuity sections of the statute. 18 U.S.C.A. § 201(c)(3).	It is this element of quid pro quo that distinguishes the heightened criminal intent requisite under the bribery sections of the statute from the simple mens rea required for violation of the gratuity sections.	2	3	ROSS-003290900	TR-0646460	TR-0646460	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not include a citation to "18 U.S.C.A. § 201(c)(3)," as does the headnote.

ID	Question	Headnote	Case Opinion	Question to Headnote Rank	Headnote to Case Opinion Rank	Question Bates #	Headnote Bates #	Case Opinion Bates #	Arguments for Why Juror Could Conclude that Question Was Not Taken from Headnote
6003	where the statute prohibiting bribery by a public officer or public employee is unclear, which side should it be construed in favor of?	As criminal statute, law prohibiting bribery by public officer or public employee, had to be construed in favor of defendant and against state. M.S.A. §§ 609.42, subd. 1(2), 609.415.	In the present case, we are interpreting a criminal statute, and "[c]riminal statutes are strictly construed in favor of the defendant and against the government." State v.	2	4	ROSS-003290905	TR-0724394	TR-0712855	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not include a citation to "M.S.A. §§ 609.42, subd. 1(2), 609.415," as does the headnote.
6013	does a court have broad discretion to determine amount of a reasonable attorney fee on motion for costs of proof?	A trial court has broad discretion to determine amount of a reasonable attorney fee on motion for costs of proof. West's Ann.Cal. C.C.P. § 2033, subd. o.	So I'm going to sustain the objection." [22] [23] "The trial court has wide discretion to determine the relevancy of evidence and [e]very reasonable presumption should be made in favor of the correctness of the court's ruling in determining whether there has been an abuse of discretion." (Internal quotation marks omitted.) State v.	1	3	ROSS-003290927	TR-0838526	TR-0839541	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not include a citation to "West's Ann.Cal. C.C.P. § 2033, subd. o," as does the headnote.
6031	for the purposes of the hobbs act, does the fear connected with threats of economic loss need to be the product of the defendant's actions?	For purposes of Hobbs Act, fear connected with threats of economic loss need not be the product of defendant's actions. 18 U.S.C.A. § 1951.	Under the "fear of economic harm" theory, the defendant receives payment from the victim because the victim believes that the defendant can exercise his or her power to the victim's economic detriment. "The fear need not be the product of the defendant's actions. 'It is enough if the fear exists and the defendant intentionally exploits it.' " Id.	1	4	ROSS-003290965	TR-0635437	TR-0640069	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not include a citation to "18 U.S.C.A. § 1951," as does the headnote.
6040	does an amendment of declaration at trial to make it correspond to proof not require continuance?	Amendment of declaration at trial to make it correspond to proof does not require continuance, except on showing of necessity to enable defendant to make defense (Code, c. 131, § 8).	463, this court said: "A declaration may be amended at the trial of an action, to make the allegation correspond to the proof offered, if substantial justice will be thereby promoted, and such amendment does not entitle the defendant to a continuance, unless he shows to the satisfaction of the court that a continuance is necessary to enable him to make his defense." Nothing appears in this case which would satisfy the trial court that a continuance was necessary for a complete defense.	2	4	ROSS-003290985	TR-0823610	TR-0823610	Question reflects holding and the genral rule of law applied in case; question does not reference "showing of necessity," nor does it include a citation to "(Code, c. 131, § 8)," as does the headnote.
6088	in determining a motion to extend time for filing a pleading, is it a prerequisite that a responding party demonstrate good cause to obtain relief granted?	In determining motion to extend time for filing pleading, it is prerequisite that responding party demonstrate good cause to obtain relief granted and absence of prejudice to opposing party is immaterial. Sup.Ct.Rules, Rules 183, 216(c).	"A trial court's decision to grant or deny a motion to continue a trial date is reviewed for an abuse of discretion, and there is a strong presumption the trial court properly exercised its discretion." Id. "A denial of a motion for continuance is [considered to be an] abuse of discretion only if the movant demonstrates good cause for granting it." Id. "However, no abuse of discretion will be found when the moving party has not demonstrated that he or she was prejudiced by the denial." Riffin v.	1	4	ROSS-003291090	TR-0828196	TR-0767270	Question reflects holding and the genral rule of law applied in case; question does not reference "absence of prejudice to opposing party," nor does it include a citation to "Sup.Ct.Rules, Rules 183, 216(c)," as does the headnote.

ID	Question	Headnote	Case Opinion	Question to Headnote Rank	Headnote to Case Opinion Rank	Question Bates #	Headnote Bates #	Case Opinion Bates #	Arguments for Why Juror Could Conclude that Question Was Not Taken from Headnote
6130	did the trial court abuse its discretion in denying motion for continuance to plaintiffs who alleged that they were unable to complete discovery prior to hearing on motion for summary judgment although they had sufficient time to propound discovery?	Trial court did not abuse its discretion in denying motion for continuance to plaintiffs who alleged that they were unable to complete discovery prior to hearing on motion for summary judgment; although hearing was continued previously at plaintiffs' request, they did not propound any discovery until five days before continued hearing, and they had nine months to propound discovery. LSA-C.C.P. arts. 1601, 1603.	§ 35-1-26-1 states: "The defendant shall file such affidavit for continuance at least five [5] days before the date set for trial or shall sustain the burden of establishing to the satisfaction of the court, that the defendant is not at fault for failing to file such affidavit for continuance at an earlier date." We feel that the trial court did not abuse its discretion in denying the motion for continuance. Defendant has failed to show why he was unable with due diligence to obtain the psychiatric evaluation in the four months since his arrest, the three months since filing notice of an insanity defense, or the six weeks since the appearance of new counsel. In addition, the record shows that Dr. Brogno testified about defendant's sanity and was ably questioned by counsel.	2	4	ROSS-003291180	TR-0620534	TR-0785814	Question reflects holding and the genral rule of law applied in case; question does not reference "propund[ing] any discovery until five days before continued hearing," nor does it include a citation to "LSA-C.C.P. arts. 1601, 1603," as does the headnote.
6155	does the court have a right to determine whether legislator's presence is necessary to a fair and proper trial and filing of application for continuance, if any party or attorney is a member of general assembly?	Under statute authorizing continuance where any party or his attorney is a member of general assembly, trial court has right to determine whether legislator's presence is necessary to a fair and proper trial and filing of application for continuance under statute does not instantly divest trial court of jurisdiction. V.A.M.S. § 510.120.	Such a construction takes away all the judicial function of the court in making continuances applied for under this section.' [1] We make reference to the Kyger case to show that when an application for a continuance is filed under Sec. 96, the trial court has the right to determine whether the legislator's presence is necessary to a fair and proper trial. In other words, the filing of such application in proper form does not instanter divest the trial court of jurisdiction and thus prohibit any further proceedings therein 'until the adjournment or recess for twenty days or more of the general assembly (and) ten days thereafter' regardless of the necessity of the legislator's presence to a fair trial and in the present case, regardless of the fact that the legislator attorney was given reasonable opportunity to be present and was actually present and participated in the further proceedings after the application was filed.	2	3	ROSS-003291232	TR-0614604	TR-0614604	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not include a citation to "V.A.M.S. § 510.120," as does the headnote.

ID	Question	Headnote	Case Opinion	Question to Headnote Rank	Headnote to Case Opinion Rank	Question Bates #	Headnote Bates #	Case Opinion Bates #	Arguments for Why Juror Could Conclude that Question Was Not Taken from Headnote
6166	would the court abuse its discretion in failing to grant fourth continuance orally requested by defense counsel on the date of separation trial?	Trial court did not abuse its discretion in failing to grant fourth continuance orally requested by defense counsel on the date of separation trial, where defense counsel simply informed the court that he had instructed his client, who had been subpoenaed, not to appear for trial if he was not in better condition than he had been on the previous day, and that, on the day before trial, upon interviewing his client, he had found him to be in an irrational state.	In the interim, the defendant was voluntarily *584 committed for psychiatric treatment at the V.A. Hospital. On the day of the trial, counsel for the defendant arrived late and then informed the court that he had instructed his client, who had been subpoenaed, not to appear for trial, if he was not in better condition than he had been on the previous day. The day before trial, counsel had interviewed his client and had found the defendant to be in an irrational state. No written motion for a continuance was filed. The trial court allowed plaintiff to put on her case in chief and granted judgment.	2	3	ROSS-003291254	TR-0879523	TR-0879523	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not reference "defense counsel simply informed the court that he had instructed his client, who had been subpoenaed, not to appear for trial if he was not in better condition than he had been on the previous day, and that, on the day before trial, upon interviewing his client, he had found him to be in an irrational state," as does the headnote.
6171	following a determination of liability for punitive damages, once the court orders defendant to produce evidence of financial condition, is there no justification for not specifically following that order?	Following a determination of liability for punitive damages, once the court orders defendant to produce evidence of financial condition, there is no justification for not specifically following that order; if counsel has problems with the court's orders, he or she may seek a pretrial writ or argue the validity of that ruling on appeal. West's Ann.Cal.Civ.Code § 3295(c).	As to the first reason, it may not be a defendant's burden to prove its net worth, but if it is ordered to produce that evidence it is under an obligation to do so. (Civ.Code, § 3295, subd. (c).) Once the court makes the order there is no justification for not specifically following that order. (See *244 People v. Glass (1975) 44 Cal.App.3d 772, 781-782, 118 Cal.Rptr. 797.) If counsel has problems with the court's orders, he or she may seek a pretrial writ or argue the validity of that ruling on appeal.	1	3	ROSS-003291266	TR-0727973	TR-0727973	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not include a citation to "West's Ann.Cal.Civ.Code § 3295(c)," as does the headnote.
6225	should a court consider dismissal for lack of jurisdiction or insufficient process, when a motion to dismiss raises a defense of failure to state a claim and any combination of lack of jurisdiction?	When a motion to dismiss alleged both lack of subject matter jurisdiction and failure to state a claim, the court should consider dismissal for lack of subject matter jurisdiction first and should then consider the failure to state a claim only if it determines that it has subject matter jurisdiction; similarly, when a motion to dismiss raises failure to state a claim and any combination of lack of jurisdiction over the person, insufficient process, and insufficient service, the court should consider the latter issues first and then consider dismissal for failure to state a claim only if it determines that it has personal jurisdiction and that process and service of process were sufficient. Neb. Sup. Ct. § 6-1112(b).	State ex rel. Jones v. Suster (1998), 84 Ohio St.3d 70, 75, 701 N.E.2d 1002. A motion to dismiss for lack of subject matter jurisdiction is made pursuant to Civ.R. 12(B)(1), and "[t]he standard of review for a dismissal pursuant to Civ.R. 12(B)(1) is whether any cause of action cognizable by the forum has been raised in the complaint." State ex rel. Bush v. Spurllock (1989), 42 Ohio St.3d 77, 80, 537 N.E.2d 641. (Citations omitted.) This court has held: [2] {¶ 20} " '[I]n determining whether the plaintiff has alleged a cause of action sufficient to withstand a Civ.R. 12(B) (1) motion to dismiss, the trial court is not confined to the allegations of the complaint and it may consider material pertinent to such inquiry without converting the motion into one for summary judgment.' " Kinder v.	2	4	ROSS-003291382	TR-0856428	TR-0651058	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not reference "insufficient servic,e" nor which issue "the court should consider the [jurisdiction, service, or process] issues first," nor does it include a citation to "Neb. Sup. Ct. § 6-1112(b)," as does the headnote. The question and headnote are substantively different.

ID	Question	Headnote	Case Opinion	Question to Headnote Rank	Headnote to Case Opinion Rank	Question Bates #	Headnote Bates #	Case Opinion Bates #	Arguments for Why Juror Could Conclude that Question Was Not Taken from Headnote
6231	is dismissal for failure to serve process within 120 days required only if reasonable cause for the delay in service is not documented?	Even without a motion to extend the time for service of process, dismissal for failure to serve process within 120 days is required only if reasonable cause for the delay in service is not documented. West's F.S.A. RCP Rule 1.070(j).	Even without a motion to extend, dismissal is required only if reasonable cause for the delay in service is not documented. Root v. Little, 721 So.2d 836, 837 (Fla. 5th DCA 1998). Rule 1.070(j) is designed to be a case management tool, not an additional statute of limitations cutting off the liability of a tortfeasor, and it is not to be imposed inflexibly when the plaintiff demonstrates diligence and good cause.	1	4	ROSS-003291396	TR-0556795	TR-0556795	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not reference "a motion to extend time for service of process," nor does it include a citation to "West's F.S.A. RCR Rule 1.070(j)," as does the headnote.
6243	is the proper procedure for a court to take upon a determination that a case has become moot, dismissal of the action?	The proper procedure for a court to take upon a determination that a case has become moot is dismissal of the action. Appeal by Plaintiff from order entered 2 November 2015 by Judge April C. Wood in Davidson County District Court. Heard in the Court of Appeals 6 September 2016.	He attached a memorandum stating that the order was made upon the grounds that the complaint failed to state a claim against defendants, or any of them, for lack of a justiciable controversy existing between the plaintiff and the defendants; and further that the complaint violated Rule 8.05, Rules of Civil Procedure, which requires that each averment of a pleading be 'simple, concise, and direct.' Thereafter, on November 30, 1965, upon plaintiff's motion the trial judge ordered that judgment of dismissal be entered nunc pro tunc, stating in the order that 'plaintiff desires that judgment be entered pursuant to said order so he can appeal therefrom.' Thus, the judgment of dismissal subsequently entered was dated October 29, 1965, the date of the order dismissing the action, although it was filed by the clerk of the district court on December 1, 1965.	2	4	ROSS-003291418	TR-0703327	TR-0665318	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case.
6263	is the requirement that sanctions for violations of pre-trial orders must be related to offensive conduct not met when the party seeking sanctions can show no prejudice due to the offending party's conduct?	The requirement that sanctions for violations of pre-trial orders must be related to offensive conduct is not met when the party seeking sanctions can show no prejudice due to the offending party's conduct. Vernon's Ann.Texas Rules Civ.Proc., Rule 166.	First, there must be a direct relationship between the offensive conduct and the sanction imposed. TransAmerican, 811 S.W.2d at 917. This requires that the sanction be directed against the abuse and toward remedying the prejudice caused the innocent party. Id. This prong is not met when the party seeking sanctions can show no prejudice due to the offending party's conduct.	1	3	ROSS-003291460	TR-0751772	TR-0595371	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not include a citation to "Vernon's Ann.Texas Rules Civ.Proc., Rule 166," as does the headnote.

ID	Question	Headnote	Case Opinion	Question to Headnote Rank	Headnote to Case Opinion Rank	Question Bates #	Headnote Bates #	Case Opinion Bates #	Arguments for Why Juror Could Conclude that Question Was Not Taken from Headnote
6278	is tax a debt created by law?	Tax is debt created by law rather than "debt created by contract."	Kendig [Wyo., 641 P.2d 1235 (1982)], but we have never deviated from our adherence to the proposition that the worker's compensation law of this state is in the nature of industrial-accident insurance." (Citation omitted.) [1] [2] When we say that worker's compensation law is based on a concept of industrial insurance, we mean that it is based on contract rather than tort principles.	2	4	ROSS-003291492	TR-0766367	TR-0790144	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not reference "debt created by contract," as does the headnote.
6354	will undue prejudice to the nonmoving party that would preclude withdrawing deemed admissions depends on whether withdrawing an admission or filing a late response delay trial or significantly hamper the opposing party's ability to prepare for it?	Undue prejudice to the nonmoving party that would preclude withdrawing deemed admissions depends on whether withdrawing an admission or filing a late response will delay trial or significantly hamper the opposing party's ability to prepare for it. Tex. R. Civ. P. 198.2(a).	"Undue prejudice depends on whether withdrawing an admission or filing a late response will *837 delay trial or significantly hamper the opposing party's ability to prepare for it." Wheeler, 157 S.W.3d at 443. Furthermore, the supreme court has explained that "presentation of the merits will suffer (1) if the requesting party cannot prepare for trial, and also (2) if the requestor can prepare but the case is decided on deemed (but perhaps untrue) facts anyway." Id.	1	3	ROSS-003291653	TR-0576448	TR-0769229	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not include a citation to "Tex. R. Civ. P. 198.2(2)," as does the headnote.
6396	will the degree to which party making denial of requested admission has attempted in good faith to reach reasonable resolution of matter involved, be an appropriate factor to be weighed in determining whether such party had no good reason for denial?	Degree to which party making denial of requested admission has attempted in good faith to reach reasonable resolution of matter involved is also appropriate factor to be weighed in determining whether such party had no good reason for denial so as to warrant imposition of expenses incurred in proving truth of requested admission on such party under § 2034(c). West's Ann.Cal.C.C.P. § 2034(c).	303.) Thus, if a party denies a request for admission (of substantial importance) in circumstances where the party lacked personal knowledge but had available sources of information and failed to make a reasonable investigation to ascertain the facts, such failure will justify an award of expenses under section 2034(c). [6] The degree to which the party making the denial has attempted in good faith to reach a reasonable resolution of the matters involved is also an appropriate factor 844 to be weighed. For example, in at least two federal cases the parties making denials of requests for admission had offered to stipulate to the matters requested under reasonable conditions, but the parties propounding the requests had refused the proffered stipulations.	1	3	ROSS-003291741	TR-0771732	TR-0771732	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not reference "imposition of expenses incurred in proving truth of requested admission," nor does it include a citation to "West's Ann.Cal.C.C.P. § 2034(c)," as does the headnote.
8237	do the power to discontinue a public road conferred by the statute authorizes closing or obstructing roads to use of which property owners have vested property rights?	Statute giving commissioners' court power to discontinue public roads does not authorize closing or obstructing roads in use of which property owners have vested property rights (Vernon's Ann.Civ.St. art. 6703).	The power conferred upon that court by article 6703 of our Revised Statutes to discontinue any public road cannot be construed as authorizing the closing or obstruction of a roadway in the use of which residents thereon have a vested property right; even the Legislature of this state has no such power.	2	3	ROSS-003295836	TR-0699319	TR-0699319	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case. When alternate language from the case opinion, identified via the Bates No. in column H of this row, is considered instead of the case opinion text that Dr. Frederiksen-Cross identified, overlap between the case opinion and question becomes more apparent. Both the question and opinion text refer to the power as "conferred" by statute whereas the headnote does not. The question also does not include a citation to "Vernon's Ann.Civ.St. art. 6703," as does the headnote. The question and headnote are substantively different.

ID	Question	Headnote	Case Opinion	Question to Headnote Rank	Headnote to Case Opinion Rank	Question Bates #	Headnote Bates #	Case Opinion Bates #	Arguments for Why Juror Could Conclude that Question Was Not Taken from Headnote
8399	does the commissioners' court have the authority to discontinue a road?	Commissioners' court had authority to discontinue county road. Vernon's Ann.Civ.St. art. 6705.	[2] [3] In establishing public roads, the county can act only through the Commissioners' Court, the individual Commissioners having no authority to bind the county by their separate actions.	2	3	ROSS-003296167	TR-0674228	TR-0674228	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case.
9060	does a statute subrogating a surety who has paid the debt of his principal to the rights of the creditor impose obligation on principal to indemnify the surety for amounts paid to the creditor?	Statute subrogating surety who has paid debt of his principal to rights of the creditor does not impose obligation on principal to indemnify surety for amounts paid creditor. West's Ga.Code Ann. § 10-7-56.	*100 Respondents misconstrue the law of subrogation. [5] The doctrine of subrogation is an equitable one, and it is recognized that the payment of an obligation by a surety entitles him to stand in the place of the creditor and be substituted to all of the rights of the creditor against the principal.	1	4	ROSS-003297577	TR-0537757	TR-0567948	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not include a citation to "West's Ga.Code Ann. § 10-7-56," as does the headnote.
10015	will a motion for dismissal be barred by affirmative matter avoiding the legal effect of or defeating the claim admit the legal sufficiency of the complaint?	A motion for involuntary dismissal based upon a bar by affirmative matter avoiding the legal effect of or defeating the claim admits the legal sufficiency of the complaint. S.H.A. 735 ILCS 5/2-619(a)(9).	[1] [2] MacNeal Hospital's amended counterclaim was dismissed pursuant to 2-619(a)(5) of the Code, which allows for involuntary dismissal when "the action was not commenced within the time limited by law." 735 ILCS 5/2-619(a)(5) (West 2002). A section 2-619 motion to dismiss admits the legal sufficiency of the complaint and raises defects, defenses, or other affirmative matters that defeat the claim.	1	3	ROSS-003299681	TR-0701134	TR-0625372	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not include a citation to "S.H.A. 735 ILCS 5/2-619(a)(9)," as does the headnote.
10076	is the purpose of pretrial procedure to clarify and simplify issues to be tried, and does the resulting pretrial order control subsequent course of action?	Purpose of pretrial procedure is to clarify and simplify issues to be tried and resulting pretrial order controls subsequent course of action. Rules Civ.Proc., Rule 16.	Consistent with this general rule is Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 16(e), which provides that a pretrial order controls "the subsequent course of the action unless modified by a subsequent order." Rule 16's purpose, however, is "to avoid surprise, not foment it." Wilson v.	1	3	ROSS-003299810	TR-0605976	TR-0828890	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not include a citation to "Rules Civ.Proc., Rule 16," as does the headnote.
10140	to warrant continuance because of the absence of a witness, must a movant show that testimony of an absent witness would be more than cumulative?	To warrant continuance because of absence of witness movant must show that testimony of absent witness would be more than cumulative.	[17] [18] [19] There is no question but that the granting of a continuance is discretionary with the trial court, and also that the movant must show that the testimony of the absent witness would be more than cumulative. Knowles v. Blue, 209 Ala. 27, 95 So. 481; Pate Lumber Company v. Davis, 215 Ala. 547, 112 So. 124. The refusing of a continuance because of an absent witness, where it is not shown what the witness would say if present, is not an abuse of the court's discretion. Authorities, supra. Appellants', Elliott and Ikner, assignment of error No. 8 contends that the court erred in allowing the witness Watts to testify as to the speed of the Ikner vehicle when he did not have the opportunity to form such an opinion. As to this assignment of error, the same may be said as was said about assignment of error No. 8 of the appellant, Mobile Cab and Baggage Company. It is without merit. Supreme Court Rule 45.	1	3	ROSS-003299945	TR-0626808	TR-0626808	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case.
11270	should the federal funds be directly affected by local official's acceptance of bribe in order to constitute violation of federal programs bribery statute?	Federal funds need not be directly affected by local official's acceptance of bribe in order for acceptance to constitute violation of federal programs bribery statute. 18 U.S.C.A. § 666(a)(1)(B).	Brumley, we held that, in order to convict for the federal crime of depriving a state of the honest services of one of its officials, "a federal prosecutor must prove that conduct of a state official breached a duty respecting the provision of services owed to the official's employer under state law." 116 F.3d 728, 734 (5th Cir.1997) (en banc). However, we were careful to note that, in order to constitute a federal crime, the state statute must concern "something close to bribery" and that "the mere violation of a gratuity statute ... will not suffice." Id.	1	4	ROSS-003302361	TR-0640952	TR-0648095	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not include a citation to "18 U.S.C.A. § 666(a)(1)(B)," as does the headnote.

ID	Question	Headnote	Case Opinion	Question to Headnote Rank	Headnote to Case Opinion Rank	Question Bates #	Headnote Bates #	Case Opinion Bates #	Arguments for Why Juror Could Conclude that Question Was Not Taken from Headnote
11394	is an attempt to commit suicide a crime?	Bill of indictment which charged that defendant attempted to commit suicide stated a crime. G.S. § 14-3.	*42 [26] [27] [28] [29] [30] We now turn to the relevant legal principles and our standard of review for claims that the court improperly admitted uncharged misconduct evidence. "Evidence of a defendant's uncharged misconduct is inadmissible to prove that the defendant committed the charged crime or to show the predisposition of the defendant to commit the charged crime. ... Exceptions to this rule have been recognized, however, to render misconduct evidence admissible if, for example, the evidence is offered to prove intent, identity, malice, motive, a system of criminal activity or the elements of a crime.	2	4	ROSS-003302631	TR-0724205	TR-0712508	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not include a citation to "G.S. § 14-3," as does the headnote.
11594	can a party withdraw admission without a motion to amend admission?	Party may not withdraw admission without motion to amend admission. West's F.S.A. RCP Rule 1.370.	§ 1A-1, Rule 36(a), matters as to which admission is requested are deemed admitted unless the party to whom the request is directed serves a written response within the time permitted by the rule. The trial court has discretion to allow a withdrawal of an admission upon a party's motion.	2	4	ROSS-003303052	TR-0761288	TR-0843381	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not include a citation to "West's F.S.A. RCP Rule 1.370," as does the headnote.
12250	can the offense of bribery be committed by anyone other than one who is an officer of the united states or who is acting for or on behalf of the united states in any official capacity?	The offense of asking, accepting and receiving money with intent thereby to influence official action can only be committed by one who is an officer of the United States or who is acting for or on behalf of the United States in any official capacity, the givers of bribes being punishable under a different section of the Criminal Code. Cr.Code, §§ 39, 117, 18 U.S.C.A. §§ 201, 202.	The phrases 'officer or employee' and 'person acting for or on behalf of the United States * * * in any official function' must be read in the disjunctive. See Nordgren v. United States, 9 Cir., 181 F.2d 718, 720. The phrase 'in any official function,' therefore, modifies only the word 'person' and not 'officer or employee.' [2] [3] It is well established that for an offense to be made out under Sec. 201, a person acting for the United States must be doing so in his official capacity.	2	4	ROSS-003304404	TR-0634595	TR-0591838	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not include a citation to "Cr.Code, §§ 39, 117, 18 U.S.C.A. §§ 201, 202," as does the headnote.
13014	does unauthorized entry itself constitute the prohibited purpose necessary to sustain a conviction under section 1382?	Unauthorized entry itself can constitute prohibited purpose necessary to sustain conviction under statute proscribing entry upon naval reservation for purpose prohibited by law. 18 U.S.C.A. § 1382.	[2] We accept Maxwell's premise: "purpose" is indeed an element of a section 1382 offense. But the case law is consentient that an unauthorized entry itself can constitute the prohibited purpose necessary to sustain a conviction under section 1382. See Parrilla Bonilla, 648 F.2d at 1377; United States v. Mowat, 582 F.2d 1194, 1203-04 (9th Cir.1978); United States v. Floyd, 477 F.2d 217, 225 (10th Cir.1973); see also Sharpton, 252 F.3d at 538-39 (accepting rule sub silentio).	2	4	ROSS-003306216	TR-0641813	TR-0641813	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not reference "proscribing entry upon naval reserervation for purpose prohibited by law," nor does it include a citation to "18 U.S.C.A. § 1382," as does the headnote.

ID	Question	Headnote	Case Opinion	Question to Headnote Rank	Headnote to Case Opinion Rank	Question Bates #	Headnote Bates #	Case Opinion Bates #	Arguments for Why Juror Could Conclude that Question Was Not Taken from Headnote
14062	is non-record activity consisting of efforts to serve one defendant not sufficient to require a trial court to reinstate action after dismissal for failure to prosecute?	Nonrecord activity consisting of efforts to serve one defendant was not sufficient to require trial court to reinstate action after dismissal for failure to prosecute. West's F.S.A. RCP Rule 1.420(e).	There is no indication that compliance with § 52-46a is a prerequisite in order for an action to be considered "brought." Rather, once an action has been brought by service of process on the defendant, a trial court may thereafter dismiss the action for failure to return the 952 service of process within the mandated time period.	1	4	ROSS-003308529	TR-0575800	TR-0540802	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not include a citation to "West's F.S.A. RCP Rule 1.420(e)," as does the headnote.
14067	can the public element of an offense be satisfied only if members of the public are likely to be affected?	"Public" element of offense of disorderly conduct may be satisfied if disturbance takes place in a more secluded environment than, for example, on public street or by side of highway, but only if members of the public are likely to be affected. M.G.L.A. c. 272, § 53.	963, 963-964, 650 N.E.2d 360 (1995); or by the side of a highway, see Commonwealth v. Bosk, 29 Mass.App.Ct. 904, 906-907, 556 N.E.2d 1055 (1990). It also may be satisfied where the disturbance takes place in a more secluded environment, but only if members of the public are likely to be affected.	2	3	ROSS-003308538	TR-0697806	TR-0697806	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not reference "disorderly conduct," "a more secluded environment," nor does it include a citation to "M.G.L.A. c. 272, § 53," as does the headnote. The question and headnote are substantively different.
14778	can an assignment of a note be written on a separate instrument?	Assignment of negotiable instrument payable to order may be written on separate instrument. Comp.St.1929, § 62-301.	[8] However, it is well settled that a negotiable instrument payable to order may be transferred by the payee or holder without indorsement, though in such case the transferee takes only the title and right of the one so transferring it, and does not become the holder in due course, but has only the equitable instead of the legal title.	2	3	ROSS-003309998	TR-0533404	TR-0770949	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not include a citation to "Comp.St.1929, § 62-301," as does the headnote.
16121	is the plain language of a provision of fcpa, prohibiting "payments to foreign officials to obtain or retain business" ambiguous?	Plain language of provision of Foreign Corrupt Practices Act (FCPA), prohibiting payments to foreign officials to obtain or retain business was ambiguous, as to what constituted payments to obtain or retain business. Securities Exchange Act of 1934, § 30A(a), as amended, 15 U.S.C.A. § 78dd-1(a); Foreign Corrupt Practices Act of 1977, § 104(a), 15 U.S.C.A. § 78dd-2(a).	Foreign Corrupt Practices Act [1] The FCPA makes it illegal for an individual or company in the United States to make illicit payments to a foreign official to cause that foreign official to assist in obtaining or retaining business for the payor. See 15 U.S.C. § 78dd-2(a). Congress enacted the FCPA in 1977 to criminalize bribery of foreign officials by domestic corporations.	2	4	ROSS-003312907	TR-0639986	TR-0637793	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not include a citation to "Securities Exchange Act of 1934, § 30A(a), as amended, 15 U.S.C.A. § 78dd-1(a); Foreign Corrupt Practices Act of 1977, § 104(a), 15 U.S.C.A. § 78dd-2(a).," as does the headnote.
17007	does the court have jurisdiction to make proper order to compel a party to produce books and records, to end that adverse party might get information therefrom?	Court has jurisdiction to make proper order to compel party to produce books and records, to end that adverse party might get information therefrom.	[14] The court, having no jurisdiction of the corporation, may not compel its officers to produce for inspection its books and papers or make discovery of its affairs.	1	4	ROSS-003314793	TR-0564524	TR-0666879	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case.
17203	would it be an abuse of discretion for the order setting case for trial on a day that gives the defendant ample time to prepare to defend negligence action, rather than granting continuance?	Order setting case for trial on a day certain, which gave defendant ample time to be prepared to defend negligence action, rather than granting continuance to enable defendant to obtain another lawyer, was not an abuse of discretion where defendant had received four previous adjournments. GCR 1963, 503, 503.1.	Therefore, the trial judge did not abuse his discretion in denying appellants' motions for change of venue. Appellants' next contention is that the trial court abused its discretion in proceeding ex parte and dismissing the negligence action against the receiver. Appellants argue that a continuance should have *632 been granted because their counsel was before another court at the time.	2	4	ROSS-003315211	TR-0626348	TR-0577743	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not reference "granting continuance to enable defendant to obtain another lawyer," nor does it include a citation "GCR 1963, 503, 503.1," as does the headnote.
17508	does the mere fact that public official's conduct before board was not authorized by statute, regulation or established usage preclude conviction for offering or promising bribe to such official?	Mere fact that public official's conduct before board was not authorized by statute, regulation or established usage did not preclude conviction for offering or promising bribe to such official. M.G.L.A. c. 268 § 7.	Household, Barber, and Pratt urge that there was no evidence on which the jury could find that the bribe was designed to influence Hanley's conduct in his official capacity (see G.L. c. 268, s 7), since his actions before the Rate Board were not authorized by statute, regulation or established usage.	1	4	ROSS-003315856	TR-0710234	TR-0710234	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not include a citation to "M.G.L.A. c. 268 § 7," as does the headnote. The question and headnote are substantively different.

ID	Question	Headnote	Case Opinion	Question to Headnote Rank	Headnote to Case Opinion Rank	Question Bates #	Headnote Bates #	Case Opinion Bates #	Arguments for Why Juror Could Conclude that Question Was Not Taken from Headnote
17543	does the statute prohibiting theft involving federal funds extend to both bribes and gratuities?	The statute that prohibits theft involving federal funds extends to both bribes and gratuities. 18 U.S.C.A. § 666.	To the extent that the statute prohibits acts of bribery, the prohibition "draws content ... from federal statutes proscribing-and defining-similar crimes," including the general federal bribery statute, 18 U.S.C. § 201(b), and the statute prohibiting theft and bribery involving federal funds, 18 U.S.C. § 666(a)(2).	1	3	ROSS-003315928	TR-0632888	TR-0641939	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not include a citation to "M.G.L.A. c. 268 § 7," as does the headnote. The question and headnote are substantively different.
17891	will the court abuse its discretion in failing to grant plaintiff a second continuance prior to ruling on summary judgment motion brought by adverse party?	Trial court did not abuse its discretion in failing to grant plaintiff a second continuance prior to ruling on summary judgment motion brought by adverse party.	Bankston obtained no order staying the proceedings, and it is clear from the record that she was aware of the date on which the trial was set to occur. Therefore, the trial court did not abuse its discretion in permitting this matter to go to trial. [8] "A judgment dismissing an action shall be rendered upon application of any party, when the plaintiff fails to appear on the day set for trial.	1	4	ROSS-003316648	TR-0850906	TR-0661605	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case.
18022	in a possessory action to recover rented premises, are the rights of the parties and condition of plaintiff's claim to be tested?	In a possessory action to recover rented premises, rights of the parties and condition of plaintiff's claim are to be tested by the facts as they existed on the date the suit was filed.	[4] [5] [6] [7] 3. Even more serious is the claim that the suit was prematurely filed. The suit, as we have seen, was based on the claim that the owner required possession for the purpose of demolishing the house and erecting a new building on the lot, this being one of the excepted grounds on which a landlord is permitted to claim possession under the Rent Act. It is set forth as follows in the Act: 3 3 Code 1940, Supp. V, § 45-1605(b)(4). 'No action or proceeding to recover possession of housing accommodations shall be maintainable by any landlord against any tenant * * * unless * * *' (4) The landlord seeks in good faith to recover possession for the immediate purpose of substantially altering, remodeling, or demolishing the property and replacing it with new construction, the plans for which altered, remodeled, or new construction having been filed with and approved by the Commissioners of the District of Columbia * * *.' (Emphasis supplied.) The evidence revealed that the construction plans had not been approved by the District of Columbia Commissioners at the time the suit was filed, and that notice of such approval was not given to plaintiff until almost two months later, on	1	3	ROSS-003316926	TR-0878148	TR-0732417	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not reference "facts as they existed on the date the suit was filed," as does the headnote.

ID	Question	Headnote	Case Opinion	Question to Headnote Rank	Headnote to Case Opinion Rank	Question Bates #	Headnote Bates #	Case Opinion Bates #	Arguments for Why Juror Could Conclude that Question Was Not Taken from Headnote
18054	will attorney fees be warranted as discovery sanction in employee's action against employer if an employer fails to make certain admissions when requested?	Attorney fees were warranted as discovery sanction in employee's action against employer for misappropriation of company funds, unpaid wages, and failure to repay a loan, where employer's failure to make certain admissions when requested led to substantial additional and unnecessary litigation costs. CR 37(c).	Whether the circuit court abused its discretion when it awarded Edward's motion for attorney's fees. [¶ 16.] Leonard contests the award of attorney fees to Edward. The circuit court determined that Leonard's failure to admit to the requested matters during pre-trial discovery was indefensible under SDCL 15-6-37(c) and caused Edward to incur additional, unnecessary expenses in providing proof.	2	4	ROSS-003316992	TR-0847054	TR-0817002	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not reference "misappropriation of company funds," nor "unnecessary litigation costs," nor does it include a citation to "CR 37(c)" as does the headnote.
18266	does timely filing of a stop payment order by the drawer extinguish his liability to payee?	In absence of consideration passing from payee to drawer of check to support drawer's liability on the check, timely filing of stop payment order by drawer operated to extinguish any liability of drawer to payee.	Further, the parties agree that the mere drafting of a check by a drawer does not constitute an assignment of the funds designated. Therefore, the timely filing of a stop payment order here, without more, would operate to extinguish any liability of Bates to Falco.	2	4	ROSS-003317444	TR-0687184	TR-0687184	The memo question could have been drafted solely from the judicial opinion because its language is taken from the last sentence of the judicial opinion identified.
18278	does a charge of bribery require an official to complete a corrupt exchange for an offer of something of value with the intent to influence an official act?	The official is not required to agree to or actually complete a corrupt exchange for an offer of something of value with the intent to influence an official act to amount to honest-services fraud by bribery. 18 U.S.C.A. § 1346.	The bribery-and-kickback theory of honest services fraud requires "a quid pro quo, that is, a specific intent to give or receive something of value in exchange for an official act." United States v. Wright, 665 F.3d 560, 567-68 (3d Cir.2012) (internal quotation marks and citations omitted). Thus, while the evidence of nondisclosure by itself may not constitute honest services fraud based on a conflict-of-interest theory under Skilling, we believe that where there is also evidence of bribery or kickbacks, as there was before the District Court, then the evidence may be relevant to proof of a scheme to defraud under a bribery-and-kickback theory of honest services fraud.	2	4	ROSS-003317467	TR-0644810	TR-0635223	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not reference "honest-services fraud by bribery" nor does it include a citation to "18 U.S.C.A. § 1346," as does the headnote.
18279	do bona fide salaries, wages, fees, and other compensation either received by or promised by defendants fall within scope of exception excluding such amounts from consideration with regard to bribery statute's three valuation elements?	Bona fide salaries, wages, fees, and other compensation either received by or promised by defendants fall within scope of exception excluding such amounts from consideration with regard to bribery statute's three valuation elements. 18 U.S.C.A. § 666.	Instead, broad language referring to the entire body of the law was used in describing the scope of the exception. As a result, bona fidesalaries, wages, fees, and other compensation either received by or promised by § 666 defendants fall within the scope of the subsection (c) exception. [5] In analyzing § 666's applicability to the alleged misdeeds of the defendants, the district court concluded that the Shelby County government received federal benefits in a one-year period that exceeded the statutory base of $10,000.	1	3	ROSS-003317470	TR-0642498	TR-0642498	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case.
18360	does an action seeking specific performance of a contract for purchase and sale directly related to land cause the relief to be in rem?	For purpose of determining whether county in which purchaser of real property filed suit against vendors was county of preferred venue, action seeking specific performance of contract for purchase and sale directly related to land within meaning of venue rules; action placed ownership of land at issue, and potential for conveyance caused relief to be in rem. Trial Procedure Rule 75(A)(2).	However, this action does not concern merely a question of debt. Rather, the complaint includes a claim for specific performance, which directly "relates" to the land because ownership of the land is at issue. If the appellee prevails on its claim, the land would be conveyed to the proper party. This potential for conveyance causes the relief to be in rem. 1 The appellee wants the property, not merely monetary damages.	2	4	ROSS-003317646	TR-0879955	TR-0879955	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not reference "action placed ownership of land at issue," or the "potential for conveyance caused relief to be in rem;" question does not include a citation "Trial Procedure Rule 75(A)(2)." The question and headnote are substantively different.

ID	Question	Headnote	Case Opinion	Question to Headnote Rank	Headnote to Case Opinion Rank	Question Bates #	Headnote Bates #	Case Opinion Bates #	Arguments for Why Juror Could Conclude that Question Was Not Taken from Headnote
18370	does neither a trial court's failure to hold hearing on motion for voluntary dismissal without prejudice nor dismissal itself deprived opposing parties of any substantial legal right?	Neither trial court's failure to hold hearing on motion for voluntary dismissal without prejudice nor dismissal itself deprived opposing parties of any substantial legal right.	Moreover, we are unpersuaded that the trial court's failure to hold a hearing on the motion to dismiss or the dismissal itself deprived Amfac or CED of a substantial legal right.	1	3	ROSS-003317666	TR-0848875	TR-0848875	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case.
18893	would the dismissal of counterclaim without prejudice be justified by counterclaimant's failure to appear at scheduling conference?	Dismissal of counterclaim without prejudice was justified by counterclaimant's failure to appear at scheduling conference and failure to oppose earlier motions to strike and dismiss counterclaim, despite counterclaimant's allegations that he never received notice; record reflected both that notice was sent to counterclaimant and that he had a history of claiming lack of notice.	The dismissal of appellant's counterclaim was based on appellant's failure to appear at the scheduling conference on October 22, 1993, and on his failure to oppose appellee's earlier motions to strike and dismiss the counterclaim. Appellant claimed that he had failed to appear at the conference because he had never received notice. The trial court found, however, that appellant had previously claimed relief from judgment on the ground of lack of service, and that appellant's failure to appear at the scheduling conference was only the most recent instance of appellant's *1111 disregard for Superior Court procedures.	2	3	ROSS-003318731	TR-0806536	TR-0806536	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not reference "failure to oppose earlier motions" nor that the "record reflected both that notice was sent to counterclaimant and that he had a history of claiming lack of notice."
18904	is permitting depositions for plaintiffs to be filed after the time fixed by the trial court for plaintiffs to take proof discretionary?	Permitting depositions for plaintiffs to be filed after time fixed by trial court for plaintiffs to take proof was discretionary.	*535 [10] It is contended by appellants that the court erred in permitting depositions for appellees to be filed because they were taken after the time fixed by the court for appellees to take proof but under the showing made that was a matter within the discretion of the court and we are not prepared to say that there was any abuse of discretion.	1	3	ROSS-003318753	TR-0618591	TR-0618591	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case.
19132	who does "specific person" within the meaning of the criminal-harassment statute, refer to?	"Specific person," within the meaning of the criminal-harassment statute, which prohibits a pattern of conduct or series of acts of a certain nature "directed at a specific person," means the victim. M.G.L.A. c. 265, § 43A(a).	[8] Section 53a-181d (a) defines the phrase "course of conduct" as requiring "two or more acts." A person violates this statute, inter alia, when he or she engages a course of conduct directed at a specific person. See General Statutes § 53a-181d (b)(1). Reading these two parts of the stalking in the second degree statute together, we conclude that the two or more acts must be directed at a specific person, in this case the plaintiff.	2	4	ROSS-003319310	TR-0648692	TR-0880568	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not include a citation to "M.G.L.A. c. 265 § 43A(a)," as does the headnote.
19276	are the rights of parties governed by the law of the jurisdiction where a note is made and delivered?	Parties' rights held governed by law of jurisdiction in which note was made and delivered.	The rule is the same for promissory notes. Their legal effect is governed by the law of the jurisdiction where they are executed and delivered.	2	3	ROSS-003319663	TR-0550611	TR-0736774	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case.
19375	when should a court consider whether an option price bears a resemblance to a fair market value of an article?	In deciding whether alleged lease permits lessee to purchase for "nominal consideration," so as to qualify as disguised security agreement under Alabama law, court must consider whether option price bears resemblance to fair market value of article; this is the real yardstick in determining whether option price is nominal or substantial.	Purchase Option Price [6] [7] [8] [9] Under the 1992 New York UCC § 1-201(37), the most significant factor that indicates a disguised security agreement, not a true lease, is where the option price to purchase the leased equipment at the end of the lease term is nominal. If the lease agreement explicitly provides that the lessee has an option to purchase the leased goods for nominal consideration (e.g., for $1), the agreement is presumed to be a disguised security agreement.	2	4	ROSS-003319913	TR-0757566	TR-0598319	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question also does not reference "nominal consideration" nor "Alabama law." The question and headnote are substantively different.

ID	Question	Headnote	Case Opinion	Question to Headnote Rank	Headnote to Case Opinion Rank	Question Bates #	Headnote Bates #	Case Opinion Bates #	Arguments for Why Juror Could Conclude that Question Was Not Taken from Headnote
19833	if a lease is a true lease, does the uniform commercial code relating to secured transactions, govern questions involving a lessor interest in property?	If lease is true lease, Article 9 of the Uniform Commercial Code (UCC), relating to secured transactions, does not govern questions involving lessor's interest in property.	Stating that security interests in motor vehicles are within the scope of Article 9 of the Uniform Commercial Code, LaSalle argues that equity principles are contemplated concerning the perfection of security interests in motor vehicles, despite the Tennessee Certificate of Title Statute. [9] "Motor vehicles are goods for the purpose of Article Nine, and therefore, the Uniform Commercial Code applies to transactions intended to create a security interest in automobiles." Keep Fresh Filters, Inc.	1	4	ROSS-003321021	TR-0800811	TR-0742721	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not reference "Article 9 of the Uniform Commercial Code (UCC)."
20142	are labels used by parties to describe their agreement helpful, but not conclusive per se?	Under South Carolina law, labels used by parties to describe their agreement are helpful, but not conclusive per se, in distinguishing lease from disguised security agreement. S.C.Code 1976, § 36-1-201(37).	South Carolina Rentals, Inc. v. Arthur, 187 B.R. 502, 504 (D.S.C.1995) ("State law determines whether or not an agreement is a true lease or a disguised security agreement under the Bankruptcy Code."); In re Architectural Millwork, 226 B.R.	2	4	ROSS-003321626	TR-0752514	TR-0752514	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case. Question also does not reference "South Carolina law" nor does it include a citation to "S.C.Code 1976, § 36-1-201(37)," as does the headnote.
20424	where only the form of the pleading is attacked, will the pleading be viewed with lenient eyes?	Where only the form of a pleading is attacked, pleading will be viewed with lenient eyes.	While this judgment and the judgment roll in the former proceeding were referred to and attacked by intervenors' pleading, they were not attached to or incorporated in the pleading. "A demurrer lies only when the defect asserted as the ground of demurrer is apparent upon the face of the pleading attacked.	1	4	ROSS-003322187	TR-0802986	TR-0615041	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case.
21029	does injury resulting in permanent total disability after the expiration of a war risk policy permit recovery?	Injury resulting in permanent total disability after expiration of war risk policy will not permit recovery thereon.	That he received the injury during his service, which, after 10 years, has now resulted in permanent and total disability, is not sufficient to permit recovery under his policy of insurance, which expired not later than October 5, 1919.	1	3	ROSS-003323444	TR-0642063	TR-0642063	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case.
21055	does a member of an electric cooperative have a private right of action against the cooperative for breach of statutory duty under the electric cooperative corporation act?	Under the Electric Cooperative Corporation Act (ECCA), a member of an electric cooperative does not have a private right of action against the cooperative for breach of statutory duty. V.T.C.A., Utilities Code §§ 161.070, 161.072.	Statutory Duties under the ECCA [13] Hackett also contends that CoServ owes and breached statutory duties to its members under utilities code sections 161.070 and 161.072. CoServ argues that the ECCA does not confer an express private right of action on Hackett, giving her no standing to sue under the ECCA.	2	4	ROSS-003323498	TR-0649030	TR-0649030	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question omits reference to the Electric Cooperative Corporation Act (ECCA) and V.T.C.A., Utilities Code §§ 161.070, 161.072.
21436	is an industry affected with public interest given the character of a public utility?	Mere fact that industry is affected with public interest and may be regulated under police power does not give such industry character of public utility.	940, which dealt directly with the dairy industry and in which the Supreme Court, states 'We may as well say at once that the dairy industry is not, in the accepted sense of the phrase, a public utility.' The Nebbia case upheld the statute regulating the dairy industry as a valid exercise of police power over an industry affected with a public interest but it does not necessarily follow that if the industry is affected with a public interest it becomes a public utility.	2	3	ROSS-003324301	TR-0635745	TR-0635745	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question varies from judicial opinion in only trivial ways.

ID	Question	Headnote	Case Opinion	Question to Headnote Rank	Headnote to Case Opinion Rank	Question Bates #	Headnote Bates #	Case Opinion Bates #	Arguments for Why Juror Could Conclude that Question Was Not Taken from Headnote
21605	is a trustee, who paid secured debt owed by a debtor's related real estate company the debtor's major secured lender under debtor's guarantee of the debt, entitled to be subrogated to the lender's rights as a secured creditor against a real estate company?	Trustee, who paid secured debt owed by debtor's related real estate company to debtor's major secured lender under debtor's guarantee of the debt, was entitled to be subrogated to the lender's rights as a secured creditor against the real estate company.	Under the doctrine of equitable subrogation, where a guarantor has only paid a portion of the debt owed to the creditor, the guarantor is not entitled to be subrogated to the rights of the creditor. See In re Robert F. Ryan, Ltd., 51 Misc.2d 565, 566, 273 N.Y.S.2d 507, 508 (1966) (guarantorwho paid partial amount of debt owed to creditor is not entitled to be subrogated to rights and remedies of creditor until the debt to the creditor is paid in full).	1	4	ROSS-003324685	TR-0760571	TR-0667860	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case.
21857	can company supplying electricity trim branches of trees interfering with wires if necessary for safety and enjoyment of franchise privileges?	Company supplying electricity may trim branches of trees interfering with wires, if necessary for safety and enjoyment of franchise privileges.	at page 607:  * *, but, even if no express authority had been obtained, the authorities hold that an electrical company which has strung wires pursuant to a legal franchise may trim overhanging branches which interfere with its wires if such removal is reasonably necessary to assure safety and the enjoyment of the privileges conferred by the franchise.	1	4	ROSS-003325248	TR-0630480	TR-0703085	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case.
22209	is judge advocate general (jag) an agency under the administrative procedure code?	Navy Judge Advocate General (JAG) was not an agency subject to Administrative Procedure Act (APA) review. 5 U.S.C.A. § 701(b)(1).	Exhaustion of Administrative Remedies: General Rule [2] [3] Judicial review of the final decision of a State agency is governed by the Administrative Procedure Act (APA), N.C. Gen. Stat. § 150B-1 et seq., which applies to "both trial and appellate court review of administrative agency decisions." N.C. Dept. of Correction v.	2	3	ROSS-003325996	TR-0813804	TR-0579598	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question omits reference to Administrative Procedure Act (APA) 5 U.S.C.A. § 701(b)(1).
22338	in an action at law, can a plaintiff recover only for claims existing at the commencement of the action?	In an action at law, plaintiff may recover only for claims existing at commencement of action, whereas in equity court renders judgment as of date of trial.	At law he could have money damages sustained up to the commencement of the action, whereas in equity the court renders judgment as of the date of trial.	2	3	ROSS-003326287	TR-0827958	TR-0827958	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case
22583	does the right to an action or to judgment or relief depend upon facts existing at the time of commencement of the action?	The right to an action or to judgment or relief depends upon facts existing at time of commencement of the action and not at subsequent time.	Furthermore, it is said that, in such an action, 'the right to judgment depends on the facts as they existed at the time of the commencement of the action and not at the time of the trial.' 22 Am.Jur.	1	3	ROSS-003326834	TR-0676473	TR-0863208	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question is largely verbatim from the judicial opinion itself.
23448	where no good cause or excusable neglect exists for failure to make timely service of process, is a trial court left to exercise its discretion as to its choice of whether to direct that service be effected within a specified time?	Where no good cause or excusable neglect exists for failure to make timely service of process, a trial court is left to exercise its discretion as to its choice of whether to direct that service be effected within a specified time, to dismiss action without prejudice, or to drop unserved defendant as a party, except where statute of limitations has run, in which case discretion should normally be exercised in favor of extending time for service of process. West's F.S.A. RCP Rule 1.070(j).	Where no good cause or excusable neglect exists, the trial court is left to exercise its discretion as to which of the three options to select, except where the statute of limitations has run. Where the statute of limitations has run, discretion should normally be exercised in favor of extending the time for service of process: If a plaintiff shows good cause or excusable neglect for failure to make timely service, the court must extend the time for service and has no discretion to do otherwise. However, if neither good cause nor excusable neglect is shown, the trial court is no longer required to dismiss without prejudice or drop the defendant as a party, but is left to exercise its discretion.	1	4	ROSS-003328690	TR-0879679	TR-0879679	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case.

ID	Question	Headnote	Case Opinion	Question to Headnote Rank	Headnote to Case Opinion Rank	Question Bates #	Headnote Bates #	Case Opinion Bates #	Arguments for Why Juror Could Conclude that Question Was Not Taken from Headnote
23453	is a trial court left to exercise its discretion as to its choice of whether to direct that service be effected within a specified time, where no good cause or excusable neglect exists for failure to make timely service of process?	Where no good cause or excusable neglect exists for failure to make timely service of process, a trial court is left to exercise its discretion as to its choice of whether to direct that service be effected within a specified time, to dismiss action without prejudice, or to drop unserved defendant as a party, except where statute of limitations has run, in which case discretion should normally be exercised in favor of extending time for service of process. West's F.S.A. RCP Rule 1.070(j).	Where no good cause or excusable neglect exists, the trial court is left to exercise its discretion as to which of the three options to select, except where the statute of limitations has run. Where the statute of limitations has run, discretion should normally be exercised in favor of extending the time for service of process: If a plaintiff shows good cause or excusable neglect for failure to make timely service, the court must extend the time for service and has no discretion to do otherwise. However, if neither good cause nor excusable neglect is shown, the trial court is no longer required to dismiss without prejudice or drop the defendant as a party, but is left to exercise its discretion.	2	4	ROSS-003328702	TR-0879679	TR-0879679	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question varies from the judicial opinion and the headnote.
23594	can the legislature ratify a grant of pension?	Legislature can ratify grant of pension where it could have authorized grant in the first place.	102, says: 'The general and established proposition is that what the Legislature could have authorized it can ratify, if it can authorize at the time of ratification'-citing numerous cases.	2	4	ROSS-003328997	TR-0866539	TR-0614789	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case.
23976	does the statute addressing failure to answer a request for admissions vest broad discretion in trial court regarding granting permission to withdraw or amend admissions?	Statute addressing failure to answer request for admissions vests broad discretion in trial court regarding granting permission to withdraw or amend admissions. West's Ga.Code Ann. § 9-11-36(b).	In fact, contesting the admissions in a motion for summary judgment satisfies the requirements of the rule. Id. [10] [11] {¶ 19} It is within the trial court's discretion whether it will permit or deny the withdrawal or amendment of admissions. 6750 BMS, L.L.C. Likewise, it is within the court's discretion whether to accept the filing of late responses to a request for admissions.	1	4	ROSS-003329799	TR-0786696	TR-0664059	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question omits reference to West's Ga.Code Ann. § 9-11-36(b).
24035	does the power to set aside continuance and reset case for trial reside in court or trial judge?	Power to set aside continuance and reset case for trial resides in court, not trial judge.	[5] The power and authority to set aside a continuance and reset the case for trial is likewise a power to be exercised by the court, and rests upon the same principles.	1	3	ROSS-003329922	TR-0629639	TR-0629639	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question is largely verbatim from the judicial opinion itself.
24158	would the court refuse to grant a continuance because of attorney's inability to attend hearing on date set was within its discretion?	Where case had record of past continuances and defendant's attorney knew at time he agreed to represent defendant that he could not defend case on day set for hearing before board of arbitrators as he would be engaged in trial of another case on that date, trial court's refusal to grant a continuance because of attorney's inability to attend hearing on date set was within its discretion.	¶ 17 It is well-established that trial courts have the discretion to rule on motions for continuances, and this ruling will only be reversed for an abuse of that discretion. Kinnear v. Dennis, 1924 OK 171, 97 Okla. 206, 223 P. 383, 384. However, when the failure of the court to grant a continuance results in the deprivation of the litigant's right to be represented by counsel who is familiar with the facts and law of his case, the court abuses its discretion. Id. at 385. In Anderson v. State, 1922 OK CR 21, 21 Okla.Crim. 193, 207 P. 977, 983, the Oklahoma Supreme Court discussed the interaction of a criminal defendant's right to counsel *577 and the trial court's discretion to grant continuances as follows:	2	4	ROSS-003330177	TR-0803188	TR-0753691	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case. When alternate language from the case opinion, identified via the Bates No. in column H of this row, is considered instead of the case opinion text that Dr. Frederiksen-Cross identified, overlap between the case opinion and question becomes more apparent. Both the question and opinion text include the phrase "grant a continuance" and the headnote does not.

ID	Question	Headnote	Case Opinion	Question to Headnote Rank	Headnote to Case Opinion Rank	Question Bates #	Headnote Bates #	Case Opinion Bates #	Arguments for Why Juror Could Conclude that Question Was Not Taken from Headnote
24435	if an action to recover contract damages is ultimately dependent upon proof of ownership rights in a mineral lease, is the proper venue the county in which the relevant land is located?	Action to recover contract damages was ultimately dependent upon proof of ownership rights in mineral lease, and thus the only proper venue was the county in which the relevant real property was located; the party seeking contract damages amended its pleading to exclude real property issues such as title and ownership, but the issue of contract damages required determination of ownership rights in the mineral lease, and the Civil Practice and Remedies Code provided that actions on real property interests could only be filed where the relevant land was located. V.T.C.A., Civil Practice & Remedies Code §§ 15.002(a), 15.004, 15.011; Vernon's Ann.Texas Rules Civ.Proc., Rule 87.	ARCO cites several cases it contends support its position that venue was mandatory in Gregg County. On first blush, the venue statute related to land would appear to apply only to recovery of real property or damages to real property. However, the Texas cases have construed this mandatory provision more broadly than to actions ultimately seeking title or to clear title to real property. [6] Madera amended its pleading in an effort to exclude any issues of title or ownership to real property; however, the underlying issue that Madera must prove to show its entitlement to damages involves proof of ownership rights in a mineral lease, which in Texas is well established as real property. Whether the recovery is called to be one for conversion, breach of contract, or other nonreal property types of recovery, the true nature of the lawsuit depends on the facts alleged in the petition, the rights asserted, and the relief sought, not on the terms used to describe the cause of action.	2	4	ROSS-003330751	TR-0799211	TR-0799211	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question does not include reference to "the party seeking contract damages amended its pleading to exlude real property issues" nor does it include a citation to "V.T.C.A., Civil Practice & Remedies Code §§ 15.002(a), 15.004, 15.011; Vernon's Ann.Texas Rules Civ.Proc., Rule 87," as does the headnote.
24535	did the congress intend to criminalize plea agreements that provide leniency to witnesses in exchange for their testimony?	In passing anti-gratuity statute, which prohibits giving, promising or offering of anything of value in exchange for testimony, Congress did not intend to criminalize Congressionally authorized practice of plea agreements that provide leniency to witnesses in exchange for their testimony. 18 U.S.C.A. §§ 201(c)(2, 3), 3553(e); U.S.S.G. § 5K1.1, 18 U.S.C.A.; Fed.Rules Cr.Proc.Rules 11(e), 35(b), 18 U.S.C.A.	Moreover, even without the witness's testimony, the evidence of McCurvin's guilt was overwhelming, consisting of ten hand-to-hand crack sales to an undercover FBI agent, the interception of narcotics-related conversations pursuant to court-authorized wiretaps, other recorded conversations, narcotics and drug trafficking paraphernalia seized from his residence, and the testimony of another coconspirator. c) Anti-gratuity Statute [7] McCurvin next argues that the admission of coconspirator testimony at his trial violated the so-called "anti-gratuity statute," 18 U.S.C. § 201(c)(2), because the government promised these witnesses leniency in exchange for their truthful testimony. We disagree. [8] Section 201(c)(2) provides that "[w]hoever ... directly or indirectly, gives, offers or promises anything of value to any person, for or because of the testimony under oath or affirmation given or to be given by such person as a witness upon a trial ...	2	4	ROSS-003330967	TR-0636454	TR-0646387	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case; question omits reference to 18 U.S.C.A. §§ 201(c)(2, 3), 3553(e); U.S.S.G. § 5K1.1, 18 U.S.C.A.; Fed.Rules Cr.Proc.Rules 11(e), 35(b), 18 U.S.C.A.
24588	is a trial court required to sua sponte inquire into whether personal injury plaintiffs want to proceed pro se after their attorney failed to appear at a calendar call?	Trial court was not required to sua sponte inquire into whether personal injury plaintiffs wanted to proceed pro se after their attorney failed to appear at calendar call.	Francone himself was absent in violation of a notice to produce which required him to appear. Counsel for plaintiffs told the court he was discharged by Francone "some 20 minutes ago." The trial court insisted that the cause proceed. A recess was declared and counsel telephoned Francone.	1	4	ROSS-003331088	TR-0789594	TR-0874527	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case.

ID	Question	Headnote	Case Opinion	Question to Headnote Rank	Headnote to Case Opinion Rank	Question Bates #	Headnote Bates #	Case Opinion Bates #	Arguments for Why Juror Could Conclude that Question Was Not Taken from Headnote
24705	does arresting officers' failure to advise accused of his rights to counsel and to remain silent render accused immune from prosecution for attempt to bribe arresting officers after arrest?	Arresting officers' failure to advise accused of his rights to counsel and to remain silent did not render accused immune from prosecution for attempt to bribe arresting officers after arrest.	A failure to give Miranda warnings, however, even in a custodial setting, would not prevent a prosecution for an attempt to bribe a law enforcement officer made subsequent to the arrest.	1	4	ROSS-003331334	TR-0643716	TR-0637775	Question reflects holding and the general rule of law applied in case.